

Dominican University

Undergraduate Bulletin

2016-2017

Mission

As a Sinsinawa Dominican-sponsored institution, Dominican University prepares students to pursue truth, to give compassionate service, and to participate in the creation of a more just and humane world.

Vision Statement

Dominican University aspires to be a premier, Catholic, comprehensive teaching university of 4,000 students.

Identity Statement

Dominican University is a diverse, relationship-centered community rooted in a vibrant liberal arts and sciences education, offering rigorous, integrative, and innovative undergraduate, graduate and professional programs. At the heart of the University is its Catholic, Dominican tradition, grounded in the compatibility of faith and reason, which affirms the dignity of the human person and concern for the common good. The University's curricula, research and campus life demonstrate a commitment to ethics, community service, social justice and global citizenship.

Dominican University educates one student at a time in the company of others, engaging a multiplicity of cultural, religious and secular worldviews, transforming students, faculty and staff into agents of positive change.

General Information

History

Dominican University traces its origins to the charter granted in 1848 by the State of Wisconsin to St. Clara Academy, a frontier school for young women founded by the Very Reverend Samuel Mazzuchelli, OP. The Italian-born Dominican educator drew upon the centuries-old intellectual traditions of his order in planning what was considered in those days a revolutionary curriculum. He included subjects such as astronomy, logic, history, and natural philosophy, a reaction against the superficiality in content of courses usually given in "seminaries for young ladies." The Dominican Sisters of Sinsinawa, who taught in and administered the school from the beginning, were urged to open a college and founded St. Clara College in Sinsinawa in 1901. Dominican love of learning and teaching continued to build the college materially and intellectually, and St. Clara's soon became accepted as an equal of the older eastern colleges. Many Catholic clergy and lay educators were impressed by the scholarship of St. Clara's teachers and the excellence of its graduates. Under the leadership of Mother Samuel Coughlin, OP, the sisters moved the college to River Forest, where it opened in the fall of 1922, having been renamed Rosary College and incorporated in Illinois.

In 1920, when he laid the cornerstone of Power Hall, the first structure built on campus, Archbishop Mundelein said that higher education at Rosary would not be "confined to the few; neither wealth nor race will be any advantage, nor will they provide a hindrance to enter here." The library science school was established as a coeducational entity in 1930, and Rosary College officially became coeducational in 1970. Rosary College changed its name to Dominican University in 1997. This change recognized Dominican's status as a university that included the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences, the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, the Brennan School of Business, the School of Education, the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, and the Graduate School of Social Work. It also reaffirmed the university's commitment to the Sinsinawa Dominicans and Dominican values.

The university was an early pioneer of study abroad programs, launching a "junior year abroad" program in 1925 with the opening of its Villa des Fougères in Fribourg, Switzerland—just the second school in the United States with a study abroad program. Other study-abroad programs followed, including the Graduate School of Fine Arts in Florence, Italy, in 1948, the Rosary in London program in 1971, and the Strasbourg, France, program in 1987. The university has added new options for undergraduate and graduate study and service abroad at an increasing pace: the Heidelberg, Germany, in 1993; Milan, Italy, and Salamanca, Spain, in 1994; Fanjeaux, France, in 1997; Shanghai and Beijing, China, in 2000; Nantes, France, in 2002; Rome, Italy; the Silk Road; literary London; and El Salvador in 2005; and Buenos Aires, Argentina; Limerick, Ireland; Paris, France; Ghana, West Africa; and Stellenbosch, South Africa; in 2007.

The Graduate School of Library and Information Science celebrates 80 years of library science education in 2010. Library science at Rosary began in 1930 as an undergraduate department of the college that awarded the degree Bachelor of Arts in library science. In 1949, the graduate curriculum leading to the degree Master of Arts in Library Science was inaugurated, and in 1970, the Department of Library Science became the Graduate School of Library Science. To better reflect the growth and scope of its programs, it became the Graduate School of Library and Information Science in 1981 and began awarding the degree Master of Arts in Library and Information Science. In 1993, the name of the degree was changed to Master of Library and Information Science. In 2009, the university introduced its first doctorate program with the Doctor of Philosophy in library and information science degree.

Founded in 1977, the School of Business at Dominican University was named in 2006 in honor of Edward A. Brennan, retired chairman and chief executive officer of Sears, Roebuck and Co., and his wife, Lois L. Brennan, an alumna of Dominican. Today the Brennan School of Business is one of the leading small business programs in the Chicago metropolitan area. Approximately 600 students pursue undergraduate and graduate degrees in the fields of accounting, business, economics, international business, and information systems. The student body, with representatives from more than 30 countries, is diverse in terms of both business experience and cultural backgrounds.

In recent years, the Brennan School of Business has expanded its global reach by partnering with top-ranked universities abroad to offer Executive MBA programs in Poland and the Czech Republic.

Since its inception, the Brennan School of Business has offered a curriculum that addresses issues of business ethics. The establishment of the Christopher Chair in Business Ethics in 2003 and, more recently, the development of a Center for Global Peace through Commerce reflect the School's continuing commitment to preparing business leaders to have a positive impact in their communities and around the world.

The School of Education has its roots in programs to prepare undergraduates candidates to teach in secondary and elementary schools, which were initiated in the 1930s and 1940s, respectively. The first education program offered on the graduate level was a Master of Science in learning disabilities, which was inaugurated in 1978, and was followed two years later by a second program in behavior disorders. In 1981, the Graduate School of Special Education was formed, with Illinois State Board of Education approval to offer the Master of Science degree in special education with certification in learning disabilities and social/emotional disorders. At this same time the program of study in gifted education was incorporated into the special education program. These programs were incorporated into what became the Graduate School of Education in 1987. New degree programs that followed included a Master of Arts in early childhood education (1990), a combined program in Bachelor of Arts/Master of Science in Special Education for undergraduate candidates (1990), Master of Arts in Educational Administration (1991) and Master of Arts in Teaching (1994). In 1994, the undergraduate teacher certification programs and the graduate programs were incorporated into the School of Education. In 1996, the Teaching Certificate for College Graduates program, a non-degree graduate program, was established to prepare college graduates for certification in elementary and secondary education. At the same time, an ESL/Bilingual program was initiated to prepare candidates to teach students who are English language learners. In 2000, the Master of Arts in Education, with an emphasis on curriculum and instruction, received approval from the Illinois State Board of Education. The first online master's degree program, with a focus on literacy was approved in 2003. A new reading specialist certification and master's degree program received Illinois State Board of Education approval in 2004. Also in 2004, the School of Education introduced its first undergraduate major in early childhood education for students seeking certification in that area.

In 1997, the university established the adult learning curriculum currently administered by the School of Professional and Continuing Studies. Originally called the Institute for Adult Learning, the program was established to provide accelerated programs for adults completing their degrees. The school administers a Bachelor of Arts in Legal Studies, a Master of Arts in Conflict Resolution, and a Master of Arts in Family Ministry degree.

The university initiated the Graduate School of Social Work in 2001 with courses leading to the Master of Social Work degree. The Graduate School of Social Work received full accreditation in 2004 through the Council on Social Work Education. The school emphasizes a global focus and family-centered practice, and MSW students have the option to participate in domestic and international field placements. The Graduate School of Social Work is one of 75 outstanding social work education programs selected to participate in a unique training opportunity through the Council on Social Work Education's National Center for Gerontological Social Work Education. The MSW program is enriched with gerontological competencies embedded into the foundation curriculum and structure of the program, and the Gerontology Graduate Certificate in Aging Care program is offered to address the need for professionally trained social workers to meet the needs of the older adult population. The Graduate School of Social Work also offers Type 73 School Social Work Certification, which prepares students to become professional school social workers in the K-12 education setting, and a Gerontology Graduate Certificate. The Graduate School of Social Work and the Brennan School of Business offer a Master of Social Work/Master of Business Administration (MSW/MBA) dual degree program designed to prepare entrepreneurs for leadership roles in social service agencies, nonprofit organizations, and for-profit institutions.

In 2002, the university purchased the Dominican Conference Center located eight blocks east of the Main Campus. Renamed the Priory Campus, this facility houses the Graduate School of Social Work, the School of Leadership and Continuing Studies, and the St. Catherine of Siena Center, which the university established in 2003 to provide a unique opportunity for interdisciplinary study, dialogue, and services, bringing the Catholic tradition to bear on contemporary issues.

In 2016, the College of Health Sciences was formed, reflecting the university's growing emphasis on offering academic preparation for health-related fields. The new college combined the Bachelor of Medical Sciences degree program and undergraduate majors in nursing and nutrition, both of which had previously been offered through the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences. In addition, a Master of Medical Sciences degree was introduced to prepare graduate students as physician assistants.

Accreditation

Dominican University is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as a baccalaureate and master's degree-granting institution.

The Master of Library and Information Science program is accredited by the American Library Association. The accounting, business administration, and undergraduate international business programs in the Brennan School of Business are accredited by the Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs. The Graduate School of Social Work is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of the Council on Social Work Education. The School of Education is accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. In addition, the university's education programs are approved by the Illinois State Board of Education. The university is approved by the Illinois Department of Registration and Education and the State Approving Agency for Veterans Affairs. The program in nutrition and dietetics has development accreditation from the Commission on Accreditation for Dietetics Education.

Membership

Dominican University holds membership in the Association of American Colleges, the American Council on Education, the Council of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Association of Catholic Colleges and Universities, the Federation of Independent Illinois Colleges and Universities, the Associated Colleges of the Chicago Area, the Associated Colleges of Illinois, the College Entrance Examination Board, the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges, the National Association of Colleges and Employers, the National Association of College and University Business Officers, the National Catholic Educational Association, the National and Midwest Associations of Student Financial Aid Administrators, the National Association of College Admission Counseling, the National Society for Experiential Education, the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers, Women in Development, the Association of Fundraising Professionals, the Council for Advancement and Support of Education, and the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

Location

The university's Main Campus is at 7900 West Division Street, River Forest, Cook County, IL, 10 miles west of the Chicago Loop and eight miles south of O'Hare Airport. The Priory Campus is at 7200 West Division Street, River Forest. The university also offers classes at sites across the Chicago area. All campus buildings are smoke free.

Nondiscrimination Policy

Dominican University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, national or ethnic origin, disability, age, marital status, or sexual orientation.

Library

The Rebecca Crown Library is a campus destination for work, study, and reflection. Students, faculty, and staff have access to a collection of more than 230,000 volumes and subscriptions to over 100 online databases with access to more than 30,000 unique full-text periodicals. Materials have been chosen largely by the faculty to support the curriculum, and consist of books, reference materials, newspapers, journals, and audiovisual materials. Electronic resources are accessible on and off campus to all enrolled students, faculty, and staff. The library also has several digital collections accessible through the library catalog as well as a digital repository for scholarly works known as Constellation.

The media center and university archives are also housed within the library. The media center houses films, CDs, DVDs, and audiotapes. The archives comprise primarily administrative and institutional records and ephemera related to the history and functioning of the university; Dominican students and faculty are invited to explore research opportunities using the archival collections. The Butler Children's Literature Center is located on the second floor of the library. The Butler Center serves as an examination center for children's and young adult books.

The library's membership in CARLI (an online network of academic libraries throughout the state) and LIBRAS (a consortium of 17 liberal arts colleges in the metropolitan area) provides additional access to 10 million volumes and more than 80,000 current serial titles. With interlibrary loan through I-Share, a network of 76 academic libraries in Illinois, and OCLC (Online Computer Library Center), materials and information from many additional libraries-public, academic, and special-are easily accessible. Librarians are available to help with research in person, by phone, email, and chat services. Scheduling individual consultations with librarians is encouraged. Librarians also create course pages, library subject guides, and tutorials for individual classes or subject areas.

The library houses approximately 60 PCs on four floors and a Library Instruction classroom on the first floor with 24 computer workstations. All the PCs in the library have access to library resources, internet, and to all the campus software. Wireless capability is available throughout the building. There are three group study rooms with whiteboards on the second floor. In addition, the beautiful and historic Noonan Reading Room provides a quiet study space option. The library is open seven days a week, 8:00 a.m. to midnight (108 hours per week), and the Noonan Reading Room is open 24/7. Students are able to grab a bite to eat, or a coffee to go in the Cyber Café, located in the lower level of the library.

More information about circulation policies, borrowing privileges, reference help, how to access your library account, or any other questions is available on the library website.

Information Technology

Students have access to computers with Microsoft Office and internet access throughout the campus: in classrooms, labs, the library, and other public areas. All of these areas offer black-and-white printing: students are given a quota of prints at the beginning of every semester. Wireless access is available throughout campus, including the Residence Halls.

Online, students can search course schedules, register for classes, view grades, and print unofficial transcripts, as well as view student billing and financial aid information. In addition, all students are assigned a DU email account which includes cloud storage capabilities.

The university's computer network is a shared resource used by faculty, staff, and students for educational and administrative purposes. Computer security is everyone's responsibility. Students with their own computers can link to the university's network. At a minimum, they are required to run antivirus software on their computer and ensure that their computer's operating system is up to date. For policy information and how-to documentation, visit the Information Technology department website.

The Rose K. Goedert Center for Early Childhood Education

The Rose K. Goedert Center for Early Childhood Education, directed by the School of Education, demonstrates Dominican University's commitment to provide quality early childhood education to children two to five years of age. Programs at the center are open to children of Dominican University students, faculty, and staff, as well as the local community. The Center also provides a learning environment for School of Education students.

The Goedert Center for Early Childhood Education is located in a stand-alone building on the university's Priory Campus and is open Monday through Friday from 7:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. Because the center offers a full developmental program, it requires that children are preregistered. Admittance is based on availability. Parents can choose from several attendance plans; however, the center is not available for occasional use. Further information and registration forms are available from the Goedert Center at (708) 524-6895.

Art, Lectures, and Concerts

Artists and prominent speakers visit the Dominican campus, and theatricals, films, and exhibitions are often featured through the university's public events program or sponsored by various departments to supplement regular academic exercises. Dominican University features a full season of professional and student performances in Lund Auditorium and Eloise Martin Recital Hall.

The O'Connor Art Gallery offers several exhibits each year. The Performing Arts Center at Dominican features musical and theatrical performances throughout the year. Regularly scheduled concerts by the Chicago Sinfonietta are offered at Dominican University. The university's ideal location just west of Chicago gives students access to the Art Institute of Chicago, the Museum of Contemporary Art, the Field Museum of Natural History, the Oriental Institute, the Museum of Science and Industry, the Shedd Aquarium, and performances of the Lyric Opera of Chicago and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. There are also a number of galleries, libraries, institutes, and theatres, as well as recreational and cultural events at the many colleges and universities in and around the metropolitan area.

Admission and Financial Aid

Admission to Dominican University is open to men and women who are prepared academically to undertake a rigorous liberal arts program. Applicants for freshman admission are considered on the basis of probable success as determined by grades in a college preparatory program, standardized test scores, and class rank. Transfer students are primarily evaluated on the basis of course work completed at previous colleges and universities; in some cases, the high school record is considered. Admission decisions are announced on a rolling basis. Students are required to pay a tuition deposit after they have been accepted. The deposit is refundable until May 1 for students entering in the fall term and November 1 for students entering in the spring term. Housing arrangements may be made after the tuition deposit is paid. A housing deposit also is required. Prospective students are urged to visit the campus. Individual appointments with an admission counselor can be arranged, along with a campus tour. Visiting Day programs are scheduled throughout the year. Students needing special accommodations for such events are asked to contact the Office of Undergraduate Admission prior to the event.

All application materials become the property of Dominican University. Providing incomplete or inaccurate information regarding a previous academic record on an admission application form is grounds for denial of admission.

Admission From Secondary School Requirements

Entrance requirements for the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degree programs include a high school cumulative grade point average of 2.75, with special attention to grades in college preparatory courses; ACT or SAT scores at or above the national average; rank in the upper half of the high school graduating class; and completion of 16 units of college preparatory work, including 14 in a combination of English, mathematics, social sciences, laboratory science, and foreign language. Factors such as leadership, personal qualities, and co-curricular activities also are considered. Proof of high school graduation and proof of state-required immunization must be presented prior to enrolling at the university. Dominican University recognizes the General Education Development (GED) diploma in lieu of a high school diploma.

Application Procedure

Applicants for admission to the freshman class are responsible for having the following documents sent to the university:

1. The completed application, which can be accessed from the website: www.dom.edu;
2. An official high school transcript;
3. ACT or SAT scores. The university will accept the ACT/SAT scores reported on the high school transcript. Acceptance of high school applicants before the completion of the senior year carries with it the understanding that the candidates will successfully complete the senior year. The university reserves the right to withdraw acceptance if the final transcript is unsatisfactory; and
4. A $25 application fee is required.

Advanced Placement (AP)

High school students are encouraged to take advanced placement tests and to apply for college-level academic credit on the basis of the results. There is no maximum of credit awarded through AP examinations. Students must have official scores sent to Dominican University, Office of Undergraduate Admission.

International Baccalaureate (IB)

Dominican University recognizes the rigorous nature of the International Baccalaureate program and awards individual course credit for scores of four or above on higher-level IB examinations. Students may be awarded up to 30 semester hours of advanced standing for appropriate scores on higher-level examinations. For additional information, contact the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences Office of Academic Advising.

College Level Examination Program (CLEP)

Subject to acceptable scores and to certain departmental qualifications, credit is granted in most disciplines for College Level Examination Program tests taken prior to the semester of graduation. Students must request that scores be sent by the testing service to Dominican University. Credit is awarded after the student has successfully completed three courses at Dominican.

A maximum of 28 semester hours of credit is granted with no more than 12 semester hours in one major area of concentration. For additional information contact the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences Office of Academic Advising.

Information about the College Level Examination Program can be secured from the Program Director, CLEP, Box 6600, Princeton, NJ 08541-6600 or online at clep.collegeboard.org.

Admission to Honors Degree Program

Incoming full-time students of superior ability are selected to participate in the honors degree program. Normally, students with a 3.75 grade point average and high ACT/SAT scores, and who have completed honors or advanced placement classes in high school are chosen for the honors program because of their expressed academic interests and their accomplishments. Transfer students who meet comparable criteria in their previous college work may be eligible for the honors program.

Early Enrollment to Dominican University

Students wishing to begin college classes before receiving the high school diploma will be considered for admission to the freshman class upon completion of the junior year and fulfillment of the following conditions:

1. Recommendation for admission to Dominican University by the high school principal or counselor and at least one high school teacher;
2. Completion of not fewer than 14 units acceptable toward admission to Dominican University, 11 of which shall be in subjects prescribed for admission; and
3. On-campus interview with the appropriate admission counselor responsible for the applicant's high school.

Students With Special Needs

At Dominican University, no qualified individual with a disability will be excluded from participation in or be denied the benefits of the services, programs, or activities of the university. The Office of the Dean of Students is a university resource promoting barrier-free environments (physical, program, information, attitude) and assisting the university in meeting its obligations under federal statutes and school tradition in regard to the rights of students with disabilities.

The Office of the Dean of Students coordinates providing necessary and appropriate services for students with special needs. Upon receipt of appropriate documentation of disability, the office assists by providing or arranging appropriate auxiliary aids and services, reasonable accommodations, academic adjustments, and consultation. In some instances the Office of the Dean of Students acts as a liaison with other appropriate state and federal agencies.

Students are encouraged to meet individually with the dean of students to determine what specific services and accommodations are needed. It is the responsibility of the student to make requests for auxiliary aids or special services at least three weeks prior to the start of a program or class.

The disability grievance procedure can be found in the student handbook, which can be requested from the Office of the Dean of Students.

Special Admission Opportunities

Dominican University admits a limited number of students each year who do not meet all the regular admission requirements but who have demonstrated the potential to complete university course work successfully. For these students, a condition of admission may be participation in the summer Transitions program or enrollment in the Strategies for Academic Success seminar. In cases where the Admission Committee believes that it is in the student's best interest, it may limit the number of hours a student can take in the first term of enrollment.

Admission of Transfer Students

A transfer student is one who has been accepted with at least 12 semester hours of transferable college credit. Students in good standing from regionally accredited two-year or four-year colleges will be considered for admission.

Candidates applying as transfer students are responsible for having the following documents sent to the university:

1. The completed university application form;
2. Official transcripts from each college and university attended; and
3. The official high school transcript, including ACT or SAT scores, when requested.

Transfer Credit

Transfer credit is generally granted for courses comparable to those offered by Dominican University that were successfully completed with a grade of "C-" or above at another regionally accredited institution. The university will evaluate all hours submitted by the transfer applicant and reserves the right to accept or deny any of the credits for transfer. Upon receipt of official transcripts, the Office of the Registrar, in consultation with the appropriate academic department(s), will officially assess transfer credit after a transfer student has been formally admitted and has declared a major; only those hours that satisfy requirements will be applied to the degree and included in the student's cumulative earned hours (grade points from transfer courses are not included in the Dominican grade point average). Up to 68 semester hours are accepted in transfer from a two-year school and up to 90 semester hours are accepted from four-year colleges and universities (see residency requirements). A total of 4 semester hours in physical education, health or recreation courses can be applied toward the 124 total semester hours required for a bachelor's degree.

Immunization Policy

Students registering for post-secondary education must submit to the university evidence of immunity against those diseases specified in the rules and regulations promulgated by the Illinois Department of Public Health. All students registered for more than half time are required to meet all requirements necessary for compliance. If medical or religious reasons prevent a student from being immunized, a waiver can be submitted for consideration and, if approved, will be placed in the student's file. Students born prior to January 1, 1957, are considered to be immune to measles, mumps, and rubella. However, students must submit to student health services proof of a tetanus immunization within the last 10 years and proof of their birth date. Failure to comply with the law will result in the assessment of fines and/or withholding of grades and transcripts until compliance is complete.

Immunization records are available from high schools or from personal physicians and are to be submitted to the Wellness Center. Any questions regarding immunization records should be directed to the Wellness Center.

Second Bachelor's Degree

Students holding a baccalaureate degree from a regionally accredited institution may receive a second bachelor's degree from Dominican University provided that:

1. All university general education requirements, foundation and area requirements, and major requirements are met;
2. A minimum of 34 semester hours is earned in residence at Dominican University; and
3. A cumulative grade point average of 2.00 is attained. Transfer student restrictions apply to second baccalaureate degree candidates.

Transfer student admission requirements and procedures apply to second B.A. or B.S. candidates.

Degree Completion Agreements

Dominican University, in partnership with area community colleges, offers a number of degree completion programs. Generally, completing certain programs at one of these colleges admits the student into a bachelor's degree program at Dominican. Areas of partnership include programs in apparel design, biology, business, chemistry, culinary arts, early childhood education, neuroscience, and others. Please contact the Office of Undergraduate Admission for a complete listing of partnership programs.

Admission to Certificate or Licensure Programs

Students admitted to certificate or licensure programs will follow the same procedures as outlined for degree-seeking students. Students accepted into certificate programs may apply those credits toward a bachelor's degree. The change of status must be filed with the registrar.

Admission as a Student-at-Large

Students who are not seeking a degree and who have graduated from high school or earned a GED may be admitted as students-at-large. Students-at-large need to complete a special application and present official transcripts for high school and any previous college work. The college transcripts will serve to verify 1) whether specific prerequisite courses had been taken, and 2) that the student was in good standing at the most recent institution.

Students-at-large may register for up to 30 semester hours of credit before they must change to degree-seeking status. Credits earned as students-at-large at Dominican may then be applied to satisfy degree requirements.

They must meet all admission requirements when applying for degree-seeking status and are subject to all academic rules and regulations during their attendance at the university.

Students seeking teacher certification or Commission on Accreditation for Dietetics Education (CADE) certification, or students registering for certificate and/or licensure programs may not apply as students-at-large. Students-at-large are not eligible for financial aid.

Admission of International Students

Applicants from countries where English is not the primary language must demonstrate proficiency in English and also submit either the American College Test (ACT) or the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores. The Admission Committee may waive this requirement for international adult applicants for whom such testing is not appropriate. Acceptable English proficiency exams/programs would include:

1. The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) with a score of 79-80 on the web-based version; or
2. The International English Language Testing System (IELTS) band score of 7 or better; or
3. The Pearson Test of English Academic (PTEA) score of 53 or better; or
4. Successful completion of ELS Level 112.

Official credentials and notarized translations must be sent to the Office of Undergraduate Admission. For advanced standing and/or transfer credit, students must submit official transcripts and will be asked to have official transcripts evaluated by Educational Credential Evaluators (ECE) or another approved agency at their own expense. This official evaluation, along with the official college/university transcript, must be submitted directly to the university.

International students should be advised that they must pay the first semester's tuition, fees, and room and board in full prior to beginning classes. International students are advised that limited financial aid is available to them from the university. The magnitude of educational and living costs should be clearly defined.

Information needed to complete the I-20 form will be collected for all international students, including information regarding financial support.

The International Student Advisor will issue the I-20 form to the student after the student has been accepted for admission and provided evidence of financial support. The International Student Advisor must notify SEVIS that an I-20 has been issued before a visa will be considered. Students with B-2 (tourist) visas and F-2 visas are no longer permitted to study in the United States with these visa statuses. They may apply for Change of Status, a process that can take many months, but may not attend school until the COS has been approved. In this case, international students should return to their home country and apply for an F-1 visa.

Admission of Veterans

Dominican University is approved by the State Approving Agency for the training of veterans and is a participant in the Yellow Ribbon Program for the Post-9/11 GI Bill. Veterans should obtain a certificate of eligibility from their local veterans administration office at least one month before they plan to enter college.

Financial Aid

The financial aid program at Dominican University provides assistance to students whose personal and family resources cannot meet the cost of education. Assistance is in the form of federal, state, and institutional grants, loans, and employment. Only those students who have been accepted for admission are considered for financial aid.

An applicant's aid eligibility will be determined by an evaluation of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). To be eligible for federal or state aid, students must be degree-seeking United States citizens or permanent residents. To remain eligible for financial aid, students must maintain satisfactory academic progress and continue to demonstrate need on financial aid applications submitted annually.

Financial Aid Application Process

Students must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and list Dominican University (code 001750) as the institution to receive the information. Both returning students and new students are encouraged to file their FAFSA as soon after January 1 as possible. Students who are Illinois residents must file their FAFSA by February 15. Some students may be required to submit additional information.

Tuition Exchanges

Dominican University participates in the Catholic College Cooperative Tuition Exchange, the Council of Independent Colleges Tuition Exchange, and Tuition Exchange, Inc. Dependents of employees of participating institutions are eligible for tuition benefits at Dominican University. Additional information on these tuition exchanges is available in the Office of Undergraduate Admission.

Costs-2016-2017 Academic Year

Tuition covers only a portion of the total cost of study at Dominican University. The donations of alumnae/i, foundations, corporations, and other friends of the university help to limit the expenses charged to students while maintaining a high-quality educational program.

Each application should include the $25 non-refundable application fee. Students who are accepted and plan to attend must also make a $100 tuition deposit, which can be refunded up until May 1 for the fall semester and until November 1 for the spring semester.

Course fees

Some courses have lab fees applied, ranging from $35 to $500.

Music lessons have a lab fee applied of $150 per credit hour.

Students will receive an email notification to their Dominican email address that their eBill is ready for view. Payment is due by the first day of class for students who register in advance.

Students who register after the first day of class must pay their tuition or make financial arrangements at the time of registration.

Financial aid awards, with the exception of work-study awards, are deducted from any amount due. Annual awards are divided equally between the semesters unless the award carries a stipulation to the contrary. International students must pay for the semester charges at the beginning of each semester.

Payment Plans

A payment plan can be arranged online through our CASHNet system. All charges must be paid in full before the semester ends. Students may view their account status at any time online or stop in Student Accounts for assistance.

Withdrawal

When the Student Accounts Office has received official notice of withdrawal from the registrar, tuition will be refunded according to the following schedule:

Notification of drop during first week: No charge

Notification during second week: 20% charge

Notification during third week: 40% charge

Notification during fourth week: 60% charge

Notification during fifth week: 80% charge

Notification after fifth week: 100% charge

The withdrawal will be dated as of the end of the day that formal notice of withdrawal is given to the registrar. See the Academic Regulations page for further information on withdrawing from classes.

Refunds

If a student has a credit balance after all financial aid is posted to his/her account, the excess may be refunded after the add/drop date each semester. We encourage students to enroll in eRefund. Those who do not enroll in eRefund will have a check mailed to the address we have on file. There is a $3.00 check processing fee.

Refunds are normally processed within ten working days. Refunds will not be made on the basis of estimated grants or anticipated funds, only upon funds actually received by Dominican University.

Resident hall charges are based upon the full year's costs. It is expected that students will remain in residency the entire year except in cases where work for the degree has been completed before the end of the academic year. Refunds will be made on a prorated basis in the case of withdrawal due to serious illness or withdrawal at the request of university officials.

Financial Regulations

Students are not entitled to participate in graduation or receive recommendations, degrees, honors, semester grades, or transcripts of credits until all bills are paid and National Direct/Federal Perkins student loans are in current status. Any unpaid bills may be referred to a collection agency. The student is liable for any collection and legal costs. All charges are subject to change after 30 days' notice. Registration and enrollment shall be considered as signifying acceptance of all conditions, rules, and regulations.

Academic Information

A Vision for Undergraduate Education Steeped in Dominican Ethos, Liberal Learning Through Foundations, Breadth, Depth and Integration for Responsible Global Citizenship

We educate one student at a time in the company of others, each unique yet all distinctly Dominican. In dialogue with a Dominican ethos, our students grow as liberal learners through creative and rigorous study marked by solid foundations, disciplinary breadth and depth, and ongoing integration as they aspire to become ethically responsible global citizens. Each student develops an emerging sense of personal and professional vocation through a variety of means, including thoughtful interaction with courses, professors, and other students, and intensive advising and mentoring. We encourage students to participate in internships, study away (international and domestic), community-based learning, and undergraduate research, scholarship, and creative investigations. Diverse insights coalesce in each student's distinctive educational trajectory, purpose, and plan, as we inspire students to discern the big picture and name their place within it-to stand somewhere and to stand for something, conscientiously positioned in relationship to the world.

Dominican ethos describes the distinctive character of our university's culture. It includes an environment of Caritas et Veritas, in which we contemplate the meaning of existence and strive collaboratively for a more just and humane world. It understands that study is at once contemplative and communal. It unites reflection and dialogue as we collaborate in the search for truth. It enables students to develop a sense of care and responsibility for oneself, one's community, and the wider creation. It fosters trust, tolerance, mutual accountability, and belonging. Students enter into conversation with a Catholic intellectual tradition that affirms the compatibility of faith and reason, a universe marked by both intelligibility and mystery, the sacredness of all creation, the dignity of every living being, and concern for the common good. They acquire basic knowledge about Christianity in its various dimensions, and how it interacts with secular and other religious beliefs, practices, and worldviews.

Upon graduation, students educated at Dominican University possess character, knowledge, and skills to take informed, ethical action in the world and to influence others for the good.

Foundations

Foundations are the knowledge, skills, and attitudes essential for further learning. They are generally cultivated during the first year, and they are continually developed and built upon in later academic work. In alphabetical order, these are:

- Application Software. Effective use of application software is the ability to solve real-world problems using computer applications and includes being able to determine the appropriate application to use for a particular need.
 - Students will be able to:
 - create and use dynamic spreadsheets to analyze and present information;
 - create and use databases to organize data and answer data-driven questions;
 - create and manage digital content, including word processing, e-portfolios, and digital video; and
 - independently research questions regarding application software use and effectively employ learning resources as a means for learning new and updated applications.
- Communication. Effective communication is purposeful expression that increases knowledge, fosters understanding, and/or promotes change in attitudes, values, beliefs, or behaviors.

- Written communication is the development of effective expression of ideas in writing.
Students will be able to:
 - use rhetorical conventions appropriately;
 - use appropriate examples, sources, and evidence in support of their own ideas;
 - incorporate supporting materials (e.g., visual images, statistics) when appropriate; and
 - demonstrate effective organization, syntax, and mechanics.
- Oral communication is the development and expression of ideas orally.
In class discussion and/or oral presentations, students will be able to:
 - use rhetorical conventions appropriately;
 - use appropriate examples, sources, and evidence in support of their own ideas;
 - incorporate supporting materials (e.g., visual images, statistics) when appropriate; and
 - use effective delivery techniques (e.g., posture, gesture, eye contact, vocal expressiveness, clarity).
- Critical thinking. Critical thinking is a habit of mind animated by a spirit of inquiry and problem solving characterized by the rigorous exploration, analysis, and evaluation of diverse issues, ideas, artifacts, data, and events in order to formulate an opinion, conclusion, or solution.
 - Students will be able to:
 - comprehend the content necessary for an appropriate understanding of the topic;
 - examine one's own and others' assumptions;
 - evaluate the claims and arguments or tools under consideration based on explicit criteria; and
 - formulate a defensible opinion, conclusion, or solution.
- Cultural knowledge. Students develop the willingness to engage diverse dimensions of human experience and understand with empathy other cultures. Students demonstrate the ability to interact with a diverse contemporary America and the world, in relation to differences that include but are not limited to: race, ethnicity, nationality, language, religion, gender, sexual orientation, age, socio-economic status, physical and intellectual abilities, and ways of knowing.
 - Students will be able to:
 - identify one's own cultural rules and assumptions;
 - recognize the rules and assumptions important to another culture;
 - demonstrate ability to communicate in a second language;
 - express openness to interactions with culturally different others.
- Information literacy. Information literacy is the ability to find, evaluate, and use information responsibly and effectively.
 - Students will be able to:
 - access needed information effectively and efficiently;
 - evaluate the information and its sources critically;

- incorporate selected sources into their work products; and
 - use information responsibly (i.e., ethically and legally).
- Quantitative reasoning. Students develop competency in comprehending and analyzing numerical information. Students conceptualize problems in terms of quantitative dimensions and reason and solve quantitative problems from a wide array of authentic contexts and everyday life situations. They understand and can create arguments supported by quantitative evidence, and they can clearly communicate those arguments in a variety of forms (using words, tables, graphs, mathematical equations, etc., as appropriate).
 - Students will be able to:
 - interpret information presented in mathematical forms;
 - represent information in various mathematical forms;
 - perform calculations, applying the appropriate mathematical processes; and
 - draw appropriate conclusions based on the quantitative analysis of information.
- Reading. Students develop competency in understanding and interpreting written and visual works.
 - Students will be able to:
 - develop strategies to engage written texts and visual media;
 - identify the purpose(s) of the works;
 - analyze and discuss works in ways that enhance understanding; and
 - critically evaluate written and visual works and their sources.
- Research fundamentals. Conducting research entails rigorous inquiry through which students join a community of scholars in order to pursue truth. This pursuit is conducted with sincerity and respect for the rights of others.
 - Students will be able to:
 - formulate a research question;
 - identify relevant resources and strategies for answering the question;
 - distinguish among modes of inquiry; and
 - access and use material found in print or on the internet responsibly (i.e., ethically and legally).

Breadth

Dominican University traditionally recognizes distinct areas of study and diverse ways of knowing necessary for students to engage in informed conversations of genuine breadth, both within and beyond the university. Students are enabled to appreciate the content and methods of diverse fields of study, recognize different ways of knowing and creating knowledge, and demonstrate understanding of disciplinary concepts and approaches, specifically in fine arts, history, literature, natural sciences, philosophy, social sciences, and theology.

Depth

Dominican students develop competence in and an in-depth understanding of one or more academic disciplines. After completing significant course work in a particular field of study, students will have developed a body of work that demonstrates substantial domain knowledge and a growing awareness of the underlying structures of an academic discipline. Additionally, they will have had extensive practice in applying disciplinary principles, perspectives, and discourse to diverse problems and in adopting a critical stance to evidence and argument.

Integrative Learning

Integrative learning is the practice of making meaningful wholes—that is, synthesizing knowledge across academic boundaries; connecting personal, academic, work, and community experiences; and evaluating and reflecting on their own learning. This enables students to develop increasingly complex frameworks for future learning and action in multiple communities.

Global Citizenship

The distinctively Dominican global citizen is conscientiously positioned in relationship to the world from within and across cultural, geographic, linguistic, physical, political, religious, racial, ethnic, gender-based, and socio-economic borders. Shaped by a growing understanding of this relational identity, Dominican students become global citizens through study, experience, practice, and reflection. They embrace globally responsible attitudes, develop a critical understanding of global interconnectedness, and act ethically to participate in the creation of a more just and humane world.

Bachelor of Arts (BA), Bachelor of Science (BS), and Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) Degrees

General Requirements

1. Each student must complete 124 semester hours of credit, 3 semester hours of which may be in physical education and health. A semester course may carry from 1 to 8 semester hours of credit, according to the judgment of the department. The minimum requirement for full-time status in any one semester is 12 semester hours of credit, and the maximum permitted is 18 semester hours. See Academic Regulations for the rule governing an exception to the normal course load.
2. Each student must attain a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.00 based on all Dominican course work and be in good standing.
3. Each student in a BA or BS degree program must complete work in a major field consisting of no fewer than 24 and no more than 56 semester hours of credit. No more than 42 semester hours in a single discipline may be required for a major field (unless required for state licensure).
4. No more than 54 semester hours of credit in one discipline may be offered by the student for the degree. The following information should be noted in regard to the 54 semester hour rule: a) courses that are cross-listed count in both disciplines; and b) accounting and business administration count as one discipline, as do sociology and criminology.

A minimum grade of C- must be earned in courses for a major or minor, and a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.00 is required for completion of a major or minor. The satisfactory/fail grade option may NOT be used for any course submitted for a major or minor unless otherwise indicated in department major requirements.

Degree With Honors

Honors degrees are awarded on the basis of the cumulative grade point average of all baccalaureate course work taken at Dominican. For a baccalaureate degree summa cum laude, a student must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.90; for a baccalaureate degree magna cum laude, 3.70; for baccalaureate degree cum laude, 3.50. A student must complete a minimum of 56 credit hours at Dominican in order to qualify for these honors distinctions.

Residency Requirements

One hundred twenty-four semester hours are required for graduation. A certain number of these hours must be earned in residency.

Students may meet Dominican's minimum residency requirement in any one of the following ways:

1. Complete any 90 semester hours at Dominican University;
2. Complete from 45 to 89 semester hours at Dominican University, including the last 15 semester hours applied toward the degree; or
3. Complete the last 34 semester hours for the degree at Dominican University.

Up to 68 semester hours are accepted in transfer from community colleges and up to 90 semester hours from four-year colleges and universities.

Each department will determine the number of semester hours in the major and minor that must be taken at Dominican.

Major Field

Students must choose a major field prior to or upon completion of 60 semester hours. Students who have completed 60 semester hours and have not declared a major will not be allowed to register for additional courses until a major is declared. Information on declaring a major is available from the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences.

A grade of C- or higher is required in all courses used to satisfy requirements in the major; a course that is required for the major in which a grade of D or F is earned must be repeated. A minimum grade point average of 2.00 is required in the major.

It is the responsibility of the student to make certain that degree requirements are met.

Minor Field

Students may elect an optional minor field. A department offering a minor may require no fewer than 18 semester hours and no more than 24 semester hours. The requirements for a minor are listed in the Courses of Instruction section of this bulletin under each discipline offering a minor.

Interdisciplinary Programs

Because of our commitment to integrative learning, a number of interdisciplinary majors and minors are available, including majors in American studies, black world studies, digital cinema, neuroscience, and the study of women and gender, and minors in Catholic studies, interfaith studies, Latin American and Latino Studies, medieval and renaissance studies, pre-law, social justice and civic engagement, and social media.

Interdepartmental Major or Minor

Students choosing an interdepartmental major or minor may devise programs suited to their particular needs and interests. Each student, in consultation with a committee of faculty members from the departments involved, submits a written plan of study, including a detailed rationale for the proposed major or minor and for the courses selected. If the plan is approved by the committee and the dean of the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences, it will be filed with the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences. Interdepartmental major or minor plans of study must be approved prior to completion of 90 semester hours.

Second Major/Minor

Dominican University graduates may add a second major/minor to their Dominican record using the requirements in the bulletin of their original major/minor if completed within two years of receiving the bachelor's degree.

Dominican University graduates who wish to add an additional major/minor more than two calendar years after receiving the bachelor's degree must fulfill the major/minor requirements in effect at the time they return to complete their work.

Second Bachelor's Degree

Students holding a baccalaureate degree from a regionally accredited institution may earn a second bachelor's degree (either the Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree) from Dominican University, provided that:

1. All university general education requirements, foundation and core requirements, and major requirements are met;
2. At least 34 semester hours are earned in residence at Dominican University; and
3. A cumulative grade point average of 2.00 is earned in all Dominican course work

The Bachelor of Medical Science degree is a second-bachelor-degree program designed for students interested in pursuing graduate or professional study in medical fields.

Returning Students

Students returning to Dominican after an interruption of more than five years are subject to bulletin provisions for the general education requirements as well as major and minor requirements in effect at the time they re-enter. (However, every effort will be made to count earlier courses in the way most beneficial to fulfilling current requirements.)

Students returning to Dominican after an interruption of fewer than five years can use the bulletin in effect at the time of their original admission to Dominican or any later bulletin. Returning students who have attended other colleges or universities during their absence must reapply to Dominican. Upon readmission, they may select a bulletin in effect up to five years prior to the term they re-enter, providing they were enrolled during the bulletin year of their choice.

Academic Advising/Academic Success Programs

Advising is teaching and learning for vocation. First in importance and sequence for advising are not the questions, What courses do I have to take? What am I required to do? Instead, advising should begin with and frequently revisit more fundamental questions: Why am I in the university? What should I study, and why? What will it mean for my life, for my future, for my community, and for society? Advising explores the meaning, purpose, and effect of university learning. Assisting students in exploring and selecting major fields, selecting and scheduling courses, internships, and a host of other more practical functions are built upon insights students derive from beginning with and revisiting the reflective questions that go to the heart of each student's educational project.

Each undergraduate student has a dedicated faculty advisor—initially the student's freshman seminar professor, and later, a professor from the student's chosen major field. Faculty advisors and students are assisted by the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences advising office staff.

Students at Dominican are able to exercise a large measure of personal choice in curriculum because of the quality of the university's academic advising. The university recognizes that while students hold the primary responsibility for their education and hence for their program choices, the advisor's help is crucial in developing an informed basis for responsible and expedient academic decisions.

Students may not register for courses online without receiving an advising clearance and may not register in person in the Office of the Registrar without their academic advisor's signature. Please note that successful degree completion is the sole responsibility of the student.

The Office of Academic Success Services and Diversity is committed to supporting and enhancing the academic success of students, discerning impediments to success, and developing means to remove those impediments for undergraduates in general and for particular segments of the student body, including international students, multicultural students, and students at risk. The office assesses the academic, social, cultural, and economic needs of undergraduate students within the scope of the overall work of the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences advising office, and develops and implements support services and programmatic initiatives to address students' needs.

Academic Success Services assists students as needed in designing an Academic Recovery Plan or an Academic Preparation Plan. These services include monitoring Warning Notices, Focus Reports, Scholars Hour, and students on academic probation.

This office promotes the university's vision of an inclusive campus community that welcomes a diverse population and honors each individual's heritage and experience so that all students, faculty, staff, families, and visitors feel welcomed and valued.

Career Advising Program

The career advising program in Career Development aspires to create in students a values-centered work ethic, to educate them to become productive and compassionate citizens, and to equip them with tools to make satisfying career and life plans. Services available to students include assistance with selecting a major, help finding part-time jobs and internships, and full-time job search support.

Career Development provides career decision-making assistance, job search workshops, résumé writing, interviewing techniques, cover letter assistance, and updated career resources to students and alumnae/i of Dominican University. The office interacts with business, industry, education, and government to develop a network of employers for full-time and internship opportunities. The office hosts on-campus interviews, practice job interviews, a business etiquette dinner, and both on- and off-campus job/internships fairs.

Active teacher candidates who complete their student teaching through Dominican University can establish a credential file with this office. A job bulletin listing full-time and part-time teaching vacancies is posted online. Additional information about Career Development is available on the website at www.dom.edu/aec/career.

Study Abroad

Dominican University offers a wide variety of study abroad programs, viewing these opportunities as an integral part of a student's undergraduate education. In Europe, Asia, Latin America, and Africa, students are perfecting their language skills and/or studying the culture, politics, art, literature, and social systems of the target country. In addition to their course work, students in study abroad programs participate in a wide variety of cultural experiences and excursions and have the opportunity for independent travel. The goal of study abroad is to give students a broader knowledge and understanding of the world and of other peoples and also a new sense of self-reliance and independence. With approval of the major department, some study abroad courses can be used to meet major requirements in the sociology, criminology, or other fields; see a departmental advisor for more information.

Year-Long or Semester Programs

Semester in London, England—Offered during the fall semester only, the London program is open to juniors and seniors in all majors. With a focus on students' experiencing as well as studying about Britain, the curriculum consists of two parts: an interdisciplinary course in British life and culture and a tutorial/independent study course, generally in the student's major. The interdisciplinary course includes lectures by British experts in a variety of fields, weekly day trips to such sites as Stratford-on-Avon and Bath, and two study tours—one to Edinburgh and York and one to Dublin, Ireland.

Study Abroad in Milan, Italy—This affiliate program with IES Abroad in the fashion, financial, and commercial capital of Italy is intended for students interested in a semester or an academic year program in Italy. Students live with Italian university students and/or young professionals. Students take a variety of language and area studies courses in art history, cinema, theatre, history, literature, music, and political science at the IES center in Milan or at Milan's major universities. All courses are taught in Italian. Advanced students of Italian can apply for internships with professionals in any number of subject areas. In addition to Italian language, apparel students can take area courses taught in English and one or two fashion courses at the Istituto di Moda Burgo.

Study Abroad in Poitiers, France—This affiliate program with Oregon State University gives students of French the opportunity to study and live in Poitiers for one semester or an entire academic year. They enroll in courses at the International Center or at the Université de Poitiers while living with a French family. All instruction is in French. Participants must have completed French 202 or above to be eligible.

Study Abroad in Salamanca, Spain—This affiliate program with AIFS (American Institute for Foreign Study) offers one or two semesters of study at the oldest and most famous university of Spain. Students register for classes in language, area studies, or other fields at either the Universidad de Salamanca or the AIFS program, depending upon their language preparation. Students wishing to enroll for courses at the PEI (Universidad de Salamanca) must have written permission from the Spanish Department. All courses are conducted in Spanish. Students live with a host family. Through excursions planned by AIFS and independent travel, students have the opportunity to explore Spain and the rest of Europe.

Study Abroad in Stellenbosch, South Africa—This affiliate program with AIFS (American Institute for Foreign Study) offers one or two semesters at the Stellenbosch University, South Africa's second-oldest university. Students register for classes taught in English at the university. Students can choose from a wide variety of subjects, including African area studies, South African and African history and politics, theatre arts, and South African literature.

Study Abroad in Limerick, Ireland—This affiliate program with AIFS (American Institute for Foreign Study) offers juniors and seniors the opportunity to take courses at the University of Limerick for one or two semesters. They can choose from a wide variety of courses in the College of Business, College of Humanities, College of Informatics and Electronic Engineering, and the College of Science. Students also are encouraged to take courses offered in Irish studies. The program includes a three-day excursion to London and trips to the West of Ireland and to Dublin. Students live in single rooms in university townhouses on campus. Students in all majors are welcome to apply.

Study Abroad in Blackfriars/Oxford—This program is open to juniors who either are in the honors program or have a 3.7 GPA. Blackfriars Hall is run by Dominican friars within the Oxford University system. Students participate in the traditional Oxbridge tutorial teaching, in which they meet twice a week with a tutor to discuss an essay. Topics for tutorial projects include philosophy, theology, English literature, psychology, and British history with optional classes in Latin, New Testament Greek, and Biblical Hebrew. Accommodations are within walking distance of Blackfriars.

Study Abroad in Salzburg, Austria—This affiliate program with AIFS (American Institute for Foreign Study) offers students with or without prior knowledge of German the opportunity to spend one or two semesters in Salzburg, Austria. All students must study German, along with a variety of classes taught in English, including political science, business/economics, art, literature, and music. Included in the program fee are several excursions, including ones to Munich, Germany, and to Vienna and Innsbruck, in Austria. Students have the option of living in a dormitory or with a host family. Students in all majors are welcome to apply.

Strasbourg: European Business-The Strasbourg Business Study Abroad Program is offered in the fall, spring, full year or four-week summer. This opportunity is offered to students interested in European business and integration, while developing their French language skills. There is no language requirement as business courses are taught in English, although students will enroll in a French language class at the appropriate level. This program takes place in the heart of Europe at the EM Strasbourg Business School, a Grande École, and includes cultural and corporate visits such as a guided boat tour, visits to the Haut-Koenigsbourg Castle, Council of Europe, European Parliament, Mercedes Corporate Headquarters, Deutsche Bank, Siemens and Lufthansa. Limited space available. Must have sophomore or junior standing.

Summer Programs

Florence and the Cultural Traditions of Italy - The Florence program is a four-week study abroad opportunity intended for students interested in Italian language, art, culture, and history. As the center of Renaissance civilization, Florence offers students opportunities to study the cultural achievements of Italy's past while living in a dynamic and historically rich city. Florence is centrally located, giving students easy access to other important Italian cities and places of cultural interest. Dominican University's Italian and art departments offer this program taking place from mid-May to mid-June. It is a program that distinguishes itself as a fully immersive humanities experience; it relates literature, art history and philosophy with the hands-on experience of drawing and observation. Students enroll in two courses (STA 223 - Drawing on Florence and STA 282 - Florence: The City as Renaissance Text). This program awards three credits for each course. There is no language requirement; both courses are taught in English. However, students seeking credit in Italian may intensify the literature course for four credits upon approval of the Italian discipline.

China: Tradition, Modernization, and Culture - This three-credit course is designed to introduce students to the study of and involvement with China, in particular its history, religion and culture, political and social life, and increasingly important economy. Participants will visit and study in Beijing, Xian, and Shanghai to experience this complex country, rich in its tradition and dynamic in its transition. Most importantly, they will discover how to adapt to a culture and an environment that are quite different from the American or European conditions to which they are accustomed, a skill that will be increasingly required in the 21st century. Classes are held at Dominican both before and after the trip. The course is conducted in English.

Paris: Essentials of French Fashion - This course for apparel majors and minors provides the opportunity to spend one month in Paris, the fashion capital of the world. Students take all course work at the Paris American Academy. The intensive course consists of an overview of the French fashion industry, an opportunity to become immersed in a specialization (design, couture, merchandizing, or communication) from a French fashion perspective, and a hands-on introduction to the French culture and language. The course is conducted in English.

Cuba: Culture, History, and Politics - This course is a unique interdisciplinary course offered by Dominican University in collaboration with FLACSO-Cuba and the Universidad de La Habana (University of Havana). Course participants will travel across the island learning about the country's pre- and post-colonial and revolutionary history, contemporary political and economic system, cultural landscape including music, art, and religion, and social institutions including schools, medical systems, and urban farming. This course includes mandatory pre-trip class sessions and orientation meetings, and it fulfills the multicultural core requirement for Dominican students. The course is conducted in English. This course can be used to fulfill a course requirement in the study of women and gender major. Please see advisor for details.

Strasbourg French Language Program - This three-week course offers a total immersion experience in the French language and culture. Students will participate in class sessions, do city-based projects, keep a journal, and complete a photo project. Excursions include a trip on the Alsatian Wine Route and a visit to the European Parliament. The language of instruction and interaction is French. Language requirement: FREN 202 - Intermediate French II or equivalent.

Córdoba - The al-Andalus in World Literature: Interfaith Dialogue and the People of the Book is a four credit interfaith study abroad course that looks to the past to better understand the present. Participants study a real model of Muslim, Jewish and Christian interfaith community to then reflect on the meaning of its fictional reconfigurations in other contexts. Participants also spend three weeks in Córdoba Spain learning Spanish & Arabic language and culture (different levels are accommodated), (re)visiting the places of the historical al-Andalus. In addition to the many sites in and around Córdoba, travel will include Seville, Granada, and Toledo Spain, as well as Tetuan, Morocco. This course fulfills the literature area requirement, and the World literature requirement for education students; it earns credits in honors, Interfaith Studies, Spanish, &/or English.

Short-Term Programs

Rome Interim Program: The Art of Renaissance and Baroque Rome - This program takes place in early January during the winter semester break. The program consists of three phases: 1) two slide presentation that set up the historical context of the sites that will be seen in Rome (this takes place at Dominican prior to departure); 2) the actual tour of Rome, where students will visit the major Renaissance and Baroque sites as well as ancient sites, such as the Coliseum and the Roman Forum; 3) a final term paper upon return. The program is conducted in English.

Ghana: A Gateway to Africa - This study abroad program occurs during the spring semester. On-campus classroom sessions and orientations are followed by 10 days of travel in the West African country of Ghana during spring break. While there, participants experience Ghana's political development and participate in Ghana's independence celebration. Participants also discover Ghana's rich history and culture traveling to the different regions, exploring the timeless art of Kente weaving; visiting the Manhyia Palace, the home of the Ashanti kings; and touring 14th-century slave dungeons along the coast of Ghana. In addition, participants enjoy both daily lectures and lectures at one of the largest universities in Ghana and learn about traditional religion, Muslim and Christian faiths, and how they have shaped Ghana. Students are required to keep a journal of their experiences and write a term paper. The course is conducted in English.

Community-Based Learning Programs

El Salvador: Election Observation and Democratic Participation - In this course students learn in depth about the political, social, and economic reality of El Salvador and contribute to its democratic process. Democracy depends on a transparent process, and the presence of international observers can help guarantee such transparency. This service learning abroad course is incorporated into an electoral international observer mission in El Salvador.

Guatemala - This short-term intensive international service program is an immersion experience in Guatemalan/Mayan life and culture. Students will engage diverse dimensions of human experience and understand with empathy a culture radically different from their own. The service we do opens doors to building relationships with the people. Through studying, experiencing and reflecting on Guatemalan and Mayan culture, history, religion, economics, society, and community, we deepen our awareness and understanding toward becoming a global citizen. This one-credit course involves preparation classes and participation in the Global Learning Symposium.

Haiti - Students will serve with the people of Haiti, while learning about the social, cultural, historical, economic, political, and religious aspects of Haitian life and culture. Students will investigate: How does Haiti change our global consciousness and open us to seeing in new ways and understanding in radically different ways? This course involves a week of service in Haiti during spring break, four classes to prepare for the experience, a post-trip reflection session, and participation in a program to present the Haiti experience to the Dominican community.

For complete information on all programs, contact the Director of International Studies.

Internships

Internships enable students to gain appropriate work experience in their field and to integrate their academic course work with professional preparation. By completing an internship, students can better understand the career opportunities offered by their major and establish more specific career goals.

Students entering their junior or senior year of study, having fulfilled any internship prerequisites set up by the department, are eligible to apply to their department for an internship experience. A minimum cumulative career grade point average of 2.00 is required. Transfer students must have completed at least 15 semester hours at Dominican before applying for the internship, and students enrolled in certificate programs should complete the internship at the end of their program of study.

The internship experience is governed by a contract between the student, the faculty coordinator, and the employment supervisor. This contract must be approved by the department in which the internship is being taken and by the career development office. An internship may be taken only in the student's declared academic program, for 1 to 8 semester hours of credit. The student may register for an internship in no more than two semesters. Credit hours earned in an internship will be applied toward the 124 semester hours required for a bachelor's degree. Unless explicitly listed as a requirement or option for a major or minor, the internship hours do not satisfy the total semester hours required for completion of a major or a minor.

Prior to the start of an internship, students should consult first with their academic advisor or with the chairperson of the relevant department and then with the career development office. Registration for an internship requires the approval of an academic advisor, an internship application, and a course registration form, which should be submitted to the Office of the Registrar before the start of the internship.

Employer sites and internships must be approved by the faculty supervisor as worthy of academic credit. Special regulations apply to the internship program, and information about these regulations as well as currently available internship opportunities may be obtained from the career development office.

Community-Based Learning

Community-based learning combines community service with academic instruction as it focuses on critical, reflective thinking and civic responsibility. Community-based learning involves students in organized community service that is directly linked to the curriculum and addresses local community needs. This learning experience provides multiple benefits to the students, including the enhancement of course-related academic skills, further development of critical thinking and social analysis skills, and opportunities for meaningful commitment to and civic engagement with the broader community.

Most community-based learning courses are designated in the course schedule by the sentence "Includes off-campus service hours." These courses engage the entire class in service and reflection and fully integrate service into the learning and understanding of course content. Another community-based learning option can be self-initiated through an agreement between the professor, the student, and the Community-Based Learning Office. This "299" CBL course carries 1 semester hour of credit and can enhance any course. For additional information, contact the Community-Based Learning Office: Library Link 101.

Undergraduate Research, Scholarship, and Creative Investigations (URSCI)

Dominican University offers students opportunities to engage in undergraduate scholarly activities that go beyond class assignments. The Office of Undergraduate Research, Scholarship, and Creative Investigations (URSCI) promotes undergraduate student-faculty collaborative research and scholarship. It administers a variety of initiatives to support undergraduate students involved in scholarly projects in all disciplines. Students may work as research assistants to faculty members, compete for prestigious student-driven summer scholarships or apply for grants to defray the costs of projects or attendance at academic conferences. Students may also learn valuable research skills for different disciplines by taking courses taught within each department. Students can earn course credit for working with a faculty mentor on a research project or creative investigation that is completed independently-not as part of a class assignment. A uniform course number (e.g., BIOL 195, ART 395) has been established to designate participation in independent undergraduate research/creative activities across all departments at Dominican. Students must obtain prior approval from a faculty mentor before they can register for any of these independent research courses. Each course can be completed for variable credit hours (1-3) and can be repeated for two semesters at each class level. Students are encouraged to present their independent scholarly and creative work at the annual Exposition of Undergraduate Research, Scholarship, and Creative Investigations, which is held each spring.

Adult Program

Dominican University offers counseling and other academic support services to students who have been away from college for a number of years or who wish to begin college work some years after high school graduation. Interaction between faculty, students, and career advising staff helps returning students to develop new academic and career possibilities and to become aware of new avenues for personal growth.

For adult students who have acquired academic experience outside the classroom, credit by examination is obtained through the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP). After completing three courses at Dominican, adult students may also apply for academic course equivalency (ACE) credit. Academic course equivalency credit is not awarded to students holding a bachelor's degree.

Guidelines for applying for ACE credit are available in the Office of the Dean of the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences. A maximum of 28 semester hours of credit, as many as 12 of which may be in the major, is granted through credit by examination, ACE credit, or both. Academic course equivalency and CLEP petitions must be submitted prior to completion of 90 semester hours.

The School of Professional & Continuing Studies (SPCS) offers accelerated bachelor's completion programs for adult learners. SPCS courses are offered in the evenings and online. Detailed information is available in the SPCS section of the bulletin.

Concordia University/Dominican University Exchange

Under a cooperative exchange plan, full-time Dominican University students may take, at Concordia University and for no additional cost, one or two courses per semester in subjects that complement courses in the Dominican curriculum. (Students majoring in music may take more than two.) Students need to register both at Concordia University (this should be done first to confirm that there is room in the course) and at Dominican. The exchange agreement does not cover special fees for music lessons, laboratory courses, etc.; students are responsible for these costs.

Concordia University is located one-half mile east of Dominican University's Main Campus and across from the Priory Campus.

Elmhurst College/Dominican University Foreign Language Exchange

Under a cooperative exchange plan, degree-seeking Dominican University students may take, at Elmhurst College and for no additional cost, one or two courses per semester, limited only to foreign language courses not offered at Dominican. Students need to register both at Elmhurst College (this should be done first to confirm that there is room in the course) and at Dominican.

Elmhurst College is located 7.5 miles west of Dominican University's Main Campus.

Core Curriculum and Honors Program

The core curriculum plays a key role in an undergraduate education that is steeped in the Dominican ethos, promotes liberal learning through foundations, breadth, depth, and integration, and prepares students for responsible global citizenship. In distinctive ways, the core curriculum helps students meet the learning goals outlined in the Vision for Undergraduate Education (see Academic Information).

The core curriculum consists of:

- Foundations: courses that equip students with basic skills fundamental to all other facets of the undergraduate course of study;
- Liberal Arts and Sciences Seminars: courses that apply multiple perspectives to the "big" questions and help students integrate what they are learning elsewhere
- Area Studies: courses that introduce students to area studies or "disciplines" practiced by scholars as they explore materials and apply methods of inquiry particular to their academic field; and
- Multicultural Course: engagement of diverse cultures in the United States or beyond its borders.

Foundations

Before graduation each student must demonstrate:

- The ability to read with understanding and to communicate in writing. This requirement may be met by placement examination or by completing with a C- or better Dominican's ENGL 102 (students with transfer credit will be required to take a writing placement exam and may be required to complete ENGL 190 at Dominican);
- The ability to understand and use mathematics. This requirement may be met by placement examination or by completing with a passing grade college-level course work equivalent to MATH 130, MATH 150, MATH 160, or MATH 170;
- The ability to understand the connections between human languages and specific cultures and the ability to interact appropriately with people of diverse cultures. This requirement may be met by placement examination or by completing with a passing grade a foreign or heritage language course at the level of 102 or 192 or by completing SEDU 466. Foreign nationals educated abroad at the high school level are exempt from the requirement;
- The ability to find, evaluate, and use information effectively; that is, to acquire information literacy. Introduction to these skills will take place in ENGL 102, where students will learn the basics of library research, including the ability to locate both print and electronic resources by searching library databases for articles and books. They will also learn how to use the internet for academic purposes, how to evaluate information critically, and how to use information ethically and legally. Students who do not take ENGL 102 at Dominican University will be required to complete an Information Literacy Workshop during their first semester at Dominican; and
- The ability to understand and use computers and their applications. This requirement may be met by a proficiency examination or by completing with a passing grade CIS 120 or its equivalent.

Liberal Arts and Sciences Seminars

Each year, students must enroll in and complete with a passing grade an integrative seminar. According to their class standing, they may choose from a wide variety of seminars that have some elements in common but that are offered by instructors representing alternative approaches to the general topics listed below. Seminars invite students to integrate multiple perspectives on personal, social, and philosophical issues by reading, discussing, and writing about the seminar topic.

- Freshman Seminar: The Examined Life
- Sophomore Seminar: Life in Community
- Junior Seminar: A Life's Work
- Senior Seminar: The Good Life

All entering freshmen enroll in the freshman seminar during their first semester; the seminar instructor is their academic advisor for the first year. Transfer students begin the seminar sequence at the point at which they enter the university (i.e., students who transfer as sophomores must complete a sophomore, a junior, and a senior seminar; junior transfer students must complete a junior and a senior seminar). A student is classified as a sophomore if 28 semester hours have been completed, as a junior if 60 semester hours have been completed, and as a senior if 90 semester hours have been completed. For purposes of determining the point of entry to the seminar sequence, however, transfer students who enter with total semester hours within seven of a higher classification begin the seminar sequence at that higher classification (i.e., students entering the university with 21 hours begin the sequence with the sophomore seminar; students entering with 53 hours begin the sequence with the junior seminar; students entering with 83 hours are required to complete only the senior seminar). However, transfer students must have reached the necessary classification level in order to enroll in that first seminar (e.g. a transfer student with 53 transfer hours may begin the seminar sequence with a junior seminar, but the student is not eligible to enroll in the junior seminar until the student has earned 60 or more total hours).

Students studying abroad for a full academic year are exempt from that year's seminar requirement.

A description of individual seminars can be found under Liberal Arts and Sciences Seminars .

Area Studies

Through area studies, Dominican University enables each of its students to engage in informed conversations of genuine breadth, both within and beyond the university. All students will engage in seven distinct areas of study needed for such conversations. In each of these areas, students will:

- become familiar with the relevant language and concepts of that area of study;
- acquire a familiarity with modes of inquiry and methods used in that area; and
- draw upon and apply that knowledge to begin addressing significant questions or issues within that area and beyond its borders.

Courses that fulfill these area studies requirements are indicated both in the departmental course offerings listed in this bulletin and in each year's schedule of classes.

Fine Arts

apparel, art, art history, communications, digital cinema, modern foreign language, music, and theatre

Students will:

1. Recognize representative works, styles, techniques, or performances from an artistic genre.
2. Explain elements of a work, style, technique, or performance from an artistic genre.
3. Create and/or analyze an artistic work with attention to aesthetic, historical, and cultural influences and context.

History

Students will:

1. Use relevant primary and secondary sources in their own accounts of the past.
2. Analyze the significance of a given historical change.
3. Formulate an argument about historical causality.

Literature

English, French, Italian, Spanish, and theatre

Students will:

1. Describe how a work's historical or cultural context and genre shape its purpose.
2. Interpret works through specific knowledge of literary traditions and devices, appropriate terminology, and critical approaches.
3. Analyze texts through close readings that engage basic formal and aesthetic features of the works.

Natural Sciences

biology, chemistry, natural sciences, nutrition, physics, and psychology

Students will:

1. Define the scientific terms, practices, and concepts essential to the scientific method.
2. Apply scientific methods to investigate the natural world.
3. Assess observations of the natural world using analytical reasoning.

Philosophy

Students will:

1. Demonstrate a philosophical disposition by showing intellectual flexibility, humility, comfort with ambiguity, and an appreciation of the complexity of core theoretical problems.
2. Explain key philosophical concepts, texts, and thinkers as they relate to central questions in metaphysics, ethics, and epistemology from a global and/or diverse perspective.
3. Apply philosophical methods, such as critical thinking and logical analysis (for example: deductive, inductive, and analogical reasoning), in order to situate oneself within one's communities and the world.

Social Sciences

communications, criminology, economics, political science, psychology, and sociology

Students will:

1. Identify basic terminology, core concepts, and theories in a field of the social sciences.
2. Explain individual behavior, social institutions, governance forms, or social policy from a social science discipline perspective.
3. Analyze an issue or policy at the individual, community, or societal level with an acceptable social science methodology (quantitative or qualitative).

Theology

Students will:

1. Recognize the methods and sources proper to theological and religious reflection.
2. Describe specific ways that religious traditions, especially Catholic Christianity, raise and attempt to answer questions of ultimate meaning and value.
3. Articulate a theologically-informed position on key questions regarding the transcendent meaning and value of human existence and experience.

Multicultural Studies

Cultural diversity, both within the United States and beyond its borders, provides an important context for the educational mission of pursuing truth, giving service, and contributing to a more just and humane world. Thus in meeting the requirements of the core curriculum, each student must elect one course of at least 3 semester hours that:

- focuses on the culture or analysis of society or civilization in Africa, Latin America/Caribbean, and/or Asia; or
- focuses on the experience, traditions, beliefs, arts, or thought of African-American, Asian-American, Hispanic-American, or Native American cultures.

Dominican Honors Program: Mazzuchelli Scholars and Distinction Programs

Bachelor of Arts With Honors or Bachelor of Science With Honors

Socrates challenges us with the claim that the unexamined life is not worth living. The Mazzuchelli Scholars honors program contributes to the mission of the university by providing talented and self-motivated students with the opportunities and skills they will need to become lifelong learners.

Students who accept this challenge are awarded with the degree of Bachelor of Arts with Honors or Bachelor of Science with Honors on the recommendation of the Honors Committee and upon completion of five hours of community engagement per year and the requirements for one of the two paths described below: Honors through Project or Honors through Course Work.

Entering the Program

The honors degree program is open to full-time students who have been invited into the program. The Honors Committee sets the standards for admission to the program, reviews the progress of the students in the program, and recommends the awarding of the degree of Bachelor of Arts with Honors or Bachelor of Science with Honors. Interested students should consult the directors of the honors program for current-year policies and guidelines.

In addition to the bachelor degree requirements outlined in this bulletin, all students intending to pursue an honors degree must complete the following requirements:

1. Five hours of community engagement.

To support our honors community and the integration of curricular and co-curricular goals of the greater Dominican community, each Mazzuchelli Scholar will be expected to complete five hours of Dominican-community engagement a year. Each student is expected to attend the Caritas and Veritas symposium, the Founder's Day dinner, and the Lund-Gill lecture, but can select from other Dominican co-curricular events (such as URSCI presentations, theatre productions, art gallery openings, sports events, events sponsored by other honor students, etc). This requirement is in place to help build a stronger sense of the honors community here on campus. Questions about appropriate events can be sent to the directors for approval. Students will be required to keep track of their own hours on Canvas and submit them before May 1st each year.

2. Complete four honors seminars.

Honors students will complete four honors seminars to fulfill the liberal arts and sciences core curriculum seminar requirement. While the form and substance of the honors seminars are subject to approval and change by the Honors Committee, current seminar topics are:

- Freshman Honors Seminar: Thoughts and Passions
- Sophomore Honors Seminar: Human Being and Citizen
- Junior Honors Seminar: Human Being and Natural Being
- Senior Honors Seminar: Wisdom and Power

For more detailed information, students should consult the current list of honors seminars.

Exemption from the honors freshman seminar for students admitted to the honors program in their sophomore year or acceptance of honors course work at another institution in place of the freshman and/or sophomore honors seminars is possible with the written approval of the honors directors. Honors students who follow a full-year study abroad or other academic off-campus program may petition the directors to waive the requirement.

3. Maintain a designated GPA

A cumulative grade point average of 3.30 is required.

4. Complete additional requirements, choosing one of the following paths:

Honors through course work requires good standing in the honors program. This path also requires:

1. Four courses designated as honors

OR

Three courses designated as honors and either one study abroad course, one foreign language course at the 200 level or above, or one pre-approved honors contract course (see below for procedures to intensify a traditional course to comply with expectations for an honors contract.

OR

Two courses designated as honors and at least two courses in a foreign language at the 200-level or above.

2. Honors through project: The requirements for this path are good standing in the honors program and the completion of an honors project, which is a substantial, independent distinction project approved by the Honors Committee. Distinction projects are detailed below under Bachelor of Arts with Distinction and Bachelor of Science with Distinction.

Students on this path are required to complete the honors seminars but are not required to take other honors courses.

It is possible to complete both options, and students who do both the coursework and project paths successfully will receive "University Honors with Distinction in..."

Bachelor of Arts With Distinction and Bachelor of Science With Distinction

Students not in the honors program may elect to pursue a degree of Bachelor of Arts with Distinction or Bachelor of Science with Distinction by completing a distinction project. This project is designed to give such students in their junior and senior years the opportunity to complete a distinctive and substantial scholarly or creative work in their major field.

Students who accept this challenge are awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts with Distinction or Bachelor of Science with Distinction on the recommendation of the Honors Committee and upon completion of the distinction project.

All students intending to pursue an honors or a distinction project will need to complete the following requirements:

Declaring Intent and Finding Readers. Generally, students attempting degrees with distinction begin working on their distinction projects in the first semester of their junior years. The faculty readers in the discipline approve the project, and then the student's first and second readers recommend the project to the Honors Committee. A project in an interdisciplinary major or one which is interdisciplinary in emphasis is submitted with prior approval from faculty from the most relevant disciplines. A student majoring in a discipline in which Dominican has only one full-time faculty member should seek approval of both project and proposal from a second faculty member who is a member of the major department or from a related discipline in another department, whichever is more appropriate for the project.

GPA. Students must meet the following requirements to be eligible: junior status, a cumulative grade point average of 3.30 or higher in the field of the distinction project, an overall grade point average of 3.30 or higher.

Course Work. If the student's proposal is accepted, the student must take ENGL 345 - Advanced Academic Writing as a part of the project. Exemption from this requirement is possible at the discretion of the course instructor.

Public Presentation. After the final draft is approved, the student will be required to give a public oral presentation on his or her project at the Undergraduate Research, Scholarship, and Creative Investigation Exposition (URSCI).

Other Information

Deadlines and guides for writing a distinction proposal and project guides for both students and faculty mentors are available from the honors directors or the Departmental Honors Project site.

Students who decide not to complete their projects must send a statement of their reasons to the Honors Committee via the directors. Students who do not make satisfactory progress may be required by the Honors Committee to withdraw their projects.

Additional information regarding both the honors and distinction programs is available from the honors website, the honors directors, or from the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences Office of Academic Advising.

Honors degrees are awarded on the basis of the cumulative grade point average of all baccalaureate course work taken at Dominican.

To graduate with an Honors degree or Degree with Distinction, students are responsible for submitting their "Intent to Graduate" forms to the directors of the Mazzuchelli Scholars Program before graduation. These forms can be located on Honors web site. If a student elects to complete an honors contract for a non-honors course, he or she must agree to the terms of the intensification with the professor and an honors director, ideally before the course is undertaken. The contract must be submitted for approval to the professor of the course and an honors director before the university deadline for Intensifications in the semester the course is being undertaken. Forms for honors contracts are located on the Honors Canvas site and available from the honors directors.

Academic Regulations

Scale of Scholarship

Course work is graded as follows:

A, A-	Excellent
B+, B, B-	Good
C+, C, C-	Satisfactory
D	Poor
F	Failure
AU	Audit
I	Incomplete
S	Satisfactory
W	Withdrawal
WW	Withdrawal for Non-Attendance
WX	Administrative Withdrawal
WU	Unofficial Withdrawal
NC	No Credit
NR	Not Reported
IP	In Progress

Poor. The grade of D: Poor indicates that the student earned credit in the class; however, courses in which a student earned a grade of D: Poor may not be used to satisfy major requirements, the foundation requirement in written communication, or course prerequisites for other courses.

Failure. The grade of F: Failure indicates that the student has received no credit for the course.

Audit. The grade of AU: Audit is recorded for a student who registers for a course as an auditor. The student may be required to submit assignments and take examinations at the discretion of the instructor. Once the student has enrolled as an auditor in a course, no change in the registration to earn credit may be made. Individuals seeking to audit a course must secure the written permission of the instructor or department before registering.

Auditors may register from the first day of class (but not earlier) through the add deadline. No auditor may hold a place in the class if needed for a credit student. Auditing is not permitted in independent/directed study or other courses as designated by the appropriate school.

Incomplete. The grade of I: Incomplete may be given to a student who has done work of a passing grade in a course but who has not completed that work. Incompletes awarded at the end of the fall semester must be removed by the end of the subsequent spring semester; incompletes awarded at the end of the spring and summer semesters must be removed by the end of the subsequent fall semester. At that time, the professor may report a grade within the ordinary scale of scholarship or a grade of NC: No Credit. If the professor does not submit a grade by the end of the subsequent semester, the registrar will automatically record a grade of F. In an exceptional case, a professor may petition the dean of the appropriate school before the end of the last week of classes for permission to extend the incomplete for another semester. A student should not re-enroll in a course for which I: Incomplete is the grade of record.

Satisfactory/Fail. Students may elect four academic courses on the satisfactory/fail basis during the four years of college, with no more than two in an academic year. Students who receive an S: Satisfactory grade will receive credit for the course, but the grade point average will not be affected. Satisfactory is defined as C- or above. However, a grade of F: Failure will be counted when computing the grade point average. Students who request to have a course graded on the satisfactory/fail basis may not alter this request once it is made, nor may students make this request after the first two weeks of the semester. The satisfactory/fail option cannot be used for courses presented to fulfill requirements in the student's major or minor field; for the core curriculum's liberal arts and sciences seminar, area studies, or the writing foundation requirement; or for study abroad courses. Core curriculum foundation requirements other than the writing requirement may be taken satisfactory/fail. However, for students pursuing teacher education certification, no courses of any kind may be taken satisfactory/fail.

Withdrawal. A grade of W: Withdrawal is recorded for a student who has officially withdrawn from a course. A student may withdraw from a course through the tenth week of the fall/spring semesters.

Withdrawal for Non-Attendance. The grade of WW: Withdrawal for Non-Attendance may be recorded for a student who either never attended a course for which the student registered or who ceased attending the course before the deadline to officially withdraw from the course. The student failed to officially withdraw from the course.

Administrative Withdrawal. The grade of WX: Administrative Withdrawal is recorded for a student who has had to withdraw from college due to serious illness or other extraordinary circumstances. This grade requires the written approval of the dean of the appropriate school

Unofficial Withdrawal. The grade of WU: Unofficial Withdrawal is recorded for a student who never attended any courses through the second week or who stopped attending all courses by the end of the sixth week of the semester, and who failed to officially withdraw and who failed to respond to inquiries from the Office of the Registrar.

No Credit. The NC: No Credit grade is an option only for the removal of an incomplete grade.

In Progress. The grade of IP: In Progress is given when a course spans more than one semester and a grade cannot be awarded until the course is completed.

Not Reported. The grade of NR: Not Reported is a temporary grade assigned by the registrar in those cases where it is not possible to obtain a student's grade from the instructor.

Quality Points

Quality points indicate the caliber of work done and are computed as follows: 1 semester hour with the grade of:

- A 4.00
- A- 3.67
- B+ 3.33
- B 3.00
- B- 2.67
- C+ 2.33
- C 2.00
- C- 1.67
- D 1.00

Change of Grade

Other than I (Incomplete) or IP (In Progress) grades, change in grades filed with the Office of the Registrar may be made only in cases of faculty or administrative error, and then only with the approval of the dean of the relevant school.

Credit

Prior to September 1971, all credits were reported in semester hours. From September 1971 to spring 1977, credit for study at Dominican University was recorded in units. For conversion purposes, the value of a unit was 4 semester hours. Beginning summer 1977, credit was once again recorded in semester hours.

Repeating Courses

A student who has previously passed a Dominican course may repeat that course only once. If a passing grade is earned in the repeated course, the credit will be posted for the term in which the course was repeated and deducted from the totals for the term in which the course was previously passed. Both grades will remain in the student's record and be posted to the student's transcript; if both grades are C or higher, both will be calculated into the cumulative grade point average. A student may repeat at Dominican a course he or she previously failed at Dominican until the student passes the course, at which time the above policy comes into effect.

The policy for grades below C is covered below as part of the Grade Forgiveness policy.

Grade Forgiveness

If a student repeats at Dominican a course in which a C-, D, or F grade was previously received in a course taken at Dominican, each grade will remain in the student's record and be posted to the student's transcript, but only the most recent grade will be counted in calculating the cumulative grade point average.

Course Prerequisites

Courses must be completed with a grade of C- or higher in order to satisfy the prerequisite requirements for other courses.

Classification

A student will be classified as a sophomore if 28 semester hours have been completed, as a junior if 60 semester hours have been completed, and as a senior if 90 semester hours have been completed. A cumulative grade point average of 2.00 is required for graduation.

Intent to Graduate and Application for Graduation

During each registration period, students are asked to indicate whether they expect to graduate at the end of an upcoming semester. Students who indicate that they intend to graduate at the end of the semester for which they are registering will be required to complete a graduation application after they have completed registration for their final semester; the application can be submitted no later than the first day of classes for the final semester. Eligible students can submit applications for graduation online or in person in the Office of the Registrar. In addition, students are expected to complete the online Graduating Student Survey before the end of semester in which they complete degree requirements.

Degree Audit

Once the application is submitted and the student has registered for the final semester of classes, a degree audit will be conducted to confirm that the student is on track to fulfill all requirements for the degree as outlined in Academic Information section of this bulletin. The audit includes all credit earned at Dominican, all transfer courses (only courses for which an official transcript has been received are included in the audit), and the current schedule. If the audit indicates that pending successful completion of all courses for which the student registered-the students is on track to graduate, the student will receive email notification that the audit is complete and no changes to the schedule are necessary. If the audit indicates that the student is not on track to graduate, the student will receive email notification that it is necessary to make an appointment for an in-person graduation audit to review the student's record against degree requirements and identify what steps are necessary to complete the degree.

Dean's and Honors Lists

As a stimulus to academic achievement and in recognition of it, a dean's list and an honors list are posted each semester. These lists are generated immediately following the posting of grades for the term. Students with a semester grade point average of 3.80 based on 12 graded hours qualify for the dean's list, and those with a cumulative grade point average of 3.50 based on 12 graded hours in the current semester qualify for the honors list.

Declining Performance, Probation, and Dismissal

To ensure students get the needed academic assistance when they are struggling, students who are not on probation, but have a semester grade point average below 2.0, will be encouraged to take advantage of the academic resources the university offers. If a student has a semester grade point average below 2.0 for two consecutive semesters and is not on probation, he or she will be required to:

- Meet with an advisor in the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences office twice in a semester.
- Complete an Academic Recovery Plan and Academic Preparation Plan.

Students are placed on probation if their Dominican cumulative grade point average falls below 2.00, at which point students are not in good academic standing. While on Academic Probation, students are required to:

- Register for ID 102 - Strategies for Academic Success (3 credit hours).
 - Students who have a cumulative GPA of 1.67 or higher may register for a maximum of four additional courses.
 - Students who have a cumulative GPA below 1.67 may register for a maximum of three additional courses.

- Meet with an advisor in the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences Office on a monthly basis.
- Complete an Academic Recovery Plan and Academic Preparation Plan.
- Attend Scholars Hour

Normally, students are dismissed if they have earned no credits by the end of their first semester or are on probation for two semesters. Students who have been dismissed must wait at least one semester before applying for readmission. Other restrictions may apply. Further details are available in the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences Advising Office. Neither the university nor any of its officers shall be under any liability whatsoever for the actions of probation or dismissal.

Withdrawal

Students who wish to withdraw from the university must inform the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences Advising Office in person or in writing. No refund is given for unauthorized withdrawal.

Upon notification that the student has withdrawn from the university, grades of W will be recorded for all courses from which the student withdrew. When the student accounts office has received notice of withdrawal from the advising office, refunds, if appropriate, will be made in keeping with the schedule outlined on the Admission and Financial Aid page.

Satisfactory Progress

Full-time students are expected to maintain an average rate of progress during each academic year of 12 earned credit hours per semester of registration. The university reserves the right to deny further full-time enrollment to a student who falls below this standard. Neither the university nor any of its officers shall be under any liability whatsoever for such denial. While 12 hours per semester are necessary for satisfactory progress, a student taking no more than 12 hours per semester will need more than ten semesters to complete the 124 hours required for a degree.

Course Numbering System

Courses numbered 100 to 299 are ordinarily freshman and sophomore courses, and 300 to 499 are ordinarily junior and senior courses. Courses numbered below 100 do not apply toward graduation requirements. Students with senior standing are in some instances allowed to enroll in 500-level courses that would serve to fulfill undergraduate credit hours as well as graduate-level credit hours in the approved graduate program.

Changes in Class Schedule

The university reserves the right to cancel classes for insufficient enrollment.

Exception to Normal Course Load

While the normal course load for full-time students is not fewer than 12 semester hours nor more than 18 semester hours, in an exceptional case it may be advisable for a student to take more than a normal load. In such a case, the student must first secure the permission of the advisor and then the permission of the dean of the appropriate school. In rare cases, the dean may approve up to 21 semester hours for the fall or spring semester. Students are permitted to enroll in no more than two courses (up to 8 total semester hours) in any one summer session (or in any combination of overlapping sessions) without the permission of the advisor and the dean of the appropriate school.

A student who has previously been placed on probation may petition for an overload only after having been in good academic standing for two full semesters.

There is a charge for an overload of 19 hours or more for a full-time student. The charge is equal to the part-time tuition rate per semester hour (see Admission and Financial Aid.)

Changes in Registration

A course may be added or dropped no later than the sixth class day of the semester. A late registration fee may be charged to all students who register after the scheduled beginning of the semester. Students may add or drop courses online or by completing an add/drop form (complete with advisor's signature) and submitting it to the Office of the Registrar by the deadline.

Students may withdraw from a course through the tenth week of the semester by filing proper notice with the registrar. Before withdrawing from a course, a student is expected to consult with an academic advisor. The signature of the academic advisor must accompany the withdrawal form, which the student then files with the registrar. Upon proper filing, the registrar will record a grade of W: Withdrawal for the course. Financial aid and/or scholarship recipients should consult the Office of Financial Aid before withdrawing from a course.

Course Intensification Option

Students may propose a special project for earning 1 additional semester hour credit in one course in which they are already enrolled. The course must be listed in the undergraduate course schedule for 3 or more credit hours. The student is responsible for completing a course intensification application (available in the Office of the Registrar) and obtaining written permission from the instructor.

Approved applications with a drop/add form signed by the student's advisor must be filed in the Office of the Registrar by the end of the fourth week of the fall or spring semester, or by the end of the second week of Summer Session I or Summer Session II. Students who request the course intensification option may not alter this request once it has been approved-i.e., students may not drop the single credit. The course intensification option requires additional student work, and under no circumstances should it be considered a substitute for regular course work. Students will receive the same grade for the entire course, including the additional work completed as part of the course intensification.

Students may take no more than one course per semester with the intensification option. Some academic programs may require majors to take certain courses using the intensification option. Consult departmental program descriptions for more details.

Credits Earned Elsewhere

Permission of the academic advisor and the registrar is required if students wish to take courses at other institutions and have the courses credited toward the Dominican degree. Students must file a special transfer credit approval form in the Office of the Registrar that reflects this approval. For an upper division major course, permission of the major advisor is also required. Grades earned in courses completed elsewhere are not included in the Dominican cumulative grade point average when determining graduation honors and honor society enrollment. Grades earned in courses completed elsewhere are included in the cumulative grade point average for teacher certification purposes. Credit is only awarded for courses in which a student earns a grade of C- or higher.

Class Attendance

Responsibility for attendance rests with each student. In general, it is the university policy to expect students to attend all of their classes. Matters of class attendance are dealt with by the individual instructor as deemed advisable. In the case of prolonged absences because of health or other serious reasons, the student must notify the dean of the appropriate school, as well as the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences Advising Office. Please consult the Student Handbook and Planner, the Faculty Handbook, or the Student Athlete Handbook for specific attendance policies pertaining to student athletes.

Academic Integrity Policy

Students of the university must conduct themselves in accordance with the highest standards of academic honesty and integrity.

Failure to maintain academic integrity will not be tolerated. The following definitions are provided for understanding and clarity.

Definitions of Plagiarism, Cheating, and Academic Dishonesty

Student plagiarism is the presentation of the writing or thinking of another as the student's own. In written or oral work a student may make fair use of quotations, ideas, images, etc., that appear in others' work only if the student gives appropriate credit to the original authors, thinkers, owners, or creators of that work. This includes material found on the internet and in electronic databases.

Cheating entails the use of unauthorized or prohibited aids in accomplishing assigned academic tasks. Obtaining unauthorized help on examinations, using prohibited notes on closed-note examinations, and depending on others for the writing of essays or the creation of other assigned work are all forms of cheating.

Academic dishonesty may also include other acts intended to misrepresent the authorship of academic work or to undermine the integrity of the classroom or of grades assigned for academic work. Deliberate acts threatening the integrity of library materials or the smooth operation of laboratories are among possible acts of academic dishonesty.

Sanctions for Violations of Academic Integrity

If an instructor determines that a student has violated the academic integrity policy, the instructor may choose to impose a sanction, ranging from refusal to accept a work project to a grade of F for the assignment or a grade of F for the course. When a sanction has been imposed, the instructor will inform the student in writing. The instructor must also inform the student that she/he has the right to appeal this sanction and refer the student to the academic appeals process described in this bulletin. The instructor will send a copy of this letter to the dean of the school in which the course was offered. The dean will note whether a student, in her or his undergraduate course work, has committed multiple violations of the academic integrity policy over time. In such cases, the dean may impose further sanctions, including warning/reprimand, failure of a course, suspension, or expulsion, with written notification to the student and instructor when appropriate. The student may appeal the dean's sanction to the committee of that dean's college or school responsible for overseeing educational policies.

Academic Appeals Process

Any disagreement with regard to academic procedure, including individual cases of alleged violation of academic integrity and final grades, should be first taken up with the instructor. If this does not settle the matter satisfactorily, the matter should be taken up with the department chair, if appropriate. If the issue cannot be resolved at the department level, it should then be presented to the dean of the school in which the course was offered. If the issue is still not resolved, the student has the right to present the issue in writing to the committee of that dean's college or school responsible for overseeing educational policies. The committee will request a written response from the instructor and may, at its discretion, seek further clarifications from the student, instructor, and/or dean. The committee will evaluate the student's appeal and vote to approve or deny it. A written response will be sent directly to the student presenting the appeal, including grade adjustments if appropriate, with a copy to the faculty member. In the event of a successful appeal of an alleged violation of academic integrity, the original letter of notification from the instructor will be expunged from the dean's file. Students wishing to file an appeal based on fall courses must do so no later than the end of the subsequent spring semester. Students wishing to file an appeal based on spring or summer courses must do so no later than the end of the subsequent fall semester.

Rosary College of Arts and Sciences

Mission

In keeping with Dominican University's mission of preparing students to pursue truth, to give compassionate service, and to participate in the creation of a more just and humane world, the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences strives to embody a community of learners seeking truth through free and open inquiry and dialogue with a diverse array of persons, places, texts, objects, ideas, and events, past and present, supportive of each learner's development, and committed to using our talents to make a positive contribution to the world. We strive to produce graduates of a liberal arts and sciences program who can think critically; communicate ideas well, orally and in writing; and achieve both breadth of understanding across fields and depth of knowledge in one field.

Vision

As a college we are committed to the Vision for Undergraduate Education referenced earlier in this bulletin, which characterizes our work with students as follows:

Steeped in Dominican Ethos, Liberal Learning

Through Foundations, Breadth, Depth, and Integration for Responsible Global Citizenship.

We educate one student at a time in the company of others, each unique yet all distinctly Dominican. In dialogue with a Dominican ethos, our students grow as liberal learners through creative and rigorous study marked by solid foundations, disciplinary breadth and depth, and ongoing integration as they aspire to become ethically responsible global citizens. Each student develops an emerging sense of personal and professional vocation through a variety of means, including thoughtful interaction with courses, professors, and other students, and intensive advising and mentoring. We encourage students to participate in internships, study away (international and domestic), community-based learning, and undergraduate research, scholarship, and creative investigations. Diverse insights coalesce in each student's distinctive educational trajectory, purpose, and plan, as we inspire students to discern the big picture and name their place within it—to stand somewhere and to stand for something, conscientiously positioned in relationship to the world.

Dominican ethos describes the distinctive character of our university's culture. It includes an environment of Caritas et Veritas, in which we contemplate the meaning of existence and strive collaboratively for a more just and humane world. It understands that study is at once contemplative and communal. It unites reflection and dialogue as we collaborate in the search for truth. It enables students to develop a sense of care and responsibility for oneself, one's community, and the wider creation. It fosters trust, tolerance, mutual accountability, and belonging. Students enter into conversation with a Catholic intellectual tradition that affirms the compatibility of faith and reason, a universe marked by both intelligibility and mystery, the sacredness of all creation, the dignity of every living being, and concern for the common good. They acquire basic knowledge about Christianity in its various dimensions, and how it interacts with secular and other religious beliefs, practices, and worldviews.

Upon graduation, students educated at Dominican University possess character, knowledge, and skills to take informed, ethical action in the world and to influence others for the good.

Curriculum

Three overlapping elements make up the curriculum:

- Core: a sequence of courses that provide the student with secure foundations, breadth of intellectual vision and integration of the undergraduate academic experience;
- Major: an opportunity to pursue one area of knowledge or discipline in greater depth; and
- Electives: special forays into that zone of freedom that characterizes liberal learning.

American Studies

American studies is the oldest and most established interdisciplinary field in the humanities. It helps students ask and answer critical questions about American society and culture. American studies is an interdisciplinary approach to understanding a multicultural society. The major prepares students for careers in education, law, politics, public service, urban planning, cultural institutions, journalism, and social work.

Apparel Design and Merchandising

The mission of the apparel design and merchandising department is to provide students with an environment in which they can develop and nurture creativity, gain aesthetic, intellectual, and professional competence in both the knowledge and skills of the apparel field and cultivate a humanistic and ethical understanding of apparel as a business and as an art form.

The apparel program offers major and minor programs in fashion design and apparel merchandising.

In collaboration with Kent State's NYC Studio, apparel design and apparel merchandising majors have the opportunity to study and complete an internship, for a semester or a summer session, in New York City.

Apparel Design - B.A.

Major Requirements:

Required Courses:

- APRL 150 - Apparel Structure and Design
- APRL 190 - Design Foundations and Visual Literacy
- APRL 256 - Textile Science
- APRL 270 - Flat Pattern Design and Draping
- APRL 360 - History of Dress
- APRL 361 - Contemporary Dress and Trend Forecasting
- APRL 445 - Senior Collection
- APRL 446 - Apparel Design and Merchandising Seminar
- APRL 455 - Internship
- ART 105 - Fundamentals of Drawing
- ART 208 - Introduction to Design Applications

Complete one of the following two courses:

- APRL 200 - Cultural Perspectives in Dress
- APRL 290 - Social Psychology of Dress

Complete one of the following two courses:

- APRL 440 - Specialty Markets
- APRL 442 - Fashion Markets

Complete one of the following three courses:

- ART 201 - Life Drawing: Anatomy
- ART 202 - Life Drawing: Portrait
- ART 203 - Life Drawing: Figure in Space

Complete three of the following courses:

- APRL 207 - Surface Design of Fabrics
- APRL 209 - Textile Design
- APRL 305 - Costuming For Theatre
- APRL 322 - Apparel Design I
- APRL 330 - Special Topics In Fashion Design
- APRL 340 - Special Topics in Fashion Merchandising

A minimum of 18 semester hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Fashion Design Minor

Minor Requirements:

Required Courses:

- APRL 150 - Apparel Structure and Design
- APRL 190 - Design Foundations and Visual Literacy
- APRL 256 - Textile Science
- APRL 270 - Flat Pattern Design and Draping

Choose three of the following courses:

- APRL 207 - Surface Design of Fabrics
- APRL 209 - Textile Design
- APRL 322 - Apparel Design I
- APRL 330 - Special Topics In Fashion Design
- APRL 365 - Fashion Illustration
- APRL 366 - Couture Tailoring
- APRL 380 - Computer-Aided Design
- APRL 440 - Specialty Markets
- APRL 445 - Senior Collection

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 12 hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Merchandising Minor

Minor Requirements:

Required Courses:

- APRL 170 - Introduction to the Fashion World
 - APRL 256 - Textile Science
- Complete two courses from:*
- APRL 260 - Fashion Styling
 - APRL 271 - Retail Promotion and Visual Merchandising
 - APRL 381 - Retail Social Media and Branding
 - APRL 370 - International Sourcing and Brand Development
 - APRL 371 - Retail Buying
 - APRL 410 - Fashion Communication Across the Media

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 12 hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Apparel Design and Merchandising Courses

APRL 150 - Apparel Structure and Design

Fundamentals of apparel assembly with emphasis on construction techniques, fit, and quality analysis of the finished product. Introduction to apparel terminology. (3 hours)

APRL 170 - Introduction to the Fashion World

Overview of the fashion business structure. Topics include the origin of apparel design through manufacturing, marketing, merchandising, and retailing process. Career opportunities are highlighted. (3 hours)

APRL 190 - Design Foundations and Visual Literacy

Design extends across subject areas such as art, fashion, interiors, and contemporary culture. This course is an overview of varied ways of understanding visual messages sent through design. Students will be introduced to the theories, elements, and principles employed in the creation of visual images. Focus is placed on utilizing these foundations as tools for analyzing, interpreting, and appreciating design and visual imagery in a variety of settings. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement

APRL 200 - Cultural Perspectives in Dress

Analysis of dress as an expression of beliefs and values, material artifact, and normative behavior in selected world cultures with emphasis on case studies focused on non-Western traditions, aesthetics, politics, religions, and ritual usage of clothing and textiles. With an intensification option, this course will contribute to the Black World Studies major. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing.

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

APRL 207 - Surface Design of Fabrics

Survey of topics and hands-on processes for fabric coloration, manipulation, and embellishment, with emphasis on application to apparel design. Various techniques considered within cultural context. $50 course fee. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

APRL 209 - Textile Design

Design principles utilized in the creation of hand- and digitally-printed textile patterns with emphasis on coloration and fabrication. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

APRL 256 - Textile Science

Survey of textile fibers, fabrics, and finishes with application to appearance, performance, and maintenance of apparel products. (3 hours)

APRL 260 - Fashion Styling

Fashion Styling is a comprehensive course on establishing a successful career as a stylist. The course paints a realistic picture of the day-to-day activities of professional stylists and provides aspiring stylists with the tools and information needed to begin building a resume and portfolio. Topics covered include fashion styling for print and video, character styling for film and television, food styling, prop styling, and set styling. (3 hours)

APRL 270 - Flat Pattern Design and Draping

Theory and fundamentals of flat pattern drafting and draping. May not be completed for credit by any student who has previously earned credit for APRL 320. (3 hours)

APRL 271 - Retail Promotion and Visual Merchandising

Promotional strategies used in merchandising. Topics include identifying target markets and interpreting consumer demand; visual merchandising and store design; advertising strategies for retail. Students receive experience in merchandising windows at the university and area retailers. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): APRL 170 or consent of the instructor.

APRL 290 - Social Psychology of Dress

This course explores selected topics from the cross-disciplinary literature on dress (defined as presentation of self), including controversial questions about body image and apparel choices across diverse populations of women and men. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing.

APRL 305 - Costuming For Theatre

(3 hours)

Listed also as THEA 305

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

APRL 322 - Apparel Design I

Utilization of the creative process and knowledge of pattern making and clothing construction to develop original clothing designs. Emphasis on concept development, fabrication, and aesthetics. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): APRL 270.

APRL 330 - Special Topics In Fashion Design

Apparel design electives in specialty topics offered on a rotating basis. This course may be taken for credit multiple times if in different content areas. (3 hours)

APRL 340 - Special Topics in Fashion Merchandising

Apparel merchandising electives in specialty topics offered on a rotating basis. This course may be taken for credit multiple times if in different content areas. (3 hours)

APRL 360 - History of Dress

Survey of European and North American dress from ancient civilizations through the 19th century, with emphasis on dress as an expression of social, cultural, economic, aesthetic, religious, and technological change in the Western world. With an intensification option, this course will contribute to the medieval and Renaissance studies minor. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

APRL 361 - Contemporary Dress and Trend Forecasting

Survey of selected dress from the 20th century to the present. Students will analyze dress as an expression of social, cultural, economic, aesthetic, religious, and technological change and utilize this information to predict future and emerging trends. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

APRL 365 - Fashion Illustration

Problems and exercises intended to stimulate design perception and creativity in sketching and rendering used by the fashion designer. (3 hours)

APRL 366 - Couture Tailoring

The principles and application of advanced techniques used in couture custom tailoring. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): APRL 150 or consent of the instructor.

APRL 370 - International Sourcing and Brand Development

An examination of the product development process and study of the roles of manufacturing, wholesaling, and retailing and the interrelationship of allied industries; development of a comprehensive merchandise plan for a product line with perspectives on the consumer, manufacturer, retailer, and international sourcing. Emphasis on understanding the industry through global social responsibility. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): APRL 170.

APRL 371 - Retail Buying

Application of effective strategies in retail buying; includes budgeting, merchandise planning, and inventory management. Computerized spreadsheets are used to perform related merchandising math operations. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Completion of math foundation requirement.

APRL 380 - Computer-Aided Design

Design of apparel through the use of computer using PAD Systems technology, with emphasis on patternmaking, grading, marking, and 3-D applications. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): APRL 270.

APRL 381 - Retail Social Media and Branding

Exploring the underlying principles of multichannel retailing and their relationship with brick-and-mortar stores, electronic retailing, and direct marketing methods. Emphasis on understanding retail branding and exploring techniques that are used to implement various forms of social media. Formerly APRL 281. (3 hours)

APRL 445 - Senior Collection

Fashion forecasting; development of a cohesive collection of original designs. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): APRL 270 and senior standing.

APRL 446 - Apparel Design and Merchandising Seminar

Developing the major production of the department; study of professional practices and management in the business of apparel design and merchandising; preparation and presentation of comprehensive portfolio. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing.

APRL 447 - Design Process and Critique

This course examines fashion design as both a process and product. Students articulate their design voice and build their portfolios. Designers participate in critiques and evaluate design for artistic merit and market viability. With consent of the instructor, this course may be taken for credit multiple times. (3 hours)

APRL 450 - Independent Study

Content and credit tailored to the individual needs of the student. (1-4 hours)

APRL 455 - Internship

Training in a business establishment for a designated number of hours a week under the supervision of faculty member and the manager of the business establishment. (2-8 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing.

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

APRL 395 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

APRL 495 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Art and Design

The Department of Art and Design is committed to the belief that the visual arts are an integral part of the humanist tradition, expressing the intellect, emotion, and spirit of the individual.

Students majoring in art, or those simply wishing to broaden their understanding of the creative process, aesthetics, and history of art are provided with the opportunity and environment for the best possible education in the visual arts within the context of a liberal arts education.

Students are exposed to monthly exhibits in the O'Connor Gallery, lectures by visiting artists, field trips to Chicago galleries and museums, and an ongoing intensive critique process, which promotes critical thinking and creative development.

Art and Design Foundation Core

Visual literacy is at the heart of the foundation core. In a world of increased and accelerated visual imagery, with greater numbers of people having the resources to create their own images, it is important to be able to understand how images work, both psychologically and physiologically.

Foundation courses offer students the perceptual and technical knowledge required to effectively create and control their own images. Survey courses in art history set up a historical context for students' own work and help lay the groundwork for further study in art history, theory, and criticism.

Prospective majors are advised to consult with a member of the art faculty in planning their program and to complete the foundation core as soon as possible.

Core Requirements (24 hours):

- ART 102 - Introduction to Sculpture
- ART 105 - Fundamentals of Drawing
- ART 208 - Introduction to Design Applications
- ART 224 - Painting I: Color and Light
- ART 230 - Beginning Color Photography
- ARTH 190 - Survey of Art History 1: Ancient to Medieval
- ARTH 191 - Survey of Art History 2: Renaissance to Contemporary
- ARTH 419 - Contemporary Art Capstone

Graphic Design - B.A.

The major in graphic design is a sequence of courses that teaches the student the process of creative problem solving through design. By integrating concept development and artistic practice with technology, students acquire an understanding of the art of visual communication as preparation for professional employment in the field of graphic design or for graduate study.

Facilities include a digital media classroom with Macintosh computers, flatbed and film scanners, a digital projection system, color and black-and-white tabloid laser printers, and industry-standard graphic design software.

Major Requirements (27 hours):

The following nine courses in addition to the foundation core:

- ART 227 - Web Design I
- ART 240 - Introduction to Graphic Design I
- ART 254 - Typography
- ART 318 - Graphic Design II

- ART 330 - Motion Graphics
- ART 395 - Interdisciplinary Practices or one other studio elective
- ART 413 - Graphic Design III
- ART 445 - Senior Thesis
- ARTH 267 - History of Graphic Design

Additional Requirements:

Students majoring in graphic design are strongly advised to take an internship in their junior year.

A minimum of 24 hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican. These hours must include ART 318, ART 413, and ART 455.

Graphic Design Minor

Minor Requirements (18 hours):

Four graphic design electives and two art history electives. A minimum of nine hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Painting - B.A.

Painting and drawing majors take most of their course work in drawing, painting, and printmaking. Additional courses in art history, design, photography, and sculpture extend the scope of the major. Students acquire the technical proficiency needed to begin to set up and define their personal directions. A central focus of the major is the study of drawing as a means to organize thoughts, feelings, and images.

Major Requirements (30 hours):

The following ten courses in addition to the foundation core:

Complete two of the following Life Drawing courses:

- ART 201 - Life Drawing: Anatomy
- ART 202 - Life Drawing: Portrait
- ART 203 - Life Drawing: Figure in Space

Complete the following courses:

- ARTH 250 - History of Modernist and Contemporary Art
- ART 206 - Sculpture I
- ART 270 - Printmaking I
- ART 304 - Painting II: Form and Content
- ART 317 - Printmaking II
- ART 380 - Painting III: Materials And Processes
- ART 460 - Painting IV: Personal Directions
- ART 445 - Senior Thesis

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 24 hours in the major discipline must be completed at Dominican. These hours must include ART 304, ART 380, ART 460, and ART 445.

Painting Minor

Minor Requirements (21 hours):

A minimum of nine hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Required Courses

- ART 105 - Fundamentals of Drawing
- Complete one of the following three courses:*
- ART 201 - Life Drawing: Anatomy
 - ART 202 - Life Drawing: Portrait
 - ART 203 - Life Drawing: Figure in Space
- Complete the following courses:*
- ART 224 - Painting I: Color and Light
 - ART 304 - Painting II: Form and Content
 - ART 380 - Painting III: Materials And Processes
 - ARTH 190 - Survey of Art History 1: Ancient to Medieval
 - ARTH 191 - Survey of Art History 2: Renaissance to Contemporary

Photography - B.A.

The photography major places an emphasis on using the medium as a tool for individual investigation and expression within a broader humanist dialogue of study. It is perceived as the direct extension of the individual in a world requiring the articulation of the visual image as a necessary part of conducting one's personal and professional life. Photography is taught in the context of being the parent medium of cinema, video, and digital expression. Photography majors are engaged in critical thought and self-motivated practice.

Major Requirements (27 hours):

The following nine courses in addition to the foundation core:

- ART 210 - Beginning Black-and-White Photography
- ART 315 - Darkroom Practices
- ART 343 - Digital Darkroom
- ART 395 - Interdisciplinary Practices or one other studio elective
- ART 405 - Light and Camera
- ART 445 - Senior Thesis
- ARTH 265 - History of 20th-Century Photography
- DCIN 253 - Beginning Video Production
- One special topics photo/cinema elective

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 24 hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican. These hours must include ART 315, ART 405, and ART 445.

Photography Minor

Minor Requirements (18 hours):

Four photography electives, ARTH 265, and one other art history elective. A minimum of nine hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Sculpture - B.A.

The sculpture major focuses on the relationship of ideas to materials, processes, and construction techniques. Courses foster the development of both subtractive and additive skills of sculpture, including carving, casting, modeling, woodwork, and assemblage. Advanced sculpture students will have the opportunity to explore more diverse forms of art making, such as sound and installation art. Additional required foundation courses, including drawing, photography, art history, and graphic design, are designed to broaden skill sets and critical thinking within the fine art discipline.

Major Requirements (27 hours):

The following nine courses in addition to the foundation core:

- Complete one of the following two courses:*
- ART 201 - Life Drawing: Anatomy
 - ART 203 - Life Drawing: Figure in Space
- Complete the following courses:*
- ART 206 - Sculpture I
 - ART 260 - Ceramics I
 - ART 301 - Sculpture II
 - ART 395 - Interdisciplinary Practices or one other studio elective
 - ART 414 - Sculpture III
 - ART 445 - Senior Thesis
 - One special topics or studio elective.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 24 semester hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican. These hours must include ART 301, ART 414, and ART 445.

Sculpture Minor

Minor Requirements (18 hours):

Four sculpture and ceramics electives and two art history electives. A minimum of nine hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Art Education

Teacher Licensure: Art Education grades K-12

Art and design students who wish to teach art in kindergarten through 12th grades complete their chosen major and complete the School of Education's Teacher Education Program for K-12 licensure.

Additional Art Education Requirements

- Students must complete one of the art and design majors
- Art education students must take ART 206, ART 260, and ART 270.

Teacher Education Program

- Professional education courses, including EDUC 402 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Art in the K-12 Classroom
- Three state tests: the Test of Academic Proficiency, the Elementary/Middle Grades content test, and the grades K-9 Assessment of Professional Teaching
- 100 hours of field experience
- Professional portfolio
- Clinical practice (one full semester) split between an elementary and either a middle or a secondary school classroom

For more information about K-12 licensure, see the School of Education section of this bulletin.

Art and Design: Painting and Drawing Courses

ART 105 - Fundamentals of Drawing

A foundation course that focuses on developing basic skills in perceptual drawing and composition. Students explore line, shape, form, light, and perspective through the still lifes and interior architecture. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ART 200 - Painting Marathon: The Landscape

A multi-level painting course taught outdoors over a two-week period in May. Students begin a new painting each day and will complete ten paintings by the end of the course. All work is done from direct observation. Students must be prepared for the rigor of painting six hours per day Monday-Friday, 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. This class will fulfill ART 224 - Painting I: Color and Light. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 201 - Life Drawing: Anatomy

Students will also be introduced to basic surface anatomy (bones, muscles, and tendons) important to life drawing. Using traditional materials, students explore gesture, composition, proportion, volume and structure through long and short figure poses. Frequent historical references are made through reproductions and slides. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 202 - Life Drawing: Portrait

This class focuses on the structure of the head along with analysis and measurement of facial features to achieve likeness and psychological insight. Students work in a variety of media, sizes, and styles. Long and short poses will be explored using a variety of models. Several sessions will also be devoted to the draped and nude figure. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 203 - Life Drawing: Figure in Space

This course begins with a review of linear perspective and focuses on drawing the human figure in measured, spatial environments. Students work in a variety of media, sizes, and styles. Frequent historical references are made through reproduction and slides. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 224 - Painting I: Color and Light

A foundation course that introduces students to the various methods and materials of oil painting from direct observation of the still life. Students will learn how to see color and light in all its various disguises of hue, saturation, temperature and value. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 270 - Printmaking I

An introduction to printmaking as a creative arena, where a range of printmaking processes and techniques open up the possibilities for explorations of image-making. Students work in relief, intaglio and monotype and acquire the fundamental technical, drawing and formal skills necessary to work in printmaking. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 304 - Painting II: Form and Content

An intermediate painting course designed to expand students' understanding of the materials, methods and themes of painting as well as further strengthen their ability to control space, light and color. In-class assignments focus on work from the figure model. Weekly homework assignments explore creative problems such as form, content and concept, and their interdependence. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 317 - Printmaking II

An intermediate printmaking course designed to expand students' understanding of the intaglio and relief techniques, further strengthen their image-making skills and help them develop a personal creative direction in the medium. Students explore different ideas, pictorial structures and process possibilities and consider creative problems such as form, content and concept in their work. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 270

ART 380 - Painting III: Materials And Processes

An intermediate painting course in which students explore a wide range of painting modes, processes, materials and techniques as well as develop their problem solving skills, critical thinking and ability to successfully formulate and articulate their ideas in a personal direction in painting. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Either ART 201, ART 202, or ART 203.

ART 460 - Painting IV: Personal Directions

An advanced painting course in which students develop a personal direction in their work, while considering creative problems such as form, content and concept. Open-ended assignments and independent projects lead toward self-motivated work in painting, where students pose their own creative problems, explore and find their solutions. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 380.

ART 465 - Painting V: Independent Study

Intermediate to advanced work in painting and drawing to be carried out independently with a faculty advisor. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 224

Art and Design: Sculpture and Ceramics Courses

ART 102 - Introduction to Sculpture

Students are introduced to the basic elements, organizing principles, and special considerations unique to three-dimensional design such as space, time, proportion, and gravity. Various construction methods are employed including assemblage, wood working, and carving. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement. Offered every fall and spring unless otherwise noted.

ART 206 - Sculpture I

Through thoughtful and skillful additive approaches, this course investigates structural and spatial possibilities. By examining and questioning the interplay of form, material, technique, and content, a conceptual understanding of sculpture will develop over the course of the semester. Investigations and demonstrations of materials, techniques, and processes will be balanced with slide lecture, discussion, and critique. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 260 - Ceramics I

Introduction to the basic processes of making pottery and other clay products. The techniques include coil and slab building, piece molding, glazing and decorative techniques. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement. Offered every fall and spring unless otherwise noted.

ART 301 - Sculpture II

Further studio problems involving experimentation with techniques and materials such as wood working, carving, casting, assemblage, installation, and site-specific art. Investigations and demonstrations of materials, techniques, and processes will be balanced with slide lecture, discussion, and critique. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 206

ART 309 - Ceramics II

A continuation of the study of the techniques and design of clay products. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 260

ART 414 - Sculpture III

Works produced in this course will be articulated and developed conceptually. Both traditional and nontraditional materials and processes will be explored, including assemblage and experimental approaches to object making. Students begin to blur the line between a discrete object and an open system of construction, experimenting with installation art and alternative forms of presentation. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 301. ART 414 should be taken prior to enrolling in ART 445.

Art and Design: Graphic Design Courses

ART 208 - Introduction to Design Applications

Students are introduced to the use of the computer as a graphic design tool in a project-oriented class. Applied problems in image creation and page layout are explored using Adobe Photoshop, Illustrator, and InDesign. Offered every semester. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Listed also as CAS 130

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ART 227 - Web Design I

This course explores digital information and the design of communication to be published on the internet. In this project-oriented class, students will learn the creative and technical aspects of developing web pages. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 208

ART 228 - Web Design II

This course explores advanced concepts in the design of web-based communication. In this project-oriented class, students will further their understanding of the creative and technical aspects of developing websites. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 208 and ART 227 or consent of instructor.

ART 240 - Introduction to Graphic Design I

This course examines the fundamentals of graphic design and how graphic designers solve problems, organize space, and convey visual and verbal information. This interaction of signs, symbols, words, and pictures will be investigated by the student in a variety of projects to arrive at an understanding of basic communication and design principles. Offered every semester. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Listed also as CAS 237.

Prerequisite(s): ART 208 and sophomore standing.

ART 254 - Typography

Typographic forms are explored in relation to their visual and verbal meanings. Class projects explore historical, artistic, and technical aspects of typography. Offered every fall. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 318 - Graphic Design II

Experiments in visual communication challenge the student to further refine their individual visual thinking through applied problems. The importance of exploration and flexibility of approach is stressed at this level. Through experimentation, the problem is defined and organized and awareness of potential solutions is increased. The development of the student's portfolio is introduced. Offered every spring. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 330 - Motion Graphics

This project-oriented class explores the art of designing for time and space. It draws on theory from traditional animation, cinema, and the growing field of moving type. Students will learn the fundamentals of Adobe Flash as they develop their projects. Offered every spring. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 208 or consent of the instructor.

ART 357 - Art as Social Action

Study of the theory and practice of graphic design as a social action. Students will read literary and nonliterary texts aimed at social transformation; meet with local social service organizations to study their mission, activities, and needs; and work in collaboration with students from ENGL 335 to develop materials needed to promote and raise funds for one or more of these organizations. This course requires off-campus service hours. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 208, ART 240 and sophomore standing.

ART 413 - Graphic Design III

In this project-oriented class, emphasis is placed on the research and development aspects of assignments to further advance the student's portfolio. Stress is placed on working in a collaborative group, while maintaining an individual approach to creative problem solving. Presentation skills are also emphasized. Offered every fall. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 318

Art and Design: Photography Courses

ART 210 - Beginning Black-and-White Photography

This course provides a comprehensive introduction to black-and-white darkroom photography. Technical fundamentals will be emphasized in class demonstrations, assignments, and critiques. The course places importance on visual literacy, by articulating the mediated image and its effect on the conduct of our lives. Camera assignments extend sensory experiences and their capacity to be perceived graphically. 35mm SLR cameras are available for check-out for enrolled students. Offered every fall and spring. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ART 230 - Beginning Color Photography

This beginning course emphasizes the camera experience to perceive visible color as an aesthetic, descriptive, and narrative tool. Camera assignments and classroom lectures negotiate principles of color theory. The course does not require a filmless camera but the Mac OSX platform and Adobe Photoshop are introduced as the primary tool for color management, output, and archiving resource. Photography majors are expected to provide their own DSLR camera for subsequent courses. Otherwise cameras are available for check-out for enrolled students. Offered every fall and spring. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ART 315 - Darkroom Practices

Experimentation with film, print, and darkroom chemistry is emphasized as the student works toward the production of the archival, exhibition-quality print matching his or her vision. Assignments develop personal aesthetic and independent thought. Offered in the spring. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 343 - Digital Darkroom

The digital workspace is addressed as a place to create the archival, museum-quality print and published book. Advanced topics include RAW file workflow and color management from screen to print. Students will produce a portfolio of color and monochromatic prints as well as an online digital publication. Camera assignments extend ideas discussed in ART 230 - Beginning Color Photography and can be executed with either digital or film SLRs. Experimentation with a variety of print media will be expected. Emphasis is placed on portfolio development and is recommended for students ready to work on a concentrated body of work over the course of a semester. Offered in the fall. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

ART 356 - Special Topics: On Location

This photography elective examines the role of location in generating camera images. It requires the student to work outdoors, in open air, and to travel to locations independently. Contextualized initially in the Romantic definition of Nature, the categorizations of landscape, site-specific, and topographic expand the notion of picturing a contemporary environment. Projects explore sequence, duration, and seriality. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 210 or ART 230

ART 359 - Photojournalism

(3 hours)

Listed also as CAS 349.

ART 405 - Light and Camera

Images are conceived by the student and guided by the instructor. Added considerations of artificial light and camera format are considered with assignments requiring further previsualization at the time of camera exposure. Students use both photoflood and strobe lights. Medium- and large-format cameras are introduced. Students are encouraged to buy their own flash unit. Offered in the spring. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ART 210 or ART 230

ART 395 - Interdisciplinary Practices

This open-media course addresses the origin of ideas as well as the organization and process required to initiate an art practice. It is meant to serve as a primer to the ART 445 - Senior Thesis course required of all studio majors in the art and design department. Participants are expected to experiment in a variety of media, entertain competing solutions, including those in related disciplines, when the investigative process leads to them. (3 hours)

ART 445 - Senior Thesis

Required of all studio majors. Students work toward developing a cohesive body of work to be shown in their senior thesis art exhibit. Students also develop a resume and written statement articulating their work. This course consists of several group critiques held over the spring semester with faculty members of the art department. Offered every spring. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing

ART 450 - Independent Study

Advanced work in the student's major area of concentration to be carried out independently with a faculty advisor. (1-4 hours)

ART 455 - Internship

A student of junior or senior standing may arrange for an internship in his or her own major field of concentration, subject to the approval of the art faculty. (1-8 hours)

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

ART 495 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation will culminate in a conference presentation, journal article or other creative/scholarly project. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Art History

The Art History program is designed to expose students to a history of visual expression that includes different time periods, cultures, and media with a special emphasis on modern and contemporary art history, criticism, and theory. It also emphasizes critical thinking through discourse with works of art and artists made available to the Dominican community through the art department and O'Connor Art Gallery and supplemented by visits to Chicago art museums and galleries.

The Art History program is committed to offering students a broadly based knowledge of art history while preparing them for experiences and careers that may include graduate school, teaching, art writing, art conservation, or art auction houses, gallery, or museum work. Other goals of the program include instilling a deepened cultural awareness, an appreciation of art's relationship to social, political, religious, and ideological contexts, and a significant understanding of the discursive nature of the field of art history.

Art History - B.A.

Foundation Core Requirements:

Foundation courses are meant to expose students to a variety of approaches and philosophies of art making and are anchored in an understanding of art history through lecture and seminar courses.

Students are advised to complete all 100-level courses as early as possible and follow closely with 200-level courses, and other art history electives.

Foundation Core - Art Classes

Complete three of the following art courses (9 hours)

- ART 102 - Introduction to Sculpture
- ART 105 - Fundamentals of Drawing
- Either ART 200 - Painting Marathon: The Landscape, ART 224 - Painting I: Color and Light, or ART 270 - Printmaking I
- Either ART 210 - Beginning Black-and-White Photography or ART 230 - Beginning Color Photography

Foundation Core - Art History Classes

Complete the following Art History Courses (12 hours)

- ARTH 190 - Survey of Art History 1: Ancient to Medieval
- ARTH 191 - Survey of Art History 2: Renaissance to Contemporary
- ARTH 250 - History of Modernist and Contemporary Art
- ARTH 419 - Contemporary Art Capstone

Major Requirements (24 hours):

- Six art history electives-any art history course beyond the required courses may count as an elective.
 - One three-credit internship may count as an elective with prior permission of the program. In addition, courses with an art historical component when the emphasis is art and certain classes as part of study abroad programs, such as the Rome Interim program, may also apply with prior permission of the program.

- Students may only count either ARTH 265 or ARTH 267 toward the major, not both.
- At least one art history elective (not including ARTH 419, ARTH 446, ARTH 450, ARTH 455) should be at the 300-level or above.
- At least one art history elective should be from one of the following areas: Ancient, Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, or non-Western (with approval).
- ARTH 446 - Senior Thesis Art History
- ENGL 345 - Advanced Academic Writing

Additional Requirements:

Study of a modern foreign language through the intermediate level (course 202 or equivalent). With approval of the program, students may substitute one year each of two different languages to fulfill this requirement. Students who are considering graduate school in art history may be advised to take at least one year of German.

A minimum of 18 hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican. This must include ARTH 446.

Recommendations:

Students should attempt to choose non-art history electives that will inform the topic of their senior thesis. These will include courses beyond those courses taken to fulfill core area requirements and whenever possible, at the 200-level or above. These might include American studies, communication arts and sciences (particularly film-related courses), history, philosophy, or sociology.

Art History Minor

Minor Requirements (18 hours):

Required Courses:

- ARTH 190 - Survey of Art History 1: Ancient to Medieval
- ARTH 191 - Survey of Art History 2: Renaissance to Contemporary
- Four art history electives.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of nine hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Art History Courses

ARTH 190 - Survey of Art History 1: Ancient to Medieval

An introductory-level survey of world art and its relationship to the development of humanity and societies from the prehistoric period through the medieval period. Usually offered every fall semester. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 191 - Survey of Art History 2: Renaissance to Contemporary

An introductory-level survey of world art and its relationship to social, political, religious, and economic contexts from the seventeenth to the twenty-first centuries. Usually offered every spring semester. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 195 - Introduction to Contemporary Art

Looking at art made primarily during your lifetime, we will investigate what contemporary art is, especially the prevalence of technology, themes related to sex and sexuality, and materialism by looking at and talking about some of the most well-known artists, such as Takashi Murakami animated a Kanye West video and Eduardo Kac crossed the genes of a jellyfish with a rabbit and created a bunny that glows in the dark. Many artists create controversial art through the materials they use—such as encrusting a human skull with diamonds (Damien Hirst) making it the most expensive art work ever made or affixing elephant dung to a painting of the Madonna (Chris Ofili). Still other artists make art that addresses contemporary issues: Vik Muniz photographs people who must forage garbage dumps in order to survive and Betsy Damon makes art that purifies water. Assignments include an art review, short papers, and discussions. This class also features on-campus events such as an art opening, an art class critique, and artist lecture. There are also additional opportunities to attend an art fair, a field trip to the Museum of Contemporary Art, and art events in the city. No art or art history background is needed for this course—it is designed for anyone who wants to learn how to look at the images around them and understand their impact on society and themselves.

May not be taken concurrently with ARTH 419 - Contemporary Art Capstone. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior and senior art or art history majors must have permission of instructor to enroll.

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 198 - Marking Art Inspired by Writing

This course is a workshop for artists. In it, we will explore artworks, artist statements, and writings about art—art historical, critical, and creative—to inspire our own art. For instance, we will analyze various poems about Grecian urns (including the famous Keats ode), research the qualities of Grecian ceramics, and then use this knowledge to create artwork on the subject. In another exercise, after studying minimalist artist Donald Judd, we will use his "Specific Objects" essay as a basis for creating a version of a minimalist work. Other projects will use actual text as the basis of the work (for instance, using "erasure" to create a work uniting image and text) and facilitate creation. We will also do simple collaborative work, such as a group drip painting, a group poem (in which each student writes a sentence about the same subject and we combine them into one poem). Students will be responsible for presenting information on at least one artist and/or writer or art/writing subject during the semester. Ideally, the final project will be a collaborative work between pairs of artist and writers. A final portfolio of work by each individual will be due at the end of class. The course includes gallery/museum visit(s), art reviews, and some collaboration with a writing class in the English department. Although focused on visual art and creative writing, we will also look at other arts—such as music, theater, and film—in the course as well. Since the course is meant to be generative rather than critique-oriented, there will be little in-class revising, but students are encouraged to revise and rework their pieces with the input of peers and faculty for the final portfolio. No prior art or art history knowledge is necessary to enroll in this course. (3 hours)

This course satisfies the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 205 - Greek and Roman Art

This course will examine the visual forms that were part of the foundations of Western Civilization. Focusing on classical painting, sculpture and architecture, this examination of the ancient world will cover Greek art from the Bronze Age through the 5th century BCE and the ancient Mediterranean world until the fall of the Roman Empire in the 5th century CE. The class will include discussion of literature, philosophy, and politics as well as conceptualizations of democracy, republic, and empire. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 215 - Medieval Art

This course will survey the development of painting, sculpture and architecture from approximately 650 to 1200 CE. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 225 - Renaissance Art

A survey of Northern and Southern Renaissance art tracing the development from 14th to the end of the 16th centuries. The Renaissance was a seminal era in the history of art not only due to its philosophical, political, and social foundations, but because art and artists were important contributors to this era. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 235 - Baroque Art

This course will examine visual art of the Baroque era (c.1600-1700) in Southern and Northern Europe from a variety of perspectives or ways of seeing. Class lectures will take a biographical/chronological approach to exploring the lives and works of leading Baroque artists in Italy, Spain, Flanders, England, the Dutch Republic, and France. (3 hours)

This course satisfies the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 250 - History of Modernist and Contemporary Art

This course will present a history of modern art in Europe and the United States by surveying major movements and highlighting important moments of aesthetic development from the late 19th century to the present. The semester goal is to create a coherent context within which to introduce, through lectures and readings, artists and themes, while recognizing the diverse character of the art of this period. We will examine popular movements such as Impressionism, well-known periods such as Abstract Expressionism, and redefining types of art known as performance, body, and earthworks. In addition, we will explore how the art of the past 150 years was often produced by men and women reacting to events or conditions occurring in their lifetimes, such as world wars or sexual liberation. The class emphasizes painting and sculpture but will include some discussion of photography, design, mixed media, ready-made, and other types of art produced during this era. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 265 - History of 20th-Century Photography

Survey course covering the major figures, themes, and images of the past century. Photography is addressed as an art form, democratic tool and as a device that significantly affected the course of human life in the 20th century. Usually offered every fall semester. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 267 - History of Graphic Design

Survey course covering the significant events, influences, individuals, and movements in visual communication design. The cultural, political, and economic impact of design on society is examined. Usually offered every spring semester. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement. Offered every spring.

ARTH 294 - Native-American Art

A selective survey of Indigenous North American art that includes sculpture, painting, architecture, performance, and personal decoration as it applies in variety of social contexts such as ceremony, politics, domestic arenas, cross-cultural exchanges, colonialism, post-colonialism, and the international art world. Covering a span from ancient through contemporary times, this class focuses on the historical and cultural contexts of the arts and the stylistic differences between tribal and individual artists' styles, particularly in relation to the formation of personal and national identities. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement and the multicultural requirement.

ARTH 295 - Latin American Art

This course reviews Latin American art and architecture by engaging in a survey of these media from pre-Columbian times to present. The survey begins in 1500BC with a look at how and why the ancient Olmec culture of modern-day Mexico created colossal heads of volcanic stone. Next, the indigenous arts from the ancient Maya, Aztec, and Inca are examined in order to understand how art created powerful political and religious statements. Among the topics discussed are ritualized feasting, warfare and human sacrifice. The analysis continues with a discussion of how 16th century Spanish ideologies and artistic programs changed modes of representation and created a new art style in which indigenous and European modes of expression intermingle. The course culminates with a look at the work of influential modern and contemporary Latin American artists and their art as a means to visualize and discuss today's sociopolitical concerns. (3 hours)

Listed also as LLAS 295

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

ARTH 296 - African Art

An introduction to the ancient and traditional arts of Africa. This class explores the ideas and notions expressed visually in sculpture, painting, ceramics, textiles, and architecture and describes their relationships to man and culture in Africa. Students will embark on a general socio-cultural survey of the traditional arts of African ethnic groups, which include the ritual of art, art-making, and artworks as well as the social and political texts of art in city-states, chiefdoms, and rural settings. Includes traditional genres as well as postcolonial and contemporary art in Africa. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 327

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

ARTH 297 - Asian Art

An introduction to the arts of South, Southeast, and East Asia. This class explores the objects, monuments, culture, and histories of important modern-day countries such as China, India, and Japan. Discusses works in a variety of media and their relation to social, spiritual, and political contexts. The objective is to gain an understanding of the many cultures of this region while learning how to critically analyze visual culture. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement and the multicultural requirement.

ARTH 315 - Issues in Medieval Art

Through focused readings, case studies, and independent research projects, students will explore in depth a specific aspect of Medieval art. Students may repeat this course number for credit as long as the topic differs. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 320 - Issues in Renaissance Art

Through focused readings, case studies, and independent research projects, students will explore in depth a specific aspect of Northern or Southern Renaissance art. Students may repeat this course number for credit as long as the topic differs. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 329 - Special Topics in Art History

Art history electives offered on a rotating basis might include courses such as History of American Art, Women Artists of the 19th and 20th Centuries, Frank Lloyd Wright, or History of Modern Architecture. Students may repeat this course for credit as long as the topic is different each year. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 354 - Writing Arts Criticism Practicum

This course will explore arts criticism through hands-on critical analysis and writing practice through visits to local galleries and cultural events. Students will work together and edit one another's work in this seminar-style writing workshop. The final project will be a publication of collected reviews. The goal of the course is to prepare students for critical analysis review writing in professional arts and culture publications. $25 course fee to cover museum admissions. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 355 - Museum Studies Practicum

An investigation of the concept, workings, and theory of museum practice and a rare opportunity for behind-the-scenes visits to local museums for the purpose of debating the relevance, necessity, and effectiveness of different ways of exhibiting objects. Topics in this seminar-style discussion will include conservation, blockbuster exhibitions, racial divisions in museum attendance, exhibition styles, labeling of exhibited objects, art forgeries and theft, and the appropriation of cultural treasures from one nation to another. The final project will be to design an exhibition of the student's choosing. $100 course fee to cover museum admissions and tour costs. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 355

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 356 - The Politics of Display: Race, Class, and Memory in the Museum

This course provides an in-depth investigation into the theory and practice of museums, especially the moral, ethical, and philosophical choices that inform the methodology of museum collection and display. From the beginning of the modern museum, which evolved from "curiosity cabinets" and private assortments of objects of random or personal interest to historical monuments and sites of memory, this course surveys museum history to examine how the museum's function has changed over time and across boundaries. Through case studies and course readings about all types of museums—including science, art, natural history, and ethnographic—we will contextualize the trends that have influenced the museum's organizational structures, outreach, and collection strategies, as well as its changing role and relationship to its public. We will pay particular attention to the ethical dilemmas inherent in appropriating objects, particularly those from other cultures, and to the challenges of serving as an educational agent and/or site of national preservation or pride as some museums, monuments, and historic sites do. We will also explore how new technologies have changed museums, particularly with the inclusion of interactive elements, beyond the usual loaded history and controversy inherent in museum labels and wall text. (3 hours)

ARTH 357-359 - Special Topics in Museum Studies

These courses are intended to explore the museum and gallery profession in a specialized and focused manner. Such courses may include Arts Management, Exhibition Preparation, and in-depth explorations of exhibition theory. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 385 - Issues in American Art: Abstract Expressionism and the Art of the 1940s and 1950s

This course explores the first American art movement that reached international significance. Students will learn to identify the artists who forged this movement, analyze the formal elements of their paintings, and approach the movement through a number of theoretical perspectives that will illustrate more complicated aspects of the era such as: the particular qualities of the art movement that consisted primarily of immigrants or sons/daughters of immigrants, the rise of art criticism in America at the time, and the export of a national American identity through the eventual embrace of the art by citizens and the US government. Although the recognized artists of this style were primarily white, heterosexual males, this class will also discuss how artists of color, women, and artist of different sexual orientations contributed to it as well. A seminar-style class, the majority of reading and discussion will consist of criticism, artist statements, and essays designed to explain the era or call it into question. There will be short analysis papers and one large research paper. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 386 - Issues in American Art: Vietnam War-Era Art and Culture

This seminar will present major trends in art from approximately 1960-1975. Focusing on major movements such as pop art, minimalism, body art, happenings, fluxus, performance art, earthworks and conceptual art, the goal for this course is to create a coherent context within which to introduce artists and themes while forging a discussion that recognizes the revolutionary character of the era. (Formerly ARTH 298.) (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 387 - Monuments to Memory: Memorialization in American Culture

This course explores memorialization in America, especially the increasing need we seem to have as a society to commemorate and memorialize all kinds of personal and national tragedies. By looking at the kinds of memorials we create and analyzing their design, we will gain insight into what could arguably be called our "wound culture," that is, our desire to make public and bear witness our grief. This course also looks at the interconnectedness of trauma, memory, and place and examines the manner in which memorialization influences our collective memory of events. (3 hours)

This course satisfies the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 388 - Art, Science, and Making Art out of Living Things

Contemporary artists are increasingly using scientific techniques, laboratory processes, and living things for making art. This work incorporates microbiology, the physical sciences, information technologies, human biology and living systems, kinetics, and robotics-and comments upon such diverse issues as eugenics, environmental issues, and artificial intelligence. We will look at the development and history of this kind of artmaking, as well as specific works and artists, such as: Eduardo Kac, who spliced the genes of a bunny with those of a phosphorescent frog, producing "Alba" who glows in the dark; Damien Hirst, who creates an artwork out of a decaying cow head so that it breeds maggots and flies; Mel Chin, who creates "Revival Field" on a toxic site using plants that clean the soil. What are the artistic, scientific, and social preconditions that have made this kind of science-based art conceptually and technologically possible? How does this type of art critique the cultural, philosophical, and social questions related to scientific and technological research. What are the possible dangers posed by biotechnological advancement? For instance, what are the ethical issues related to using someone's DNA as art? How does this art call the concept of "nature" itself into question? While the primary focus of the class is contemporary BioArt: art that uses living materials (such as bacteria, blood, plants and animals) as its medium in techniques that involve transformative genetics, toxic waste cleanup, or biotechnological practices, it will include any art that collaborates art and science and challenges us to think about the ethics of such artwork. Assignments include reading, discussion, papers, presentations, and creation of our own hypothetical artworks. (3 hours)

This course satisfies the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 389 - It Costs How Much!?! The Economics Behind the Art World

Recently, a number of artworks have sold in excess of $100,000,000. Many works by living and dead artists routinely sell for more than $1,000,000. This class looks at the art market-artists, galleries, sellers, collectors, auction houses-in order to understand how art acquires its social and commercial values. Some questions we explore: What is art worth? How can artworks be sold for millions of dollars? What kind of investment is an artwork? Why are Hollywood celebrities now some of the biggest collectors of contemporary art? How is the art market tied to the economy (for instance, the demise of galleries and decline in sales after the 2008 economic crisis)? How has art worked its way into fashion (Takashi Murakami's partnership with Louis Vuitton)? How is art related to luxury or critiques of luxury (such as the kitsch work of Jeff Koons or the diamond encrusted human skull created by Damien Hirst)? What about forgeries and scams (for instance, like the one revealed in the recent movie "Big Eyes")? How does the art market "market" itself? If it is true that art increases in value after an artist's death, do the artist or his/her descendants ever reap the profits? How do you tell if an artist's work is going to maintain or increase in value? What is the cultural value of art vs. its price tag? (3 hours)

This course satisfies the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 395 - Special Topics in Art History

Art history electives offered on a rotating basis might include courses such as Neo-classical Art, History of American Art, Women Artists of the 19th and 20th Centuries, Frank Lloyd Wright, or History of Modern Architecture. Students may repeat this course number for credit as long as the topic is different. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

ARTH 419 - Contemporary Art Capstone

This seminar explores and critiques artists from the late 1970s to the present. This course will investigate how politics, social issues, critical theories, and technology have influenced the art world, which has become increasingly pluralistic. Issues of race, gender, identity, appropriation, trauma, and memory will be discussed. Non-art or non-art-history majors or minors may enroll but should seek the consent of the instructor prior to enrollment. All art and art history majors and minors should only take this course after most other art history requirements have been completed. (Formerly ARTH 319.) (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102, ARTH 190, ARTH 191, at least one 200- or 300-level art history course, and junior or senior standing, or consent of the instructor.

ARTH 446 - Senior Thesis Art History

Required of all art history majors after all or almost all of their art history courses are completed. An extensive research paper and public presentation on an approved topic that demonstrates the students' knowledge of art history, critical and analytical skills, and ability to sustain in-depth research on a focused project. The goal is to prepare students for writing art historical articles and giving professional presentations and/or application to graduate school. The art history advisor will determine if the student has completed sufficient course work and requirements to enroll in this course. Students should only take this course when they have completed most of their course work in art history. Students who have not completed ARTH 419 and ENGL 345 will only be allowed to enroll with their art history advisor's consent. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ARTH 419, ENGL 345, and senior standing, or consent of instructor. Art history majors only.

ARTH 450 - Independent Study

Advanced work in the student's major area of concentration to be carried out independently with the art history faculty advisor. (1-4 hours)

ARTH 455 - Internship

A student may arrange for an internship that relates to the art history field with the approval of the art history faculty advisor. Such internships may include any volunteer or paid position related to the field of art history, such as a research assistant, working in an art gallery, or being involved in any aspect of a museum. Up to 3 credits may apply as one art history elective toward the major. (1-8 hours)

Biology

This curriculum is structured to provide a broad base of knowledge in the biological sciences and collateral areas as well as to allow the student to best prepare for his or her chosen field of work in the biological or health sciences or in biology education. Courses offered for students not majoring in biology are designed to give a fundamental understanding of selected areas of biology, particularly as they relate to human health and disease.

Biology - B.S.

Major Requirements:

Required Biology Courses:

Ten biology courses of at least 3 semester hours each.

A minimum grade of C- in BIOL 112 is required for admission to all biology courses numbered 240 or higher.

- BIOL 111 - General Biology I or the equivalent
- BIOL 112 - General Biology II or the equivalent
- BIOL 240 - Genetics
- BIOL 397 - Evolution

Complete one of the following two courses:

- BIOL 298 - Research Methods in Molecular Biology
- BIOL 352 - Molecular and Cellular Biology
- Five additional courses numbered 200 or higher.

Additional Required Courses:

Complete the following collateral courses as part of the biology major:

- CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II

Complete one of the following course pairs:

- PHYS 211 - College Physics I and
- PHYS 212 - College Physics II

or

- PHYS 221 - University Physics I and
- PHYS 222 - University Physics II

Additional Requirements:

- At least seven of the courses must have a laboratory, and no more than 4 credit hours may be in independent research.
- A minimum of five courses in biology must be completed at Dominican.
- A minimum grade of C- must be earned in all courses required for the major.
- Interested freshmen and transfer students should consult with the department for placement information prior to registration.
- Upon completion of a biology course in residence with a minimum grade of C-, the student should have a major application signed by a member of the department, who will then serve as his or her advisor.

- All students intending to earn a major in biology are required to complete a comprehensive biology examination in their final semester prior to graduation. To facilitate the administration of this requirement, all biology students must register for BIOL 475 in their final semester. Students must earn a passing score on the examination to qualify for graduation with a biology major.

Optional Concentrations

Students may choose to complete one of the following concentrations as part of the biology major:

Health Sciences

Advanced biology electives must include:

- BIOL 351 - Advanced Human Anatomy
- BIOL 361 - Advanced Human Physiology

and two of the following courses:

- BIOL 260 - Introduction to Human Pathophysiology
- BIOL 264 - Parasitology
- BIOL 310 - Microbiology
- BIOL 371 - Developmental Biology
- BIOL 382 - Immunology
- BIOL 388 - Endocrinology
- BIOL 394 - Cell Biology

Molecular/Cellular Biology

Students must complete both

- BIOL 298 - Research Methods in Molecular Biology
- BIOL 352 - Molecular and Cellular Biology .

Advanced biology electives must include:

- BIOL 394 - Cell Biology

and two of the following courses:

- CHEM 360 - Biochemistry
- BIOL 273 - Neurobiology
- BIOL 371 - Developmental Biology
- BIOL 382 - Immunology

Students are also required to complete 1 or 2 credit hours of research through completion of the appropriate level of an Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation course or through course intensification in one of the courses listed above.

Ecology/Organismal Biology

Advanced biology electives must include:

- BIOL 299 - Ecology
- BIOL 310 - Microbiology
- BIOL 320 - Advanced Topics in Botany

One course from:

- BIOL 264 - Parasitology

- BIOL 288 - Invertebrate Zoology
One course from
- BIOL 268 - Animal Behavior
- BIOL 272 - Comparative Animal Physiology
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics is strongly recommended.

Additional Information:

The following collateral courses are recommended for those intending to attend graduate or professional school:

- CHEM 360 - Biochemistry
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics

Majors in biology earn the Bachelor of Science degree.

Cooperative Biology Courses at the Morton Arboretum and the Shedd Aquarium

As part of its participation in the program of the Associated Colleges of the Chicago Area, Dominican University offers credit for cooperative courses given in selected biological topics at the Morton Arboretum and at the Shedd Aquarium as well as for cooperative seminar courses in advanced topics in biology. These courses are often taught by guest lecturers who are experts in the subject. Because the cooperative course topics vary from year to year, interested students should consult the biology faculty for course and registration information.

Independent Research

Advanced students are encouraged to do original research either at Dominican or at neighboring institutions. Hours are arranged after consultation with individual faculty members.

Biology Education

Teacher Licensure: Secondary Education

Students who wish to teach biology in grades 9 through 12 complete a major in biology and they complete the School of Education's Teacher Education Program for secondary licensure.

Biology Requirements

- Students complete the biology major as described above

Teacher Education Program

- Professional education courses including EDUC 400 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Science in Middle and Secondary Schools
- Three state tests: the Test of Academic Proficiency, the Elementary/Middle Grades content test, and the grades K-9 Assessment of Professional Teaching
- 100 hours of field experience
- Professional portfolio
- Clinical Practice (one full semester) in a middle or secondary school classroom

For more information about 6-12 licensure, see the School of Education section of this bulletin.

Biology Minor

Minor Requirements:

Six biology courses of at least three semester hours each, including BIOL 111 and BIOL 112 or the equivalent. At least four of the courses must have a laboratory and only one may be in independent research. A minimum of three courses in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

A minimum grade of C- must be earned in all courses required for the minor. Interested students should consult with the department prior to registration.

Biology Courses

BIOL 111 - General Biology I

The first semester of this two-semester course sequence includes historical development of the theory of evolution, molecular and cellular biology, animal tissue structure, and animal organ systems. This course is intended primarily for science and pre-medical majors. Lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hours). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and the laboratory concurrently; the laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture. (3 hours, 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): High school biology and placement into MATH 120 or higher.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

BIOL 112 - General Biology II

Topics covered in General Biology II include taxonomy and evolution, surveys of the plant and animal kingdoms, development, genetics, and ecology. This course is intended primarily for science and pre-medical majors. A minimum grade of C- in Biology 112 is required for admission to all biology courses numbered 240 or higher. Lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hours). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and the laboratory concurrently; the laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture. (3 hours, 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111 with a minimum grade of C- or higher.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

BIOL 120 - Medical Terminology

A study of the structure of medical terms, emphasizing analysis and understanding of word parts and word roots. Terms used to describe selected body systems will be studied and clinical applications described. Lecture. Course does not count toward the biology or biology-chemistry major. (3 hours)

BIOL 152 - Human Anatomy and Physiology I

This is the first semester of the two-semester course sequence BIOL 152/BIOL 252, designed primarily for pre-nursing and nutritional science students. The material of BIOL 152 includes an introduction to the integumentary, skeletal, muscular, and nervous systems. Course does not count toward the biology or the biology-chemistry major. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): High school biology and either CHEM 101 or CHEM 120.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

BIOL 160 - Elementary Microbiology

An introduction to basic and applied microbiological topics and techniques. Designed primarily for nutrition science and pre-nursing students. Course does not count toward the biology or the biology-chemistry major. Laboratory meets twice weekly and will emphasize handling of bacteria. Lecture and laboratory. Course fee applies. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 120 or a higher-level mathematics course; CHEM 101 or CHEM 120.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

BIOL 200 - Advanced Biomedical Research Methods

Provides hands-on lab experiences designed to introduce the next generation of scientists to the problems and techniques relevant to the growing, high-tech discipline of biomedical innovation. Students seeking advanced research opportunities will be advised by expert researchers from relevant but diverse disciplines. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Permission of post-baccalaureate premedical program director.

BIOL 240 - Genetics

Principles of heredity and variation, including classical and biochemical studies. Special emphasis on accurately presenting the results of laboratory work in research papers. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111 and BIOL 112 with a minimum grade of C-.

BIOL 252 - Human Anatomy and Physiology II

This is the second semester of the two-semester course sequence BIOL 152-252, designed primarily for nutrition science and pre-nursing students. The material of BIOL 252 covers the human cardiovascular, digestive, respiratory, and urinary systems. Course does not count toward the biology or the biology-chemistry major. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 152 with a minimum grade of C-.

BIOL 260 - Introduction to Human Pathophysiology

Underlying molecular mechanisms and causes of altered physiological states of the human body are covered. Major concepts emphasized in the course include maintenance of acid-base and body fluid balances, oxygenations, neuro-endocrine regulation and control, immune defense mechanisms, cardiovascular mechanisms, and aging. Critical-thinking and problem-solving techniques will be used to study the interaction of body systems in the development of various disease states. This course is designed for allied health practitioners and pre-professional students. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 104 or CHEM 120; BIOL 252 or BIOL 361 (or concurrent enrollment in BIOL 252 or BIOL 361).

BIOL 264 - Parasitology

Biological relationships seen in the parasitic mode of life, with emphasis on the protozoan and invertebrate parasites of man. Lecture. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111 and BIOL 112 or consent of the instructor.

BIOL 268 - Animal Behavior

In this course we study the proximate and ultimate causes of animal behavior from an evolutionary perspective. Topics include foraging strategies, social competition, sexual selection, mating systems, cooperation, and social organization. The laboratory will include multi-week experiments designed to test hypotheses. Students will build aptitude in data analysis and interpretation, and close reading of the primary literature. Field trips required. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Listed also as NEUR 268.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112.

BIOL 272 - Comparative Animal Physiology

An introduction to the similarities and unique differences in physiology across the animal kingdom. Emphasis on the comparative nervous, endocrine, muscular, circulatory, respiratory, and excretory system. Lecture. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112, and either CHEM 101 or CHEM 120.

BIOL 273 - Neurobiology

This course explores the cellular and biochemical principles of neural function. Topics include: the structure and function of ion channels, intracellular signaling pathways, and the genetic regulation of neural function. (4 hours)

Listed also as NEUR 273.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112, and either CHEM 104 or CHEM 253.

BIOL 288 - Invertebrate Zoology

Invertebrates constitute more than 97% of all animal species on Earth. In this course, we explore the evolutionary history of invertebrates and how anatomical, physiological, and behavioral traits evolved as adaptations for specific terrestrial, aquatic, and/or marine environments. We examine certain taxa in greater detail to address major concepts in biology; this is done in conjunction with article discussions and laboratory exercises that involve a variety of approaches in both the lab and field. Field trips required. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112.

BIOL 298 - Research Methods in Molecular Biology

An introduction to research methods drawn from molecular biology and molecular genetics, with emphasis on design, execution, and interpretation of experimental techniques. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 240 and CHEM 120.

BIOL 299 - Ecology

Ecology is the study of the interactions between organisms and their environment. This course provides a background in the fundamental principles of ecological science, including concepts of natural selection, population and community ecology, and biodiversity. Students will build aptitude in data analysis and interpretation, and close reading of the primary literature. Field trips required. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112.

BIOL 310 - Microbiology

Structure, physiology, metabolism and identification of microorganisms. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 240, CHEM 253 (or concurrent enrollment in CHEM 253)

BIOL 320 - Advanced Topics in Botany

TAUGHT AT THE MORTON ARBORETUM

Course topics in botany vary on a semester basis. Interested students should consult with the biology faculty for information on course topics. Course may be repeated as topics vary. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112, and consent of instructor.

BIOL 351 - Advanced Human Anatomy

The course is an in-depth study of the anatomy of human organ systems at the molecular, cellular, and tissue levels. The components are presented using lecture, discussion, and laboratory. The laboratories involve methods and techniques that have a relationship to clinical procedures and practices. Dissection of animal specimens and human cadavers to aid in identification of important anatomical structures and their relation to physiological function. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 240 and junior standing.

BIOL 352 - Molecular and Cellular Biology

This is an advanced course in modern molecular and cellular biology. Students will explore DNA, RNA, and protein at both the theoretical and applied levels. Laboratory techniques will include DNA electrophoresis, polymerase chain reaction (PCR), DNA restriction analysis, RNA isolation and analysis, gene cloning, cell culture, and immunocytochemistry. A strong background in biology and chemistry is recommended. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 240 and either CHEM 104 or CHEM 253.

BIOL 353 - Marine Mammalogy

Study of the distribution, feeding habits, behavior, and classification of marine mammals. Published research studies of the physiology and reproduction of marine mammals will also be reviewed. Students will observe natural behaviors of the animals, study methods of enriching the aquarium environment, and conduct behavioral research. This course is taught at the John G. Shedd Aquarium. Lecture and fieldwork. (4 hours)

BIOL 356 - Marine Island Ecology of the Bahamas

This course covers basic principles and field techniques for study of both marine and land animals that will be observed on the field trip to the Exuma Islands of the Caribbean Sea. Contact the biology department for information and special application. Lecture and fieldwork. This course is taught at the John G. Shedd Aquarium. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112, and consent of department.

BIOL 357 - Freshwater Ecology

Investigate the relationships between water, animals, plants, and humans using the Shedd Aquarium as your laboratory. This course will introduce students to the components of a freshwater habitat and a survey of the plants and animals that exist there. Visit Shedd's Local Waters gallery and participate in animal encounters to get an up-close look at the subjects you are studying. Two field trips will connect you to this habitat and the impacts you can have on it. Conclude the course by conducting a project to further investigate your connection to freshwater environments and increase your research skills. (3 hours)

BIOL 361 - Advanced Human Physiology

An in-depth study of the physiologic mechanisms and regulation of selected organ systems focusing on the integration of the nervous, endocrine, muscular, cardiovascular, respiratory, and renal systems. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 394 and BIOL 351 (formerly BIOL 261) with a minimum grade of C-; PHYS 212 or PHYS 222 or concurrent enrollment; and CHEM 254 or concurrent enrollment; or consent.

BIOL 370 - Functional Neuroanatomy

The basis of this course provides introduction to the anatomy and function of the human brain and nervous system. Students will experience a hands-on examination of human cadaver brains. Lectures will emphasize the gross structures of the lobes, brainstem and cranial nerves. Brain models and histological as well as pathological specimens will be studied. Clinical cases involving neoplasms and neurological disorders will be discussed. The course will aim to integrate basic neuroanatomy and neuroscience through lecture and lab work.

(3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Neuroscience majors or post-baccalaureate medical students who have completed either BIOL 273 or BIOL 351; or consent.

BIOL 371 - Developmental Biology

Animal development with emphasis on vertebrates. Topics range from gametogenesis to organ system development, with emphasis on genetic control. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 240 and junior or senior standing.

BIOL 382 - Immunology

Survey of the immune system of vertebrates with emphasis on biological and chemical aspects of immunity. Lecture. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 240, CHEM 253, CHEM 254 (or concurrent enrollment).

BIOL 388 - Endocrinology

An introduction to the vertebrate endocrine system. Topics include mechanisms of hormone action, the endocrine glands and the secretion and effects of vertebrate hormones. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 394 and CHEM 254; or consent.

BIOL 394 - Cell Biology

Relationship of molecular and structural organization of the cell to growth, reproduction, and function. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 240, CHEM 120, and CHEM 121 (or concurrent enrollment in CHEM 121).

BIOL 397 - Evolution

Introduction to mechanics and processes of evolution, with emphasis on natural selection, phylogenetics, population genetics, speciation, evolutionary rates, and patterns of adaptation. Experimental design and reading of primary scientific literature are stressed. Through the course, emphasis is placed on integration of all biological disciplines under the paradigm of evolution. Field trips required. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 240 and senior biology or environmental science majors, or consent.

BIOL 450 - Independent Study

(1-3 hours)

BIOL 455 - Internship

(1-8 hours)

BIOL 456 - Advanced Topics in Biology

Course may be given in conjunction with lecture series offered by the Associated Colleges of Chicago Area. (1 or 3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112, and consent of science faculty.

BIOL 475 - Comprehensive Assessment for Biology Majors

Registration in this course is required of all biology majors in their final semester of coursework prior to graduation. A passing grade on the Biology Major Field Test is required of students graduating with a major in biology. (0 hours)

BIOL 491 - Medical Law and Ethics

This course covers legal relationships of physicians and patients, contractual agreements, professional liability, malpractice, medical practice acts, informed consent and bioethical issues. Emphasis is placed on legal terms, professional and patient attitudes and the principles and basic concepts of ethics and laws involved in providing medical services. Upon completion, students should be able to fulfill the legal and ethical responsibilities of a multi-skilled health professional. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Post-baccalaureate students only.

BIOL 492 - Histology

Histology is the study of microscopic anatomy dealing with the structures of cells, tissues and organs in relation to their function. The course deals with the four basic tissue types: epithelium; connective tissues, including blood, bone and cartilage; muscles and nerves. It also covers the basic functions of these structures. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 152 - 252 or BIOL 351; post-baccalaureate students only.

BIOL 493 - Advanced Pathophysiology I

This is the first part of a two-semester series in understanding the pathophysiology of diseases. The student will be presented with an organ system approach to disease and how disease affects other organ systems (known as multi-system organ failure). Students will also learn the basics on how to read a complete blood count, chest X-rays, EKGs, and other common tests in medicine. Critical thinking and logic will guide the student to finding the breakdown of normal pathways that lead to disease. The more common diseases in the organ systems will be presented. This includes—but is not limited to—myocardial infarctions, heart failure, hypo- and hyperthyroidism, strokes, diabetes, emphysema, and ulcerative colitis. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Either BIOL 152 and BIOL 252 or BIOL 351 and BIOL 361; post-baccalaureate pre-medical students only.

BIOL 494 - Advanced Pathophysiology II

This is the second part of a two-semester series in understanding the pathophysiology of diseases. The course looks at the patient's side of a disease in the patient's own words. The main focus is on how a patient presents information to the physician. From knowledge learned in BIOL 493, the student will use his or her critical thinking to take patient complaints and determine a diagnosis. Examples include an approach to headaches, chest pain, abdominal pain, fever, back pain, and others. Also included is the business and professional side of medicine, which will cover topics such as professionalism, ethics, family issues, legal-medical problems, and medical records. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 493.

BIOL 496 - Clinical Preceptorship

Post-baccalaureate pre-medical students in good standing will be eligible to register for BIOL 496 for a maximum of 2 hours for one semester. Students will complete a clinically-based experience either through local medical health providers or through a systematic rotational system at Rush Oak Park Hospital, depending upon their advisor's recommendation. The course will be graded on full participation, the keeping of a journal, research presentation, and professional comportment. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Post-baccalaureate students only.

BIOL 497 - Advanced Anatomy Cadaver Dissection

A laboratory-based course designed to build upon the human cadaver dissection techniques and anatomy knowledge from BIOL 351 - Advanced Human Anatomy. Will cover clinical procedures used in emergency medicine such as central venous and arterial cannulation, phlebotomy, intubation, surgical airway, and tracheotomy. Deeper dissection of the cadaver will focus specifically on the back and spine. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 351 (formerly BIOL 261); post-baccalaureate students only.

BIOL 498 - Special Topics in Medicine

A study of the current topics in medicine through seminars given by guest lecturers specializing in various health disciplines. Lectures will include discussions of current research and clinical practice as well as medical school admission. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Post-baccalaureate students only.

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

BIOL 295 - Undergraduate Research/Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

BIOL 395 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Biology-Chemistry

Biology-Chemistry - B.S.

The biology-chemistry major is designed for students interested in graduate studies or biomedical research. Seven courses in biology and seven courses in chemistry are required in the major.

- The biology sequence must include BIOL 111, BIOL 112, BIOL 240, and one course from BIOL 298, BIOL 352, or BIOL 386 . Five of the biology courses must have a laboratory.
- The chemistry sequence must include CHEM 120, CHEM 121, CHEM 253, CHEM 254, and CHEM 371. The two additional chemistry electives must have course numbers above 255 and be worth 3 credits or more.
- The following collateral courses are also required for the major: PHYS 221 and PHYS 222 and either MATH 250, MATH 251, and MATH 262, or MATH 261-MATH 262.

A minimum of three courses in biology and three courses in chemistry must be completed at Dominican.

Black World Studies

The black world studies major is designed to enable students to demonstrate a deep understanding of black world experience, culture, societies, life, history, and philosophies. Students must also be able to grasp, analyze, and synthesize the various applicable texts used or recommended by disciplines that are included in the major.

Black world studies is the study of “blackness” both within and without geographic, temporal, spatial, political, and/or ethnic boundaries. Blackness is defined as an evolving set of constructs that elucidate key elements of African diasporic history and culture through utilization of wide-ranging academic disciplines. This approach moves in concert with contemporary scholarly trends that seek to situate black world studies in a broader international scope. Dominican’s international relations and diplomacy program and the civic mandate exemplified in Dominican’s commitment to service learning link to black world studies in a variety of significant ways. For example, the global examples of blackness brought to the forefront of black world studies parallel the unique challenge of black identity in a global environment. Thus, students who elect this major or choose selected courses are prepared to engage in a number of post-graduate options that contribute to enhancing global cultures and identities, not unlike other university programs. The choice of the name “black world studies” over Africana, African, or African-American studies is a reflective one that embodies its global parameters. It is designed to engage themes such as Atlantic history or culture; a revision of themes of culture; and contact between Africa, Europe, and the Americas. Black world studies also seeks to engage blackness in other distinct contexts such as Pacific Rim and/or Middle East examples of blackness, or evolving methodological questions around the validity of Afro-centricity and interpretations of blackness relative to subaltern and post-colonial themes, all of which coalesce in a well-developed black world studies program. To achieve these goals, students must take a number of courses, chosen in conference with a major advisor or the director of the black world studies program.

Black World Studies - B.A.

Major Requirements:

Thirty semester hours, including:

Required Courses:

- BWS 410 - Black World Seminar
- Complete two courses from the following:*
- BWS 101 - Black World Studies and Multiculture
 - BWS 180 - Pre-Colonial Africa
 - BWS 200 - African and African-American Thought
 - BWS 277 - African-American Religious Experience and Theology
 - BWS 320 - From Slavery to Freedom: The African-American Experience from 1619 to 1877
 - BWS 264 - Politics in Africa
 - BWS 280 - Discrimination and Society

- LAS 254 - Multicultural Theatre: Communities in Conflict
 - LAS 258 - The Road to Africa
- Complete three collateral courses from the following:*
- AMST 348 - Race and Ethnicity in the U.S.
 - ENGL 342 - American Native/Colonial and Revolutionary Literature
 - ENGL 343 - American Romantic and Realist Literature
 - ENGL 344 - American Modern and Postmodern Literature
 - HIST 380 - Contemporary Africa
 - LAS 254 - Multicultural Theatre: Communities in Conflict
 - LAS 258 - The Road to Africa
 - POSC 264 - Politics in Africa
 - POSC 317 - Non-Western Political Thought
 - SOC 280 - Discrimination and Society

Additional Requirements:

The three required collateral courses must represent three different disciplines. Additional approved courses may be substituted for required black world studies courses or collateral courses with the written approval of the director of black world studies.

A minimum of fifteen hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Black World Studies Minor

Minor Requirements:

Eighteen semester hours, including:

Required Courses:

- Complete two courses from the following:*
- BWS 200 - African and African-American Thought
 - BWS 277 - African-American Religious Experience and Theology
 - BWS 320 - From Slavery to Freedom: The African-American Experience from 1619 to 1877
- Complete two courses chosen from:*
- BWS 264 - Politics in Africa
 - LAS 254 - Multicultural Theatre: Communities in Conflict
 - LAS 258 - The Road to Africa
- Complete two courses chosen from the black world studies elective courses listed below.*

Elective Courses:

- AMST 348 - Race and Ethnicity in the U.S.
- APRL 200 - Cultural Perspectives in Dress (with approved intensification option)
- EDUC 386 - Diversity, Language, and Culture
- ENGL 342 - American Native/Colonial and Revolutionary Literature
- ENGL 343 - American Romantic and Realist Literature
- ENGL 344 - American Modern and Postmodern Literature
- LAS 254 - Multicultural Theatre: Communities in Conflict
- LAS 258 - The Road to Africa
- POSC 264 - Politics in Africa
- POSC 381 - Constitutional Law II: Civil Liberties
- SOC 280 - Discrimination and Society

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 9 hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Black World Studies Courses

BWS 101 - Black World Studies and Multiculture

This course will serve as an introduction to the interdisciplinary field of black world studies. It will examine the philosophy and major events in the experiences of black people all over the world beginning with some discussion of their African past. Through readings, discussion, films, and guest speakers the course will introduce students to African-American politics, religion, literature, economics, art, history, and sociology and engage the major issues that have impacted African-American life, depending on the discipline of the instructor. There will be one major reading each section has in common, beyond that instructors are free to choose resources for the course. This course is a requirement for the major and minor in black world studies. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 103 - Black Nationalism and Afrocentricity

This course will analyze historical and contemporary themes related to black nationalism and Afrocentricity. We will focus on historical themes (abolition, African Colonization Society, African partition, migration, black nadir, WWI, Harlem Renaissance, WWII, Pan-Africanism, independence, civil rights, Black Power movement, reparations) in connection with selected authors (Olaudah Equiano, Martin Delany, Frederick Douglass, Alexander Crummell, Edward Blyden, W.E.B. DuBois, Marcus Garvey, Kwame Nkrumah, Frantz Fanon, Malcolm X, Fred Hampton, Wole Soyinka, Kwame Appiah) to develop a contemporary critique of Pan-Africanism, negritude, and African nationalism through investigation of community and cultural authenticity. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 106 - Hip-Hop, Multiculture, and Philosophy

This course focuses on the culture of hip-hop as an aesthetic expression and as "edu-tainment" or a component of political action. We will study the history and culture of hip-hop's four elements: DJing, MCing, break dancing, and graffiti art. We will also examine the notion of hip-hop as a component of black world consciousness through local, national, and international examples. In assessing hip-hop as art and action, themes of politicization, identity, poverty, criminality, authenticity, language, sports, gender, and race will be examined. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 107 - Black Women in Society

This course will examine the actual role as well as the expected or the unrecognized roles of black women in both Africa and the United States. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 107

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 110 - Introduction to Sociology

(3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 110 and AMST 110

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

BWS 180 - Pre-Colonial Africa

(3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 180

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 200 - African and African-American Thought

(3 hours)

Listed also as PHIL 200.

BWS 201 - Ghana: A Gateway to Africa

Students will learn about Africa and the West African country of Ghana during class sessions and orientations on campus. They will then travel to various sites in Ghana. (1-3 hours)

Listed also as STA 200

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 202 - Ethics in World Politics: USA and Africa

This course will examine world politics and its ethical ramifications with particular reference to African governments and the United States. (3 hours)

Listed also as PHIL 202.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 203 - Black Cultures in Africa, the USA, and the Caribbean

The Negroid culture is prevalent in Africa, the Caribbean and the USA. This is seen, experienced, and practiced in music and dance styles, in fashion and dress codes, in verbal and sign conversation and communication, in annual festivals and marriages and burial ceremonies and celebrations, based on seasons, gender, age group and class culture. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 205 - Race and Race Relations in the U.S.

(3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 203

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 206 - West African Antecedents/Afro-Atlantic World

This course explores historical, theoretical, and methodological analysis of West African antecedents (Bakongo, Yoruba, and Akan) in the Afro-Atlantic world from the 15th through the 20th centuries. Selected themes of indigenous culture (e.g., oral tradition, indigenous belief, ritual arts, and symbols) will be used in conjunction with historical evidence (e.g., travelogues, letters, and academic, religious, economic, and/or political documentation) to assess the validity of (Bakongo, Yoruba, and Akan) antecedents in the Americas. Themes of identity, cultural adaptability, modernity, power, and resistance will be central. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 211 - Diasporas and Diversity

Diaspora, the migration and settlement of people from their homeland to other countries, has been taking place from ancient times. Huge population movements in world history have had tremendous effects on diversity within nations. This course will examine the relationship between diaspora and racial, ethnic and cultural diversity in the United States and other societies, including the Jewish experience; empire, diaspora, and diversity; the Europeanization of the Americas; African and African-American diaspora; dimensions of the Asian diaspora; victim, labor, and business diasporas; and the role of globalization in cultural diversity. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural studies core requirement.

BWS 216 - American Political Thought

(3 hours)

Listed also as POSC 215 and AMST 215.

BWS 217 - Caribbean History: Columbus to Castro

This course will focus on Caribbean history from 1492 to 1963, "Columbus to Castro." We will emphasize the following historical themes: Columbian "encounter," European conquest and colonization, slavery and resistance, social and cultural transformation. Focusing on the anglophone and francophone Caribbean, Afro-Atlantic connections via the civil rights movement in the United States and the nationalist and independence struggles in Africa and the Caribbean will be discussed. Ultimately, we will investigate Caribbean contributions to Atlantic cultural expression and identity, nation building, modernity, and globalization. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 221 - Literature of the African Diaspora

(3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 221

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

BWS 222 - Black Women Writers

(3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 222 and SWG 222

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 223 - African-American Popular Culture

(3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 223

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 225 - Critical Race Theory

(3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 225

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 237 - Great Festivals and Holidays in the Black World

This course lays the foundation for understanding why and under what circumstances African people celebrate. In other words, there will be an investigation of the African worldview that informs the celebration decisions in the black world. The great cultural festivals of Africa and the diaspora will be fully explored using multimedia. Students can anticipate learning about Akwasidae Festival in Ghana, Osun Festival in Nigeria, the Carnival in Brazil, and much more. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 241 - African-Americans and the Media

This course assesses the presentation of African-Americans in the media (popular literature, periodicals, radio, film, TV, and the internet) and the impact of the mass media in the African-American community. Issues of race and ethnicity are integrated with discussions of media responsibility as well as questions of representation and accessibility. The implications of new media technologies to these issues will be a key aspect of our discussion. Students will develop projects that use media to bridge cultural perspectives in an effort to offer varied and innovative approaches to presenting African-American culture and identity in the media. (3 hours)

Listed also as CAS 248.

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 247 - Amazing Grace: Slavery and Redemption

(3 hours)

Listed also as THEO 247

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and multicultural studies core requirement.

BWS 254 - The Black Madonna

The recognition and deification of the African female has its roots in prehistory (Paleolithic era). This course will examine the reverence of the African female as evidenced in the rock art of North, East, and South Africa. We will follow the trail of the deified black mother out of Africa and into the Grimaldi art of old Europe, and the carvings and sculptures of India and other Asian destinations. Finally, we will ponder her persistent worship and recognition in many parts of modern-day Europe, with particular attention to the black Madonna phenomenon in France. The course offers insight into the history of African women. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 264 - Politics in Africa

(3 hours)

Listed also as POSC 264

BWS 277 - African-American Religious Experience and Theology

(3 hours)

Listed also as THEO 277.

BWS 279 - Africa's Culinary Legacy Across the World

The Columbian Exchange and the trans-Atlantic slave trade have brought many indigenous African foods and food ways to America and Europe. This course will look into traditional African food ways, which usually involve moon bread (fufu, injera, or mealie meal), which is eaten with a stew. We will also examine how these foods transformed or remained the same in the African diaspora. The literature of African food historian Jessica B. Harris and will be fully utilized. The course will include field trips to a few African eateries in the Chicago area. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 280 - Discrimination and Society

(3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 280.

BWS 281 - Colonial Africa

(3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 280.

BWS 285 - The Racial and Musical Legacy of Memphis and the Mississippi Delta

(3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 285.

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 286 - Blues and the Spirit

(3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 286

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 288 - African Environmentalism

From the earliest records of human civilization in Africa, there is a clear anthropomorphism of nature. All true ecological examinations of Africa must begin at this point. Much of what has been called "fetish" in Africa has to do with the African recognition of the sacred bond and interdependence that humans have with nature. This course will journey through African mythology art and religious symbols to find evidence of nature appreciation and conservation. We will explore the nature conservation practices that African people brought to the Americas during the trans-Atlantic slave trade. Lastly we will probe into the current, Afrocentric environmental justice movement in Africa and in the diaspora. The course will cover the life stories of African environment champions like Ken Saro-Wiwa, Wangari Maathai, Benjamin Chavis, Majora Carter, and many others. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 289 - Introduction to French and Francophone Cinema: From Pictures to Pixels, 1890 to the Present

(3 hours)

Listed also as FREN 289, MFL 289, and CAS 289

This course will satisfy the fine arts core are requirement.

BWS 298 - African-American Literature

(3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 298 and AMST 298

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 299 - Community-based Learning

Taken in conjunction with a regularly listed black world studies course, this fourth credit-hour option involves community service and multicultural reflection. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor and black world studies program director.

BWS 303 - Research Methods in Black World Studies

This course will introduce students to the historical methods of inquiry used by those in the field: formulating historical questions, hypothesizing, analyzing issues, differentiating between fact and opinion, recognizing bias etc. Historians examine primary and secondary sources for authenticity and reliability of information to produce their final product. Research and writing do elevate a student's academic profile, which makes admission to graduate programs easier. This course is recommended for all BWS majors and minors. (3 hours)

BWS 304 - African-centered Pedagogy

Pedagogy- the science of teaching- has an ancient and unique format in African experience. Researchers have found evidence of African pedagogy in the ancient rock paintings of Zimbabwe (Mshaya Mvura Cave). This course will examine the whole- system- based pedagogy that emerged from, and is still being implemented in many locations on the continent of Africa. We will search for its retentions in the Diaspora, The lives and teachings of great African teachers (Ptahhotep, Imhotep, Cheikh Anta Diop, Boukman, Mortimer Planno, Malcom X) will be fully explored. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 311 - Black Spirituality

The African worldview has produced a particular set of assumptions about reality. This collective consciousness about reality informs the way African people speak about and interact with seen and unseen elements. The African worldview distinguishes black spirituality from other religious and spiritual traditions. This course will delineate the African world view, and it will make inquiries into the similarities and common themes found in some of the major black spiritual traditions (Vodou, Ifa, Ausarian, Akan, Izangoma, charismatic black churches, and Rastafarian). (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 317 - Non-Western Political Thought

(3 hours)

Listed also as POSC 317

BWS 320 - From Slavery to Freedom: The African-American Experience from 1619 to 1877

(3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 320 and AMST 320.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 321 - From Jim Crow to the White House: The African-American Experience Since 1877

(3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 319 and AMST 321.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 327 - African Art

(3 hours)

Listed also as ARTH 296

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement and the multicultural requirement.

BWS 366-367 - Study in Stellenbosch, South Africa

(18 hours)

Listed also as STA 366-367

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 372 - Law and Society

(3 hours)

Listed also as CRIM 372 and SOC 372.

BWS 380 - Contemporary Africa

(3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 380.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 381 - Social Inequality

(3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 380

BWS 385 - Critical Theoretical Approaches to Race and Ethnicity

(3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 385

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 390 - Atlantic Africa

(3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 390

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 391 - Apartheid in South Africa

(3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 391

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 401 - Topics in Black World Studies

This course is designed to cover topics that do not get enough attention in a regular class setting, and so, need to be explored further. Guest speakers, experts in various aspects of the realities of life in the black world will be featured. Students may select approved topics to research and present to the class for discussion. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 410 - Black World Seminar

This course is usually taken in the senior year. Students will be asked to synthesize their knowledge of black world experience from various disciplines and the book club. They will also be using their multicultural techniques to demonstrate their skills in research and presentation. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

BWS 450 - Independent Study

(1-8 hours)

BWS 455 - Internship

(1-8 hours)

Catholic Studies

Catholic Studies Minor

The Catholic studies minor invites students of all backgrounds to explore the multifaceted reality of Catholicism. The minor offers students the opportunity to gain an academic understanding of Catholicism as community, institution, and worldview. Minors in Catholic Studies will progress through an interdepartmental course of study that immerses them in the historical, intellectual, and cultural currents that shape and express Catholic faith and life. From an introductory course in Roman Catholicism through approved electives drawn from across the curriculum, Catholic studies exposes students to the rich variety of the Catholic tradition and provides the opportunity to pursue individual personal and professional interests in relation to this tradition. The Catholic studies minor lies at the heart of Dominican University's mission to integrate the core curriculum and departmental studies into a larger vision.

Minor Requirements:

Seven courses (21 credits) chosen in conference with advisor. No more than four courses from any one department may be used to fulfill minor requirements, and at least two courses must be taken above the 300 level. At least 15 credits in the minor, including CATH 103, must be completed at Dominican; students may petition the director of Catholic studies to waive the foundation course if they can demonstrate satisfactory completion of substantively equivalent college-level material.

Requirements include:

- One foundation course: CATH 103
- One course from each of the following three areas
 - Cultural Expressions: These courses study the relationship between historical or modern Catholic cultures and their artistic and literary productions.
 - Historical Contexts: These courses provide historical perspectives on Catholic institutions and societies, as well as Catholic encounters with other societies and systems of belief.
 - Intellectual Traditions: These courses examine the theological and philosophical foundations of Catholicism.
- Three elective courses chosen from the list of approved elective courses or from designated areas
- Capstone or Intensification Project.
Minors must either:
 - intensify an approved course and complete an intensification following program guidelines, or
 - complete a capstone project in CATH 395, CATH 410, or CATH 495. The capstone project credit or intensification credit will count toward the elective credits.

Area Courses

Cultural Expressions:

- ARTH 215 - Medieval Art
- ARTH 225 - Renaissance Art
- ARTH 315 - Issues in Medieval Art
- ARTH 320 - Issues in Renaissance Art
- ENGL 234 - Bible, Mythology, and Literature
- ENGL 248 - Modern Irish Literature
- ENGL 306 - Medieval Literature
- ITAL 276 - Dante's Divine Comedy I
- ITAL 277 - Dante's Divine Comedy II
- ITAL 365 - Literature of the Italian Middle Ages
- ITAL 366 - Literature of the Italian Renaissance
- SPAN 320 - Introduction to Hispanic Literature

Historical Contexts:

- HIST 267 - Crusade and Jihad
- HIST 275 - Medieval and Renaissance Europe
- HIST 276 - The Fall of Rome: From Constantine to Charlemagne
- HIST 291 - Europe Between Popes and Kings
- HIST 301 - Jerusalem From Antiquity to the Present
- HIST 308 - The Catholic Church in the Middle Ages
- HIST 350 - Medieval Women and Gender
- HIST 388 - European Thought and Art, 1500 to the Present

Intellectual Traditions:

- THEO 122 - New Testament I: The Gospels
- THEO 232 - New Testament II: Acts, Paul, and Other Writings
- THEO 383 - The Book of Revelation and Apocalyptic Literature
- THEO 240 - Current Issues Facing the Church
- THEO 252 - Sacraments in the Catholic Tradition
- THEO 264 - The Ways of War and Peace in Christianity and Islam
- THEO 281 - Dominican Saints and Mystics

- THEO 310 - Jesus the Christ
- THEO 320 - Theological Ethics
- THEO 330 - The Mystery of God
- THEO 354 - Great Christian Thinkers
- THEO 373 - Christian Spirituality

Electives:

- BAD 335 - Business Ethics
- CATH 395 - Independent Research or Creative Investigation or
- CATH 495 - Independent Research or Creative Investigation
- CATH 410 - McGreal Center Research Practicum
- ENGL 289 - U.S. Latino/a Literature
- FREN 261 - French Culture and Civilization
- HIST 241 - Colonial Latin America
- HIST 242 - Modern Latin America
- ITAL 255 - Italian Civilization and Culture I
- ITAL 256 - Italian Civilization and Culture II
- ITAL 260 - Italian-American Culture
- ITAL 295 - Italian Cinema
- PHIL 245 - Introduction to the Philosophy of Religion
- PMIN 254 - Introduction to Ritual and Symbol
- PMIN 363 - Ethics for Ministry
- PMIN 380 - Evangelization: The Mission of the Church
- SJCE 210 - Introduction to Social Justice and Civic Engagement
- SPAN 245 - Introduction to Spain
- SPAN 246 - Introduction to Spanish America
- STA 370-371 - Study in Blackfriars Oxford *
- THEO 239 - Latin@ American Religious Experience and Theology
- THEO 256 - Marriage and Family Life
- THEO 261 - Catholic Social Teaching and Movements
- THEO 273 - Great Women Mystics

Note(s):

Depending on which options students select, study abroad courses may be used as elective credit in the minor. Students should consult with the study abroad director and director of Catholic studies.

Adding a Catholic studies-related service-learning component (299) to any course may make the course eligible for use as an elective course in the minor. The option to add service learning is at the course instructor's discretion, and elective credit for the minor is approved at the discretion of the director of Catholic studies.

Catholic Studies Courses

CATH 103 - Introduction to Roman Catholicism

In this course, students will study the central beliefs and practices of Roman Catholicism using the sources and methods of theology. Students will also consider how other disciplines (e.g., the arts, the social sciences) illuminate dimensions of this multifaceted tradition. This course stands alone as a survey course of Roman Catholicism and as a foundation for further exploration through the Catholic Studies Program. (3 hours)

Listed also as THEO 103.

This course will satisfy the Theology core area requirement.

CATH 410 - McGreal Center Research Practicum

Students will develop and execute a semester-long research project making use of the McGreal Center archives on Dominican History in the U.S under the direction of the center's director. This course will satisfy the Catholic Studies Minor capstone requirement. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

CATH 395 - Independent Research or Creative Investigation

Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a capstone essay or other creative/scholarly project that will satisfy the Catholic Studies Minor capstone requirement. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or Senior Standing and consent of instructor.

CATH 495 - Independent Research or Creative Investigation

Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a capstone essay or other creative/scholarly project that will satisfy the Catholic Studies Minor capstone requirement. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or Senior Standing and consent of instructor.

Chemistry

The curriculum provides a broad base of knowledge in traditional areas of chemical endeavor, specifically analytical, inorganic, organic, physical, and biochemistry. Course work and experimental design experience prepare students for industrial and government laboratory employment, as well as for further education in graduate or professional school. Non-major courses offer opportunities to explore the significance of chemistry in everyday life and provide a basis for subsequent science-related courses in the elementary education, nursing, and nutrition sciences programs.

Chemistry - B.S.

Major Requirements:

Required Courses:

- CHEM 120 - General Chemistry I
- CHEM 121 - General Chemistry II
- CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II
- CHEM 371 - Physical Chemistry I
- CHEM 372 - Physical Chemistry II
- CHEM 373 - Physical Chemistry Lab
- CHEM 380 - Advanced Inorganic Chemistry
- Three advanced electives in chemistry numbered above 255 worth 3 or more credits
- PHYS 221 - University Physics I
- PHYS 222 - University Physics II
- Either MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I or both MATH 250 - Introduction to Calculus and MATH 251 - Calculus of Transcendental Functions
- MATH 262 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus II

Additional Requirements:

- Physics and mathematics requirements should be completed by the end of the sophomore year.
- The satisfactory/fail option may not be used in any courses, including collateral courses, required for the major.
- A minimum of five courses in the major field must be completed at Dominican.
- Chemistry majors are encouraged to register for CHEM 295, 395, or 495: Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation.
- Students may not double major in both Chemistry and Biology-Chemistry.

Chemistry Education

Teacher Licensure: Secondary Education

Students who wish to teach chemistry in grades 9 through 12 complete a major in chemistry and they complete the School of Education's Teacher Education Program for secondary licensure.

Chemistry Requirements

- Chemistry major as described above
- One additional course in biology

Teacher Education Program

- Professional education courses including EDUC 400 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Science in Middle and Secondary Schools
- Three state tests: the Test of Academic Proficiency, the Elementary/Middle Grades content test, and the grades K-9 Assessment of Professional Teaching
- 100 hours of field experience
- Professional portfolio
- Clinical Practice (one full semester) in a middle or secondary school classroom

For more information about 6-12 licensure, see the School of Education section of this bulletin.

Chemistry Minor

Minor Requirements:

Required Courses:

- CHEM 120 - General Chemistry I
- CHEM 121 - General Chemistry II
- CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II
- An advanced course in chemistry numbered above 255 worth 3 or more credits.

Additional Requirements:

The satisfactory/fail option may not be used in any courses required for the minor.

A minimum of two courses in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Chemistry Courses

CHEM 101 - Introductory General Chemistry

Introductory chemistry course intended primarily for nutrition sciences majors and non-science majors. This course is particularly suited for those who wish to fulfill the general liberal arts requirement in science by increasing their interest in and concern for the relationship of chemistry to life and society. Includes lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and laboratory concurrently; laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture. (3 hours, 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): one year of high school algebra

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

CHEM 104 - Introductory Organic Chemistry

An elementary course that focuses on the role of structure in chemical identity, the reactivity of organic compounds, and the application of reactivity and structure to the understanding of living systems and natural phenomena. Recommended for nutrition sciences and nursing majors. Includes lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and laboratory concurrently; laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture. (3 hours, 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 101 or CHEM 120 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 120 - General Chemistry I

Fundamental principles of chemistry, including atomic theory, stoichiometry, classification of reactions, states of matter, bonding theory, and molecular shape. Intended primarily for science majors and post-baccalaureate pre-medical certification students. Includes lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and laboratory concurrently; laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture. (3 hours, 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): One year of high school chemistry or CHEM 101 with a grade of C- or higher; MATH 130 or placement into MATH 250 or MATH 261

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

CHEM 121 - General Chemistry II

A continuation of CHEM 120 including aqueous solution equilibria, kinetics, thermodynamics, and nuclear chemistry. Lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour) must be completed concurrently. (3 hours, 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 120 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 221 - Environmental Chemistry

Basic principles of aquatic, atmospheric, and lithospheric chemistry, including the source, fate and reactivity of compounds in natural and polluted environments. (3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 221 and ENV5 221.

Prerequisite(s): One year of high school chemistry.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

CHEM 222 - Topics in Lab Safety

This course will focus on safety education for students pursuing undergraduate chemistry research or careers in fields where chemicals and chemical processes are involved. In this course, we will address the areas of safety awareness, health and safety information, and safety procedures and standards. Course methods will involve lecture, onsite laboratory observations, and guest speakers when possible. This course will be a required prerequisite or corequisite for students pursuing an independent undergraduate research or creative investigation project in chemistry. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): One year of high school chemistry.

CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I

An introduction to the study of carbon compounds. Topics include synthesis, structure, stereo-chemistry, reaction mechanisms, and the use of spectroscopy in the study of carbon compounds. Includes lecture (4 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and laboratory concurrently; laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture. (4 hours, 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 121 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II

A continuation of CHEM 253 with further studies on synthesis, structure, and reaction of carbon compounds. Includes lecture (4 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and laboratory concurrently; laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture. (4 hours, 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 253 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 255 - Organic Chemistry I with Biological Emphasis

This course provides the necessary organic chemistry concepts and methods to prepare the student for biochemistry. Topics include: covalent bonds, molecular structure, spectroscopy, stereochemistry, acid-base chemistry, non-covalent interactions, thermodynamics, kinetics, resonance structures, reaction mechanism, and the reactivity common function groups found in biological systems. No lab component is required, but CHEM253 organic chemistry lab may be taken concurrently. A student may not receive credit for either CHEM 253 or CHEM 254 and CHEM255. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 121 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 256 - Natural Products Chemistry in Traditional Medicine and Modern Health Care

This course will explore the religious, ethnic, and scientific interactions of health care originating from diverse practices such as African, Amerindian, Eastern, and Western medical traditions. Herbal medicines create a connection between ancient health care practices and modern allopathic medicine. Living organisms continue to be a rich source of therapeutic preparations in the practice of both mainstream and alternative medicines. The scientific approach to the discovery, classification, and testing of pharmacological agents present in natural sources will be investigated. Lecture only. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 253 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 291 - Forensic Chemical Analysis

The evidence collected at a crime scene can often tell the true story of the criminal act if interpreted properly. This course covers various criminalistic detection and analysis techniques involving DNA, fiber, hair, body fluids, pigments, fingerprints, footprints, toxic substances, and illegal drugs. Analytical techniques such as qualitative chemical analysis, refractive index, infra-red spectroscopy, UV/VIS spectrophotometry, microscopy, mass spectrometry, thin layer chromatography, and gas chromatography will be introduced, explained, and practiced. The proper handling of evidence, careful observation, and logical interpretation of crime scene evidence will also be stressed. (3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 260.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 253 or CHEM 104.

CHEM 351 - Medicinal Chemistry

Structures, models of action, and physicochemical properties of drugs. General approach to the design and evaluation of new drugs. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Either CHEM 254 or CHEM 255 with a minimum grade of C- or concurrent enrollment.

CHEM 360 - Biochemistry

An intermediate level general biochemistry course focusing on the four major classes of bio-molecules (proteins, nucleic acids, carbohydrates, and lipids), their characteristics and their functions in living systems. Lecture only. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Either CHEM 254 or CHEM 255 with a minimum grade of C- or concurrent enrollment.

CHEM 361 - Biochemistry Laboratory

The central techniques and practices related to the four major classes of biomolecules (proteins, nucleic acids, carbohydrates, and lipids) are addressed, including spectrophotometry, enzyme kinetics, chromatography, liquid-liquid extraction and optical rotation. Laboratory and discussion only. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 360 with a grade of C- or higher (or concurrent enrollment).

CHEM 371 - Physical Chemistry I

Principles of theoretical chemistry, thermodynamics, kinetic theory, solutions, electrochemistry, kinetics, quantum theory. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 121 with a minimum grade of C- and PHYS 221-PHYS 222.

CHEM 372 - Physical Chemistry II

Principles of theoretical chemistry, thermodynamics, kinetic theory, solutions, electrochemistry, kinetics, quantum theory. Concurrent registration in CHEM 373 - Physical Chemistry Lab is required (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 371 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 373 - Physical Chemistry Lab

A semester of experiments drawn from the fields on thermodynamics, quantum mechanics, and kinetics. Experimental design, data reduction, and literature style report writing will be emphasized. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Concurrent enrollment in CHEM 372 is required.

CHEM 380 - Advanced Inorganic Chemistry

A study of the elements and their inorganic compounds with particular emphasis on their structure, bonding, periodic trends, synthesis, and their reactions and mechanisms. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 121 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 381 - Physical Inorganic Chemistry

Molecular orbital theory, spectroscopy, and photochemistry of inorganic and organometallic compounds will be studied from a group-theory perspective. Advanced topics in catalysis will also be considered. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 372 or consent of instructor.

CHEM 390 - Advanced Analytical Chemistry

Theory and techniques of special analytical procedures not used in laboratory work in earlier courses. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 121 with a minimum grade of C-.

CHEM 391 - Instrumental Analysis

The aim of the course is to introduce you to the main methods of instrumental analysis. You will gain an understanding of the chemical principles behind the instrumental techniques, a working knowledge of instrument operation, and cognizance of the applications of instrumental analysis. Given the rapid growth in the type and complexity of chemical instrumentation, it would be difficult to cover every technique available. However, this course should provide you with the fundamental background on the workings of many important types of instruments that you will likely encounter in the future, including absorption and emission spectroscopy, electrochemical techniques, and chromatographic separation. Lecture and laboratory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 390

CHEM 404 - Special Topics in Chemistry

Reading and in-depth study in selected fields of chemistry such as advanced organic chemistry, cosmetic chemistry, mechanisms, synthesis, and polymer chemistry. Course may be given in conjunction with the Associated Colleges of the Chicago Area cooperative chemistry lecture series. (1-2 hours)

CHEM 451 - Chemistry Research Seminar

A weekly meeting of undergraduate students doing research with chemistry faculty. Discussion of current results and instruction on scientific writing, oral and poster presentations, and literature searching. (1 hour)

CHEM 455 - Internship

(1-8 hours)

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis
Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

CHEM 295 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

CHEM 395 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

CHEM 495 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Communication Arts and Sciences

Communication Studies - B.A.

The mission of the communication studies major is to provide curriculum and community that teach students how to be citizens in the 21st century. The major emphasizes the role communication plays in shaping our reality in a variety of social and political settings. Required courses bring theory and practice together as students study the historical and theoretical foundations of the field. Other major requirements equip students with the competencies employers are looking for in a globally competitive world, including effective oral and written communication skills, critical thinking and reading, problem solving, and decision making. Students complete a rigorous academic program consisting of courses in general education, historical and theoretical foundations, research methods, performance, application (especially in one of the most predominant fields today, media), and practical experience. A major in communication studies is designed to enhance students' lives and careers through a clearer understanding of the role communication plays in their professional and personal lives.

Major Requirements:

Forty-two semester hours chosen in conference with a department advisor must be completed. Students will complete historical and theoretical foundations (including a course from each area of the department), performance-based courses, criticism and media classes, a practical experience requirement, and a capstone course. Required courses also fulfill university and department expectations for critical reading, writing, and research.

Required Courses:

- CAS 204 - Introduction to Communication Theory and Practice

Complete 6 additional hours in communication arts and sciences courses.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 9 hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Corporate Communications - B.A.

A corporate communications major will learn and be trained to use the communication skills relating to the "people side" of business. Majors will be trained not only in the communication skills related to formal presentational speaking and business writing, but also in the full range of interpersonal and group skills critical in corporate life.

The education and skills training in the corporate communications major at Dominican University prepare students for a myriad of careers, ranging from corporate communications consultant/director to anchorperson or political campaign director.

The major's mission, moreover, is more than simply to prepare students for a job: the mission is to develop the student's natural gifts while guiding him or her in a direction that will make the journey meaningful.

Flexibility is built into this major, as it cross-lists numerous related courses from other departments and thus can be tailored to the career goals of individual students.

All majors are required to become student members of the National Communication Association and/or the Central States Speech Association prior to having a major card signed. All majors are heartily urged to join and participate in Dominican's local chapter of the National Communication Association's Student Honor Society, Lambda Pi Eta, if invited.

Major Requirements:

The major requires a minimum of 33 hours, including the following:

Required Courses:

- CAS 200 - Business and Professional Speech

- CAS 204 - Introduction to Communication Theory and Practice
- CAS 262 - Communication Research Methods
- CAS 308 - Rhetorical History and Criticism
- CAS 309 - Communication Organizational Change
- CAS 320 - Organizational Communication and Behavior
- Either CAS 321 - Intercultural Communication or CAS 322 - Intercultural Communication: Globalization and Social Justice
- CAS 350 - Persuasion
- CAS 352 - Convergent Media
- CAS 426 - Corporate Communication
- CAS 435 - Communication Capstone

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 12 hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Corporate Communications Five-Year BA/MBA

Five Year BA/MBA

Corporate communications majors considering getting an MBA degree are encouraged to pursue Dominican University's BA/MBA program.

During the senior year, five-year BA/MBA students will take two graduate classes in the Brennan School, and the hours will count toward both the MBA and the 124 hours needed for graduation.

Business Sequence A minimum of five of seven courses listed below and successful completion (B or better) of business sequence courses will result in waivers for the related MBA courses in the Brennan School of Business.
Undergraduate Course(s)	Graduate Course Eligible for Waiver
ECON 190 - Principles of Microeconomics and ECON 191 - Principles of Macroeconomics	GSB 611 - Economics for Managers
ACCT 101 - Principles of Accounting I and ACCT 102 - Principles of Accounting II	GSB 612 - Financial Accounting
ECON 260 - Statistics for Business and Economics	GSB 613 - Statistics
BAD 350 - Managerial Finance	GSB 615 - Financial Management
BAD 240 - Business Law	GSB 617 - Business Law

In addition to the waivers listed above, students who have completed CAS 320 or CAS 426 with a grade of B or above will be eligible to have GSB 614 - Organizational Behavior waived from the Brennan School's MBA program.

Acceptance into the BA/MBA program generally requires a 3.0 GPA, and students are encouraged to apply before the end of their junior year. Accepted students may enroll in two MBA courses during their senior year—one course each semester—and credit will be applied toward their undergraduate degree. (This can be done at no extra charge if taken within the 18-hour limit for full-time undergraduate tuition.) The remaining ten graduate business courses may be taken upon completion of the undergraduate degree.

Corporate Communications Minor

Minor Requirements:

A minor consists of any 18 semester hours taken from among the communication courses designated CC (Corporate Communications).

Digital Journalism - B.A.

Journalism majors will learn the bedrock skills of news reporting and writing and acquire the technical capacity to apply them in the rapidly changing world of print, broadcast, web, and mobile journalism. Students will complement this expertise with in-depth study of media law, history, theory, criticism, and ethics.

This course of study will prepare students for careers in the media and also provide the background in critical thinking, problem solving, and clear writing necessary for success in a wide range of other careers or graduate programs. In addition, the knowledge and skills acquired in the journalism major will help students interested in public advocacy, social change, and active citizenship.

Health Communication Minor

Health communication refers to the study of communication as it relates to health professionals and health education. This interdisciplinary minor provides foundational courses in communication theory and methods, ethics, and health communication models. This minor then deepens students' knowledge of health communication in one of two focused areas: health communication campaigns (which relates to the construction, interpretation, and diffusion of health information through public health campaigns) or health communication administration (which focuses on provider-client interactions, such as communication among health care organizations, nurses, doctors, and/or patients).

Students take a total of 21 credits for the minor. The foundational courses in communication theory, methods, biomedical ethics, biology or nutrition, and health communication make up 15 of those credits. The remaining 6 credits are chosen from two groups of courses related to the specific area of focus that the student chooses.

The minor is highly recommended for students who intend to enter into a field related to health care.

Required Foundation Courses

Choose one of the following three courses:

- BIOL 111 - General Biology I
- NUTR 250 - Nutrition
- NSC 137 - Basic Human Biology

Complete the following three courses:

- CAS 204 - Introduction to Communication Theory and Practice
- CAS 262 - Communication Research Methods
- CAS 311 - Health Care Communication

Choose one of the following two courses:

- PHIL 242 - Introduction to Biomedical Ethics
- THEO 368 - Biomedical and Health Care Ethics

Areas of Emphasis

Complete one of the two-course areas of emphasis:

Health Communication Administration

Choose one course from Group 1:

- CAS 250 - Interpersonal Communications
- CAS 320 - Organizational Communication and Behavior
- CAS 321 - Intercultural Communication

Choose one course from Group 2:

- CAS 218 - Family and Health Communication
- NUTR 345 - Nutrition Communication Skills
- NUTR 346 - Food and Nutrition Services Administration

Health Communication Campaigns

Choose one course from Group 1:

- CAS 256 - News Media Writing
- CAS 274 - Introduction to Integrated Marketing Communication
- CAS 350 - Persuasion
- CAS 352 - Convergent Media

Choose one course from Group 2:

- ENGL 235 - Literature and Medicine

- NUTR 420 - Introduction to Writing about Nutrition and Health
- SPAN 209 - Spanish for Health Professions

CAS 204 - Introduction to Communication Theory and Practice

This survey course introduces students to the underlying assumptions and theories used to explain communication in a variety of everyday contexts, including rhetorical and communication studies, mass communication and journalism, and organizational communication and public relations. Emphasis is placed on the relationship between theory and practice so that students will understand the implications of communication in their individual lives and in their communities. (3 hours)

CAS 205 - Masterpieces of the Cinema

This course will be devoted to works that have withstood the test of time. Films will be such works as Citizen Kane, The Godfather, and Casablanca, as well as works from European cinema. The course will focus on the merits of each work, as well as what the films reflect about society and individual values. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 207 - Contemporary American Film

This course covers landmark films from the 1960s through the 2000s. Included are works by Martin Scorsese, the Coen brothers, David Lynch, Quentin Tarantino, Christopher Nolan, and others. Attention will be given to the reworking of older genres and the sociopolitical aspects of new cinema. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 207.

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 208 - Rhetoric and Popular Culture

This course uses a rhetorical lens to examine the impact popular cultural texts-including everything from film and television to the Internet and comic books-have on our daily lives. That is, rather than assuming popular culture is "merely entertainment" this course examines how these "texts" act to persuade and influence us by studying theoretical bases for the study of popular culture through a rhetorical lens and teaching skills for how to critically engage with that which surrounds us every day. RC/CS (3 hours)

CAS 217 - Race and Communication

In this course, students will learn that race and culture are related concepts but not necessarily synonymous, and this crucial distinction can inform and impact the way individuals from different racial backgrounds communicate with one another. This course utilizes a foundational standpoint that historically situates race as both a sociocultural construct and (to a lesser extent) a biological reality in an effort to examine and explore issues of privilege that often arise from the rhetoric surrounding the concept of race. In an effort to help students understand how prevailing notions of racial identity can affect communication of all kinds, they will be asked to engage with and analyze public discourses regarding interracial communication from a variety of cultural and historical contexts. Ultimately, students will learn that while interracial communication functions as one aspect of the larger field of intercultural studies, such communication must nevertheless be considered through various lenses, such as ethnic and national identities. (3 hours)

CAS 218 - Family and Health Communication

Family and Health Communication will provide an opportunity for understanding how communication around health; develops, maintains, enriches, or limits family relationships. Class members will be exposed to the interconnection and communication complexities of family and health communication. (3 hours)

CAS 219 - The Road Movie in American Life

This course will focus on how road travel has been represented in the American cinema. The aim is to understand what the road signifies in culture and its relationship to concepts of freedom, individuality and adventure. Films include: Easy Rider, Thelma and Louise, and the Mad Max series. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 223.

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 220 - Film Criticism

This in-depth course gives students an advanced understanding of film as a complex cultural medium of mass communication through the discussion of a variety of important theoretical and critical approaches. This class emphasizes the complex social and psychological roles film plays in society and the interrelationships between films and audiences. RC/CS (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 222 - Mass Media and Society

An examination of the production, construction, and consumption of mass media in American society and the role that media forms and representations play in the production and reproduction of systems of inequality, culture, and ideology; emphasis on the critical/cultural analysis of the ways in which class, race, ethnicity, gender, age, and sexuality are shaped, reshaped, and represented in popular culture and media. RC/CS (3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 222 and AMST 222.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core requirement.

CAS 224 - Radio Broadcasting

This is a hands-on course in radio broadcasting, management, writing, and production. J (3 hours)

CAS 225 - Fans and Fan Communities

Understanding who the recipients of a message are is important in a variety of professional contexts. Increasingly, the recipients being communicated to are "fans". Knowing fans and keeping them happy can be the difference between success and failure. Why is that? What is the power that fans, and the communities they form, hold? This completely online course will work to answer these questions by delving into questions such as what are fans, what are fan communities, and what is their role in the modern world of media, pop culture, and consumerism. The course will cover topics of defining fandom, creating and maintaining fans, understanding fan activities, and exploring how being a fan impacts society, culture, economics, and more. RC/CS (3 hours)

CAS 226 - Introduction to Film Studies

This course introduces students to basic concepts that will enable them both to appreciate and to analyze films on their own. Lectures will illustrate techniques such as editing, camera movement, composition, sound, lighting, color, and special effects. The course will demonstrate how these techniques create meaning. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 227 - Deconstructing Disney

This course will look at all aspects of the Disney empire: early cartoons, classic fairytales, and recent animated features. Attention will also be given to the commercialization of Disney products and the development of theme parks. Focus will be placed on what the creative works reveal about American ideology, gender, race, and nation. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 227

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 229 - Magazine Writing

Students will learn to write in a range of magazine and newspaper feature styles. J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CAS 256 and sophomore standing.

CAS 230 - Television Production

This is a basic laboratory experience in television production. J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CAS 226

CAS 234 - Digital Communication: Technology and Criticism

This class critically examines the current and future digital technologies used for interpersonal and mass communication. Students will learn how these technologies are designed, how their design impacts how they are used, what impact they have on society and culture, and what impact we can have using them. J (3 hours)

CAS 236 - Web Design I

(3 hours)

Listed also as ART 227.

Prerequisite(s): CAS 130.

CAS 237 - Introduction to Graphic Design I

(3 hours)

Listed also as ART 240.

Prerequisite(s): CAS 130.

CAS 238 - Games and Game Design

From social games and virtual worlds to board games and card games, games are increasingly being used for purposes other than entertainment. But what has to be considered to design a game for entertainment versus for education? This blended course will tackle these questions by focusing on how to design games. Students will have the opportunity to develop their own ideas for a game. In online readings and discussions, students will explore the theories and concepts behind games and game design, such as game mechanics and game motives. In weekly class meetings, students will play and discuss various types of gaming media. RC/CS (3 hours)

CAS 239 - Television Production II

Advanced laboratory experience in television production. J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CAS 230.

CAS 240 - Self and Society

An examination of the social science paradigms that address how human action and human actors are influenced by the actual, imagined, or implied presence of others. This course emphasizes the social construction of self and the social context of everyday behavior in terms of class, race, ethnicity, gender, and age and will address the following themes: the development of the social self, socialization and identity, attitude formation and change, prejudice, conformity, and the determinants of attraction. CC (3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 240.

This course will satisfy the social science core area requirement.

CAS 241 - Family Communication

This course explores the communication concepts of effective interaction in the family, including verbal and nonverbal communication, family meetings as a mode of communication, and casual barriers to effective communication. (3 hours)

Vertigo. Topics include the transfer of guilt, the "wrong man" theme, voyeurism, black humor, and gender. (3 hours)
This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 286 - Masculinity and Communication

This course examines the concept of masculinity across various historical and cultural contexts in order to determine how masculinity impacts communication practices and behaviors such as self-presentation, interpersonal and intercultural communication, and public and political discourse. Students will engage with a variety of texts in order to consider how prevailing notions of masculinity impact the way individuals communicate. (3 hours)

Listed also as SJCE 286 and SWG 286.

CAS 287 - International Living and Intercultural Communication

We live in an increasingly globalized world. Knowing how to navigate cultural differences is an increasingly valuable skill. The purpose of this one-credit course is to provide local and international students with a summer learning and residential experience to build a common understanding of diversity through shared dialogue. Summer scholars will have opportunities to participate in weekly topical discussions, community programs, on- and off-campus events, and hosted social/conversation evenings. This course will complement a broad range of courses and is ideal for students in any major, although students invested in possibly pursuing internationally-related programs (e.g., languages, international business, global/area studies, etc.) might be most interested. (1 hour)

CAS 288 - New Media in Pop Culture

The last decades have seen the rise of new media technologies that have become ingrained in many aspects of our everyday lives as Americans. However, as a society and a culture, we have had mixed reactions to everything from smartphones to video games, social media to virtual reality. With each new media we try to answer the question: will it do us more harm or more good? This course is designed to explore our social, cultural, and personal reactions to these technologies by understanding how they have been represented in the pop culture of the past decades. RC/CS (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 288.

CAS 289 - Introduction to French and Francophone Cinema: From Pictures to Pixels 1890 to the Present

Listed also as FREN 289, BWS 289, and MFL 289

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 290 - Hong Kong and Asian Cinema

This course will showcase the extraordinary films coming from Asia, such as Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon. Students will be exposed to the cultures of Hong Kong, China, and Japan through a wide range of films, including martial arts masterpieces, Jackie Chan comedies, historical melodramas, and contemporary dramas. The course will provide historical and cultural background to prepare students to better appreciate these works. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement and the multicultural studies core requirement.

CAS 291 - Film Noir

This course will focus on one of the most fascinating areas of American cinema: crime films and suspense thrillers, such as Double Indemnity and Gilda. These films haunt the imagination, combining stunning visuals with twisted plots. Lectures will discuss the themes and psychological/political significance of these works. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 292.

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 292 - Communication and Social Justice/Ethics

The purpose of this course is to promote a greater understanding of how communication concepts, theories, methods, and forums, such as organizational and corporate communication as well as the media industry (TV, radio, print, film) can be applied to address important global (personal and corporate) issues and problems impacting ethical frameworks and social justice. This course is designed to heighten that awareness as well as give students analytical tools they can use to help themselves with ethical decision making and improving overall the ethical foundation and social justice in communications. CC (3 hours)

CAS 293 - Communication Law

This class will study the philosophy and practice of laws relating to free speech and free press in American society. Students will examine First Amendment protections as well as censorship, copyright, libel, privacy, and government regulation. J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing.

CAS 294 - American Mass Media History

This class analyzes the sources of American news and entertainment media and examines their development up to the present day. J (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 294 and HIST 296.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

CAS 295 - Italian Cinema

(3 hours)

Listed also as ITAL 295

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 298 - Global Media

This class will explore the tension between local and international forces in the world's news and entertainment media. The course begins with a comparison of the major national media systems and traditions, and then moves on to an exploration of the globalization of the media through satellite communication, transnational media corporations, and the exports of the American culture industry. J (3 hours)

CAS 299 - Community-based Learning

Taken in conjunction with a regularly listed communication course, this 1 credit-hour option involves community service and guided reflection. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor

CAS 302 - Special Topics in Health Care Communication

Students will understand the key distinctions in communication tactics in health care organizations. This understanding will help students to facilitate appropriate action and or problem solving for themselves, their families and their community. The course concentrates on nine arcs from the circle of health care communication. CC (3 hours)

CAS 306 - Human Resources and Career Development

CC (3 hours)

Listed also as BAD 245.

CAS 307 - Advanced Public Speaking, Argument, and Debate

This class examines persuasion, or argument, both as a form of communication and a competitive process. It focuses on developing research, critical thinking, and oral communication skills. Students will study the role of argument in public policy debate, and the part argument plays in sustaining a vibrant and engaged civil society. Students will learn how to use a set of systematic strategies to develop both informal and formal arguments. RC/CS (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CAS 155 or CAS 200

CAS 308 - Rhetorical History and Criticism

This course is an in-depth introduction to the long tradition of rhetoric, the various arts of rhetorical criticism, and the theories that underpin this approach to analyzing communication—from the influence of classical thought and the Christian Church to the Enlightenment and postmodern thought. Students will be introduced to a broad range of ideas, topics, artifacts, issues, problems, perspectives, positions, and readings so that they can then apply that knowledge to more confidently craft arguments regarding real-world persuasive communication. This class is writing, research, and critical-thinking intensive. RC/CS (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CAS 204

CAS 309 - Communication Organizational Change

Organizations can't change without people changing first. It is this collaborative effort of individual change that emerges as organizational change. To encourage organizational change, this course will raise awareness that some change, adaptation, or evolution will be needed. By utilizing organizational assessment tools to initiate communication and feedback, we will satisfy the necessity for corporate and organizational change to gain acceptance from employee to board of directors to external constituents. CC (3 hours)

CAS 311 - Health Care Communication

As medical advances make it easier for us to live longer, the ability to communicate in a healthcare setting is increasingly relevant in our daily lives. Whether from the perspective of wellness or disease control, health care can be complicated to navigate. This introductory class will examine the various models of health care communication, marketing, quality assessments, regulatory oversight groups, dealing with patient complaints, methods for measuring patient satisfaction, disability and the medical model, and culture and diversity in healthcare. CC (3 hours)

CAS 320 - Organizational Communication and Behavior

An experimental learning laboratory for developing skills associated with the responsibility of leadership, learning to contend with others on a face-to-face basis, understanding the human needs of others, learning to motivate others to action, and exercising authority in a just and satisfactory manner. CC (3 hours)

CAS 321 - Intercultural Communication

The course is aimed at demonstrating how the theory and insights of cultural anthropology and communication can positively influence the conduct of global business. World culture and economic geography are also included. CC (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

CAS 322 - Intercultural Communication: Globalization and Social Justice

The course introduces students to the complex relationships, structures, and context that shape intercultural communication in this new millennium. The course examines intercultural communication within the geopolitical, economic, and cultural context of globalization and offers a dynamic and complex understanding of culture that addresses the many challenges we face today—from discrimination, racial profiling, and ethnic conflict to local and global wealth disparities. The course takes a social justice approach and provides a framework to create a more just and humane world through communication. CC (3 hours)

CAS 325 - Introduction to Hispanic Cinema

(3 hours)

Listed also as SPAN 325

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 320, or consent of the instructor.

CAS 349 - Photojournalism

In this course students will learn the basic elements of visual communication, reporting, and storytelling through digital photography. J (3 hours)

Listed also as ART 359.

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing.

CAS 350 - Persuasion

This class applies social psychological theories to the construction of persuasive messages. Students learn how to conduct qualitative and quantitative audience analysis and to design visual and oral persuasive messages based on their research and social psychological theories. Analysis, synthesis, and communication skills are stressed. CC, RC/CS (3 hours)

CAS 351 - Propaganda

This course examines the nature, use, history, and ethics of propaganda in modern society. Students will study how governments and movements harness the mass media to further their agendas, and how others try to resist and subvert it. J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

CAS 352 - Convergent Media

This course focuses on a discussion of production practices that use multiple media technologies for strategic communication goals. During the course, case studies of these practices are discussed for journalism, marketing, and entertainment. Students will learn how to produce a strategic communication message across different media technologies. CC, J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CAS 234

CAS 353 - Film and Fairytales

This course will look at films like The Red Shoes, Beauty and the Beast, and Edward Scissorhands. Topics include the history and purpose of fairytales and how they have changed over time. The films will be approached in terms of politics, psychoanalysis, and gender. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 356 - News Reporting

This class builds on the reporting, writing, and editing skills learned in CAS 256 - News Media Writing. Students will report real stories on deadline and publish their articles, photos and videos on the web. J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CAS 256.

CAS 358 - Gender and Media

All cultures recognize differences between the sexes. Yet "masculinity" and "femininity" are understood by anthropologists to be culturally determined. This course looks at theories and instances of gender differences as they are articulated in mass-mediated popular culture discourses. It considers the relationship between gender and genre, explores advertising and consumer ideologies, and considers historical and contemporary film, television, and print media texts. RC/CS (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 358.

CAS 361 - Industrial/Organizational Psychology

CC (3 hours)

Listed also as PSYC 360.

CAS 373 - Film Comedy

This course is an overview of film comedy beginning with silent clowns like Charlie Chaplin through the sound pictures of the Marx Brothers and ending with a look at contemporary black and female performers. Discussion will include the unique aspects of film comedy, political implications, bromance, the use of obscenity, parody, and other topics. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 386

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

CAS 385 - Politics and Film

(3 hours)

Listed also as POSC 262

CAS 396 - Leadership in a Diverse Multicultural Environment

This course provides leaders with the tools necessary to interact effectively with all individuals and subcultures. Rather than exploring expatriates and international assignments, the focus in this course is on leaders in domestic organizations, providing them with the skills to develop their own multicultural awareness and knowledge. CC (3 hours)

CAS 399 - Capstone Project

Taken in conjunction with CAS 262 - Communication Research Methods, CAS 308 - Rhetorical History and Criticism, or CAS 350 - Persuasion. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Concurrent registration in CAS 262, CAS 308, or CAS 350.

CAS 411 - Newspaper Practicum

Students will lead the Dominican Star newspaper and related online productions. J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

CAS 422 - Advanced Journalism

Students will study investigative and specialized journalism techniques, cover an area community, report in-depth stories on a variety of topics, and publish these articles, photos, and video on the web. J (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CAS 356.

CAS 426 - Corporate Communication

This course has two areas of concentration. It examines through case studies the corporate communication function within organizations, including topics such as managing image, corporate advertising, media and investor relations, and government affairs. It also provides experiential learning in the critical interpersonal skills needed to manage. CC (3 hours)

CAS 435 - Communication Capstone

This capstone course will provide students in the communication department with the opportunity to integrate the knowledge and skills they have acquired in their courses to engage in practical communication-related activities and an advanced capstone project related to their major. Additionally, this course will provide students with the opportunity to explore potential careers and post-graduate opportunities. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Communication studies and corporate communication majors need to have completed CAS 204 and CAS 262. Digital Journalism majors need to have completed CAS 204 and CAS 356. Students must have successfully completed a minimum of 15-credit hours in the communication arts and sciences department before they can enroll in this class.

CAS 450 - Independent Study

Open to majors with the consent of the instructor. (1-8 hours)

CAS 455 - Internship

Independent study, internships, and practicum courses are offered in the Department of Communication Arts and Sciences for from 1 to 8 semester hours of total credit; however, at least 28 of the 48 minimum number of semester hours required for the major must come from traditional academic courses. Practicum courses, moreover, may be offered for no more than 2 semester hours of credit during any single semester, may be taken only on a satisfactory/fail basis, and require explicit permission of the instructor. (1-8 hours)

Computer Information Systems

Computer Information Systems

CIS 120 - Introduction to Computer Applications

An introduction to computer applications and their use in today's world. This course emphasizes a hands-on approach and uses some of the leading software applications available for personal computers today. Major topics include word processing, spreadsheets, and database management systems. The course also covers creating web pages and electronic portfolios, cloud document applications, video editing, and presentation software. (3 hours)

CIS 246 - Creating Mobile Apps

Students in this course will explore and utilize tools that enable the creation of mobile apps. Students will build apps for a variety of devices, including the Google Android, Apple iPhone, and Windows Mobile devices. Students will also acquire an understanding of mobile app design and implementation issues, as well as an appreciation for the advantages and limitations of various mobile app building tools available today. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CIS 120

Computer Science

Computer Science - B.S.

The computer science major at Dominican includes a core set of courses in software development, along with a wide range of electives. The curriculum is on the cutting edge, constantly changing to keep up with the latest technology. Classes cover both the theory and applications of computer science and expose students to applications in a variety of fields. Coupled with Dominican's comprehensive liberal arts program, the computer science major provides students with the critical thinking skills required to succeed in a complex and ever-changing society.

Major Requirements:

A Bachelor of Science degree in computer science requires that a student successfully complete the following:

Required Courses:

- CPSC 155 - Computer Programming
- CPSC 165 - Computer Programming II - Data Structures
- CPSC 245 - Operating Systems
- CPSC 275 - Windows-Based Application Development
- CPSC 280 - Web Development
- CPSC 285 - Database Design and Programming
- CPSC 299 - Community-Based Learning
- CPSC 321 - Web Development II
- CPSC 323 - Advanced Data Structures and Algorithm Analysis
- CPSC 430 - Information Systems Development Practices
- CPSC 455 - Internship (at least 1 credit hour)
- CPSC 475 - Senior Software Development Experience
- Nine additional semester hours of computer science courses.
- MATH 240 - Discrete Structures
- ENGL 336 - Writing at Work
- Either CAS 200 - Business and Professional Speech or CAS 320 - Organizational Communication and Behavior

Additional Requirements:

To enroll in a computer science class that has course prerequisites, a student must have completed all prerequisite courses with a minimum grade of C-. A minimum of seven courses in computer science at the 200 level or above must be completed at Dominican.

It is recommended that students planning on doing graduate work in computer science also take MATH 251/MATH 261 and MATH 262.

Some computer science courses are not offered every year. It is strongly recommended that a student who plans to major in computer science consult with a faculty member of that department as early as possible in his or her college career.

Computer Science Minor

Minor Requirements:

Required Courses:

Students interested in a computer science minor must complete:

- CPSC 155 - Computer Programming
- CPSC 165 - Computer Programming II - Data Structures
- Four additional computer science courses at the 200 level or above (excluding CPSC 299)

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of four courses in computer science must be completed at Dominican.

Computer Science Courses

CPSC 140 - Introduction to Computer Programming for Non-Majors

NOTE: This course is designed for interested students who are not planning a computer science major or minor. It does not count toward the computer science major or minor.

An introduction to the principles and practice of computer programming using a modern high-level object-oriented programming language. Students will design, program, and debug programs of increasing complexity while learning about important concepts such as variables and data types, arrays, input/output, iteration, conditionals, functions, and file handling. This course assumes no prior programming experience. (3 hours)

CPSC 155 - Computer Programming

An object early introduction to programming. The course emphasizes the fundamentals of object-oriented programming (classes, objects, methods, inheritance, polymorphism, libraries, encapsulation) and at the same time introduces other software engineering and programming concepts (conditional statements, iteration, input/output, arrays, types, files, collections). (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 120 or placement by exam above MATH 120.

This course focuses on commonly used data structures, including stacks, queues, linked lists, and binary search trees.

Students will study each data structure's design and implementation, use data structures in applications, and consider data structures from a comparative perspective. Topics covered include array handling, sorting and searching algorithms, recursion, inheritance, abstract classes, and interfaces. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 155.

CPSC 245 - Operating Systems

This course provides an introduction to computer operating systems and their role, organization, and control. Topics discussed include resource allocation and management, scheduling algorithms, process management, memory management, process synchronization mechanisms, concurrent programming, and techniques employed in multiprogramming and multiprocessing environments. In addition, a special emphasis is placed on contemporary operating systems. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 165.

CPSC 275 - Windows-Based Application Development

Students will learn how to create a Windows-based application using Visual Studio and the .NET Framework. This course teaches the fundamental concepts behind these applications including event-driven programming, and will use both the C# and Visual Basic .NET languages. Students will also create front ends to databases, create games, build their own controls, and write programs that interact with Microsoft Office software. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 165.

CPSC 280 - Web Development

Students will design and develop web sites using client-side web technologies. The course provides an overview of clients and servers, browsers, scripting, and multimedia web applications. The primary focus of the course is the development of websites using client technologies including HTML5 and CSS3, JavaScript, Bootstrap, and jQuery. Time permitting, additional topics will include some database applications and an introduction to web commerce applications, basic ASP.NET and Ajax. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 155 and sophomore standing.

CPSC 285 - Database Design and Programming

The study of relational database systems. Topics include SQL, the relational model, security, normalization, functional dependency and entity relationship diagrams, database design, recovery, transaction processing, ethics, and client server systems. The course also covers DBMS packages, report generators, and the use of Visual Studio and .NET languages as a front-end to database systems. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CIS 120 and CPSC 275

CPSC 299 - Community-Based Learning

Students will perform computer-related volunteer work for one semester under the supervision of an instructor. Students will work for at least 45 hours on their service learning project. This course can only be taken on a satisfactory/fail basis. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): CIS 120 and CPSC 280.

CPSC 320 - Information Security

This course is an examination of information security, including discussion of network security and application security. The course covers the theory and practice of information security, including security principles, practices, methods, and tools. The course covers the spectrum of information security, from risk assessment to preventing, detecting, and responding to breaches of security. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 165.

CPSC 321 - Web Development II

Students will continue to design and develop web applications. Students will code applications that use server-side technologies including PHP, ASP.NET Web Forms and ASP.NET MVC. The development of web server applications including database applications is the main focus. The role and use of web servers and CMS systems are also discussed. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 280 and CPSC 285.

CPSC 323 - Advanced Data Structures and Algorithm Analysis

This course focuses on the design and analysis of efficient algorithms. Major topics include advanced data structures; tree- balancing algorithms; graph theory; dynamic programming; additional techniques for sorting and searching, including hash coding techniques; automata theory; NP-completeness, and program verification. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 165, MATH 240, and junior standing.

CPSC 340 - Network Programming

This course focuses on developing Windows software that communicates over the Internet. The course will cover creating network connections and using standard protocols for communicating information over those connections, as well as creating our own. It will cover technology like XML and JSON for sending that information, as well as multi-threading and asynchronous calls to allow the programs to perform other tasks while they communicate. We will discuss and implement encryption and secure passwords to secure the communication. Additionally, the course will introduce some related technologies such as web scraping and cloud computing. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 275.

CPSC 361 - Computer Architecture

This course presents an introduction to the functional elements and structures of digital computers. Topics include basic gates and circuits, CPU design and organization, registers, buses, I/O device interfaces, hardware interrupts, pipelining, memory structures and organizations. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 165 and MATH 240.

CPSC 415 - Advanced Database Development

This course explores advanced topics in client server and database development. It covers the programming and administration of database systems and includes views, stored procedures, triggers, indexes, constraints, security, roles, logs, maintenance, transaction processing, XML, reporting, and other relevant topics. Students will be exposed to several database packages and will do considerable database programming. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 285

CPSC 416 - Data Mining

Introduction to basic concepts behind data mining. Survey of data mining applications, techniques and models. Discussion of ethics and privacy issues with respect to invasive use. Introduction to data mining software suite. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 415

CPSC 425 - Artificial Intelligence

This course introduces the student to the basic concepts and techniques of artificial intelligence (AI), combining focus on both the theory and practice of AI. Topics may include intelligent agents, knowledge representation, knowledge engineering, natural language, vision systems, robotics, and machine learning. (3 hours)

CPSC 430 - Information Systems Development Practices

Study of information systems development processes, methods and practices, from scope definition through delivery, with focus on methods for defining scope, capturing and modeling system requirements, and building software iteratively and incrementally. Competing methodologies for systems development are examined. The central component of the class is a systems development project where student teams develop software for a client, during which there is substantial interaction with future system users as well as other team members. Additional topics include use case/user story development, data modeling, object-oriented analysis and design, and user interface design. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 285 and senior standing.

CPSC 434 - Principles of Unix

Students are introduced to a UNIX environment through a shared Linux system. While working in teams on a semester-long project on the Raspberry Pi platform, students will become proficient with the system through the use of diverse sets of tools. This project will require a substantial software development effort under a UNIX based environment to be coordinated via the use of Git and GitHub (these tools will be introduced in the course). In addition to creating basic bash shell scripts, students will also write basic programs in Python and C. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 245.

CPSC 446 - Mobile Applications Development

Students will design and code mobile apps using the latest in mobile application development technologies. Topics include mobile operating systems and app development using the Android SDK and the Apple Developer SDK for Android and Apple phone, tablet, and smartwatch devices. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 275 and CPSC 280.

CPSC 447 - Game Development

This course introduces the student to game development. Students will learn how to use the XNA toolset to develop different types of games for multiple platforms- the personal computer, the Xbox, and the Windows phone. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 275.

CPSC 450 - Independent Study

Independent reading and/or research on special topics in computer science. (1-4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of faculty supervisor.

CPSC 455 - Internship

Experience as a computer professional under the joint supervision of a faculty member and an assigned business manager. (1-8 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing in computer science and the consent of the department.

CPSC 461 - Advanced Topics in Computer Science

Topics of current interest. May be repeated for credit. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Varies as topics change.

CPSC 471 - Senior Project

A comprehensive, independent project in the senior year under the guidance of a computer science faculty member. It includes design, development, coding, testing, and documentation of a software application. Project proposal must be approved before the start of the semester in which this class is taken. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 321 CPSC 430 senior standing and consent of department.

CPSC 475 - Senior Software Development Experience

Students will work in teams to develop, test, and deliver substantial information systems begun during Systems Analysis and Design. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CPSC 321 CPSC 430 and senior standing.

Criminology

The sociology/criminology department is designed to advance the overall university mission by offering a value-centered approach to the social sciences alongside substantive preparation for a variety of professional endeavors. The mission of the department is to provide students a program that combines the scientific study of social institutions and the social organization of human behavior with a critical understanding of law, human rights, social justice, social action, and advocacy.

Criminology - B.A.

The major in criminology offers a career-enhancing liberal arts curriculum based upon the sociological study of law and concepts of justice and social control, and it provides an understanding of the structural roots of deviance, delinquency, crime, victimization, crime control, and related social policies. Students majoring in criminology undergo a comprehensive program of study and are prepared for professional employment in a number of occupations related to social service and law; for graduate study in criminology, the sociology of law, or justice studies; or for law school. Students are also encouraged to acquire practical experience through internships and service learning opportunities. For additional information regarding the criminology major, students should consult an advisor in the Department of Sociology and Criminology.

Major Requirements:

Forty semester hours chosen in conference with an advisor, including:

Required Courses:

Sociological Foundation Courses (13 semester hours):

- SOC 110 - Introduction to Sociology
- SOC 200 - Writing in the Discipline
- SOC 361 - Introduction to Social Statistics
- SOC 362 - Research Methods

Criminology Courses (9 semester hours):

- CRIM 255 - Introduction to Criminology
and two courses from:
- CRIM 242 - Juvenile Delinquency and Juvenile Justice
- CRIM 265 - Crime and Social Justice
- CRIM 320 - Gender and Violence
- CRIM 325 - Conflict Resolution
- CRIM 370 - Deviance and Social Control

Specialized Social and Legal Theory (6 semester hours):

Complete one of the follow two-course options :

Option #1 - Complete the following two courses:

- CRIM 372 - Law and Society
- CRIM 406 - Theories of Crime Control

Option #2 - Complete one of the following two courses:

- CRIM 372 - Law and Society
- CRIM 406 - Theories of Crime Control

and complete one of the following courses:

- CRIM 408 - International and Comparative Criminology
- SOC 380 - Social Inequality
- SOC 381 - Transnational Feminist Theories
- SOC 382 - Social Change: Race, Gender, and Social Class
- SOC 385 - Critical Theoretical Approaches to Race and Ethnicity
- SOC 407 - Classical Social Theory
- SOC 409 - Contemporary Social Theory

Twelve additional semester hours chosen from:

- CRIM 242 - Juvenile Delinquency and Juvenile Justice
- CRIM 265 - Crime and Social Justice
- CRIM 320 - Gender and Violence
- CRIM 325 - Conflict Resolution
- CRIM 370 - Deviance and Social Control
- CRIM 372 - Law and Society
- CRIM 406 - Theories of Crime Control
- CRIM 408 - International and Comparative Criminology
- SOC 203 - Race and Race Relations in the U.S.
- SOC 204 - Latin America Today
- SOC 205 - Latina/o Sociology
- SOC 210 - Sociology of the Family
- SOC 220 - Introduction to Gerontology
- SOC 222 - Mass Media and Society
- SOC 225 - Introduction to Social Work and Social Welfare
- SOC 240 - Self and Society
- SOC 245 - Contemporary Social Problems
- SOC 250 - Urban Sociology
- SOC 268 - Cultural Anthropology

- SOC 280 - Discrimination and Society
- SOC 285 - The Racial and Musical Legacy of Memphis and the Mississippi Delta
- SOC 286 - Blues and the Spirit: A Seminar and Service Learning Experience on Chicago Blues and Gospel Music
- SOC 302 - Sociology of Globalization and Development
- SOC 330 - Human Sexualities
- SOC 350 - Women and Development
- SOC 380 - Social Inequality
- SOC 381 - Transnational Feminist Theories
- SOC 382 - Social Change: Race, Gender, and Social Class
- SOC 385 - Critical Theoretical Approaches to Race and Ethnicity
- SOC 407 - Classical Social Theory
- SOC 409 - Contemporary Social Theory

Additional Information

Course substitutions are permitted when deemed necessary in consultation with an advisor and subject to the approval of the department chair. STA (study abroad) courses are permitted as course substitutions in consultation with an advisor and subject to the approval of the department chair.

Students are also encouraged to acquire practical experience through internships, community-based learning opportunities, and study abroad or domestic study courses. For additional information regarding the sociology program and its concentrations, students should consult an advisor in the Department of Sociology and Criminology.

Criminology Minor

Minor Requirements:

Eighteen semester hours consisting of:

Required Courses:

- SOC 110 - Introduction to Sociology
 - CRIM 255 - Introduction to Criminology
 - CRIM 372 - Law and Society
- Complete three of the following courses:*
- CRIM 242 - Juvenile Delinquency and Juvenile Justice
 - CRIM 265 - Crime and Social Justice
 - CRIM 320 - Gender and Violence
 - CRIM 370 - Deviance and Social Control
 - CRIM 406 - Theories of Crime Control
 - CRIM 408 - International and Comparative Criminology

Additional Requirements:

Course substitutions are permitted when deemed necessary in consultation with an advisor and are subject to the approval of the department chair. STA (Study Abroad) courses are permitted as course substitutions in consultation with an advisor and subject to the approval of the department chair.

A minimum of four courses in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

the department chair. STA (study abroad) courses are permitted as course substitutions in consultation with an advisor and subject to the approval of the department chair.

Students are also encouraged to acquire practical experience through internships, community-based learning opportunities, and study abroad or domestic study courses. For additional information regarding the sociology program and its concentrations, students should consult an advisor in the Department of Sociology and Criminology.

Special Opportunities

The following opportunities are available to criminology majors interested in pursuing graduate study in social work

5-Year BA/MSW

Majors have the option of pursuing a track that leads to completion of a Master of Social Work degree in approximately one year after obtaining their Bachelor of Arts degree. Students may apply two of their undergraduate major courses and up to 18 hours of general electives toward the 124 needed for the undergraduate degree toward the MSW with departmental approval. Acceptance into the Graduate School of Social Work is contingent upon completion of all undergraduate requirements in the major and an overall grade point average of 3.25. Students who are interested in the 5-year BA/MSW should meet with the department chair of sociology and criminology soon after they declare their major, before they achieve junior standing.

Bridge Program

Majors who decide in their junior or senior year to pursue a Master of Social Work degree may take two classes in the Graduate School of Social Work during their senior year with departmental approval. Acceptance into the Graduate School of Social Work is contingent upon completion of all undergraduate requirements in the major and an overall grade point average of 3.25. Students who are interested in the bridge program should speak to the department chair of sociology and criminology before registering for their senior year classes.

Criminology Courses

CRIM 201 - Solitary Confinement and Human Rights

Students will learn about history and practices of solitary confinement in US jails, prisons, and immigration detention facilities within the broader context of mass incarceration and state social control policy. There will be a significant focus on diverse cultural and religious perspectives on human rights, social justice, and penal practices. The course will engage students in a creative process to share their learning with the Dominican community through the creation of research-based handouts, the construction of a mock solitary cell matching the specifications used in most US detention facilities, and art and performance. (1 hour)

Listed also as SOC 201, THEA 201, THEO 201.

CRIM 242 - Juvenile Delinquency and Juvenile Justice

An examination of theories of delinquent behavior and an introduction to the field of juvenile justice practice. Explores the social construction of childhood, adolescence, deviance, and delinquency, and analyzes the social, historical, and legal contexts within which delinquency occurs. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

CRIM 255 - Introduction to Criminology

Study of criminal behavior, legal norms, and social attitudes toward crime and criminals. Criminology draws upon the sociology of law, analysis of conflict as theoretical explanations of the cause of crime, and the study of the social psychological determinants of crime. Methods of apprehension and punishment, individual and social reform, and the prevention of crime are emphasized. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SOC 110, CRIM 242, CRIM 265, or consent of instructor.

CRIM 265 - Crime and Social Justice

An inquiry into the relationship between state, crime, and social structure, with special emphasis on the linkages between social oppression, social inequality, and criminalization of social conduct as reflected in contemporary issues. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

CRIM 270 - Police and Society

This course examines the history and role of the police in the contemporary United States and to a lesser extent in other societies. The focus is on social forces that shape the demographic composition of police forces as well as the practice of policing and social control by a group of professionals. Topics include diversity and police, community and police relations, technology and policing, the media's relationship to police and policing, police as a unionized workforce, the relationship between police, politics, and law; and police suffering. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CRIM 242, CRIM 255, CRIM 265, or SOC 110.

CRIM 275 - Criminal and Deviant Livelihoods

This course examines ways of earning a living that may receive social acceptance but are still informal, marginal, and/or illegal. Social processes such as professional monopolization, cultural practices, globalization, and competing views about law as consensus or conflict, and law as morality are explored for their impact on the criminalization of certain income-generating activities. Topics can include panhandling/begging, forms of surrogacy, street vending, busking, financial fraud, sex work/prostitution/human trafficking, and the illegal trade in drugs, arms, animals, and organs. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CRIM 255, CRIM 265, or SOC 110.

CRIM 290 - Selected Topics in Criminology

A special offering on a particular area of interest in criminology, offered as available. (3 hours)

CRIM 299 - Community-based Learning

Taken in conjunction with a regularly listed criminology course, this one-credit-hour option involves community service and guided reflection. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

CRIM 320 - Gender and Violence

An examination of the structural roots of gender-based violence, including domestic abuse, sexual assault, hate crimes, colonization and genocide, law enforcement abuse, international violence, and war. Strong focus on anti-violence organizing. Required service learning component. (3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 320 and SWG 320.

Prerequisite(s): SOC 110, SOC 230, SOC 240, SOC 280, or SOC 350, or consent of instructor.

CRIM 325 - Conflict Resolution

An examination of conflict resolution theory and practice including negotiation and mediation with an analysis of how emotion, power, culture, and other components affect conflict escalation, de-escalation, and resolution. This course will emphasize facilitative mediation process and skills through interactive exercises and simulations. (3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 325.

CRIM 370 - Deviance and Social Control

Analysis of norms related to the law, the origins and functions of deviance in society, the institutional production and categorization of deviance, the impact of deviance on personal identity, deviant careers, and deviance and social change. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SOC 110 and CRIM 255, or consent of the instructor.

CRIM 372 - Law and Society

Advanced analysis of the legal order from a critical, sociological perspective. The rise of modern law and its relationship to other social institutions is treated, with consideration given to social theories of legality and current controversies within the field. Examines conceptions of American citizenship through analysis of the African-American experience and issues of civic inclusion, including review of historically important trials, civil rights organizing, and contemporary racial issues in the criminal legal system. (3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 372 and BWS 372.

Prerequisite(s): SOC 110, CRIM 255, and junior standing or consent of the instructor.

CRIM 406 - Theories of Crime Control

An in-depth analysis of the U.S. prison industrial complex, including analysis of alternative sentencing structures in community-based corrections, theories of incapacitation and deterrence, consideration of surveillance and state disciplinary structures, and strategies for building healthy communities. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SOC 110, CRIM 255, and senior standing or consent of instructor.

CRIM 408 - International and ComparativeCriminology

An exploration into constructions of justice in multiple cultural, national, and international contexts. This is a seminar course that focuses on the international war on drugs, comparative analysis of criminal legal systems, and alternative systems of justice, and requires a major research project. (3 hours)

CRIM 450 - Independent Study

An opportunity to do independent research or study under faculty supervision. (1-8 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the supervisory faculty member.

CRIM 455 - Internship

Internships in a variety of agencies and organizations involved with the delivery of social services, social justice advocacy and/or criminal justice are available under faculty supervision. Student participants enhance their research proficiency while gaining valuable work experience in an area of their interest. (1-8 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior standing and consent of the supervisory faculty member.

Digital Cinema

Digital Cinema - B.A.

As an outgrowth of the photography discipline, digital cinema places emphasis on using camera media as tools for individual investigation and expression within a broader humanist dialogue of study. It is perceived as a direct extension of the individual in a world requiring the articulation of the lens-based image, as a necessary part of conducting one's personal and professional life. The digital cinema major extends this continuity between the still and moving image. Students in this interdisciplinary major are engaged in critical thought and a self-motivated practice.

Major Requirements:

Forty-five semester hours, as outlined below.

A minimum of 24 semester hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican, including the capstone requirement.

Required Core Courses:

Complete the following 9 hours in the art foundations core:

- ART 102 - Introduction to Sculpture
- ART 105 - Fundamentals of Drawing
- ART 208 - Introduction to Design Applications

Complete the following 12 hours in the cinema core:

- ART 230 - Beginning Color Photography
- DCIN 253 - Beginning Video Production
- THEA 180 - Acting Fundamentals
- CAS 226 - Introduction to Film Studies

Complete one of the following writing elective courses:

- CAS 256 - News Media Writing
- THEA 340 - Writing Drama
- ENGL 211 - Introduction to Creative Writing

Complete one of the following capstone courses:

- DCIN 495 - Investigative Portfolio
- ART 445 - Senior Thesis (recommended for double majors with Art and Design)

Studio Requirements

Nine semester hours, including:

Complete two of the following production courses:

- DCIN 360 - Narrative Video Production
- DCIN 380 - Experimental Production
- DCIN 390 - Special Topics in Cinema

Complete one of the following three courses:

- CAS 146 - Multimedia Web Production
- CAS 239 - Television Production II
- ART 330 - Motion Graphics

Elective Requirements

Nine semester hours chosen from the following:

- ARTH 265 - History of 20th-Century Photography
- ARTH 419 - Contemporary Art Capstone
- ART 395 - Interdisciplinary Practices
- CAS 234 - Digital Communication: Technology and Criticism
- CAS 277 - Women and Film
- CAS 278 - Seeing Hitchcock
- CAS 290 - Hong Kong and Asian Cinema
- CAS 291 - Film Noir
- CAS 352 - Convergent Media
- CAS 373 - Film Comedy
- CAS 385 - Politics and Film
- ENGL 340 - Writing Drama
- FREN 289 - Introduction to French and Francophone Cinema: From Pictures to Pixels 1890 to the Present
- ITAL 295 - Italian Cinema
- SPAN 325 - Introduction to Hispanic Cinema
- THEA 284 - Solo Performance
- THEA 308 - On-Camera Acting

Digital Cinema Minor

Minor Requirements:

Eighteen semester hours including:

Required Cinema Core Courses:

- DCIN 253 - Beginning Video Production

Six semester hours chosen from the following:

- ART 230 - Beginning Color Photography
- CAS 226 - Introduction to Film Studies
- THEA 180 - Acting Fundamentals

Elective Requirements

Nine semester hours chosen from any studio or elective requirements listed in the digital cinema major.

Additional Information

DCIN 495 - Investigative Portfolio is highly encouraged, but not required for the minor. The minor is meant to target a specific aspect of study from production, writing, performance, or criticism.

Digital Cinema Courses

DCIN 253 - Beginning Video Production

Contemporary narrative concepts and digital cinema methods are introduced in this course within the contexts of video art and personal filmmaking. The Mac OS X platform, Final Cut and Adobe Premiere are used as the primary editing experiences. Cinema majors are expected to provide their own DSLR or camcorder for subsequent courses. Otherwise cameras are available for check-out for enrolled students. Offered every fall and spring. A lab fee will be charged. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

DCIN 360 - Narrative Video Production

Centered on the filmmaker as director scenario, this studio course addresses the production of originally scripted material. Projects target work with actors, lighting, and location. An online portfolio is expected of all students by the end of the semester. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): DCIN 253, THEA 340 are strongly encouraged but not required.

DCIN 380 - Experimental Production

Advanced editing techniques, multi-channel works, sound, and installation are addressed in this non-narrative course. Active dialogue is maintained with still photography and sculpture, meant to create hybrid forms of installation-based video. 16mm filmmaking may also be addressed. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): DCIN 253

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

DCIN 390 - Special Topics in Cinema

A rotating list of electives including: documentary, stop-motion animation, post-production image and sound, as well as Florentine sketches, images, and inventions. (3 hours)

DCIN 495 - Investigative Portfolio

This capstone study places emphasis on the lens-based experience as an opportunity to execute a portfolio-length research project in narrative, documentary or experimental modes. Students design the final outcome from a range of options, including screening, online media and published media. A public lecture is expected of all participants at the annual Undergraduate Research Symposium every April. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing.

Engineering

The engineering program is offered jointly with Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) through a formal agreement. The five-year program leads to a Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Arts degree in mathematics, mathematics and computer science, or chemistry from Dominican University and a Bachelor of Science degree in engineering from IIT.

Engineering

During the first four semesters candidates take courses in mathematics, physics, chemistry, and computer programming in addition to liberal arts courses at Dominican University. Students not prepared to take calculus and university physics in their freshman year likely need to take additional summer courses. Starting with the junior year, qualifying participants take engineering courses at IIT while continuing to take science, mathematics, computer science, and liberal arts courses at Dominican. Students must apply to IIT for joint program participation with part-time student status. Tuition is paid at Dominican University only.

Seven engineering majors are offered through this program each of which is paired up with a major at DU:

Aerospace Engineering-Mathematics

Architectural Engineering-Mathematics

Chemical Engineering-Chemistry

Civil Engineering-Mathematics

Computer Engineering-Mathematics and Computer Science

Electrical Engineering-Mathematics

Mechanical Engineering-Mathematics

Students need to earn a cumulative G.P.A. of 3.0 or higher in their first two years at DU and earn at a B or higher in all mathematics, science, and computer science courses taken at Dominican University. Before applying to IIT for the joint program, students must have passed at least the following courses at Dominican University:

- MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I
- MATH 262 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus II
- MATH 280 - Introduction to Differential Equations
- PHYS 221 - University Physics I
- PHYS 222 - University Physics II
- CHEM 120 - General Chemistry I (chemical engineering majors also need CHEM 121 - General Chemistry II, CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I, CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II)
- CPSC 155 - Computer Programming
- ENGL 102 - Composition II: Writing as a Way of Knowing
- Freshman and Sophomore Seminars

It is strongly recommended that students complete the modern foreign language program in their first two years of study.

Additional course work is necessary to complete the major at Dominican University and to be prepared for specific engineering courses. Please see the description of the respective majors at Dominican University in this bulletin. Students are advised to indicate their interest in the program and consult with the director of the engineering program as early as possible in their college careers.

English

The English department aims to develop knowledge and appreciation of literature in English and of the various cultures, beliefs, and experiences expressed in this literature, as well as the faculty of sound criticism and skill and grace in English expression as a means of personal development and professional preparation.

English - B.A.

The Department of English offers three areas of concentration in the English major:

- Literature
- Writing
- English education

All English majors must pass the departmental English examination administered during the senior year. A minimum of 15 hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

English with a Concentration in Literature

The English major with a concentration in literature focuses on the study and analysis of important works of literature in English from the eighth century to the present within a historical context. This concentration serves as an excellent preparation for graduate study in literature, library science, law, and other careers.

Major Requirements:

- ENGL 272 - Writing for English Majors
- ENGL 274 - Introduction to English Studies
- ENGL 354 - Chaucer
- ENGL 359 - Shakespeare
- ENGL 404 - Comprehensive Examination
- ENGL 412 - English Senior Integrating Seminar

- ENGL 286 - American Short Story
- ENGL 290 - Modern British Fiction

- ENGL 291 - Modern American Fiction
- ENGL 292 - Modern Drama
- ENGL 293 - Modern Poetry

Complete one course from the following:

- ENGL 221 - Literature of the African Diaspora
- ENGL 222 - Black Women Writers
- ENGL 230 - World Literature
- ENGL 234 - Bible, Mythology, and Literature
- ENGL 247 - Literary London and Beyond
- ENGL 248 - Modern Irish Literature
- ENGL 287 - Contemporary Multiethnic U.S. Literature
- ENGL 289 - U.S. Latino/a Literature
- ENGL 294 - Southern Literature
- ENGL 295 - The Chicago Scene in Literature
- ENGL 297 - Postcolonial Literature
- ENGL 298 - African-American Literature

Complete two period courses in American literature:

- ENGL 342 - American Native/Colonial and Revolutionary Literature
- ENGL 343 - American Romantic and Realist Literature
- ENGL 344 - American Modern and Postmodern Literature
- Complete three period courses in British literature: at least one from before 1660 (ENGL 306, ENGL 310, ENGL 316) and one from after 1660 (ENGL 317, ENGL 322, ENGL 326)
- Complete one 400-level seminar (420-439) in addition to ENGL 412

Additional Requirements:

- Successful completion of the departmental English examination (see ENGL 404).

English with a Concentration in Writing

The English major with a concentration in writing offers students instruction in the principles of good writing, acquaintance with models of good writing, and opportunities to practice their craft in a variety of genres. This concentration prepares students for graduate study in writing or literature and for professional positions in publishing, business, and not-for-profit organizations.

Major Requirements:

- ENGL 211 - Introduction to Creative Writing
- ENGL 272 - Writing for English Majors
- ENGL 274 - Introduction to English Studies
- ENGL 359 - Shakespeare
- ENGL 404 - Comprehensive Examination
- ENGL 405 - Senior Writing Portfolio
- ENGL 412 - English Senior Integrating Seminar
- Complete four courses in English or American literature beyond the 100-level, at least one of them at the 300 level or above.

Complete four courses from the following list. At least one of the four must be ENGL 337, ENGL 338, ENGL 339, or ENGL 340; at least one of the four must be ENGL 333, ENGL 335, or ENGL 336:

- ENGL 333 - The Art of Editing
- ENGL 335 - Writing as Social Action
- ENGL 336 - Writing at Work
- ENGL 337 - Writing Life Stories
- ENGL 338 - Writing Fiction
- ENGL 339 - Writing Poetry
- ENGL 340 - Writing Drama
- ENGL 345 - Advanced Academic Writing
- CAS 256 - News Media Writing

Additional Requirements:

- A writing portfolio.
- Successful completion of the departmental English examination (See ENGL 404).

English with a Concentration in English Education

The English major with a concentration in English education offers students broad study of important works in literature in English during various periods within a historical context. It is designed to help prepare students for the teaching profession and also for graduate study in English or education.

Major Requirements:

- ENGL 230 - World Literature OR STA 260 - The al-Andalus in World Literature: Interfaith Dialogue and the People of the Book
- ENGL 272 - Writing for English Majors
- ENGL 274 - Introduction to English Studies
- ENGL 359 - Shakespeare
- ENGL 404 - Comprehensive Examination
- ENGL 412 - English Senior Integrating Seminar

Complete three period courses in British literature:

- Two courses from before 1660 (ENGL 306, ENGL 310, or ENGL 316; ENGL 354 may be substituted for one of these two courses)
- One course from after 1660 (ENGL 317, ENGL 322, or ENGL 326)

Complete one genre course:

- ENGL 210 - Autobiography
- ENGL 240 - Forms of Drama
- ENGL 245 - Reading Nature/Writing Nature
- ENGL 250 - Poetry: Form, Feeling, Meaning
- ENGL 260 - The English Drama
- ENGL 261 - Shakespeare's Romantic Couples
- ENGL 262 - Shakespeare's Tragic Families
- ENGL 263 - Introduction to Shakespeare
- ENGL 270 - The English Essay
- ENGL 284 - The English Novel
- ENGL 285 - The American Novel
- ENGL 286 - American Short Story
- ENGL 290 - Modern British Fiction
- ENGL 291 - Modern American Fiction
- ENGL 292 - Modern Drama
- ENGL 293 - Modern Poetry

Complete one course from the following:

- ENGL 234 - Bible, Mythology, and Literature
- ENGL 247 - Literary London and Beyond
- ENGL 248 - Modern Irish Literature
- ENGL 287 - Contemporary Multiethnic U.S. Literature
- ENGL 294 - Southern Literature

- ENGL 297 - Postcolonial Literature
- ENGL 298 - African-American Literature

Complete two period courses in American literature:

- ENGL 342 - American Native/Colonial and Revolutionary Literature
- ENGL 343 - American Romantic and Realist Literature
- ENGL 344 - American Modern and Postmodern Literature
- Complete one 400-level seminar (420-439) in addition to ENGL 412

Additional Requirements:

- Successful completion of the departmental English examination (see ENGL 404).

Teacher Licensure: English/Language Arts grades 9-12

Students who wish to teach English/Language Arts in grades 9 through 12 complete a major in English with a concentration in English education and they complete the School of Education's Teacher Education Program for secondary licensure.

Teacher Education Program

- Professional education courses including EDUC 401 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching English in Middle and Secondary Schools
- Three state tests: the Test of Academic Proficiency, the Elementary/Middle Grades content test, and the grades K-9 Assessment of Professional Teaching
- 100 hours of field experience
- Professional portfolio
- Clinical practice (one full semester) in a middle or secondary classroom.

For more information about 9-12 licensure, see the School of Education section of this bulletin.

English Minor

Minor Requirements:

Six English courses of at least 3 semester hours each beyond the 100-level courses:

Required Courses:

- ENGL 359 - Shakespeare
- Complete three courses in English and/or American literature.

Complete two of the following writing courses:

- ENGL 211 - Introduction to Creative Writing
- ENGL 272 - Writing for English Majors
- ENGL 333 - The Art of Editing
- ENGL 335 - Writing as Social Action
- ENGL 336 - Writing at Work
- ENGL 337 - Writing Life Stories
- ENGL 338 - Writing Fiction
- ENGL 339 - Writing Poetry
- ENGL 340 - Writing Drama
- ENGL 345 - Advanced Academic Writing

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 9 hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

English Writing Courses

ENGL 090 - Basic Skills in Reading and Composition

Development of fundamental skills in reading comprehension and writing, with emphasis on vocabulary development, sentence structure, and paragraph comprehension and composition. Open only to students with English as a second language. This course is offered on a satisfactory/fail basis.

This course is a developmental course and will not count toward the semester hours required for graduation. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination only.

ENGL 100 - College Writing

Development of skill in reading academic texts and writing clear and correct sentences, coherent paragraphs, and short essays that draw on ideas from personal experience and assigned readings to develop a thesis. A student must receive a grade of C- or higher to advance to ENGL 101. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination.

ENGL 101 - Composition I: Writing as Discovery and Action

Writing is a way of discovering and shaping our world, as well as a way of acting in the world. Through a variety of interrelated reading and writing assignments, with an emphasis on essays and other short forms, students in this course will explore how to use writing to learn, to create, and to act, particularly in the university but also in the world outside the university. A student must receive a grade of C- or higher to advance to the ENGL 102. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 100 or placement through examination.

ENGL 102 - Composition II: Writing as a Way of Knowing

Students and teachers in the university use a complex set of reading and writing practices to create and share knowledge and to pose and solve both theoretical and practical problems. In this course, students will learn how to use these practices to pose questions, do appropriate reading and research to answer those questions, and present their answers in papers that observe the conventions of academic writing. This course includes the Information Access Workshop required of undergraduates. A student must receive a grade of C- or higher to fulfill the core curriculum foundation requirement. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101 or placement through examination.

ENGL 103 - Writing Tutorial

Individualized writing instruction through the university writing center. Placement examination results may require some students to take this course in conjunction with ENGL 100 and ENGL 101 as a prerequisite for ENGL 102. This course may also be required by instructors for students taking ENGL 102. This course is graded on a satisfactory/fail basis and may be taken for credit more than one time. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Placement or consent of instructor.

ENGL 190 - Intermediate Composition

For students who have completed ENGL 101 and ENGL 102 or the equivalents, this course offers further instruction and practice in writing essays and other kinds of academic papers. This course includes the Information Access Workshop required of undergraduates. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement (transfer students only), ENGL 102, or equivalent.

ENGL 211 - Introduction to Creative Writing

Study of the fundamentals of good writing in a variety of literary genres - poetry, fiction, drama. Analysis of the work of professionals and students. Short critical and creative pieces in the three genres are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 272 - Writing for English Majors

Study and practice of the fundamentals of writing in a variety of genres with emphasis on the elements of form. Close attention to the design of the whole piece, to the role of style in communicating its meanings, and to the stylistic and rhetorical functions of sentence structure and grammar. Analysis of professional and student models. Several short papers and writing exercises will be required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102; English majors or minors only. Must be completed before accumulating 60 credit hours (transfer students must take the course in their first year at Dominican). May be taken concurrently with 300-level courses in the major.

ENGL 333 - The Art of Editing

Instruction in editorial practices followed in a variety of contexts: academic, journalistic, literary, and organizational (for-profit and nonprofit). Students will have opportunities to practice in real-world settings the skills they acquire in the course. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102, and junior standing or consent of instructor.

ENGL 335 - Writing as Social Action

Study of the theory and practice of writing as a social action. Students will read literary and nonliterary texts aimed at social transformation; meet with local social service organizations to study their mission, activities, and needs; and work in collaboration with students from ART 357 to develop materials needed to promote and raise funds for one or more of these organizations. This course requires off-campus service hours. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and sophomore standing, or consent of instructor.

ENGL 336 - Writing at Work

In this course you will learn to write effective workplace correspondence (including job-search correspondence), proposals, and reports, and you will also learn to prepare and deliver workplace presentations. Assignments include both individual and group projects. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and junior standing, or consent of the instructor.

ENGL 337 - Writing Life Stories

Study and practice in the literary genre of autobiography with emphasis on memoir. Students will use autobiographical selections by professional and student writers as models to compose a portfolio of short essays - "fragments" of their own autobiography. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and ENGL 211, or consent of instructor.

ENGL 338 - Writing Fiction

Study and analysis of effective short fiction by professional and student writers. Students will compose a portfolio of original short stories. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and ENGL 211, or consent of instructor.

ENGL 339 - Writing Poetry

Study and analysis of effective poetry by professional and student writers. Students will compose a portfolio of original poems. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and ENGL 211, or consent of instructor.

ENGL 340 - Writing Drama

Study and analysis of effective drama by professional and student writers. Students will compose an original script for a one-act play. (3 hours)

Listed also as THEA 340

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and ENGL 211, or consent of instructor.

ENGL 345 - Advanced Academic Writing

Development of skills in writing and presenting academic papers. Students will write a substantial annotated bibliography and literature review on a chosen topic, work toward completion of an extended academic paper on that topic, and give two presentations. This course is open to students in any major and is particularly recommended for students who plan to apply to graduate or professional school and students who are preparing honors projects. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and junior standing, or consent of instructor.

English 220-229: Explorations

Literature courses on varying topics, open to both majors and non-majors. These courses satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 220 - On the Origin of Stories

Could storytelling be one of our most ancient behaviors, which helped us survive and evolve as a species, or is it a more recent, cultural development? Would knowing the answer to this question make a difference in how we understand stories? Drawing on insights from both science and literature, this course will explore these and related questions, which are the focus of lively, ongoing debates among evolutionary scientists, anthropologists, psychologists, philosophers, literary critics, and story tellers. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 221 - Literature of the African Diaspora

This course will examine works by contemporary writers from Africa and the African diaspora. The term "African diaspora" refers to the various nations Africans were dispersed to during the African slave trade, including: North America, the Caribbean, South America, and Europe. This course will look into how the enslavement and dispersal of Africans during the slave trade influences the themes and traditions represented by writers of African descent throughout the world today. In looking at these themes as emblematic of a shared cultural history partially inherited from African tradition, students will analyze how these themes also represent the traditions and values of those nations to which African slaves were dispersed. This course is open to both majors and non-majors. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 221

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 222 - Black Women Writers

An introduction to and exploration of writing by black women across America, Africa, and the Caribbean. Study of short stories, novels, and poetry of the African diaspora. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 222 and SWG 222

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement

ENGL 223 - African-American Popular Culture

This course will focus on the production of "pop" culture in the United States, with special emphasis on the linkages between mainstream pop culture and pop culture originating in the African- American experience. The course will provide sociological, historical, and theoretical perspectives for understanding topics related to black film, R&B, literature, disco, art, and rap/hip-hop. Through the use of music, film, dance, and literary and visual arts, students will gain insight into ways that pop culture often serves to solidify the American populace's understanding of its national, racial, and cultural identities; especially as they relate to the unique contributions made by African- Americans to popular culture. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 223

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

ENGL 224 - Native American Literature

Study of Native American literature with an emphasis on the relationship between text and context. The course considers the diversity and regional variation of tribal identities and the interplay between oral and written traditions in Native American literary history. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

ENGL 225 - Critical Race Theory

This course offers an introduction to Critical Race Theory (CRT). In addition to surveying CRT's origins as a movement among legal scholars in the early 1980s, this course will examine its current influence in the fields of American studies, history, literature, ethnic studies, whiteness studies, gender and sexual studies, and African-American studies. In engaging this discourse, students will gain the knowledge to skillfully articulate and consider perspectives on one of the modern world's most pressing social issues. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 225

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

ENGL 226 - King Arthur: From Myth to Fiction

Exploration of the early historical and fictional sources for King Arthur with the goal of making sense of the modern manifestations of Arthuriana. Students will read representative texts from Geoffrey of Monmouth (the first historian of Arthur) to Tolkien's Lord of the Rings. This course will also focus on the new genre of Arthurian movies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 228 - Classical Drama

Origin, development, and function of Greek classical drama and comedy; close study of selected plays by Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, and Aristophanes. (3 hours)

Listed also as THEA 228

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 229 - Sacramental Imagination

Lectures and seminars engaging the themes of sin and salvation, and examining through poems, plays, films, and novels the sacramental signs of grace and the imagined presence of the divine in the world. Guest lecturers from theology, history, art history, and English will foster a multi-disciplinary approach to the themes. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

English Literature Courses

ENGL 207 - Images of Women in Drama

(3 hours)

Listed also as THEA 350 and SWG 352.

(3 hours)

Listed also as THEA 270 and AMST 273.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 210 - Autobiography

Study of the literary genre of autobiography with emphasis on both autobiography and memoir. Literary analysis of autobiographical writings by authors such as Frederick Douglass, Virginia Woolf, Richard Wright, Eudora Welty, Joan Didion, and Tobias Wolff. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 230 - World Literature

Study of classic texts in Western and non-Western world literature. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 232 - West African Fiction

This course will engage a range of fiction from anglophone West Africa by authors "canonical" and otherwise. The emphasis will be on the complexities of the West African anglophone postcolonial realities, raising issues of gender, ethnicity, and religion in relation to the consequences of decades of political instability and economic underdevelopment resulting from the African slave trade and colonialism. Through literary analysis and examination of how these factors intersect with contemporary postcolonial theories, students will learn to recognize connections between West African cultural history and the contemporary Western world. (3 hours)

ENGL 234 - Bible, Mythology, and Literature

In addition to selected books of the Bible and classical myths, students will explore the relation of the Bible and myth to works of literature. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 235 - Literature and Medicine

How can the study of literature help us better understand the experience of illness or the practice of medicine? Students will consider the artistic challenges inherent in representing pain, analyze the cultural contexts surrounding narratives of sickness and health, and explore what the literary imagination has to offer medicine through close readings of works in multiple genres. (3 hours)

ENGL 236 - The Graphic Novel

In this course, we consider graphic novels as serious works of literary expression. Students will analyze graphic novels as artistic and cultural products that uphold and challenge common beliefs about race, religion, sexuality, identity, memory, family, poverty, and collective and individual trauma. This course will pay particular attention to the graphic novel as a hybrid genre that, in combining text and image, raises important questions about the nature of authorship and the act of reading. We will also explore the possibilities and limitations of the graphic novel to capture "unspeakable" experience as well as promote personal and cultural change, restoration, and social justice. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 239 - How Literature Addresses Enduring Questions in Four World Religions

Which questions about the value and purposes of human life lie at the heart of Judaism, Christianity, Islam, and Buddhism? Which are some of the illuminating literary responses to these questions? The best literary responses include writings about the individual's search to discover meaning in the physical and spiritual dimensions of life, including the search for wisdom while encountering trials of body and spirit, and the mindful cultivation of the virtues. These significant searches and spiritual journeys are central to discovering life's meaning, so many writers have imagined rich worlds and dramatized diverse yet comparable quests. The important questions are taken up by the four world religions' scriptural traditions and by literature's expressions of the cultural, tribal, and gendered conditions and hopes of people making their human journeys. By initiating dialogues among students about such common themes, this course invites students to read works from Jewish traditions such as the Bible's Song of Songs and selected psalms; a novel of education, The Chosen; poetry by Amichai, Bloch, and Pagis; and stories by Malamud and Ozick. Literature that draws on Christian traditions includes Baldwin's novel Go Tell It on the Mountain; stories by O'Connor and Joyce; and poetry by Eliot, Heaney, and ni Dhomhnaill. Writings from Islamic traditions include poetry and memoirs by Rumi, Darwish, and Naomi Shihab Nye; and Zeina, a novel by Nawal El Saadawi. Students read Hesse's classic novel, Siddhartha, to explore Buddhist traditions; haiku by the Japanese poets Issa and Basho; and works by American writers such as Snyder and Ginsberg. (3 hours)

ENGL 240 - Forms of Drama

A survey of the development of significant dramatic forms from the classical period through the modern with a focus on tragedy and comedy. The course includes consideration of representative plays and critical documents from each period. (3 hours)

Listed also as THEA 240.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 244 - Self-Portraits: Representations of the Self in Poetry, Fiction, and Drama

Writers of poetry, fiction, and drama strive, even as they attend to the formal requirements of their craft, to make the imaginary worlds they create ring true to the emotional currents and patterns that reside deep in their minds. In this course, we'll explore the fruitful tension between writers' work and writers' lives by examining poems, short stories, and plays in the context of selected biographical materials. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 245 - Reading Nature/Writing Nature

Study of classic and contemporary texts exploring connections-- physical, ethical, and spiritual-- between human beings and the natural world. Application of these texts to current environmental issues through critical and creative writing. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

ENGL 246 - Telling Lives

What good does it do to hear then tell the life stories of other people? It helps us learn who we are: where we come from and where we live now, how to dream and how to face adversity. In this course, students will study collections, both old and new, of stories people tell about their lives, taking from that study not only information about others' lives but an understanding of ways in which writing gives shape and meaning to experience. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

A culminating seminar for English majors emphasizing literary history, theories, and genres, as well as research and oral presentations, leading to a personal exit interview. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): English majors with senior standing.

ENGL 450 - Independent Study

With the consent of the cooperating professor and the department head, an advanced student may undertake a program of independent reading in a particular genre or period or writing of a particular type, if a comparable course is not offered in the same year. The work may extend beyond a semester if the cooperating professor approves. (1-8 hours)

ENGL 455 - Internship

Employment in an approved workplace for a designated number of hours a week under the guidance of a faculty member and workplace supervisor. The student will be given training and practice in writing tasks as agreed upon by the student, workplace supervisor, faculty member, and director of internships. (3-6 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 333 or ENGL 336, junior standing, and consent of instructor.

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

ENGL 495 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of Instructor

Environmental Science

Environmental Science - B.S.

This interdisciplinary major is intended to provide the student with the necessary background for a professional career in the area of environmental science. Students electing this major will choose an advisor from among the faculty of the Department of Natural Sciences.

Major Requirements:

Core Courses:

- BIOL 111 - General Biology I
- BIOL 112 - General Biology II
- BIOL 299 - Ecology
- BIOL 397 - Evolution
- CHEM 120 - General Chemistry I
- CHEM 121 - General Chemistry II
- CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II

Required Collateral Courses:

- PHYS 211 - College Physics I
- PHYS 212 - College Physics II
- Five additional courses (of at least 3 semester hours each) in environmental science will be chosen in consultation with a faculty advisor.

Additional Requirements:

- A minimum grade of C- must be earned in all courses required for the major.
- A minimum of eight courses in biology, chemistry, environmental sciences, and physics must be completed at Dominican.
- Independent research or an internship is required..

MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I and MATH 262 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus II are recommended.

Environmental Science Courses

ENVS 185 - Marine Environmental Science

(3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 185

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

ENVS 221 - Environmental Chemistry

(3 hours)

Listed also as CHEM 221 and NSC 221

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

ENVS 231 - Environmental Geology

(3 hours)

Listed also as GEOL 231 and NSC 231

ENVS 251 - Water, Wetlands, and Aquasphere

(3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 251

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

ENVS 261 - Climate Change

(3 hours)

Listed also as PHYS 261 and NSC 261

ENVS 292 - Environmental Biology

(4 hours)

Listed also as NSC 292.

This course will satisfy the natural science core area requirement.

ENVS 295 - Politics and Environment

Federal control of environmental issues has been replaced by a new phenomenon: civil environmentalism, or cooperation between the private and the public sectors - business and nonprofit groups, local, state, and federal governments. Students will use an interdisciplinary, hands-on approach to a local area or issue in order to explore this developing field. (3 hours)

Listed also as POSC 295.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

ENVS 362 - Theology and Ecology

Both ecological crises and attempts to respond to these crises raise profound religious and theological issues this course seeks to address. Theological traditions to be considered during a particular semester might include Thomism, "Christian Realism," liberation theology, feminism, and Catholic social thought. (3 hours)

Listed also as THEO 362.

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

ENVS 455 - Internship

Training in an environmental organization. (1-8 hours)

FREN 353 - Contemporary France Through Film

This course introduces students to cinematic representations of contemporary French society, in the context of the changing political, social and cultural climate of the last 20 years, with particular attention to the issues of youth, gender, and ethnicity. All films are in French with English subtitles. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): FREN 202

FREN 355 - French Literature and Film

This interdisciplinary course examines the intersections between literature and film by comparing selected French literary works (drawn from different periods and including genres such as fairy tales, short stories, operas, and novellas) to their film adaptations. Students will learn to analyze both literary and cinematic texts and will explore similarities in technique and style across media. This course will be taught in French. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): FREN 202 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

French: Literature Courses

FREN 260 - Introduction to French Literature

The primary objective of this course is to teach students to read critically. Cultural and literary issues in French and Francophone literature will be explored using various texts from the Middle Ages to the 20th century. Students will be introduced to French literary terminology and explication de texte. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): FREN 202 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

FREN 290 - French Women Writers: Poetry, Theater, Prose

In this course, taught in English, students read a wide variety of texts authored by French or French-speaking women across multiple historical periods. Students will also practice literary analysis based on several different approaches. To receive credit for the French major or minor, students who have completed FREN 202 with a grade of C- or higher will register for the 1-credit intensification for reading, writing, and discussion in French. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 290

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

FREN 295 - Literary Paris

Conducted in English, this course explores aspects of the two thousand year history of the capital of France through world literature in which Paris plays a key role. From its Gallo-Roman origins through the French Revolution to its twenty first century status as a multicultural capital, students will gain perspectives and insight on the role of Paris in France, French society and the world. To receive credit for the French major or minor, students who have completed FREN 202 or the equivalent with a grade of C- or higher will register for the one credit intensification for reading, writing, and discussion in French. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

FREN 374 - France in Its Literature

Analysis and discussion of representative literary works, with an emphasis on the manner in which they reflect the cultural reality of France. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): FREN 202 or equivalent.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

French: Professional Courses

FREN 319 - Professional French

Advanced study of written and oral French as it applies to the business and other professional careers. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): FREN 202 or the equivalent.

French: Other Courses

FREN 205 - French Language

Credit for this course is recorded for students who have earned a score of 4 or 5 on the AP language exam in French. The three credits may be counted towards the major or minor in French. However, fulfillment of the language requirement and placement into the French language sequence is determined by Dominican University assessment. (3 hours)

FREN 207 - French Literature

Credit for this course is recorded for students who have earned a score of 4 or 5 on the AP literature exam in French. The three credits may be counted towards the major or minor in French. (3 hours)

This course satisfies the literature core area requirement.

FREN 399 - Directed Study

This option is to be selected only when absolutely necessary (i.e., the student has already taken all courses offered that semester or has a scheduling conflict that cannot be resolved otherwise). The student will work closely with the instructor. (1-4 hours)

FREN 450 - Independent Study

Open to advanced students of exceptional ability with consent of the instructor and senior standing. (1-4 hours)

FREN 455 - French Internship

(1-8 hours)

Geography

Geography Courses

GEOG 250 - World Regional Geography

A study of the physical and cultural patterns of the world to observe specific types of interrelationships and distributions of processes and people. (3 hours)

GEOG 320 - Global Economic Geography

A consideration of the location and functioning of economic activities in various parts of the world. (3 hours)

Geology

Geology Courses

GEOL 200 - Our Dynamic Planet

This is a course in basic physical geology. Study of the formation, occurrences and structures of minerals and rocks; plate tectonics, earthquakes, volcanoes, and mountain-building processes; glaciers and deserts; erosion and geologic time. To satisfy the laboratory component, students must enroll for 4 semester hours and attend the lab section. (3-4 hours)

Listed also as NSC 202.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

GEOL 231 - Environmental Geology

The study of the earth's environment from a multidisciplinary systems approach. Each system -- atmosphere, hydrosphere, lithosphere, biosphere, and anthrosphere -- is studied separately and then interrelated with the others through considerations of five main topics: methods of study, evolution, physical and chemical composition and structure, classification and behavior or function, and anthropogenic effects in the past, present and future. (3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 231 and ENV5 231

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

German

German Courses

GERM 101 - Elementary German I

This course introduces students to the German language by listening, speaking, reading, and writing German in a cultural context. Students will develop a basic proficiency in all language skills through a study of German grammar and vocabulary. (4 hours)

GERM 102 - Elementary German II

This course continues to develop the four language skills. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): GERM 101 or equivalent.

GERM 201 - Intermediate German I

This course completes the grammar cycles. It reinforces and builds upon basic skills in German through development of the four language skills. Compositions and dialogues in conjunction with daily written and oral exercises reinforce the grammatical concepts. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): GERM 102 with a minimum grade of C-, or placement through examination.

GERM 202 - Intermediate German II

This course continues the development of reading and writing skills with an emphasis on written and spoken communication. Visual, oral, and written materials form the point of departure for work enhancing students' communication skills. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): GERM 201 or equivalent.

GERM 450 - Independent Study

(1-4 hours)

Health Sciences

Dominican University offers excellent preparation for careers in the health sciences. The strength of the Dominican University curriculum has led to partnerships with leaders in health career education at Rush Oak Park Hospital, Rush University, and Midwestern University.

Preparation for health-related careers begins with a thorough grounding in basic science. Students typically take courses in biology, anatomy and physiology, chemistry, and physics. Depending on their future career path, health sciences students may also take microbiology, genetics, organic chemistry, biochemistry or biophysics, as well as psychology.

Dominican University offers a unique internship opportunity with Rush Oak Park Hospital. Under the direction of the medical staff, the student may explore many opportunities in the health care field, including firsthand observations of surgery and other medical procedures.

Pre-Medical/Dental Program

Pre-Pharmacy Program

Nursing

Occupational Therapy

Other Allied Health Fields

Under the direction of the health career advisor, students may also prepare for admission to programs such as physical therapy, respiratory therapy, and physician's assistant.

For more information, contact the Office of Undergraduate Admissions or the biological science department.

Pre-Medical/Dental Program

Students interested in medicine follow a sequence of courses that fulfill all pre-professional requirements. Most students major in either biology, neuroscience, chemistry, or biology-chemistry, though other fields are possible. The pre-medical advisor guides the students' course choices to ensure that they best suit the students' career goals. After taking the basic science courses, including human anatomy, most students complete an internship at nearby Rush Oak Park Hospital.

Arrangements for the internship are made by the university. The pre-medical advisor also assists in the professional school admissions process.

Pre-Pharmacy Program

The pre-pharmacy program is not a degree-granting curriculum. Completion of the required course work typically takes two to three years, depending on the background of the student. A bachelor's degree in biology or biology-chemistry significantly increases the likelihood of a student's acceptance into pharmacy school. The student's pre-pharmacy advisor assists in the professional school admissions process.

Program in Pharmacy with Chicago College of Pharmacy of Midwestern University: Dual Admission

Upon successful completion of two years of pre-professional course work at Dominican, students are automatically admitted into the four-year professional curriculum at Midwestern, culminating with awarding of the Doctor of Pharmacy degree, without having to reapply or to take the Pharmacy College Admission Test. Students must rank in the top quartile of their high school graduating class and must score in the top quartile on a college entrance examination (ACT of 24 or higher, SAT of 1175 or higher), and they must submit applications to both Dominican and Midwestern in order to qualify for this guaranteed dual admission program.

Required Courses:

Dominican course requirements, which must be completed in two years with a minimum grade of C in each course and an overall grade point average of at least 3.20:

- ENGL 101 - Composition I: Writing as Discovery and Action
- ENGL 102 - Composition II: Writing as a Way of Knowing
- CAS 200 - Business and Professional Speech
- BIOL 111 - General Biology I
- BIOL 112 - General Biology II
- BIOL 351 - Advanced Human Anatomy
- CHEM 120 - General Chemistry I
- CHEM 121 - General Chemistry II
- CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II
- MATH 131 - Trigonometry and Analytic Geometry
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics
- MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I
- PHYS 211 - College Physics I
- ECON 190 - Principles of Microeconomics or ECON 191 - Principles of Macroeconomics
- Liberal Arts and Sciences Freshman and Sophomore Seminars
- Two Social and Behavioral Science electives
- One non-science elective

History

The study of history fosters a critical approach to the human past, an acquaintance with past and present issues of social justice, and an awareness of human diversity. History courses provide an opportunity for students to gain knowledge of the human past and present in order to locate themselves and others in a historical, social, and intellectual context. History courses also convey an appreciation of history as an academic discipline with its own rules of inquiry.

Students who major in history learn to analyze historical problems from several perspectives, to use primary sources and historical literature critically and effectively, and to employ historical perspectives and sources appropriately in the construction of oral and written accounts of the human past. History majors acquire both general knowledge of the human past and more detailed knowledge of a concentration within the field of historical inquiry.

The history department offers major and minor programs in history. Students with a strong academic background may, with the department's consent, substitute courses at the 200 or 300 level for the required 100-level history courses within concentrations.

History - B.A.

Major Requirements:

Thirty-six semester hours, including:

- One course that focuses on the time period before 1500
- One course that focuses on the time period after 1500
- HIST 300 - Introduction to Historical Studies
- HIST 400 - History Research Seminar
- Fifteen semester hours meeting the requirements of an area of concentration in history
- Three courses outside the area of concentration. Students electing a concentration in U.S. or European history must elect one course in African, Latin American, or global history in partial fulfillment of major requirements.

Areas of Concentration:

Students must complete one of the following concentrations:

Concentration in African

History:

Fifteen semester hours chosen from courses listed under African history including two from:

- HIST 180 - Pre-Colonial Africa
- HIST 280 - Colonial Africa
- HIST 380 - Contemporary Africa

Concentration in European History:

Fifteen semester hours chosen from courses listed under European history, including at least one course above 200 and at least one course above 300. At least one course must address the period before 1789.

Concentration in Global History:

The department's 100-level requirements should be fulfilled with:

- HIST 111 - World History Before 1500
- HIST 112 - World History After 1500

Fifteen semester hours chosen from courses listed under global history, including at least one course above 200 and at least one course above 300.

Concentration in United States History:

Fifteen semester hours chosen from courses listed under United States history, including one course focusing on the time period before 1877, one course focusing on the time period after 1877, and at least one course above 300.

Concentration in Latin American History:

Fifteen semester hours chosen from courses listed under Latin American history, including:

- HIST 241 - Colonial Latin America
- HIST 242 - Modern Latin America

and at least one course above 300.

Additional Major Requirements:

- Students may count no more than 12 semester hours at the 100 level toward the major
- Students interested in graduate school are strongly encouraged to study a foreign language beyond the 102 level.

A minimum of 15 hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

History Education

Teacher Licensure: History grades 9-12

Students who wish to teach social studies in grades 9 through 12 complete a major in history and they complete the School of Education's Teacher Education Program for secondary licensure.

History Requirements

- Students must complete the history major
- Students must take the following additional courses:
 - ECON 190 - Principles of Microeconomics
 - POSC 170 - American Government
 - Either POSC 140 - International Relations or POSC 150 - Comparative Politics
 - SOC 110 - Introduction to Sociology
 - Either GEOG 250 - World Regional Geography or GEOG 320 - Global Economic Geography
- Students must complete exit exams in economics, history, political science, and sociology. These must be completed prior to clinical practice.

Teacher Education Program

- Professional education courses including EDUC 406 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Social Studies in Middle and Secondary Schools
- Three state tests: the Test of Academic Proficiency, the Elementary/Middle Grades content test, and the grades K-9 Assessment of Professional Teaching
- 100 hours of field experience
- Professional portfolio
- Clinical practice (one full semester) in a middle or secondary classroom.

For more information about 9-12 licensure, see the School of Education section of this bulletin.

Prerequisite(s): This course is not open to juniors and seniors without consent of the department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

HIST 154 - South Pacific World

This course offers an overview of a roughly 200 year period (1700—1900) in the history of the South Pacific. It examines how the era of European expansionism through earlier periods of cartographic exploration (navigational mapping) culminated in the establishment of a network of colonial trading outposts in the 18th century and then transposed into a multi-purpose strategic, scientific, economic and imperial enterprise in the 19th century. In other words, our guiding question is, "How did the Pacific world change from its own pace of historically unfolding contexts to one that involved European colonialism and ultimately imperialism across approximately two centuries?" Our deeper purpose is two-fold: to examine how Europeans' motives for sailing the Pacific Ocean underwent change as society itself changed back home in Europe, as well as to study broader processes of inter-cultural contact. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): This course is not open to juniors or seniors without the consent of the department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

HIST 180 - Pre-Colonial Africa

This course explores the history of pre-colonial Africa from the 400s to the 1880s. Among the many themes discussed in this course are the trans-Saharan trade, the early spread of Islam, the rise and fall of African empires, and the slave trade.

This course may be applied to the African history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 180

Prerequisite(s): This course is not open to juniors or seniors without the consent of the department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

HIST 201 - A History of Globalization

This course analyzes the ebb and flow of global economic and cultural interdependence, emphasizing developments since 1850.

This course may be applied to the global history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and multicultural core requirement.

HIST 213 - Modern China Since 1800

This course examines Chinese responses to westernization from the Opium War to the post-Mao era. The course places contemporary China in the intellectual, social, political, and economic framework of a century and a half of revolution. This course may be applied to the global history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of the department

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

HIST 214 - Modern Japan Since 1800

This course examines the background to and development of modern Japan from pre-Perry feudalism to present-day industrial prominence. The course stresses the influence of indigenous and foreign forces on Japanese modernization and traces Japan's rise, fall, and resurgence as a great power in the 19th and 20th centuries.

This course may be applied to the global history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of the department.

HIST 216 - Foundations of Islamic Civilization to 1456

This course introduces students to the rise and early development of Islam from its birth in seventh-century

Arabia to the capture of Constantinople in the 1450's. Topics include pre-Islamic Arabia, the life and time of prophet Muhammad, the major Islamic beliefs and practices, Islamic dynasties, and early Muslim conquests. This course may be applied to the global history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

HIST 217 - Modern Britain and the British Empire, 1714-Present

This course is a study of the history of the evolution of modern British institutions and of the rise and fall of the British Empire, emphasizing the development of parliamentary government, the social and economic impact of the industrial revolution, and the relationship of Britain with the colonial world. This course may also fulfill requirements for the concentration in European history. This course may be applied to the European or global history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 219 - Islamic Civilizations in the Modern World

This course explores the history of modern Islam from the 1450's to the present. Topics include the later Islamic dynasties, the fall of the Ottoman Empire and the transformations of the Islamic world, the development of militant Islam, the mutual perceptions between Muslims and non-Muslims, and modern religious conflicts. This course may be applied to the global history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

HIST 221 - American Encounters: The Colonial Age

This course is an exploration of the American colonial experience emphasizing the interaction among Native Americans, Europeans, and Africans between 1492 and 1763. The course investigates the development of political, religious, economic and social institutions across the American colonies as cultures and communities were destroyed and formed along the Atlantic coast. This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 226.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 222 - Building a Nation: The U.S. From Revolution to Reconstruction

This course examines the tremendous changes the young United States experienced in its first century as a nation. We will explore topics such as the American Revolution, the market revolution, westward expansion, civil war, immigration, urbanization and middle-class family life from the end of the colonial era to the late 19th century. This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 343

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 223 - Changing America: The Gilded Age Through the New Deal

This course covers the tremendous social, economic, and political change in the United States between 1880 and 1940. Focusing on the Progressive movement, the cultural divisions of the 1920s and the Depression, students will examine these periods through in-depth analysis of Hull House, the World's Fair of 1893, the rise of the Ku Klux Klan and the Great Migration, and the impact New Deal programs had on everyday Americans.

This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 225.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 224 - The American Century, 1940-1990

Arguably the United States played a dominant role in global events during the 20th century. From World War II and the decades of Cold War that followed, American culture, economics, and social values reflected a nation whose citizens enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity, witnessed amazing technological advancement, and experienced profound social change. What did these decades mean? How do we understand them in relation to earlier ideas of American destiny? What do they mean in the post-Cold War era? This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 224.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 226 - The Modern Middle East

This course introduces students to the general history of the modern Middle East from the end of World War I to the present. Topics discussed will include the fall of the Ottoman Empire and the subsequent remapping of the Middle East, the place of oil in the local economies, the Iranian Revolution, the transition toward democratization, the Iraq War, and the causes and consequences of the Arab Spring. No prior knowledge of the Middle East is required to take this course. This course may be applied to the global history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of the department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement

HIST 239 - Medieval Spain

This course will examine the complex political, social, and religious interaction of cultures on the Iberian peninsula from the time of the Visigoths until the conquistadores (400s-1500s), focusing on the Jewish, Christian and Islamic traditions. We will test various models used by historians to examine cultural relations within the Iberian peninsula and its inhabitants' interactions with the wider world, including "convivencia," holy war, persecution, trade and discovery. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 241 - Colonial Latin America

This course is a survey of Spain's colonial empire in the Americas from the voyages of Christopher Columbus through the wars for independence (1492 to the 1820s), emphasizing the interaction of European and indigenous cultures in shaping the administrative apparatus, the economy, and the social structure of what came to be known as colonial Latin America.

This course may be applied to the Latin American history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of the department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement and multicultural core requirement.

HIST 242 - Modern Latin America

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 335 - Russian Politics and Culture: From Peter to Putin

This course analyzes the evolution of Russian politics and society through its three key historical periods: the Russian Empire of the Romanovs beginning with the reign of Peter the Great, the Soviet Union, and post-Soviet Russia. Students will examine major themes across these periods, such as Russia's relationship with West, the role of the intelligentsia, women and gender, modernization and Westernization, and Russia's geographic and cultural identity. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or departmental consent.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 344 - Historical Experience of Women in the United States

This course examines women's history from the colonial period to the present. Readings, assignments, and discussion uncover the tremendously varied experiences of women in America. Understanding how race, class, gender and region have impacted the lives of American women is central to our examination. Throughout the course readings and discussion focus on women's work, political restrictions and opportunities, family relations, formal and informal networks of power, and the construction of gendered identities.

This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 344.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 345 - From Crossroads to Metropolis: U.S. Urban History Since 1800

Emphasizing Chicago, this course explores the historical development of American cities, focusing upon the interaction between the urban environment and its inhabitants and exploring reasons for the growth and development of cities as well as how this growth influenced culture.

This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 345.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 346 - Making a Living: U.S. Working-Class History

This course examines the American working-class experience since the 19th century. Readings, films, and discussions will explore class formation, working-class communities, workplace culture and collective action including unionization. We will explore how industrialization, deindustrialization, and the construction of a service economy have shaped the experience of the American working class. How race and gender intersect with class will be central to our study. Americans are decidedly self-conscious and even anxious about discussing social class. This course will "make class visible" and explore the experience of American working-class people, their lives at work, at home, and in politics and popular culture.

This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 336.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 348 - Race and Ethnicity in the U.S.

This course examines the role of ethnic and racial identity in American history, with a focus on the construction of "whiteness." Readings and discussion for this course will address the immigration experience, the interaction among ethnic and racial groups in America, the creation of ethnic enclaves, and the development of unique hyphenated-American ethnic group identities and how these phenomena have changed over time.

This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 367 - The American West

This course is an in-depth analysis of the American frontier as shared and contested space. Readings and discussion will address the meaning of contact between European-Americans, Native Americans, and African-Americans on the frontier, the changes to the landscape and environment, the "internal empire" of the American West in natural resources, and the myths of the American West including the place of the West in American identity.

This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 337.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HIST 368 - Gender and Urban Life

This course addresses the relationship between urban America and ideas of gender as well as race and class. Through readings and discussion, students examine how the urban experience both reflects and influences cultural definitions of gender and sexuality. Critical themes under investigation include the commercialization of sexuality, the idea of the city as a place for personal freedom and institutional oppression for both men and women, and the city as a dangerous place for women.

This course may be applied to the United States history concentration. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 338.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 or consent of department.

HIST 372 - European Popular Culture 1500-1900

Honors Seminars and Courses

Honors Seminars and Honors Courses are open only to students admitted to the university's honors program.

Freshman Honors Seminars: Thoughts and Passions

HNSM 160 - Evil and the Paradox of Hope

The Brothers Karamazov will interrogate us about our convictions, assumptions, and deepest questions, including those related to the dynamics of evil, suffering, and cruelty, and the perhaps paradoxical hope for meaning, purpose, and goodness. Can evil be explained or are explanations evil? Where is "God" during earthquakes, genocides, and the suffering of one innocent person? Where are we? Seminar participants will propose and discuss additional course materials and readings emerging from our sustained dialogue with Dostoevsky's text. (3 hours)

HNSM 161 - Beyond a Reasonable Doubt?

In a court of law, a defendant's life hangs upon guilt "beyond a reasonable doubt." But in the journey from doubt to certainty (and the likelihood of a roundtrip!), what is the role of faith? With the help of Dostoevsky, Camus, Freud, Kierkegaard, Augustine, and others, this seminar will grapple with questions of faith and reason, doubt and certainty, and the restless search of the self for truth. (3 hours)

HNSM 165 - Suffering, Grace, and Redemption

Flannery O'Connor once stated that "there is no suffering greater than what is caused by the doubts of those who want to believe." In this freshmen honors seminar, students will read, think, speak and write about what it means to suffer toward understanding -one's own faith or non-faith, as well as one's societal, familial, or intellectual place in society, in general. Students will be challenged to read carefully and to think deliberately about our common course text, Dostoevsky's The Brothers Karamazov, as well as works from various authors, including O'Connor, C.S. Lewis, Mark Twain, and others. (3 hours)

HNSM 168 - Love and Faith

Love and faith are widely considered the most essential and profound of human experiences; at the same time, they are often seen in strictly emotional or irrational terms. In this course we will explore the role of the intellect in love and faith. Does "thinking too much" necessarily hinder our ability to act in passionate relationships or to believe in God? How do we practice love and faith thoughtfully? These are the kinds of questions that will guide us as we pursue answers in Dostoevsky's The Brothers Karamazov as well as in other works of fiction, philosophy, and popular culture (primarily music and film). (3 hours)

HNSM 169 - Dostoevsky, Dominican, and the Daily News

Fyodor Dostoevsky's The Brothers Karamazov is in every sense a "classic" when it comes to exploring deep thoughts and sometimes subtle, sometimes explosive passions. But great literature is not the only place where thoughts and passions live. "Intellectual passions", as the philosopher of science Michael Polanyi called them, inform the sciences and other academic disciplines in a university such as ours and an astonishing array of thoughts and passions are bundled together in the daily news. In this seminar we will read and relate three texts, each of which points beyond itself: The Brothers Karamazov, myBulletin, and the New York Times. How do the brothers in Dostoevsky's novel teach us to understand anew both our education and the wider world? How might reading the three "texts" together illuminate our lives? (3 hours)

HNSM 170 - Thoughts and Passions on Trial

Dostoevsky's The Brothers Karamazov leads up to a murder trial which, along with this great novel as a whole, turns out to be a trial in more than one sense of the word. In this seminar we will consider the trial of Dmitri Karamazov along with other trials, both from the past (Socrates, Jesus, Adolf Eichmann) and in our own day. As readers, we may find ourselves in the role of judge or jury, prosecutor or defender, character witness or expert for either side. But we may just as likely find ourselves, with our own thoughts and passions, to be on trial as well. Great trials, as the word implies, can try the soul-but they can also teach. (3 hours)

HNSM 171 - Creating a Living Space

How we live-and who we are-often are connected to where we live. Where do we "live"? In the mind? Or in a physical space? This class will engage and interrogate our sense of space-and how where we live makes us who we are. Beginning with readings in disciplines such as philosophy, literature, and geography, we will then examine and experience a variety of spaces, from the Dominican campus to downtown Chicago. (3 hours)

Sophomore Honors Seminars: Human Being and Citizen

HNSM 257 - Good Life: Morality, Conscience, and Virtue

What is a good life? This deceptively simple question will guide us through this course as we explore what it means to be a human being and citizen and to live a good life from the perspective of ancient Greek philosophers (Plato and Aristotle), a 17th century British philosopher (Hobbes), an 18th century Anglican bishop and moral philosopher (Butler), a contemporary philosopher (Midgley), and a contemporary moral psychologist (Callahan). We will engage a number of questions related to our search for "the good life." What is morality, and why do people behave morally? Are human beings inherently good, or is moral behavior contrary to our natural inclinations? Does the moral life consist of obligations and demands that we must meet, or is morality concerned with the qualities and characteristics that we embody? Can we make universal claims or judgments about what is good and just? What role do reason, emotion, religion, and conscience play in all of this? We will consider these questions in relation to the course readings and in light of our own experiences, current events, and challenges facing the world today. (3 hours)

HNSM 261 - Gender Issues in Western Political Thought

An exploration of gender issues in Western political thought through major texts and commentaries, as well as accounts of popular political discourse. (3 hours)

HNSM 262 - Globalization and Civilization

What does it mean to be a citizen in today's world? How will the "next generation" preserve humane values in the world of tomorrow? From a close reading of Plato's Republic, Jared Diamond's Collapse: How Societies Choose to Fail or Succeed, Sigmund Freud's Civilization and Its Discontents, Samuel Huntington's The Clash of Civilizations, and Jonathan Sack's The Dignity of Difference, students will explore the possibilities and problems of achieving peace, security, and prosperity in the midst of a rapidly changing social and physical environment. (3 hours)

HNSM 263 - Plato's World Society Tomorrow

In The Republic, Plato asks the questions, What does it mean for a human being to be just? And is it worth it? To answer the questions he takes the scenic route, and examines the political community as a whole. In so doing, he sets the foundations of Western political philosophy - and raises some of its most challenging questions. What is the best government? How far can a state regulate the life of its citizens? How are rulers to be chosen? Can politicians serve the public, or are they bound to be corrupt? We will examine these foundational questions and their relevance in today's world, while keeping in sight Plato's original intention: an examination of human beings as moral beings. (3 hours)

HNSM 264 - Individual, Community, Justice

The answer to the question "What is Justice?" is at least in part dependent on one's understanding of what it means to be human. In this course we will examine differing paradigms of what it means to be human and then ask how each understands the nature of justice. We will explore how an emphasis on either individualism or communalism affects one's understanding of justice and thus one's responsibility to her or his community. Finally, we will examine concrete examples of how these differing paradigms of human nature and justice respond to acts of injustice. Possible examples to be explored are The Nuremberg trials, cases brought before the International Criminal Court or South Africa's Truth and Reconciliation Commission. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing

HNSM 265 - Rights, Responsibilities, and Living Together

This seminar considers the foundational shared text of Plato's Republic in light of a major tenet of Catholic social teaching, rights and responsibilities, and how the rights of an individual balance with one's responsibility to the common good of society. The seminar will examine a range of issues from modern political tensions to everyday problems of the average college sophomore. The reading material will lead students to evaluate how we make decisions as individuals and interact with families, faith communities, neighbors, and strangers. (3 hours)

Junior Honors Seminars: Human Being and Natural Being

HNSM 352 - Darwin, Monkeys, Computers and Shakespeare

What makes human beings human? Can 100 monkeys with iPads produce Hamlet? The central work of the course, Darwin's Origin of Species, presents an evolutionary theory that questions the existence of a natural end for man. For most Darwinians, man is just another animal that evolves without any particular end. There is a natural being that is biologically driven and a human being who is culturally constructed, but no natural human being. Since man has no natural end, then no society, culture, or behavior can be universally wrong, just culturally unacceptable. This course will examine whether a Darwinian natural moral sense in the species can exist by discussing topics such as a parents love of children, conjugal bonding of opposite sex partners, slavery, and psychopaths. Along with Darwin's major work and smaller readings, we will read Darwinian Natural Right: The Biological Ethics of Human Nature by Larry Arnhart. (3 hours)

HNSM 363 - Science and Responsibility

An examination of the relationship of intellectual and social contexts with the process of doing science, raising issues of responsibility that arise at the intersection of science and other human activities. The course will focus on Darwin's Origin of Species and on questions relating to global warming and/or climate change. (3 hours)

HNSM 366 - Darwinian Thinking Across Disciplines

Evolutionary biologist Theodosius Dobzhansky famously said that nothing in biology makes sense except in the light of evolution. This seminar will explore what it might mean to see all of human knowledge through the lens of Darwinian thinking. Students will use insights from evolutionary science to explore topics in their own disciplines and, drawing on each other's disciplinary knowledge and expertise, will develop proposals for interdisciplinary research or social action projects. (3 hours)

HNSM 367 - Human Being and Natural Being: The End of Evolution?

This course seeks to parallel (or extend?) Darwinian biological evolution with human cultural evolution in order to investigate the extent to which certain technologies actually support the species (i.e., have utility as survival strategy) and which ones may not. Specifically, we will contemplate the following question: If the species homo sapiens evolved a capacity for literacy, a by-product of the evolution of language centers in the human brain, and the linear, rational, categorical, empirical modes of thought it facilitates-what changes are suggested to our understanding of what it is to be "human" if we should find our species turning en masse from this capacity? (3 hours)

HNSM 381 - Continuous and Discrete

Darwin's great book, "Origin of Species" can be looked at as raising the question whether the line of descent from one species to another is continuous transition or progression. In this way, it prepares us to think about the difference between human beings and other natural beings. Is the difference between human beings and the non-humans the world in which they live? The continuous and the discrete is a theme with many variations. What is the relation between a point and a line, between rest and motion, between particles and waves, between knowing and learning. This course will explore as many of these topics as time allows. (3 hours)

HNSM 382 - Contemporary Issues: Science and Technology

Scientific discoveries in the 19th century stimulated the rapid growth of technology that is both blessing and bane to contemporary society. The seminal work of John Dalton, Charles Darwin, James Maxwell, et al., led to revolutionary advances in the physical and biological sciences, which in turn gave us tools capable of dignifying or demeaning our collective existence. In this course we will focus on the origin and history of two contemporary and contentious technological issues, specifically, genetic engineering and nuclear energy. Along the way we will explore the scientific method, the differences between science and technology, and the interdisciplinary nature of rational decision making. (3 hours)

HNSM 383 - The Evolution of Science: Human Being and Natural Being

This course will begin with a close reading of Darwin's Origin of Species, leading to some questions for discussion. How did Darwin understand evidence? Does experiment play any role in Darwin's science? How does Darwin's understanding of science as present in Origin of Species differ from that of Karl Popper or Thomas Kuhn? Matt Ridley's The Red Queen will give us a basis for talking about how modern genetics contributed to the evolution of the science of evolution. Throughout the course we will have in mind two questions: What is nature? And how do we know that we know? (3 hours)

HNSM 384 - Evolution, Eugenics, and Disability in America

Does Darwin's theory of evolution change our understanding of what it means to be human? We will begin with Origin of Species, then explore the contentious issues of eugenics and disability in American history and contemporary society. (3 hours)

Senior Honors Seminars: Wisdom and Power

HNSM 453 - The Wisdom and Power of This World Only?

To what extent can human beings, individually or together, control the course of history? Must men and women use all human means, including coercion and violence, to right the wrongs of this world and to protect themselves and others? Or is there available to humanity some sort of otherworldly wisdom and power in suffering that, as Saint Paul wrote, is "folly to the Greeks?" Is there, as one theologian suggests, sometimes a "grace of doing nothing" when others suffer? Or would we be obliged to battle injustice even if, in the words taken from a famous treatise on war and peace, "God did not exist or took no interest in the affairs of men?" In this seminar, we will join in conversation with extraordinary writers who have explored such questions in unusual depth. (3 hours)

HNSM 462 - The Book of Job, Oedipus the King, and King Lear

These three great texts, from the Old Testament, from fifth-century (BCE) Athens, and from Renaissance early 17th-century England, are towering works of three great cultures, representing some of the very finest attempts of the human imagination to come to grips with the spiritual and philosophical problems that trouble us endlessly: How are we to understand the dilemmas, the catastrophes, and the triumphs of the human spirit of human existence in relation to the divine? How can an understanding of tragedy as a genre help us to realize who we are as human beings? (3 hours)

HNSM 463 - Tragedy and Hope

How much power do human beings really have? What is the relationship between human power, divine power, human suffering, and hope? In this seminar, students will discuss literary texts that put forward these and related questions. Careful study of the three classic works - the book of Job from the Hebrew Bible, the Greek tragedy Antigone, and Shakespeare's King Lear - will enable students to engage with questions of human agency in a world where suffering seems inescapable, even strangely necessary. Additional readings from Friedrich Nietzsche, St. Therese of Lisieux, and others will allow seminar participants to consider how art and spiritual practice influence our understanding of suffering and hope. (3 hours)

HNSM 464 - Personal Transformation

There is a saying that "change is inevitable; growth is optional," but how is it that some people are forged by suffering while others become defeated? Does this have something to do with how we see ourselves in relation to our difficulties? Is it a matter of faith? good luck? chance? In looking at what Job, Oedipus, Lear, and the poetry of T.S. Eliot can offer us, perhaps we can fortify ourselves to "suffer" in the real sense of the word and we might say, as the voice in "Ash Wednesday" articulates, "Teach us to care and not to care/Teach us to sit still." (3 hours)

HNSM 465 - Learning the Hard Way: Know Yourself to Know the World

Antigone, Job, King Lear and Sir Gawain and the Green Knight share a common theme of what disasters that having power without wisdom can bring; ignorance, especially of one's self, can wreak havoc in a world where human suffering is somehow connected to our understanding of human agency and divine power. This semester will be devoted to exploring ways of achieving wisdom and self-knowledge, as well as, a discussion of how our society constructs the concepts of both human and divine power and wisdom. (3 hours)

HNSM 466 - Wisdom and Suffering

Does suffering bring wisdom? Is that wisdom worth what it costs? Conversely, can too much knowledge cause us to suffer? Is there a difference between knowledge and wisdom? What do we hope wisdom will bring to our lives? Through critical readings and discussions of Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex", Shakespeare's "King Lear", "The Book of Job" and Aristotle's "Poetics", we will explore these and other questions. (3 hours)

HNSM 467 - Tragedy and Response: the Measure of Our Lives

The novelist Peter DeVries' asserts, "What people believe is a measure of what they suffer". But, our texts (Job, Oedipus Tyrannus, and King Lear) ask, Is what people suffer also a measure of what they believe? In this seminar, these classic texts will guide our consideration of this and related questions: What are the alleged sources of our suffering? Does knowing the source(s) matter? How to respond to one's suffering? To the suffering of others? And when no response is adequate, what then? (3 hours)

Honors Courses

HNEC 190 - Principles of Microeconomics

(3 hours)

Listed also as ECON 190.

HNEN 102 - Composition II: Writing as a Way of Knowing

(3 hours)

HNEN 256 - Hemingway and Modernism in Chicago

This course will focus on Ernest Hemingway and the development of American modernism, particularly within the context of Hemingway's years in Oak Park and Chicago. Although most of the course content will be literary, we will also attend to other art forms (especially the architecture, painting, and music of the period) and to American culture at large (e.g., World War I, Progressivism, prohibition, and women's suffrage). In addition to the major early work of Hemingway (In Our Time, The Sun Also Rises, A Farewell to Arms), we will also read works by the influential writers of the Chicago Renaissance (Carl Sandburg, Sherwood Anderson) and expatriate American writers who influenced Hemingway in Paris (F. Scott Fitzgerald, Gertrude Stein). The class will include guided visits to Hemingway's birthplace and Frank Lloyd Wright's studio (both in Oak Park), as well as to sites in Chicago. Students will collaborate on a research project, crafted for presentation at the International Conference of the Hemingway Society, to be held at Dominican in summer 2016. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Honors Program or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement

HNEN 297 - Post Colonial Literature

(3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 297.

HNEN 345 - Advanced Academic Writing-Honors

(3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 345.

HNEN 354 - Chaucer-Honors

(3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 354.

HNHI 252 - Power and Narrative: Reading Pre-modern Italy

Plague, war, sex, religion, spices, art, and, worst of all, democracy: this team-taught course will guide students through the visual and written narratives of pre-modern Italy, focusing specifically on the cities of Florence and Venice during the 12th to 14th centuries. This course teaches students about medieval Italy, using historical sources to formulate and respond to questions about civic engagement, identity, power, and politics. Texts include works by Marco Polo, Martino da Canale, Dante, and Giovanni Boccaccio. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Honors program or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HNHI 261 - Greece Honors

This course is a study of the interrelationships between the economic, social and political structure of Aegean society, c. 700-323 BCE, and the intellectual and artistic achievements of Greek thought during the period. Readings will include works by Herodotus, Thucydides and Aristophanes, and modern works on the ancient economy and politics. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): English 102 or consent of department.

This course will satisfy the history core area requirement.

HNHI 275 - Medieval Europe

HONOR STUDENTS ONLY. (3 hours)

HNHI 301 - Jerusalem Antiquity Present

(3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 300

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement and the multicultural requirement

HNHI 393 - The Coming of Capitalism

The history of Europe's transition from a society with markets to a market society. The development of new classes and class conflicts. The development of new forms of production in agriculture and industry as well as the origins as a way of supporting families. (3 hours)

Listed also as HIST 393

Prerequisite(s): Honors students only.

HNHI 400 - American Empire

This course studies invasions, coups and other interventions carried out by the United States from 1805 to the present. Our guiding questions will be: Why did Americans decide to carry out a particular intervention? How was it communicated, or "sold" to the public? How was the intervention executed? What have been its long-term effects? We will also look for patterns that help explain what drives the United States to intervene in other countries, what tools it has available for these interventions, and what lessons American leaders learn from the successes or failures of intervention. We will also seek to apply what we have learned, considering the prospects for future interventions and trying to estimate their chances for success. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Honor Program students only or consent of Honors Department.

HNID 305 - Violence, Religion, and the Hope for Peace: Can We Survive the Clash of Civilizations?

In this course, students will explore the essential role played by religious diversity in the world today in both creating and also diminishing tensions and conflict among and between cultures and civilizations. Primary emphasis would be on the major religions of the world, Christianity, Islam, Hinduism and Buddhism, but with regard to the important role of "minority" faiths - Buddhism, hybrid forms (e.g. Indonesian religion), and native religions. This is an examination of the current religious dimensions of international and national tensions in the light of challenges and issues created by globalization, the possibility of nuclear war, and global climate change. The course will draw on the resources of the Interfaith Youth Core to involve students experientially in interfaith encounter. Service Learning included. (3 hours)

Listed also as HNPS 305

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent.

This course will satisfy the Social Science core area requirement.

HNPB 284 - Law, Freedom And Justice
(3 hours)

HNPB 339 - Nietzsche-Honors
(3 hours)

Listed also as PHIL 339 .

HNPS 200 - Government Policies and Their Effect on Social Justice

A review of the effects of government policy on organizations that champion social justice. A survey of 10 social justice interest areas from housing to health care and how government policy in Illinois effects outcomes. Policy, law and funding models in other communities will be researched to identify potential improvements. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Honors program only or consent.

This course satisfies the social sciences core requirement.

HNTO 350 - Saints, Scholars, and Activists: The Dominican Integration of Truth

With 800 years of history and perspective, the Dominican Order has been populated with saints, scholars, and political activists in every culture and across generations. The course will explore the impact of the pursuit of veritas on theological thinking, educational approaches, and political engagement. Students will be asked to apply these insights to the theology, education, and politics of today and challenged to discover how the Dominican charism can enlighten their own experiences of faith, learning, and action. (3 hours)

Listed also as THEO 350

Prerequisite(s): Honors Program or consent of program director.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

HNTO 383 - The Book of Revelation and Apocalyptic Literature

This course will examine the Book of Revelation in its context and ours, with attention to the origin of apocalyptic literature in the late Jewish prophetic tradition, the advent of the third millennium, theological eschatology, and the implications of the resurgence of the apocalyptic in our time. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Honors Program or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

Information Literacy

Information Literacy

LIB 000 - Information Literacy Workshop

A noncredit workshop offered by the library to transfer degree completion students who have not completed English 102 at Dominican as the way to fulfill the foundation requirement. Students will learn the basics of library research including the ability to locate both print and electronic sources by searching library databases for articles and books; effectively using the internet for academic purposes; evaluating information critically; and using the information ethically and legally. This course is offered on a satisfactory/fail basis. Students will be expected to spend time in the library to complete hands-on exercises. (0 hours)

Interdisciplinary Courses

ID 090 - Student Success Workshops

Offered throughout the semester, these one-hour workshops empower students with the skills necessary to complete their studies successfully. Through a series of interactive activities, presentations, and real case studies, students learn techniques to solve their particular problems that interfere with lifelong learning. Topics covered are reading and writing strategies, time management, and test-taking skills. This is a noncredit seminar open to all who wish to enhance their academic skills and learn new techniques. This course is offered on a satisfactory/fail basis. (0 hours)

ID 091 - Academic Success: How to Study in College

Do you want your study habits to produce better results? Would you like to create new and more effective habits? This workshop emphasizes self-exploration, personal growth, and wise decision-making and covers such specific skills as note-taking, test-taking, time management, and other skills needed to ensure success in college. (0 hours)

ID 092 - International Integration and Success

Designed to help International students integrate into the Dominican Community and help them succeed in their academic work as they continue their education in the United States. The course will teach students how to connect academic and co-curricular experiences and to reflect on-as well as accurately evaluate-their own learning. At the end of the course, students will have assembled a portfolio of reflective work, which may be used as a reference tool in their subsequent years in college. (1 hour)

ID 102 - Strategies for Academic Success

This course, through proven strategies of self-assessment, guided journaling, and critical thinking case studies, will empower students to attain success in their academic and personal lives. The course stresses self-exploration, personal growth, and wise decision making. Woven into each unit are the essential study skills of reading, note-taking, test-taking, time management, writing, and other skills needed to ensure student success. (3 hours)

ID 103 - The Art of Reading Well

Individualized reading instruction. Entrance scores/placement results may require some students to take this course as a prerequisite for ENGL 102. This course is graded on a satisfactory/fail basis and may be taken for credit more than once. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Placement or consent of instructor.

ID 110 - Career Planning and Major Exploration

This course is designed to help students with selecting college majors and identifying potential careers within their chosen fields. Students will develop a strong foundation for major/career planning through career assessments, industry research and personal reflection. We will explore a variety of career options and determine the required skills, certifications and/or advanced degrees necessary for employment. Upon completion of this course students will have a better understanding of their career interests and the academic programs to support them in their desired fields. This course is offered on a satisfactory/fail basis. (1 hour)

ID 111 - Personal Finance

This course is designed to help students understand how individual choices directly influence their financial stability and long term financial health. The course will cover real world topics such as income, money management, credit scores, debt, savings plans, investing, insurance, credit cards, and household budgeting. (1 hour)

ID 190 - Portfolio Development

For first-year students seeking to build and maintain a portfolio of their work at Dominican, with particular attention to integrating learning across courses and over time. Students enrolled in the course will reflect on their academic and co-curricular experiences at Dominican, and connect ideas, theories, and methods encountered in multiple courses. At the end of this course, students will have assembled a portfolio of their best work, which may be developed in their subsequent years in college and, ultimately, shared with others (potential employers, graduate admissions committees, etc.). (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Freshman seminar (LAS or honors).

ID 210 - Becoming a Campus Change Agent

How do you use your knowledge of leadership theory and social change as well as your leadership skills to make change in our campus community? What recommendations do you have to create a more just and humane campus experience for Dominican students? This 1-credit capstone course for the Leadership Certificate is designed as a research project in which students will choose a campus issue they would like to see changed. Using their background on the stages of social change, students will conduct research and make recommendations on options for addressing their particular issue. (1 hour)

ID 260 - Interdisciplinary Topic

(1 hour)

ID 290 - Portfolio Development: Sophomores and Above

This course is for students at the sophomore rank or above seeking to build and maintain a portfolio of their work at Dominican, with particular attention to integrating learning across courses and over time. Students enrolled in the course will reflect on their academic and co-curricular experiences at Dominican, and connect ideas, theories, and methods encountered in multiple courses. At the end of this course, students will have assembled a portfolio of their best work, which may be developed in their subsequent years in college and, ultimately, shared with others (potential employers, graduate admissions committees, etc.). (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or above. (ID 190 is not a prerequisite.)

ID 450 - Independent Study

(1-8 hours)

Interfaith Studies

Interfaith Studies Minor

In keeping with Dominican University's mission and its goal of preparing students for global citizenship, the interfaith studies minor is designed to help students to explore, through dialogue, their own and others' religious, spiritual, and value-based worldviews and traditions; to develop religious literacy involving multiple traditions; to identify within these traditions the bases for dialogue and cooperation; to explore the history of that dialogue and cooperation; and to engage persons and communities with diverse faith perspectives and worldviews to address contemporary social concerns.

IFS 105 - Introduction to Interfaith Studies

(3 hours)

Listed also as THEO 105

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural studies core requirement.

IFS 455 - Internship

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

IFS 495 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

International Relations and Diplomacy

International Relations and Diplomacy - B.A.

The major in international relations and diplomacy is designed to prepare students to enter into the Department of State's foreign service or into international agencies on the private, governmental, or worldwide level. Examples of such organizations—with headquarters in the United States or abroad—are CARE, the Commission for Environmental Cooperation (part of NAFTA), and the World Bank. The major is wonderful preparation for worldwide service in the creation of a more just and humane world.

Preparation for graduate school, for students wishing to specialize in a certain area, is also provided. Further information on international career opportunities is available from the major advisor.

A background in international affairs and at least one foreign language are considered essential for minimal competitiveness in the international field. The field of international relations and diplomacy is one of the most competitive in politics and successful students must be willing to go beyond the minimum requirements to be accepted into the best graduate schools and to gain entry-level positions in the international community. The student will work with the major advisor to develop a coherent course of studies for his or her area of interest.

Major Requirements:

Thirty-nine credit hours in course work as directed below plus fulfillment of the language requirement through completion of one of three available options arranged with major advisor.

Required Courses:

- POSC 170 - American Government
Complete one of the following two courses:
- POSC 140 - International Relations
- POSC 150 - Comparative Politics
Complete one of the following two courses:
- POSC 343 - International Law
- POSC 380 - Constitutional Law I: Institutional Powers
Complete the capstone course:
- POSC 440 - Senior Capstone
- Complete two courses in political philosophy
- Complete four courses in world politics
- Complete one course in European history at the 200 level or above
- Complete one course in each of two different political areas outside of Western Europe

Additional Requirements:

Two years of university-level language training or equivalent, or additional coursework as directed by the major advisor (see below).

Courses in economics, world history, and U.S. history are also strongly recommended.

It is also strongly recommended that the student study abroad and/or complete an internship with the Department of State or some other international agency in Washington, DC. The field of international relations and diplomacy is extremely competitive and advantages need to be accumulated early and often.

A minimum of one-half the courses in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Language Requirement

Foreign language competency is essential for a successful career in international relations and diplomacy and graduate studies. It is strongly recommended that students pursue a chosen language beyond the minimum requirement set by the department. In addition, it is highly suggested that more than one additional language be pursued. Students arrive at Dominican University at different levels and it is our job to maximize student success in the field by tailoring every student's program to his or her skills. Therefore, students will complete one of the following three options for completion of the language requirement in the major. Language proficiency for the major is considered completion of two years of university coursework or equivalent. It is important to note that this is the major language requirement, and students are also responsible for the university language requirement.

Option #1: Zero or Limited Second

Language Proficiency

Students without proficiency in a second language, as determined by the modern foreign language department placement test, must take at least 16 credit hours (through the second-year sequence) in an available language. Students who test into a language beyond 101 (first-semester, first-year language), but not through the end of the second-year sequence, must complete the second-year sequence or 7 credit hours in the language—whichever is more earned credit hours. In other words, students who test into second-semester, second-year language must complete the second-year sequence and take an additional course in the language.

Option #2: Second Language

Proficiency With a United States

Secondary Education

Students with proficiency in a second language, as determined by the modern foreign language department placement test, must complete either 9 additional credit hours in the language of proficiency or 8 credit hours (the first-year sequence) in a third language. If students believe, in consultation with their major advisor, that their English skills are in need of improvement, they may be approved for option #3.

*Option #3: Second Language
Proficiency with a Non-English-Speaking Country Secondary Education*

Students whose first language is not English, and who have completed their secondary school education in a non-English-speaking country, must take either 8 credit hours (the first-year sequence) in a third language or 9 additional credit hours of course work. Students choosing the 9 additional credit hours must take ENGL 190 , CAS 150 , or CAS 155, and an additional English (beyond university requirements), communications, or world politics course.

Language proficiency in languages that are not offered at Dominican may be accepted for the language requirement in consultation with the department advisor. This is generally approved if the student verifies academic training at accredited institutions or third-party objective testing in the language at the appropriate level of competency. This “exception” does not include English as a second language or a native language; both these circumstances fall under options #2 or #3 above. The department, in consultation with language experts, is the final arbiter on language proficiency for purposes of degree completion.

Italian

The goals of the Italian division are to help students achieve: 1) an understanding and command of the linguistic structures of the Italian language that enable them to use it correctly and fluently in speech and in writing; 2) an awareness and appreciation of the culture of Italy; 3) a familiarity with the literary production of Italy and the ability to critically analyze it.

Italian majors are prepared for graduate study in Italian and various career possibilities including business, education, government, international relations, and diplomacy.

The Italian division encourages students to participate in study abroad programs.

Italian - B.A.

Major Requirements:

Thirty-two semester hours beyond ITAL 102, including ITAL 255 and ITAL 256, and two literature courses selected in consultation with the MFL advisor. Students must register for course intensification in order to count ITAL 260, ITAL 263, ITAL 264, ITAL 275, ITAL 276, ITAL 277, or ITAL 295 toward the major. A minimum of one-half the courses in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Italian Education

Teacher Licensure: Italian grades K-12

Independent study is for students who have already taken all Italian courses offered in a given semester. (1-4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing and consent of instructor.

Latino and Latin American Studies

Latino and Latin American Studies Minor

The Latino and Latin American studies minor invites students to engage in focused multidisciplinary analysis of the transnational Spanish-speaking American world. From wide-ranging perspectives students study the cultural, economic, political, and social realities, both past and present, of more than 20 American countries where Spanish is spoken as a native or heritage language. With the United States now second in the world in its national Spanish-speaking population, the study of Latin America and Latinos in the United States is both timely and needed.

The minor grounds students' academic studies in experiential learning through service learning in the Chicago-area Latino community, and/or through study abroad. It further distinguishes its students by requiring higher minimum language proficiencies in the four key skills in Spanish than those required by the core curriculum in foreign languages for graduation.

Minor Requirements:

The minor requires 18 credit hours, including:

Required Courses:

- LLAS 200 - Introduction to Latino and Latin American Studies
- 15 hours of approved electives chosen from at least three different disciplines

Additional Requirements:

- Minimum of 40 hours of service learning in the Chicago-area Latino community or study abroad in Latin America
- Language proficiency requirement minimum: intermediate-high (this level will be achieved by most students at the end of successfully completing SPAN 246 - Introduction to Spanish America, and will be tested by an oral proficiency interview and a writing sample.)

Approved Elective Courses

Apparel Design and Merchandising Courses:

- APRL 200 - Cultural Perspectives in Dress (with 1-credit course intensification focused on Latin American dress)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 320 and either SPAN 380 , SPAN 381 , SPAN 390 , or SPAN 391 , or consent of instructor.

Liberal Arts and Sciences Seminars

All students enroll each year in liberal arts and sciences seminars, courses in which students consider multiple perspectives on personal, social, and philosophical issues by reading, discussing, and writing about the seminar topics. According to their class standing, students choose from a variety of seminars exploring the topics listed below.

- Freshman Seminar: The Examined Life (100 level)
- Sophomore Seminar: Life in Community (200 level)
- Junior Seminar: A Life's Work (300 level)
- Senior Seminar: The Good Life (400 level)

While liberal arts and sciences seminars are taught by instructors from various disciplines representing alternative approaches to the general topics, they share several features. As seminars, they are courses in which students, led by an instructor, investigate problems, design projects, explore resources, and share findings. They are, that is, courses in which students learn with and from one another. The seminars are thematic. Building on each prior semester, they take as their departure point questions, problems, and issues that are both universal and urgent—questions, problems and issues that engage the whole person throughout life.

Because all seminars at each class level share a common general topic and a common text, they place at the center of students' Dominican education a shared experience; they embody for students the distinctive community of learners they have joined.

Most important, the seminars are integrative. They help students see and articulate connections between information and ideas originating in other courses. They help students see and articulate connections between their course work and their lives beyond the classroom. They help students see and articulate connections between their own lives and the lives of others—past, present, and future—in the communities and, ultimately, the society to which they belong. And, as seminars, they place the individual student at the center of this activity of mind: the student, in the company of others, makes her or his education coherent.

Specifically, the seminars help students engage texts from diverse fields of study, connect ideas and experiences across contexts, assert a defensible response to the questions under consideration, communicate effectively in oral forms, and communicate effectively in writing.

Students will “take” from their seminars no more and no less than they “give” to them. By engaging actively the materials encountered and the ideas of classmates, by first informing themselves, then participating thoughtfully in class discussions, and by completing diligently their portion of the work of the group, students gain new information, new insights, and new perspectives. More important, though, is that they gain a “new” way to learn and new respect for the power of the mind that they will carry with them into their lives beyond the classroom.

LAS Seminar Learning Goals and Outcomes

As they engage texts (e.g. written, visual, oral, or experiential) from diverse fields of study, students will be able to

- identify and explain the main idea or ideas within the texts;

- discern distinct positions within the text or between and among texts; and
- make judgments about the text in relation to the guiding questions for each seminar level.

In connecting ideas and experiences across contexts, students will

- draw on relevant examples of personal experience to explore the guiding questions under consideration at each seminar level;
- demonstrate an awareness of diverse responses to the guiding questions for each seminar level; and
- make connections across disciplines in ways that illuminate the guiding questions at each seminar level.

To assert a defensible response to the guiding questions under consideration, students will

- articulate a clear response;
- situate one's response in relation to others' responses; and
- defend the rationale for one's responses.

To communicate effectively in oral forms, students will

- demonstrate attentiveness to the oral contributions of others;
- contribute to discussions in ways that build upon or synthesize the ideas of others; and
- foster a constructive class climate.

To communicate effectively in writing, students will

- articulate a clear, specific, and complex thesis in response to the questions;
- support the thesis with appropriate evidence; and
- demonstrate correct syntax and mechanics.

Seminar Themes, Guiding Questions, and Common Texts:

Freshman Seminars: The Examined Life

Freshman seminars begin the process of examining one's life and take as a focal point these fundamental questions:

- What is the self?
- Who am I? How did I become who I am? Who will I be in the world?
- What does it mean to live mindfully and reflectively? What helps and hinders that process?

Common text: Thich Nhat Hanh's Living Buddha, Living Christ

Sophomore Seminars: Life in Community

The central questions raised in all sophomore seminars are:

- How are personal identity and group membership interrelated?
- What are the causes and effects of inequality among and within groups?
- What does it mean to live in diverse communities and cultures?

Common text: Diana Eck's Encountering God

Junior Seminars: A Life's Work

Although the topics that serve as departure points for individual junior seminars vary widely, all seminars have in common a systematic exploration of the following questions:

- What is the place of work in the life of the individual and in society?
- How do technology and leisure shape our lives?
- What part does making a living play in making a life?

Common text: Hannah Arendt's The Human Condition

Senior Seminars: The Good Life

In the senior seminar, students take up the questions:

- What does it mean to be good, to lead a good life?
- How does one reconcile self-interest with a sense of social responsibility?

Common text: Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics

LAS Freshman Seminars

LAS 117 - Everything That Kills Me Makes Me Feel Alive: How Do We Become Who We Are?

Students will consider three influences on their personality: biology (how much of it is destiny?), school of hard knocks or lack thereof, and spiritual guidance/religion. (3 hours)

LAS 118 - The Best Authentic Selfie: A Networked Self in the Digital Age

This course takes students to the journey of examining self-presentation in the networked digital world. Students will explore answers from ancient wisdoms to modern research for the unknown questions: What is the self? Who am I? How did I become who I am? Who will I be in the world? What does it mean to live mindfully and reflectively? And what helps and hinders that process? Students will also learn how to use social media tools to invent or reinvent oneself. (3 hours)

LAS 120 - Finding Your Place in the World: Pathways for First Generation College Students

College can be a transformative experience, one where students are challenged by new experiences in learning and living. This experience can be exciting, exhilarating, difficult and filled with uncertainty. This seminar will examine how first-generation students bring with them powerful tools rooted in their own experiences of social class, family and community that provide them with a strong foundation for success in college. Readings, discussions and activities will help students understand and engage the intense changes in learning and living that come with a college experience and navigate a pathway that allows them to be true to themselves as they embark on this new journey. (3 hours)

LAS 121 - The Collegiate Self and the Science of Learning

This seminar focuses on how the experience of going to college shapes our understanding of the self and our identities as learners. Reading will include autobiographies, short fiction, and research articles and books on higher education and the learning sciences. (3 hours)

LAS 122 - The Humanity of Mathematics

An action as simple as turning a faucet from one position to another can illustrate a mathematical idea. What is mathematics? Using the simplest examples we can find, we will explore the modern answer to this question. Our goal is both to discover the meaning of critical thinking and to discover the humanity of mathematics, its beauty, its elegance, and its dignity, which is also in part the dignity of the human mind. (3 hours)

LAS 123 - Dragons, Secret Agents, Wizards, Saviors, and You

This course serves as your introduction to the Liberal Arts Seminar sequence of the core curriculum. A Liberal Arts Seminar at Dominican is a discussion-centered course focused on a class-level theme. All freshmen explore the same theme - "The Examined Life". In this course, we will approach this primarily through the lens of fantasy, science fiction, and psychology. (3 hours)

LAS 124 - Who I Am and the Choices I Make

In this seminar we will explore how who I am and what I value influences the choices I make. Similarly, we will explore how the choices I make will influence who I become. We will read selections from economics and psychology to explore choice theory and decision making. (3 hours)

LAS 125 - Journeys of the Self

From the ancient through the modern, narrative forms have employed the physical journey as a metaphoric foundation for psychological journeys to self-awareness. Utilizing the common text and selections from alternative texts ranging from Gilgamesh, to Hamlet and Don Quixote, Virginia Wolff's Orlando, Hesse's Siddhartha, and others we will read closely, think critically, discuss passionately, and write concisely about the singular inward journeys that lead to self-awareness and to the subsequent focus of the self on service to the directed life. (3 hours)

LAS 126 - Writing the Self and Its Other

Modern individuals regard themselves as singular, authentic beings, capable of self-knowledge. In this seminar we will study the origins of the modern self as a self-conscious "subject," contained within gender, racial, national, economic and religious limits. However, we will also consider more fluid forms of identification, deemed antagonistic, even mutually exclusive, by dominant discourses. By examining these two modes of self-representation, we will question the role of self-awareness, individuality, and individualism across different cultural and religious traditions. We will also consider how the development of "personal identity" is intrinsically tied to the act of reflection, invention, and writing of one's self and its other. Readings will include essays, short stories, memoirs, philosophical and religious discourse, poetry, film and novels. This seminar may require off-campus service-learning hours. (3 hours)

LAS 127 - The Artist and the Examined Life: Meditation on Craft

Using a variety of artistic methods including drawing, painting, collage and the practice of creating block prints, we will explore the process of making art as a spiritual endeavor and examine how making art is a mindful and reflective expression of ourselves and our perspective of the world round us. We will examine the self as artist and the interdependence of the artist and society. (3 hours)

LAS 128 - My Education

The course focuses on how to understand the concept of learning and identifying when one has attained knowledge, be it in a formal or informal setting. Questions the course can address include: How do I identify moments of learning and self-awareness? Who/what serve as exemplars from which I derive paths to knowledge? At what point in time do I feel that I serve as an exemplar for others? How do I define education? (3 hours)

LAS 131 - The Natural Self

Beginning with the story of one man's search for his genetic identity, continuing with an exploration of the human genetic heritage, and ending with a discussion of what this all means about who we are and our place in the world, this seminar examines the relationships between biological life, the self, and the planet. (3 hours)

LAS 132 - A Groovy Movie: You in the 1960s

In this class we will enter a portal and go back in time. The first day of class will be in Levittown, New York, the day before John F. Kennedy was shot, and the last day of class will be in the quad of Kent State University, May 4, 1970. You will participate in historical events, not to learn about them, but to be in them and of them. We will study aspects of the self through the lens of history. You will explore friendship as a member of a platoon in Vietnam, travel to India with the Beatles to experience spirituality, come to understand dissent when you protests as a student at Kent State, learn about fairness as you fight for equal rights with feminists, and look for a deeper meaning as you become one with a bird named Jonathan Livingston Seagull. Each unit will be paired with readings from classical scholars as well as modern writers, and we will use films and YouTube videos along with our readings. There will be vibrant discussion with no wrong answers, only answers that lead to more questions, in the never ending search to answer the question: who am I? (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Freshman only.

LAS 133 - The Civil Disobedient Self

Are you willing to take a stand? Are you willing to act upon your beliefs? Individual and communal nonviolent resistance—civil disobedience—has a long history. Its writings constitute a significant body of work, which includes Greek texts, Hebrew scripture, oral declarations, abolitionist tracts, and other works pertaining to social justice, civil rights and peace movements. Students will read, think, and write critically about the extent to which social activism has impacted individuals and society. This seminar includes a required service activity. (3 hours)

LAS 134 - The Courage of Leadership

In this seminar, we will consider the role of courage in shaping one's identity as a leader. We will use various texts and discussions to investigate the following questions: Do you have the courage to be yourself? Do you have the courage to make decisions that are consistent with your values? Do you have the courage to change and challenge the "norm"? This course will help you explore who you are now and help you discover the leader you want to become in the future. (3 hours)

LAS 135 - Success!

This course serves as your introduction to the seminar sequence of the core curriculum. A seminar at Dominican is a discussion-centered course focused on a class-level theme. All freshmen explore the theme of "the examined life." In this course, we will approach this theme from an exploration of facets of succeeding. The guiding questions for the freshman seminar will be addressed directly and reflected in corresponding questions oriented around the concept of success. (3 hours)

LAS 136 - Choosing Your Path

How did I become who I am? Who will I be in the world? Choosing your path in the world calls for active reflection on your past, your present, and your future. Through the process of structured discussions and with the help of readings and other materials, we will investigate your history and your values, seeking insight into what makes you who you are and how your values shape who you hope to become. Using stories from the lives of others, we will study ourselves. (3 hours)

LAS 137 - Heritage and Identity

In this seminar, we will explore the ways that our individual identities are connected to and shaped by our heritage. To what extent is a person's identity influenced by the culture(s) to which s/he belongs? What is the role of ethnicity? Of family? Of tradition? Of customs? As we consider these questions, we will read various texts (fiction, non-fiction, autobiography, and poetry) that also examine the idea of heritage, revealing both the gifts and the burdens that individuals can inherit. This course will ask you to think about who you are now, where you've come from, and what you might become in the future. This seminar will require off-campus service hours. (3 hours)

LAS 138 - Personal Awakenings, Social Struggles, and Dreams of Transformation

Some of our most intense learning experiences can feel like awakenings from mistaken understandings of our world. We experience some of these awakenings – like learning that we have the power to reason our way through misunderstandings with loved ones or morally complicated social situations – as empowering turning points in our lives. Not all of these awakenings are pleasant. Learning that others are suffering and denied opportunities due to systematic injustice can leave us feeling ill at ease and less at home in the world. But awakenings, whether gratifying or upsetting, call us to ask ourselves many questions. How do we hold onto new insights, feelings of purpose, and desires to relate differently to others once we have these moments of awakening? What personal, social, and political forces encourage us to live less mindfully and justly? Must we change our lives? In this seminar, we will explore these questions and examine how writers, philosophers, religious thinkers, leaders of social movements, and other people of conscience have answered these questions. But we will not assume that mindfulness is something we leave to the experts. Through in-class exercises (including five-minute memoirs, group discussion, and civil debate) and reflective essays, participants in this seminar will pursue the work of mindfulness independently and with one another. (3 hours)

LAS 139 - Self and Leadership

This seminar will examine the development of the self as a leader. Looking at leaders throughout history, both famous and unknown, students will discover what they value in others and themselves. Leadership will be discussed from the perspective of historical development and context in which individuals find themselves living. (3 hours)

LAS 140 - Re: Visioning the World

Contemporary life gives us access to more images and visual information than ever before, but sometimes without any meaningful context. In this seminar we will explore ways to learn about ourselves through understanding as well as creating our own visual vocabulary. (3 hours)

LAS 141 - Social Selves - Got Privilege?

We will examine the role social forces play in shaping one's sense of self, and how communities can play both positive and negative roles in our development. (3 hours)

LAS 142 - Moral Compass: The Means to Find Oneself

Using the lens of selected literary works, students will be challenged not only to find their moral compasses, but also learn to use them as a means to uncover their own personal identities in the midst of life's numerous obstacles. This quest of self-discovery happens not only in the great tribulations of life, but also in the mundane and ordinary stretches of existence. This seminar sheds light on the great importance of utilizing one's moral compass each and every day, as well as the significance it plays in understanding and shaping one's personal identity. (3 hours)

LAS 144 - Wealth, Poverty and Identity

To what extent is who you are determined by what you have? This seminar will examine the connections between material affluence and identity. We will develop working definitions of wealth and poverty, and through the examination of a variety of texts we will study the many ways that conceptions of identity are influenced by being rich or being poor. We will also discuss the environmental implications of materially determined identity, and we will consider not only American wealth and poverty, but also the extreme poverty and income inequality that exist in developing countries throughout the world. (3 hours)

LAS 147 - My Authentic Self - Roads Taken and Not Taken

What is the authentic self? How does it interact with the other (family, friends, society at large, and culture)? Is the true self historically conditioned and culture-relative? Is our conception of ourselves related to our knowledge and understanding of other people? This course helps you to recognize the person you are becoming. Looking back, you will reflect on the decisions that have brought you to where you are, and ask if your life has deeper meaning because of your experiences. Looking forward, you will consider how you will negotiate all of your choices. How will you shape your hopes and dreams? (3 hours)

LAS 148 - Who Do You Want to Become?

From kindergarten on, we are often asked: What do you want to be when you grow up? This intensifies in late high school and early college as pressure builds to choose a career path. This course asks different questions: Who are you right now? Who do you want to become? How do you become that person? Through engagement of challenging readings and lively discussions, this course examines the forces that contributed to who you are today and the forces that might shape you at Dominican. It also looks to the future and resources, academic and other, you will have for the journey of becoming who you are meant to be, no matter what you end up doing. (3 hours)

LAS 153 - Faith and Life Today

This seminar is designed to help students mature by identifying questions of faith today and coming to understand them more fully in terms of moral principles of decision-making and some of the best prose literature: short stories of initiation. The course does not presuppose literary background or religious commitment, but both are welcome. Students will develop skills in research and in critical reading, writing, speaking, and listening through this exploration. This seminar will require off-campus service hours. (3 hours)

LAS 163 - Transforming the Self

There are many paths to transformation, many ways to grow and change. In the Common text, Living Buddha, Living Christ, transformation occurs through the practice of "mindfulness," or focusing within. St. Francis of Assisi wrote, "If you want your dream to be, build it slow and surely...stone by stone, build your secret slowly." In this seminar, you will meet many individuals in world drama who are transformed through their difficult choices. They dream; they risk; they love. Whether characters are historical or fictional, they will guide you along a path of transformation. Ask yourself: how did my struggles, decisions, self-awareness, and search for God, contribute to the shaping of my identity and ultimately to my inner transformation? (3 hours)

LAS 164 - Exploring the Creative Human Spirit

Everyone possesses a creative human spirit. Creative moments are vital to survival and growth. We will learn about how others have used creativity to discover new ideas and products. We will explore ways to encourage our own creative human spirit to surface more often. We will apply the new concepts of creative thought we have learned to propose solutions to both personal and global problems. (3 hours)

LAS 168 - What's in a Name?

How important are the race, ethnicity, and language of one's ancestors for determining one's personal identity? How does this compare with the impact of one's immediate surroundings? This seminar explores these and other questions by focusing on the experiences of "uprooted" and "transplanted" people at different points in space and time as they search for a sense of self. (3 hours)

LAS 170 - Doing That Thing You Do

This seminar will introduce students to an explanation of human behavior that is frequently used by economists and other social scientists. The rational-self-interest model of who we are and why we do what we do will be examined in the context of other views of human behavior, as illustrated by parables, short stories, novels, plays, and movies. (3 hours)

LAS 171 - Thinking for Oneself

Some say that enlightenment means having the courage to think for oneself, rather than being lazy or cowardly while following the herd and letting others tell us what to believe or do. Others say that life is inevitably lived within a tension between freedom's open possibilities and destiny's imposing limitations. We'll pursue this problematic through writings religious and philosophical, literary and psychological, Eastern and Western. (3 hours)

LAS 175 - Leadership for Life

How does the self become a leader? What does it mean to be a leader? Why do leaders become engaged in the community? In order to develop our full human potential, our leadership skills and abilities need to grow, change, and meet new challenges. The self as leader will be explored through readings, discussion, reflection, service, and interfaith dialogue. This seminar will require off-campus service hours. (3 hours)

LAS 178 - iAm My iPod

This course examines the interplay between technology and identity development, particularly in today's culture. Whether it is the iPod and what your music collection has to say about who you are and what you find meaningful, email, IM, the personal computer, cell phones, video games, or applications like mySpace and Facebook, technology plays an important role in how we define ourselves and how we relate to others. This seminar also looks at the popular culture of various decades, as captured through technological media as well as written sources, and examines the influence these media and writings have exerted on the "collective identity development" of each affected generation. (3 hours)

LAS 186 - Know Thyself

This seminar takes as its starting point the famous Greek maxim, Gnothi seauton (Know thyself), and it assumes that self-knowledge comes only by reaching beyond oneself to engage an ever-wider world. Through challenging readings, discussion, written exercises, and even some "brain teasers," this seminar will aid a process of self-discovery and self-appropriation that in various ways keeps coming back to an overriding question: "What does it mean for me to live an authentic human life - intellectually, morally, religiously?" (3 hours)

LAS 187 - Inner and Outer Realities

Perhaps one of the most compelling questions any of us can ask is, "Who am I?" Going far beyond the superficial list of likes and dislikes, we shall explore some of the essential and non-negotiable ingredients of the self, those inner and outer realities that form our personalities and, perhaps, even our soulfulness. Of course, outer realities such as race, gender, class, physical and intellectual capacity play important roles. But what about those invisible yet real inner dimensions that transcend yet include what others see? (3 hours)

LAS 189 - This I Believe

"I" is in the middle-your "I." This seminar explores the influences coalescing to produce your "I" by contemplating the life stories of others in relation to your own. We will be exploring various streets taken by book and movie characters. On what street did they grow up? How far did they travel from that street? When did they venture forth and why?

Whom did they meet in their travels? What beliefs guided their way? There are many streets or paths in life. Which path will lead to happiness, holiness, and effectiveness? Where is your own street leading? What do you believe? The reading, conversing, and writing of this seminar will help focus and form the essential foundation of your life, so you may better articulate to yourself and others, "This I believe." (3 hours)

LAS 194 - The Grand and the Simple

The great French writer Marcel Proust observed that the self of today is often unable to recognize the self of yesterday and unable to accurately envision the self of tomorrow. Does our life include a multiple collection of selves (10-year-old David in a baseball uniform, 17-year-old David in a jail cell, 25-year-old David in a cyclone in Japan, and an older David teaching a university course on the different Davids)? Or do we have one true self that always remains invisible to us, just around the corner, just out of reach? Who the h-e-double hockey sticks am I, was I always this person, will I always be this person? This class will discuss how different people, places, events, and decisions (made and unmade) influence the self. We will explore through writings, films, and discussion how every moment could be the one that defines us to ourselves or others and how in the next moment that can all change. (3 hours)

LAS 199 - Mindful Crossroads to Compassion and Awareness

Buddhist monk and social activist Thich Nhat Hanh teaches that there is nothing we experience that can't be approached with mindfulness and compassion. Our seminar will focus on understanding Hanh's identification of Christianity with Buddhism to better understand how we experience ourselves in the world. Through literature and film, we will focus on the discovery and the formation of personal identity by asking, What are the key influences on a person's development? How does the "self" interact with a community? How can mindfulness lead to a better understanding of who we are as individuals? (3 hours)

LAS Sophomore Seminars

Prerequisite for all sophomore seminars: sophomore standing and completion of a freshman seminar.

LAS 225 - Multicultural Competency: Life in Community

Today's professionals have the responsibility of ensuring that we meet the needs of culturally and ethnically diverse communities. Multicultural competence is important for maintaining and sustaining an environment where differences are valued and respected. In an increasingly diverse world, we must not only strive to become multicultural competent professionals but we must also reflect on our own perceptions and experiences that shape our interactions with others. This seminar combines historical, current events and lived-experiences to help us better understand our own concepts of identity, community, and culture as well as provide the framework towards becoming a multicultural competent individual in a diverse world. This seminar might require off-campus service-learning hours. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing

LAS 226 - Uncovering Ourselves: The Self as Other

Implicit bias (automatic or unconscious stereotyping that guides our perception of and behavior toward social groups) is one of the fastest growing areas of human psychology. It also lies at the heart of one of the raging debates in American public schools: whether the teacher's operation of unconscious gender, racial, religious, and other biases can affect student achievement. The course explores how scientific evidence on the human mind might help to explain why racial and gender equality is so elusive. This new evidence reveals how human mental machinery can be skewed by lurking stereotypes, often bending to accommodate hidden biases reinforced by years of social learning such as biases toward specific religious orientations. Through the lens of these powerful and pervasive implicit attitudes and stereotypes, the course examines both the continued subordination of historically disadvantaged groups and the educational system's complicity in the subordination. Students will be introduced to cutting edge research that bears not only on the highly relevant substantive areas of discrimination and prejudice in American classrooms, but also on questions regarding gender gaps in science and math, affirmative action programs, teacher expectations, and the school-to-prison pipeline. Students will learn how implicit bias works, how to interpret and use empirical research findings, how to understand the major critiques of implicit bias research, and how to understand scholars' use of implicit bias findings. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing

LAS 227 - Men in Community: An Exploration

This course will examine the modern construction of masculinity in our communities and societies, and how this affects individuals, groups, institutions, and societies, with particular focus on the impact of men. We will explore how our diverse identities (race, class, sexuality, physical ability, performance, etc.) are implicated in the construction of masculinity and in-group equality. We will use these guiding questions to guide our path: How are men's personal identity and group membership interrelated? What are the causes and effects of equality among and within groups? What does it mean for men to live in diverse communities and cultures? (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 228 - Communication Through Dress

This course explores dress as a multifaceted communication tool that provides insight into one's culture, beliefs, faith, identity, power, and emotions. Clothing conveys messages about how members of groups identify with those inside and outside of the group, and it communicates meaning to others in society. Signals sent by clothing can bring people together but also be the impetus for discrimination and injustice. This course explores and discusses possible interpretations of the many aspects of body adornment encountered in today's diverse communities. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 229 - Who's Stirring the Melting Pot?

Religious groups at war with each other over sacred spaces and beliefs; migrants both legal and illegal in multicultural groups discriminated against; colonization and its lasting effects; God, Yahweh, Buddha, Allah; rich versus poor. Who is "the other"? Who is "your other"? More importantly, why is this person "your" other? Expanding on the theme of identify, this course will examine the concept of communities, how they are created, and how they have and should function. Through a multi-cultured voice, we will examine concepts such as love, hate, war, peace, tolerance, and tradition, analyzing them through theological and cinematic lenses in regard to our "melting pot" society. We will pay special attention to "outsiders" who come in and to "insiders" who are out of the mainstream societies. Most material will be international and multicultural. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 230 - Life in Chicago's Communities

Life in Chicago's Communities will explore the reciprocal and impactful relationship between neighborhoods and individuals. Sophomore level students will begin by reflecting on the influence community had in their development. Students will then engage in an exploration of a Chicago neighborhood or community, and learn about faith and social justice institutions serving its constituents. Through reflections, texts, group activities, and peer presentations, students will examine the guiding questions: How are personal identity and group membership interrelated? What are the causes and effects of inequality among and within groups? What does it mean to live in diverse communities and cultures?

(3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 231 - Invest in the Global Community

Real dollars, real time, real difference. This course will provide students with an opportunity to engage with and better understand our global communities in our backyard and around the world. Students will also be given dollars to invest through KIVA, a global micro-financing organization. Students will use their investments as a way to learn about regions of the world. Books, films and events will also be used as resources to expand global understanding. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 232 - Islam in America

This seminar explores Islam in America, including its history and followers, and examines the different ethnicities in the American Muslim population. Students will be introduced to Islamic culture and traditions as well as the contributions of Muslims to American society. Further discussion will touch on the similarities between American Muslims and their fellow Americans, as well as understanding points of conflict and controversies that arise between American Muslims and America. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 233 - Food in the U.S. Today: Production, Choice, and Policy

How is food produced in the United States today? Food politics and policies in the United States have heated up in recent years as legislators, regulators, educators, farmers, and many others battle over subsidies, restrictions, and questions of public health. What shapes our choices as consumers? How do these choices impact our lives and our communities? We will explore these critical issues as we learn about food production in the United States. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 234 - Photography as the Arbitrator of Pathos, Memory, and Mankind
(3 hours)

LAS 235 - Social Justice and Intercultural Communication

Social justice and intercultural communication are examined in the context of geopolitical, economic, and cultural contexts. Through the various texts, guest speakers, presentations, community based learning, and exchanges with international students in Dominican's ELS program, students will examine discrimination, racial profiling, and ethnic conflicts as well as local and global wealth disparities. The class is designed to provide a framework to create a more just and humane world through communication. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 236 - Undocumented Students: Americans or Not?

The U.S. Supreme Court mandates that undocumented children be accepted as students, but, because of current immigration laws, they are not accepted as citizens. This puts these students in an ambiguous situation. For many, the U.S. is the only country they know and English is the only language they speak. They nonetheless face enormous barriers to obtaining legal employment or trying to enter college. In this seminar, students will explore the sophomore level themes by examining student narratives, academic discourse, legislation, public policy, and media attention to the issues of immigration reform, social and political marginalization, and access to higher education for undocumented students. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 237 - Globalization and Personal Spirituality

We live in a world of GPS, texts, "tweets" and YouTube, where communication technologies have allowed us to be instantaneously present to one another no matter where we are physically located on the planet. Our thoughts and images flow so quickly over such vast space that we are virtually present in more than one place at a time. In an ever-shrinking global community, within an exponentially expanding cosmos, how do you begin to describe exactly where YOU are right now? How does the process of globalization impact our orientation to that which is beyond our known personal experience? Who are we, and how do we situate ourselves within a cosmology that has redefined our place in the universe and perhaps even our purpose? This seminar will examine the interconnectedness of planetary being with personal spirituality -- the inmost energy of entanglement with the Divine. We will explore the noosphere, morphogenic fields, human compassion, and "cosmosophia" as bridges to understanding how personal spirituality can create a unitive consciousness that will serve, rather than oppose, the immense diversity present in humanity and creation. (3 hours)

LAS 238 - Exploring Diversity in Popular Culture

Our actions and our communication can have a significant impact on our lives, on others, and on the development of our communities. When it comes to popular culture, the entertainment industry promotes contradictions about diversity and what it means to live in an increasingly interdependent world. Though a powerful medium to help bring about societal change, popular culture has a record of contributing to inclusive thinking. Using film, popular TV shows, and literature, we will explore questions that focus on identity, nationality, commonalities and differences, perceptions and stereotypes: How are personal identity and group membership interrelated? What are the causes and effects of inequality among and within groups? What does it mean to live in diverse communities and cultures? (3 hours)

LAS 239 - Conflict, Competition and Community

Amid the rise of globalization and the increasing interconnectedness of the world in the 21st century, the notion of community has grown more varied and complex. In this course, students will explore the opportunities and challenges that arise as they encounter diverse cultures; we will ask how our ideas of community are re-defined when we embrace (or come into conflict with) worldviews that are different from our own. We will also examine the cultural role of competition, particularly in its connections to debates over social conflict (as in capitalism) and celebrations of diversity (as in sports). (3 hours)

LAS 241 - Communities of Consumption: Comparing Cultures and Cults

Consumerism can mean many things: the pleasure of buying more, the movement toward buying less, and the culture of consumption. The world of the consumer is one that generates fierce loyalty, righteous activism, and a lot of money for businesses. This seminar will examine these aspects of consumerism from several perspectives: as a creator of the cult-like loyalty to brands and brand communities, as a phenomenon so strong it can build corporate empires and shopping mall cathedrals, and as a search for meaning that in some cases can rival religious allegiance. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 242 - Conflict Resolution

The resolution of destructive conflict is at the heart of this seminar. Destructive conflict reduces our quality of life, puts our health at risk, reduces our productivity and creativity, disrupts teamwork and cooperation, creates war zones, and leads to other kinds of unsafe conditions. Our focus is on disputes between individuals; these interpersonal conflicts are key factors in creating and maintaining dysfunctional social groups (e.g., families, neighborhoods, and organizations). We will study the role of social identities and social status in fueling intergroup conflicts. A major seminar goal is for students to build conflict resolution skills that will enable them to achieve true reconciliation when dealing with all manner of disputes. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 243 - Searching for China's Cultural Diversity: From Confucianism to Dragon Dance

Searching for China's Cultural Diversity examines many aspects of Chinese culture including religions, philosophies, arts, music, customs and language. The course focuses on exploring the multi-faceted religious heritage of pre-modern China, the practice of different religions in China today, and the spread and influence of Chinese religions throughout the world. It also exposes students to Chinese diverse customs among the 55 ethnic minorities, different genres in arts and music, and fascinating traditions in regards to Chinese holidays. Basic spoken Chinese will be introduced in class throughout the semester as well. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 246 - Science and Religion in Culture

Diverse scientific views of the world can greatly influence popular culture—the collection of perspectives, attitudes and images that influence the way individuals in that culture determine what works and what doesn't work. The discoveries of some theoretical physicists have influenced the way those of us in a Western culture think about how the world works. It started with Isaac Newton's theory of classical mechanics, which held sway as the way to construct successful organizations. The concepts of string theory have the same influence today. In this seminar, we will compare our own assumptions of how things work in our faith traditions and cultures through the lenses of various scientific theories. (3 hours)

LAS 249 - Music and Diversity

This seminar is writing intensive and focuses on the role that music has had in building up and breaking down the walls that divide us. For music that binds, we study religious music and nationalistic music. We will explore how African-American music was the foundation for rock 'n roll and inspiration for the Beatles. In the second unit, we will also study the divisive nature of music: Rap is black; C&W white; and classical is WASP. Music fosters division by playing off stereotypes. We will study the 1979 Disco Demolition and 70s white power rock. In the final unit we will seek answers to the paradox that we need groups to thrive and survive, but grouping of people causes distinction, stereotypes, prejudice and the rest. We will explore morality, super-ordinate identity, empathy, and cultural appropriation as possible answers. We will learn, through the music, ways in which cultures differ, how they are the same, and in the end apply this knowledge to better understand community, culture and diversity. (3 hours)

LAS 254 - Multicultural Theatre: Communities in Conflict

In our interdependent world, we can no longer "go it alone." The most urgent question raised in the common text, Encountering God, is how do we "go it together?" How can we break the cycle of violence, and create "the imagined community" envisioned by Gandhi and other adherents of non-violence? In this seminar, African-American, Asian-American, and Latino/Latina playwrights, as well as gay and feminist artists, confront divisive, even life-threatening issues. Students will examine late 20th and 21st century plays and other texts, as well as view documentary films and live theatre productions. The nature and causes of prejudice and discrimination; the impact of racial, religious, and homophobic violence; the struggle to create community; and the hunger for artistic expression will be addressed. A service learning component will be required. (3 hours)

This seminar will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

LAS 258 - The Road to Africa

Split by its triple heritage, modern Africa has been a product of three major influences: indigenous traditions, Islamic culture, and Western culture. The synthesis of these forces determines, in large part, the situation in contemporary African states. In this course, the Igbos of sub-Saharan Africa will be studied as an example of how one particular ethnic group has absorbed, balanced, and reconciled these divergent traditions and produced its own unique identity in the midst of the larger society. (3 hours)

This seminar will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

LAS 263 - Voices of the Silent Ones: Literary Protests in America

This course will explore various literary texts dealing with the issues and problems facing minorities in their respective societies. During much of the 20th century, minority literature expressed the pain, injustice, and mental anguish of those individuals who are judged on race and gender before character and disposition. Readings will include works of African-American, Hispanic, and Native American writers and will ultimately explore the ways that literature confronts issues of identity and allows us to re-envision our definitions of ourselves and our communities. (3 hours)

This seminar will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

LAS 264 - Native American Spirituality

Native American spirituality is rooted in the relationships among the people and of the people to the land. Spirituality is not something that exists apart from their culture but is expressed through the culture. Because so much of life depends on their association to the land and all that lives upon it, the displacement of the people from their roots by westward expansion caused great upheaval. In this course, we will look at the history and culture of some of the native peoples and make connections to stories and customs, rituals and traditions. (3 hours)

This seminar will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

LAS 267 - Dancing in the Streets

"When the mode of the music changes, the walls of the city shake . . ." The Greek philosopher Plato, centuries before the advent of rock 'n' roll, acknowledged the power of music as a mobilizing force for social change. This seminar explores the development and impact of popular music over the last century, with an emphasis on its relationship to the social, cultural, and political critique and change. A particular focus on African-American influences on various musical genres, from early roots music (gospel, blues, country, and rhythm and blues) to mid-century youth-oriented pop, Motown and soul, and more recent expressions in hip-hop. (3 hours)

LAS 275 - Unity and Diversity: Problems and Promises

Group membership can shape both our dreams and our fears; it can offer stability, identity, and energy: it can offer both a vantage point from which to view the world and a fear of what we discover there. Chicago is a microcosm of the richly diverse world we live in, and it can teach us about the ways individuals and groups can challenge, support, and enrich one another. This course will examine the strengths and pitfalls of group membership through reviewing the experience of religious, ethnic, and economic communities in the Chicago area. We will examine some interfaith projects as examples of contemporary attempts to harness the strengths of group identity in support of the common good. (3 hours)

LAS 276 - Consequences of War, Racism, and Immigration: Making Selves and Communities from WWII to the Present

American and European cultures in the 20th and 21st centuries have been marked by war and war's effects: the displacement of millions of people from their homes and countries of origin and the destruction of traditional ways of life, entire communities, and families. We will see the shocks wrought by war and anti-Semitism during and after WWII in the diary of Anne Frank. We will also examine the social and spiritual divisions—and the many barriers to national unity—created by racial and ethnic prejudice against peoples in Europe and the United States. Finally, the economic and spiritual displacement and subjugation that class and racial barriers enforce in the contemporary United States is a related subject of our readings and thinking. We will ask questions about the ways in which war, racism, and the widening economic division into haves and have-nots in the United States leave lasting marks on our fragile sense of self and on our ideas of community health and the common good. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomores only.

LAS 280 - Exposing the Cultural Gap: Literary Wanderings

Throughout the history of the novel as an art form, various authors have produced stories in which a character/narrator acts as a social commentator. Such novels may be characterized as "travelogues." By examining some prominent travelogues -- Gulliver's Travels, Huckleberry Finn, The Catcher in the Rye, and On the Road -- the class will discover how various facets of society are analyzed, categorized, and often marginalized by seemingly discerning storytellers. The course will primarily examine these and other works of social commentary in their various historical contexts. Together, the literature will illuminate the history, and vice versa. (3 hours)

LAS 289 - Multicultural Chicago

The city of Chicago provides a stimulating topic of study in relation to the seminar theme of diversity, culture and community. This course will focus on the cultures and histories of various ethnic and racial groups in Chicago. Topics we may consider include: African American migration to and settlement in Chicago; the Italian American community in the city and suburbs; the different ethnic and national groups, such as Mexican Americans and Puerto Ricans, that make up Latino/a Chicago; and the formation of Chinatown. We will consider differences of gender, class and sexuality within these communities and their contact and conflict with other groups. Texts from different disciplinary perspectives and selected works of literature will help us better understand the cultural complexity of this diverse city. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

LAS 290 - The Challenge of Solidarity

Diversity and culture are givens in our lives, and the clash of many diverse cultures is the source of much injustice, violence, and even genocide in today's world. How can we better understand diversity and culture all our lives long, while we see the gift of community in a climate of faith, hope, and love? Is it possible to bridge the divisions of group identity to create movements of solidarity for the common good? Theoretical models of social analysis, the biographies of great leaders in social change, and personal exchange with local practitioners of solidarity will all contribute to our study of diversity, culture, and community. (3 hours)

LAS 296 - Diversity, Food, and Social Justice

It has been said that the history of human society can be traced through the history of food production and distribution. This course will utilize film, literature, and experiential learning to explore issues regarding food disparity as well as the political, economic and social impact of hunger in a land of plenty. We will explore the growing international paradox of poverty, obesity, and malnutrition. We will critique proposed systemic solutions, such as sustainable food production. Students will be expected to participate in a service learning component addressing "food deserts" and social justice in the Chicago area. (3 hours)

LAS Junior Seminars

Prerequisite for all junior seminars: junior standing and completion of a sophomore seminar.

LAS 318 - Work as a Search for Dignity

This seminar will be writing intensive, focusing on human work as a search for dignity. In his Encyclical On Human Work (the main text of Junior seminar), Pope John Paul II notes that any job should be judged "above all by the measure of the dignity of the subject of work, that is to say, the person, the individual who carries it out." We will apply this idea and others from the encyclical to various texts, including contemporary essays on income inequality, poems by Jean Toomer and Robert Frost, and the long fictional story Life in the Iron Mills by Rebecca Harding Davis. Since our section is writing intensive, two major assignments will be (1) an annotated bibliography (replete with library workshops that allow transfer students to fulfill the graduation requirement of achieving research literacy) and (2) a researched essay that includes argument and analysis. (3 hours)

LAS 319 - Work and Warfare in American Culture

This course investigates the relationship between work and warfare in America today. Not only does war serve as a rich metaphor for thinking about the workplace, but war itself consumes much of the nation's working energy, and on a vast scale. Through texts as varied as Working (written by beloved Chicago journalist Studs Terkel), Pope John Paul II's encyclical On Human Work, and Orson Scott Card's science fiction classic Ender's Game, we will explore a variety of topics related to work, including gender, violence, economic and material conditions, and concepts of leadership. Students will write two essays and do an interview project, either written or filmed, that is patterned after Terkel's method in Working. (3 hours)

LAS 324 - Taling Faith into the 9 to 5 Window

We are all co-creators with God through the work we do and have a responsibility to use wisely the gifts and opportunities we are given. Does there need to be a division between the sacred and secular parts of our lives? How can we overcome the personal, cultural, and political obstacles that prevent us from fully integrating our Christian faith into the workplace? These questions, along with other current related issues including conscience protection and religious discrimination, will be explored utilizing assigned texts, articles, and group activities. The student will be provided concrete and practical examples of how to lead successful careers while remaining faithful witnesses to the Gospel values.

(3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior standing

LAS 325 - Building a Meaningful Life, Finding Good Work, and Knowing the Difference

Some people argue that most college students do not prepare themselves well enough for their careers. Others contend that too narrow a focus on work in higher education boxes students into a confining career track and shrinks their ability to be critical thinkers and vital citizens. What do you think? By exploring some of these arguments, reviewing other readings on making a living, this seminar will consider how our experiences in the world of work can both fulfill us and diminish us. Through discussions and activities that will put you in touch with professionals in the work to which you aspire, we will also attempt to build a pathway to your life after Dominican that is fulfilling and meaningful. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior standing

LAS 327 - The Accomplishment of an Aim or Purpose by Pablo and Yolanda

Most of our popular media outlets send us strong messages that people are successful because of their income, their possessions, their accomplishments or stature in a particular environment or industry. The working world, however, is filled with people whose work gives them high income and stature, but also makes them unhappy. How is this possible? In order to help students arrive at their own visions of success and happiness, this class will examine stories of the "successful" and "unsuccessful" through films, documentaries, guest speakers, classic texts, and contemporary biographies of several figures in the entertainment industry (both well-known and not so well-known). Students will also participate in improvisation exercises and be required to make one presentation. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior standing

LAS 328 - Smart Search, Better Communication

We are in the age of search engines plus social media. Beyond keyword searching, chatting and sharing, are there more effective ways for us to retrieve/send quality or even unexpected information online than average users? In this seminar, we will first focus on using search engines to explore the "invisible world" or predict business trends. Then, with the help of social media, student will be trained to become active members of crisis response teams. Upon finishing the semester, you can experience the latest tools to scan the world, the best ways to protect us online, and more importantly, the most effective strategies to disseminate information. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Juniors only.

LAS 329 - Work, Identity, and Class in Latino/Chicago

In this Junior seminar, students will engage the issues of national identity, poverty, and the "invisibility" of the Latin@ working class in Chicago from circa 1910's to today. In a seminar format, students will study current interdisciplinary research on the topic and learn about the challenges and opportunities involved in breaking through the so-called "blue-collar ceiling." (3 hours)

LAS 330 - Being and Doing: A Life's Work

For many, work is just a job; for others, it is a form of service. By studying a sampling of the diverse cases documented by Studs Terkel, students will explore where they would like their life's work to fall on that spectrum and how to make that happen through exercising the habits of effective people. Students will also examine how one's complete body of work extends beyond the boundaries of working for others during the workday and working for one's self in the home and in leisure activities. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Juniors only.

LAS 331 - Communities and Their Organizations: Where Recreation Meets Vocation

This seminar will explore the nature of community organizations and the opportunities they afford for those who serve them and those who are served by them. Apart from assigned reading that will explore the difference between a job, a profession, and a vocation, as well as the elements of community both as "space" and "cyberspace," students will visit and perhaps spend time volunteering with various community organizations, chat with current and past students who work with community organizations (as well as other community leaders), and map the assets of a community of their choice. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Juniors only.

LAS 332 - Living Sustainably in a Modern World

Living in a modern world has its challenges. With conveniences and technology developing at a faster pace than ever, how do we slow it down a bit and consciously live a more sustainable life? This seminar course will focus on various aspects of living a less consumed, more sustainable lifestyle, through work and leisure. The five themes of agriculture, conservation, global impact, political initiatives and affairs, and transportation will be fully explored. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Juniors only.

LAS 333 - Becoming a Professional

What is the difference between a job and a profession? The "learned professions" have expanded from law, medicine, and theology to include any occupation requiring a background in the liberal arts and sciences. Why is this grounding in the liberal arts and sciences significant? The root of the word professional is the verb "to profess," meaning to make public declaration, like the vows taken by those entering religious life. As students prepare to embark upon their professions, they will consider what it is that they are willing to profess. (3 hours)

LAS 334 - Labor, Work, and Action

The way social and political dynamics work is shifting because of the rapid development of our inventions. How does this trend affect the way we define our culture and what are the implications of these shifts on whom we view and what we consider as our work? (3 hours)

LAS 340 - The Future of Everything

An undergraduate education is considered to be a time to prepare for the future. No-one knows for certain what will happen in the future but it is quite certain that advancements in technology will play a major role in the future of the planet. This course will challenge the popular conception that technology is simply a "means to an end" and is essentially value neutral. We will think critically about the role of technology in 1) education, 2) communication, 3) leisure, and 4) vocation. Therefore, we will be able to embrace our futures with the awareness of the promises and perils of technology. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior standing

LAS 341 - 20th Century Workers' Tales

This course will focus on the social, political and emotional turmoil that workers faced during the first half of the 20th Century, and how many lives were affected by a system that was indifferent to their struggles. The course will include classics like Upton Sinclair's The Jungle, John Steinbeck's Of Mice and Men, and selections from James Joyce's Dubliners and Ernest Hemingway's In Our Time. Bob Dylan's protest songs will also be studied to further illuminate the literature as well as establish an historical framework for class discussions. (3 hours)

LAS 342 - The Game of Life 2.0

We all know how it ends. Point is, what are you going to do with the life you've got in the meantime? Work? Check. Play? Check. Change the world? Maybe. Do it all with cool gadgets? No doubt. Text, visual media, game-making, art, and philosophy will guide us in answering: What is the place of work in the life of the individual and in society? How do technology and leisure shape our lives? What part does making a living play in making a life? For the intellectually adventurous. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Juniors only.

LAS 343 - Art As Work

How can one make their life's work art and can one's life be art? How do you make the distinction? What does it mean to survive or thrive as an artist and/or introduce creativity into your life? What are the practicalities and real life applications of art and how is the current state of the economy affecting the art world? How have artists historically coped with the economic realities of being an artist? We will explore various ways to make art a career, both philosophically and practically. (3 hours)

LAS 344 - The Story of Our Lives

In this course, we will explore how the chapters of our lives make up the story of our lives. We will read and research a variety of formats, such as biographies, short stories, newspapers, and journals, to learn from others' experiences and how these experiences apply to our lives. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Juniors only.

LAS 346 - Work vs. Leisure: Where Is the Path to Happiness?

In this course we will examine how work and leisure in particular relate to happiness. In order to determine where and how we can find happiness through our work and leisure, we will use, in addition to the common text, the "Art of Happiness at Work" by the Dalai Lama and selected other readings from the "happiness" literature in economics and psychology. (3 hours)

LAS 347 - Work and Leisure: Striking a Balance

Do we need to strike a balance between work and leisure in our lives or are work and leisure part of an integrated continuum of achievement, fulfillment and satisfaction? How does technology factor into the work-leisure equation? In order to answer these questions the seminar will explore the philosophical, historical, sociological, and psychological approaches to work and leisure. We will consider whether leisure is work, how to make a living of leisure, and what constitutes a career. The seminar will include readings from studies, literature, and the popular press, case studies, media presentations, and guest speakers. Students will work independently, as well as in teams, to formulate and express their views of work and leisure. (3 hours)

LAS 348 - Finding a Job and Finding a Life

We will work most of our lives- so does our work define who we are? If work is to be a major part of our life, it will be worthwhile to examine how we approach the search for work. The process of self-assessment, knowing ourselves, and understanding our values are all important in deciding where to work and what to do. Technology is a great resource for educating us about career paths and for sourcing jobs and connecting with employers. As we examine the many tools available in a job search, we will also need to consider that life is not all about work: leisure, free time, personal pursuits, etc., help to balance our lives. Do our leisure pursuits define us? How have some companies meshed their employees' leisure pursuits into their culture? What are the various forms of "technology as leisure pursuits" and how have social websites crossed over into the working world? In this seminar, we will take up such questions as we ask, What does finding a job have to do with finding a life? (3 hours)

LAS 349 - Technology and Spirituality

This seminar will holistically examine the coming together of technology and spirituality. In that context, we will explore some seminal questions: What is technology? What is spirituality? Can the nexus between the two be identified and probed? Are the benefits of technology restricted to an enriching material life or can they be extended to an uplifting of our spirit as well? Does technology bring true freedom to our working lives and to our leisure? Does technology draw a fine line between avoiding work and evading leisure? Does technology erase the distinction between work and leisure and render humankind its slave? Can an examination of the core of technology -- the essence -- give us helpful hints in our pursuit of spiritual growth? Can this core speak then, to the spirituality of technology? Julian Huxley said, "We are not men, we are only candidates to humanity." How does technology advance our candidacy? Through critical engagement of materials from various disciplines, these are some of the questions we will explore together in this seminar. (3 hours)

LAS 356 - Meaning of Work, Technology, and Leisure Across the Life Course

This seminar will highlight a sociological approach to work, technology, and leisure, with emphasis on how their meanings change throughout an individual's lifetime. How do people in early adulthood, mid-adulthood, and late life define meaning in work, technology, and leisure? What are the possible variations, especially when taking into account gender and cultural differences? The course will use a multidisciplinary approach while exploring writings from the humanities. (3 hours)

LAS 357 - All in the Family? Technology's Impact on Families' Decisions About Work and Leisure

The myth of modern technology is that it will free us to have more time to enjoy our families and to engage in leisure activities. The reality is that with all of the "timesaving" devices, today's families seem to be busier, less connected, and more preoccupied than ever before. In this seminar we will look at other times and cultures to see how they understood technology, work, and leisure; and we will examine and compare our own culture's values. We will also look to some new discoveries in the physical world, in particular the underpinning of quantum theory, which demonstrate that the whole is greater than the sum of its parts. With religious imagination we will try to discover in that fact spiritual implications for family life. (3 hours)

LAS 367 - The Ultimate Price of Technology: Literary Warnings

This course will explore major works of fiction that portray future worlds shaped and twisted by technological advances and totalitarian control, largely at the expense of the individual human spirit. Orwell's 1984, Huxley's Brave New World, and other works of "dystopian" literature will be examined to speculate how far society has gone from understanding the Truth. Moreover, the course will examine how work and leisure will be defined in light of such profound changes. Class discussions will center upon the pros and cons of expanding technology and its effects upon those who initially support its often-clandestine intentions -- you and me. (3 hours)

LAS 375 - Energy Resources and Life Choices

Our personal and collective decisions on energy use influence not only the quality of our lives but also the future life on this planet. The global community is already dealing with conflicts over the allocation of nonrenewable energy sources such as crude oil, the development of economical alternative energy resources, and the reduction of energy-related pollution. Our responses to energy issues determine our work, leisure, and lifestyle choices. Class discussions will focus on how energy production and consumption have an effect on the lives and livelihoods of everyone. (3 hours)

LAS 376 - Work: What You Do or Who You Are?

This course will use a labor economist's approach to examine all aspects of various career choices and how these choices impact individual lives. Short stories, novels, plays, and films will be used to explore the idea that while initially money may be important, it is more often the case that the non-monetary aspects of a job—status, stress, satisfaction, use of technology, a sense of accomplishment to name a few—have a much greater impact on how life turns out. (3 hours)

LAS 377 - Making a Buck versus Making a Difference

A large part of how we define ourselves has always been by what we "do for a living;" however, we also maintain a "personal life" outside of the work environment. In today's fast-paced business environment and society, this compartmentalization/separation can lead to tension and conflict as we seek to achieve a work-life balance. Is it a matter of balance or one of integration? Must we separate making a living from making a difference? How can we find our true place in an increasingly depersonalized, technological world? These are among the questions that this course will explore -leveraging a wide range of perspectives on this subject. (3 hours)

LAS 378 - Tracking Your GPS-Grace, Place, and Interior Space

In a world that continues to rely on quicker production, it is becoming more difficult to make time to contemplate our place in the world. In fact, it is all too common never to ask ourselves the essential questions "What is my place in the universe?" "Does my life have significance?" This seminar invites its participants to slow down and to ask themselves these and so many other questions. It is the hope of this seminar to provide its participants with the time and space to read, reflect, discuss, and deepen the art of cultivating their interior lives. Works will include The Secret Life of Bees, by Sue Monk Kidd; A Hidden Wholeness, by Parker Palmer; and Letters to a Young Poet, by Rainer Maria Rilke. (3 hours)

LAS 379 - Daily Meaning and Daily Bread

What is work and how does work define our lives and ourselves? What is leisure and how does it affect the meaning of our working lives? How has technology changed work -- its structure and meaning, the nature of specific jobs or trades, the way in which work is produced or performed? How has technology impacted our leisure -- does it add to or detract from the way we spend our free time? In this class we will examine questions of this kind through close examination of scholarly articles, short stories, oral histories, films, and plays, as well as through class discussion, writing exercises, and group projects. (3 hours)

LAS 380 - Work, Community, and Action

This seminar will examine the ways workers build distinctive workplace cultures on the job and how work communities relate to wider communities. Out of common experience workers search for shared meaning and avenues for expression and action and the right to leisure and autonomy in their lives. From colonial slaves to modern-day air traffic controllers, American workers have found ways to control the place of work in their lives, challenge or adapt technology in ways that support their aims and shape leisure to both build up and escape their work lives. Through history, ethnography, fiction, and film we will discover how workers shape work, technology and leisure, both on the job and away from it. (3 hours)

LAS 390 - Risk and Reward

Elements of risk and reward are everywhere in our society. Obvious examples are found in such areas as finance and banking, but upon a truer inspection, they crop up in almost everything we do—our use of technology, our work, and our leisure time. Using contemporary texts and readings, we see how many aspects of everyday living all have elements of risk and reward. This seminar will examine how risks and rewards play out in our everyday lives and how they affect the important decisions we make. (3 hours)

LAS 391 - U.S. Immigrants: Modern African Labor Migrants

This seminar focuses on the experience of African labor migrants to the United States. What are the driving forces behind African immigration to the United States? What is the African way of living the American dream? What are the mutual perceptions of these members of the new African diaspora and their host communities? What role do Africans play in the making of modern America? How do Africans strike a balance between the need to adjust to the American way of life and the desire to preserve their original identities? What failures and successes frame the lives of Africans in the United States? By using the common texts and a wide range of internet and other resources, we will investigate these key questions through a multidisciplinary approach and several categories of analysis, such as ethnicity, religion, gender, and age. (3 hours)

LAS 393 - From Gutenberg to Gigabytes

At various points in history, how have significant technological advances affected society, work, and leisure? How do these advances continue to shape our lives? To answer these and similar questions, we will draw upon literature, art, and historical accounts. In turning to these sources, we will find support for or challenges to our assumptions, discuss how changes made in the past have influenced the present, and see what the past and present can teach us as we anticipate the future. (3 hours)

LAS 397 - Work and Leisure in a Cellular Society

Cell phones have changed from simple devices that once only made phone calls to today's minicomputers that entertain and help the user communicate in multiple ways. In this seminar, students will study the influence that cellular technology has on our global society and the way it is reshaping our daily lives. (3 hours)

LAS Senior Seminars

Prerequisite for all senior seminars: senior standing and completion of a junior seminar.

LAS 436 - Selfies and Sharing: Balancing Individuality and Community

We live in a highly individualized society, made more so by the digital applications and social media with which we engage on a daily basis. This course seeks to understand how best to balance a sense of individuality with a commitment to community by exploring what it means to express and embrace one's own identity while also engaging with a larger group, be it our friends, family, colleagues, classmates, or any other group to which we belong. How do we determine how our self-expression impacts those around us? What do we identify as good or ethical and how do we identify and respond to what is bad or unethical in a digital world saturated with opinion and commentary? The aim is to acknowledge how we recognize our social responsibility through individual action. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing.

LAS 440 - Whose Life Is It, Anyway? The Ethical Mandate of Memoir

This seminar focuses on how authors and their readers wrestle with issues of self-representation and fact in writing and reading memoir and other life narratives. Our inquiry begins with Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics, a text that provides a dynamic frame to consider how the good life—or the lack of it—is being recorded by increasing numbers of authors today in the nonfiction genre of life writing. Excerpts from The Ethics of Life Writing, by Paul Eakin, and of writings from some of the earliest memoirists (Sei Shonagan, Rousseau, Montaigne, St. Augustine) will serve as a foundation for interpreting memoirs by Vivian Gornick, David Eggers, Mary Karr, Tobias Wolff, Art Spiegelman, and other contemporary authors. By crafting a memoir essay of your own, you will have the opportunity to examine the fictional techniques that authors employ to shape true stories. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing

LAS 441 - Beyond Good and Evil

For Nietzsche, concepts of good and evil are not absolute: "What an age experiences as evil is usually an untimely reverberation echoing what was previously experienced as good—the atavism of an older ideal." We will use Nietzsche's dramatic reevaluation of values in The Genealogy of Morality and (selections from) Beyond Good and Evil to enable an investigation of Aristotle's ethical system in his Nicomachean Ethics. We will read texts (for example, Stevenson's The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde, Huysman's Against the Grain, Baudelaire's Flowers of Evil) and view films (such as Fellini's La Dolce Vita) that will enrich our exploration of matters related to good and evil. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing

LAS 442 - Justice and the Common Good

This seminar pursues the question of how we ought to live in light of the tension between the individual and society. With Aristotle as our central figure, we will also engage three modern thinkers who are broadly Aristotelian—Sandel, Maritain, and Nussbaum—in our quest to uncover the common good. Along the way, we will address issues of class, race, and gender, as well as the challenges and possibilities of our pluralistic society. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing

LAS 444 - What is Happiness?

Everyone wants to be happy. But what is happiness? How can we attain true happiness? Are some things essential for human flourishing? How should we live? Are virtues and values the key to happiness of self and others? What is the virtuous life? Is it possible to be happy in this life? Using Aristotle's Ethics as the main text, this seminar will critically evaluate his idea that happiness consists in living the good life and compare it to other accounts of happiness such as egoistic hedonism, utilitarianism, and existentialism. (3 hours)

LAS 445 - Good Life: Fate and Responsibility

What are the roles of fate and responsibility for "the good life?" How does deliberation allow us to grapple with the determinants of fate and accept responsibility for our actions? In this seminar, we will answer those questions through the lenses of both science and literature. After developing a framework for approaching "the good life" through a close reading of Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics, we will explore the issues of fate and responsibility in genetics and in works of poetry and short fiction. In the final weeks of class, student will analyze the value of both science and literature for "the good life" and anticipate where issues of fate and responsibility will surface in their lives and intended careers. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Seniors only.

LAS 446 - Education's End

Dominican University hopes that its students will develop "an emerging sense of personal and professional vocation" and come to "possess character, knowledge, and skills to take informed, ethical action in the world and to influence others for the good" (Vision for Undergraduate Education). This seminar asks seniors approaching graduation to recall and take stock of their own learning over the last few years, to make connections across their coursework, to track changes in their assumptions, beliefs, and values, and to envision their future selves. Recollection and reflection on each student's trajectory will be done in dialogue with diverse readings, films, and other media introduced in the seminar, all exploring the basic question of discerning one's calling and leading a life that "pursues truth, gives compassionate service, and participates in the creation of a more just and humane world." (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Seniors only.

LAS 447 - Supreme Court Cases That Have Changed History

How do legality and morality fit together? Are these concepts always in agreement or do they conflict with one another? We will discuss significant Supreme Court decisions and their impact on American society. We will also consider Aristotle's Ethics. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Seniors only.

LAS 448 - On the Exemplary, the Troubled, and the Lucky Individual

How easy or difficult is it to choose to lead a good life? Is one always able to choose a good life? Does one choose to lead a troubled life? What is our responsibility towards each other in making sure we lead a good life? As we try to answer these questions, we will review the literature about the mental health system, the prison system, drug policies, etc. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Seniors only.

LAS 449 - Impact the Outcome

How do we live out Dominican values in future leadership roles? What role has caritas et veritas played on the type of leader we are to be? Are we shaped by our past or have we changed since starting at Dominican University? Building on previous seminars and consistent with the ideal that leadership is not just an act but a way of being, this course will explore the foundations that inform our personal and professional practices as well as the type of values of leadership to which we wish to aspire. Students will examine value and ethical theories and concepts applied to leadership challenges and real-world situations. Through a multicultural lens, emphasis will be placed on understanding ethical leadership for social and organizational change and the leader's role as a moral agent, as well as the organization's role as a moral agent in society. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Seniors only.

LAS 458 - Celebrities, Heroes, Prophets, Leaders, Saints, Witnesses, and You

Aristotle saw virtue as a habit, developed through practice. This seminar asks students to address the question of their role in how virtues and values are modeled and shaped in today's society. It will explore the behavioral context underlying the development of habits of virtue, discuss leadership theory as it relates to the common good, and use readings from literature and excerpts from film as a basis for further reflection on those discussions. (3 hours)

LAS 459 - Mask, Individual, and Society

Through a study of texts such as Machiavelli's The Prince and Castiglione's The Book of the Courtier, we will explore the various roles an individual plays in society. We all wear masks, both real and imaginary, in our interactions with others. What do these writers tell us of the nature and function of such masks? What is the ethical status of masking? What are its social functions? How does masking help shape the individual and society? (3 hours)

LAS 460 - Right Relationship

All relationships - filial, friendly, erotic - are tempered by such emotions as jealousy, obsession, self-doubt, fear, etc. Through literature and spirituality, we shall explore how relationships can be destroyed and healed. Readings include King Lear, The Color Purple, Like Water for Chocolate, As We Are Now, and Tuesdays with Morrie. (3 hours)

LAS 461 - The Art of Contemplation

Aristotle argues that contemplation is the aim and fulfillment of a good and happy life. Modern scientific studies similarly indicate that meditative and contemplative practice promotes mental, physical, and spiritual health and development. By providing students access to practical skills in and reflective understanding of meditation and contemplation as found in classical Western Christian and Asian traditions as well as modern applications, this seminar aims to assess the cogency of Aristotle's doctrine as well as the place and value of these arts in the light of contemporary research and the students' own experience. (3 hours)

LAS 462 - Personal Conduct and Character and Professional Ethics

The topic of professional ethics and personal morality will be the subject matter of this course. The approach will be interdisciplinary, with various insights into ethics and values from several professional perspectives (business, law, nutrition, genetics, medicine, etc.) Simultaneously, students will engage in ongoing discussion about personal ethical conduct and character. (3 hours)

LAS 465 - Aikido as Contemplation

This seminar will literally put our virtue in action. Students will learn the fundamentals of Aikido, a Japanese martial art that emphasizes the harmonious exchange of energy, as a form of contemplation. This is not just a theoretical course.

Students will actually do the physical work of learning Aikido, so students need to wear sweatpants (not shorts) and t-shirts. (3 hours)

LAS 466 - The Pursuit of Happiness

Everyone wants to be happy. But what is happiness? How can we attain true happiness? Are some things essential for human flourishing? How should we live? Are virtues and values the key to happiness of self and others? What is the virtuous life? Is it possible to be happy in this life? Using Aristotle's Ethics as the main text, this seminar will critically evaluate his idea that happiness consists in living the good life and compare it to other accounts of happiness such as egoistic hedonism, utilitarianism, and existentialism. (3 hours)

LAS 471 - Literary Underworlds

As a primer for leading a virtuous life, Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics outlines the framework to create the quintessential human being. This course will examine the literary reverse of Aristotle's vision through the works of existential authors such as Kafka, Camus, and Sartre. Dante's Inferno will also be examined to illustrate the ultimate plight of the lost souls who exist without hope for redemption. Together, all these works will serve to underscore the importance of the ethics as a pivotal work of "human architecture." (3 hours)

LAS 476 - The Pursuit of Truth in a Culture of Confusion

An investigation of the effects of mass-mediated communication and information as a mass commodity on values, particularly the value of truth. In an age of information glut, where for all intents and purposes every possible point of view is represented, all points of view appear to have the same value. The idea of having and clinging to "values" implies evaluating ideas--seeing which ones are "better" than others. All ideas are not equal; otherwise "values" as such are irrelevant. At the same time, all our mass-mediated messages are biased toward the technological culture that brings them to us. We spend more and more time communicating with (or through) our technologies, and less and less time communicating with one another through real, human, interpersonal means--discourse. The Dominican idea of the disputatio--the pursuit of truth through mutually respectful disagreement, debate, and criticism--has been replaced with accommodatio--an unfortunate willingness to reject truth, except as an entirely subjective experience. (3 hours)

LAS 478 - Change for the Better, Virtue and Conversion

Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics will serve to form a basic understanding of the concept of virtue. The Italian Middle Ages, as an era of political instability and religious fervor, will provide the background for the discussion of figures whose acts of spiritual conversion caused a more virtuous life. Saints' legends, biographies, and Dante's Inferno will make up the textual arena of the experiences, while early frescoes and manuscript art will be studied as visual complements. (3 hours)

LAS 482 - Live Good Life Despite Today's World

Everyone wants to be happy. How can we attain true happiness? What is a virtuous life? How does today's social networking and other technologies impact being happy? We will look at the concepts of Aristotle's idea of happiness as well as other accounts such as hedonism, utilitarianism, existentialism, and objectivism. We will also review current academic research into how social networking and other technologies is impacting the concept of happiness.

(3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Seniors only.

LAS 483 - Gandhi and the Western Classics

What is justice? Is it better to suffer injustice than to do injustice? This course will approach these questions through the life and struggle of Mohandas Gandhi and through several classics of Western literature that raise the same questions that Gandhi raises in his autobiography. In addition to Gandhi's autobiography, we will read selections from Marcus Aurelius and the whole of Plato's Gorgias. Of course, Aristotle's Ethics fits right in here. In this course, East meets West. (3 hours)

LAS 486 - Ethical Communication

How we communicate with one another determines who we are as a community and as individuals. In a world that is seemingly coming together and growing smaller due to communication technologies, we must guard against assuming we know how to communicate with people. If we are to build stronger communities and grow as individuals, we have to deal with the problems of communicating in our modern society and culture. We need to confront the challenges of how to use these technologies to communicate ethically by starting with what is meant by ethical communication. In this seminar, we discuss what it means to use communication technologies to communicate ethically: whether it is individual to individual, across gaps in beliefs, or even the creation of mass media. In reading Aristotle's Ethics, we will consider how his values of character are being affected by the methods of communication we engage in on a daily basis, and then, conversely, how these values could be applied to improve these methods. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Seniors only.

LAS 487 - To Live or Not to Live? What Does It Mean to Live With Virtues and Values?

What is right? What is wrong? Better yet, why is it right or wrong? This course will examine the essential insights of Christian ethics and virtues as they relate to everyday living in this present time and experience. Through a multi-cultural lens we will examine several questions: Is what we believe to be right or wrong universal? Do other cultures have the same virtues we have? Why are they the same or different and does that matter? Has technology and the access to global information affected what we view to be virtuous? We will examine contemporary issues in the world today to see how they shape our understanding of virtues, the formation of a Christian ethical society, and any changes to our understanding of human dignity, rights, freedoms, natural law, stages of social/moral development, and commitments. Christian social teachings will be integrated with Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics through the use of films and case studies on various contemporary topics such as economic justice, social justice, violence, human sexuality, and environmental justice. (3 hours)

LAS 489 - You Are What You Eat: Good Food for the Good Life

What should we eat for the good life? In this seminar, we will explore the ethical and aesthetic values that inform our daily decisions about food. We will explore the moral obligations that do (or might) guide those decisions, the role of pleasure in determining what counts as good food, the environmental and social consequences of food production and distribution, and the cultural and religious significance of what we eat. (3 hours)

LAS 490 - Being Good in a World of Gray

How is it possible to be good in a world where there are very few absolute rights and wrongs? How do you ethically choose the lesser of two evils? This seminar will examine what it means to be good through readings from Aristotle and then attempt to apply those ideas to historical situations and fictional parables. Questions of justice, personal responsibility, and the greater good will be explored through readings of Victor Hugo, Ursula LeGuin, Simon Wiesenthal, and others, and discussion will be key to that exploration. (3 hours)

LAS 491 - Is the Good Life to Be Lived or Strived For?

This seminar will examine definitions of "the good" and "the virtuous" in an effort to explore the degree to which either can be applied as a model for living one's life. Explorations of this topic will often stem from our consideration of what constitutes goodness and virtue. Are they set absolutes whose characteristics define and set the limits of what qualifies as living a good life? Or are they inscrutable ideals whose values lie not in their attainability, but in the pursuits their indeterminable natures inspire? We will work to understand the significance of these questions' answers within the context of contemporary society and Dominican's mission. (3 hours)

LAS 492 - The Good Woman; the Good Life

What does it mean to be a "good" woman? Is there one ideal or many? Is the good woman also a happy woman, especially when and where it has been "a man's world"? Building on the foundation of Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics, this seminar examines texts—both non-fiction and fiction—describing the virtues and behavior of the "ideal" woman, one who consequently lives a happy life. (3 hours)

LAS 493 - Love's Failings and Fruition

This seminar will examine how what we love and the way we love plays a major role in attaining a good life. Readings from philosophy, religion, and literature will help us explore the link between love and morality. Some works, like the Inferno, Othello and The Bluest Eye will help us analyze the failings of corrupted or immature love. Other writers, like St Augustine, Thich Nhat Hahn, and Thomas Merton, will offer us wonderful insight into the traits and benefits of higher, holier love. We will examine how some loves are self-centered and exploitative whereas others seek nurture, worship, and communion. (3 hours)

LAS 494 - Ethics and the University

Today's world presents enormous moral challenges. Yet our diversity—religious, ethnic, economic, etc.—renders shared moral perspectives on and judgments about "the good life" difficult to achieve. Given this situation, this seminar explores the crucial role of the university as a community of moral as well as intellectual discourse. Special attention is given to liberal learning as a possible way of moving beyond "moral isolationism", "lazy pluralism", and "bumper-sticker ethics" and towards more satisfactory answers to the question: How ought we to live? (3 hours)

LAS 495 - French Kiss: Ideas of Love from the Middle Ages to the Present

From its earliest exemplars, French literature has been preoccupied with the question of love. Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics will ground our analysis of the ethics of love in the French tradition, from Arthurian romance narratives and medieval codes of courtly love to contemporary francophone fiction. Topics and genres may include renaissance poetry, classical conceptions of love and honor, romanticism, the realist novel, surrealism, nouveau roman, postmodernism, and autobiographical fiction. (3 hours)

LAS 496 - The Creative Good

The seminar considers the role creative expression plays in the pursuit of the good. By critically examining visual narratives that explore moral choices, as well by addressing the creative act itself as a vehicle for resolving such questions, the participant can better define, the pursuit of the good as a life's vocation and the means by which to do it. The student draws comparison with the contemporary anti-hero, from such collectively known narratives as The Sopranos and The Wire as well as classic films, such as The Conversation and The Bridge on the River Kwai that ask the necessary What If? moral dilemmas. The course uses Aristotle's Ethics as a springboard for the rest of the seminar, negotiating his basic assertion that good is "that at which all things aim." (3 hours)

Mathematics

Mathematics - B.A./B.S.

The mathematics major offers students a wide range of courses leading to opportunities in education, statistics, finance, actuarial science, operations research, computer and information science, engineering, and many other applied and theoretical fields.

Major Requirements:

Required Courses (Bachelor of Arts):

- MATH 230 - Linear Algebra
- MATH 245 - Introduction to Proof Techniques

Complete one of the following two courses:

- MATH 251 - Calculus of Transcendental Functions
- MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I

Complete the following courses:

- MATH 262 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus II
- MATH 270 - Multivariable Calculus
- MATH 311 - Probability and Statistics I
- MATH 421 - Abstract Algebra
- MATH 441 - Methods of Real Analysis
- MATH 480 - Senior Capstone Seminar

Complete one of the following two courses:

- CPSC 140 - Introduction to Computer Programming for Non-Majors
- CPSC 155 - Computer Programming
- Four additional elective mathematics courses numbered at or above MATH 280 not including MATH 299 or MATH 411.

Actuarial Studies Concentration (optional)

Actuaries have interesting and highly rated careers in the insurance and risk management industry. To become an SOA (Society of Actuaries) certified actuary, one must pass a number of actuarial examinations over a number of years and earn validated educational experiences (VEE) in economics, corporate finance, and applied statistics. This program is designed to prepare students for the actuarial exam on probability (P) and to earn VEE credit in economics, corporate finance, and the regression analysis portion of the applied statistics requirement.

In place of the four additional elective mathematics courses noted above, students pursuing the actuarial studies concentration complete the following:

- MATH 312 - Probability and Statistics II*

- MATH 313 - Applied Statistical Analysis Using SAS*
- MATH 411 - Multivariate Probability Distributions
- One additional elective course in mathematics (recommended: MATH 280, MATH 340, or MATH 360)

- ECON 190 - Principles of Microeconomics*
- ECON 191 - Principles of Macroeconomics*
- BAD 350 - Managerial Finance*

* must be completed at Dominican University

Students pursuing the actuarial studies concentration are urged to complete an internship and to add a minor in business administration or economics.

Additional Requirements:

- Students are required to complete a course with a service learning component or MATH 299.
- Successful completion of departmental exit examinations.
- A minimum of 18 semester hours in mathematics must be completed at Dominican University.

Please consult your mathematics advisor for specific recommendations for elective mathematics courses based on area of specialization or career interest. Students should also consider working on an independent research project or participating in a research experience for undergraduates.

Bachelor of Science option

Mathematics majors seeking a Bachelor of Science degree must complete one additional course in computer science, natural science, biology, chemistry, or physics.

Teacher Licensure: Secondary Mathematics

Students who wish to teach mathematics in grades 9 through 12 complete a major in mathematics and complete the School of Education's Teacher Education Program for a secondary licensure.

Additional Mathematics Education Requirements

- MATH 330 - Modern Geometry
- MATH 312 - Probability and Statistics II (recommended)

Teacher Education Program

- Professional education courses including EDUC 403 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Mathematics in Middle and Secondary Schools
- Three state tests: the Test of Academic Proficiency, the Elementary/Middle Grades content test, and the grades K-9 Assessment of Professional Teaching

- 100 hours of field experience
- Professional portfolio
- Clinical practice (one full semester) in a middle or secondary classroom

For more information about 6-12 licensure, see the School of Education section of this bulletin.

Mathematics and Computer Science - B.S.

Major Requirements:

Required Courses:

- MATH 230 - Linear Algebra
 - MATH 240 - Discrete Structures
- Complete one of the following two courses:*
- MATH 251 - Calculus of Transcendental Functions
 - MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I
- Complete the following two courses:*
- MATH 262 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus II
 - MATH 270 - Multivariable Calculus
- Complete the following computer science courses:*
- CPSC 155 - Computer Programming
 - CPSC 165 - Computer Programming II - Data Structures
 - CPSC 275 - Windows-Based Application Development
 - CPSC 285 - Database Design and Programming
 - CPSC 323 - Advanced Data Structures and Algorithm Analysis
- Complete one of the following two courses:*
- CPSC 299 - Community-Based Learning
 - MATH 299 - Community-Based Learning

Concentrations:

Students must also complete one of the following concentrations.

Concentration in Data Analytics

Required Courses:

- MATH 311 - Probability and Statistics I

- MATH 312 - Probability and Statistics II
- MATH 313 - Applied Statistical Analysis Using SAS
- CPSC 415 - Advanced Database Development
- CPSC 416 - Data Mining

Complete one of the following two courses:

- CPSC 455 - Internship
- CPSC 471 - Senior Project
- Complete one additional CPSC elective course at the 300 or 400 level or one courses from either the Brennan School of Business or the Graduate School of Library Information Science with the approval of the computer science department.

Concentration in Mathematics and Software Development

Required Courses:

- CPSC 280 - Web Development
 - CPSC 321 - Web Development II
 - CPSC 430 - Information Systems Development Practices
 - CPSC 475 - Senior Software Development Experience
- Complete three of the following courses:*
- MATH 280 - Introduction to Differential Equations
 - MATH 311 - Probability and Statistics I
 - MATH 312 - Probability and Statistics II
 - MATH 313 - Applied Statistical Analysis Using SAS
 - MATH 320 - Dynamics and Chaos
 - MATH 330 - Modern Geometry
 - MATH 340 - Mathematical Modeling
 - MATH 360 - Operations Research
 - MATH 375 - Cryptography

Additional Requirement:

A minimum of four required courses in mathematics and four required courses in computer science at the 200 level or above must be completed at Dominican.

Mathematics Minor

Minor Requirements:

Required Courses:

- Complete one of the following two courses:*
- MATH 251 - Calculus of Transcendental Functions
 - MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I

Complete the following course:

- MATH 262 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus II
- Complete 10 semester hours of elective mathematics courses 200 level or above excluding MATH 250, MATH 299, and MATH 411. At least one elective must be at the 300 level or above.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 9 semester hours in mathematics must be completed at Dominican.

Please consult your mathematics advisor for specific recommendations for elective mathematics courses based on area of specialization or career interest.

Mathematics Courses

MATH 090 - Basic Skills in Mathematics

The fundamental operations with integers, rational numbers, and real numbers; basic algebra. This course is offered on a satisfactory/fail basis only. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination only.

This course is a developmental course and will not count toward the semester hours required for graduation.

MATH 120 - Intermediate Algebra

Polynomial and rational expressions; solving linear, quadratic and rational equations; applications; graphing techniques; and systems of linear equations. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination or MATH 090. Not open to students who have completed any higher-numbered mathematics course.

MATH 130 - College Algebra

Expressions and equations; inequalities; graphing techniques; functions: linear, quadratic, power, absolute value, exponential and logarithmic; applications. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination or MATH 120. Not open to students who have completed any 200-level mathematics course or above.

This course will satisfy the mathematics foundation requirement.

MATH 131 - Trigonometry and Analytic Geometry

Trigonometric functions, identities, equations, applications, polar coordinates, and conic sections. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 with a C- or better. Not open to students who have completed any mathematics course above MATH 211.

MATH 150 - Contemporary Mathematics

The study of contemporary mathematical thinking for the non-specialist, in order to develop the capacity to engage in logical thinking and to read critically the technical information with which our contemporary society abounds. Topics vary with instructor. This is a terminal course for students who are not planning on taking any additional mathematics courses. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination or MATH 120.

This course will satisfy the mathematics foundation requirement.

MATH 160 - Mathematics for the Elementary Teacher

An introduction to numeration systems, sets, logic, relations, number systems, and geometry. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination or MATH 120. Students who register for this course are expected to have completed a course in geometry at the high school level. Open only to students seeking certification in elementary education.

This course will satisfy the mathematics foundation requirement.

MATH 165 - Foundations of Mathematics for the Elementary Teacher

The course introduces conceptual foundations of mathematics, include the following topics: problem solving techniques, numeration systems, number theory, set theory, concepts of measurements, geometric reasoning and applications of geometry and conic sections. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130

MATH 170 - Introduction to Finite Mathematics

An elementary treatment of sets, combinatorics, probability, matrices, systems of linear equations, linear programming, and related topics. Recommended particularly for those majoring in computer science, business, or the social sciences. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination or MATH 120. Not open to students who have completed any 200-level mathematics courses or above.

This course will satisfy the mathematics foundation requirement.

MATH 175 - Mathematical Concepts in Clinical Science

A survey of mathematical concepts in clinical science including the use of proportions in unit conversions and dosage calculations, acid-base balance, pharmacokinetics, and diagnostic tests. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 with a C- or better and a course in biology.

MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics

Design of experiments, numerical and graphical data description, discrete and continuous probability, expected value and variance of a random variable, probability distributions, estimation, and statistical hypothesis testing. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 with a C- or better or consent of instructor.

MATH 230 - Linear Algebra

A study of systems of linear equations, linear independence, matrices, linear transformations, determinants, vector spaces, and applications of these topics. These concepts are increasingly being used in applications of mathematics to the natural and social sciences. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 251 or MATH 261 with a C- or better.

MATH 240 - Discrete Structures

An introduction to the mathematics needed in computer science. Logic, digital logic circuits, number systems, proofs, sequences, induction, recursion, counting, and graphs and trees. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 or MATH 170 or placement above this level, and CPSC 155.

MATH 245 - Introduction to Proof Techniques

An introduction to the tools needed for higher mathematics. Topics include logic, set theory, relations, functions, basic proof techniques, and applications of proof techniques to selected areas of mathematics. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 230 or MATH 262 with a C- or better.

MATH 250 - Introduction to Calculus

Functions and their graphs, limits, differentiation with applications, basic integration, and the fundamental theorem of calculus. This course covers polynomial and rational functions only. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination or MATH 130 with a C- or better. Not open to students who have completed MATH 251 or MATH 261.

MATH 251 - Calculus of Transcendental Functions

Trigonometric, exponential, and logarithmic functions; limits, differentiation with applications, and integration; conic sections. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 250 with C- or better. Not open to students who have completed MATH 261.

MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I

A study of the basic techniques of calculus with early transcendentals. Topics include limits, differentiation with applications, integration, and the fundamental theorem of calculus. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement through examination or MATH 131 with a C- or better. Not open to students who have completed MATH 251.

MATH 262 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus II

Advanced integration techniques and applications such as area, volume, arc length, and work; introduction to parametric and polar equations; sequences, infinite series, and power series. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 251 or MATH 261 with C- or better.

MATH 270 - Multivariable Calculus

Functions in multiple variables; partial differentiation, multiple integrals, and vector calculus. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 262 with a C- or better.

MATH 280 - Introduction to Differential Equations

First- and second- order differential equations with applications, power series solutions, Laplace transforms, and first-order linear systems of differential equations. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 262 with C- or better.

MATH 299 - Community-Based Learning

Students provide community service using their mathematical and analytical skills for a total of 30 hours. This course can only be taken on a satisfactory/fail basis. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing. Open only to students majoring in mathematics or mathematics and computer science.

MATH 311 - Probability and Statistics I

Design of experiments, axioms of probability, random variables, discrete and continuous distributions. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 262 (or concurrent enrollment)

MATH 312 - Probability and Statistics II

Estimation theory, hypothesis testing, linear regression, and correlation and analysis of variance. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 311.

MATH 313 - Applied Statistical Analysis Using SAS

Review of descriptive statistics, hypothesis testing and estimation, SAS programming language, DATA step applications, SAS procedures, report generation, and working with large data sets. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 312 or consent of instructor.

MATH 320 - Dynamics and Chaos

Fundamental concepts and techniques of discrete dynamical systems, asymptotic behavior, elementary bifurcations, symbolic dynamics, chaos, and fractals. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 262 with a C- or better.

MATH 330 - Modern Geometry

A study of axiomatics, Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometries, and transformal geometry. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 262 with a C- or better.

MATH 340 - Mathematical Modeling

An introduction to the development and analysis of deterministic and probabilistic models. Includes curve fitting, simulations, difference and differential equations. Applications from ecology, environmental science, economics, and other fields. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 262 with C or better, and sophomore standing or higher.

MATH 345 - Complex Analysis

An introduction to the theory of functions of a single complex variable. Topics will include differentiation, power series expansions, path integrals in the complex plane, residues and poles, conformal mappings, and applications to fluid flow, electrostatic potential, and heat flow. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 245 and MATH 270.

MATH 345 - Complex Analysis

An introduction to the theory of functions of a single complex variable. Topics will include differentiation, power series expansions, path integrals in the complex plane, residues and poles, conformal mappings, and applications to fluid flow, electrostatic potential, and heat flow. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 245 and MATH 270.

MATH 360 - Operations Research

Linear programming, simplex and Hungarian method, decision analysis, network analysis, and selected topics. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 170 or MATH 230, or consent of instructor.

MATH 365 - Financial Mathematics

An introduction to mathematics of finance including interest rates, present, and future value; annuities, perpetuities and other cash flows; yield rates, spot rates and forward rates; cash flow matching and immunization; mathematics of loans, bonds, and other financial instruments; basics of general derivatives, short and long positions, put and call options. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 262

MATH 370 - Number Theory

Prime numbers and congruencies. Additional topics vary with instructor. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 245.

MATH 375 - Cryptography

Cryptography is the study of how to protect information. Topics include modular arithmetic, divisibility, matrix algebra, private key cryptography, substitution ciphers, block ciphers, public key cryptography and digital signatures. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 230 or MATH 240 or concurrent enrollment in either course.

MATH 380 - Partial Differential Equations

An introductory course on partial differential equations, including the method of characteristics, separation of variables, and Fourier series. Special emphasis will be placed on the wave equation, heat equation, and Laplace's equation, with Dirichlet and Neumann boundary conditions. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 280.

MATH 411 - Multivariate Probability Distributions

Discrete and continuous multivariate probability distributions including joint probability functions and joint probability density functions, joint cumulative distribution functions, conditional and marginal probability distributions, means and variances for joint, conditional, and marginal probability distributions, covariance and correlation coefficients. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 270 with a B or better and MATH 311 with a B or better.

MATH 421 - Abstract Algebra

The study of groups, rings, fields, and other algebraic structures. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 230 with a C- or better, MATH 245 with a C- or better, and junior or senior standing.

MATH 441 - Methods of Real Analysis

Topology of the real number line, limits of sequences and functions, continuity and differentiation. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 245 with a C- or better and junior or senior standing.

MATH 450 - Studies in Mathematics

Independent reading and/or research on special topics. (3 hours)

MATH 455 - Internship

Experience in a mathematical field under the joint supervision of a college faculty member and an assigned field professional. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing and consent of instructor.

MATH 460 - History of Mathematics

A study of the history of mathematics from earliest recorded time through the 17th century. Selected topics in mathematics and its applications are included. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 230 and MATH 262.

MATH 480 - Senior Capstone Seminar

Summary and extension of core mathematical ideas covered throughout the mathematics major. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 421 with a C- or better and MATH 441 with a C- or better (students may be concurrently enrolled in MATH 480 and one of the two prerequisite courses); senior standing. Open only to students majoring in mathematics

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

Medieval and Renaissance Studies Minor

This minor offers an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the medieval and Renaissance periods. The program reflects the nature of knowledge during the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, a period in which theologians wrote poetry, poets studied philosophy, philosophers pursued scientific truths, and scientists produced works of art. We offer a set of related courses that open up not only the medieval and Renaissance periods, but also the classical origins of those periods and the global contexts in which they took place.

Minor Requirements:

Six courses (19-21 credits) chosen in conference with advisor:

Required Courses:

Foundation Course (recommended as first course in the minor):

- HIST 275 - Medieval and Renaissance Europe

Three Area Courses:

- Three courses selected from approved offerings of three different departments. See below for list of approved courses from art history, English, French, history, Spanish, Italian, political science, and theology.
- Two courses from approved list of elective courses or designated areas

Approved Area Courses:

Art History Courses:

- ARTH 215 - Medieval Art
- ARTH 225 - Renaissance Art
- ARTH 315 - Issues in Medieval Art
- ARTH 320 - Issues in Renaissance Art
- ARTH 329 - Special Topics in Art History

English Courses:

- ENGL 226 - King Arthur: From Myth to Fiction
- ENGL 261 - Shakespeare's Romantic Couples
- ENGL 262 - Shakespeare's Tragic Families
- ENGL 263 - Introduction to Shakespeare
- ENGL 306 - Medieval Literature
- ENGL 310 - 16th Century English Literature
- ENGL 316 - 17th Century English Literature 1600-1660
- ENGL 354 - Chaucer
- ENGL 359 - Shakespeare

French Courses:

- FREN 261 - French Culture and Civilization

History Courses:

- HIST 267 - Crusade and Jihad
- HIST 271 - The Viking World
- HIST 276 - The Fall of Rome: From Constantine to Charlemagne
- HIST 301 - Jerusalem From Antiquity to the Present
- HIST 308 - The Catholic Church in the Middle Ages
- HIST 332 - The Social World of the Renaissance
- HIST 350 - Medieval Women and Gender

Italian Courses:

- ITAL 255 - Italian Civilization and Culture I
- ITAL 263 - Women of the Italian Renaissance
- ITAL 275 - Dante's Inferno
- ITAL 276 - Dante's Divine Comedy I
- ITAL 277 - Dante's Divine Comedy II
- ITAL 365 - Literature of the Italian Middle Ages
- ITAL 366 - Literature of the Italian Renaissance

Political Science Courses:

- POSC 230 - Shakespeare's Politics
- THEO 273 - Great Women Mystics
- THEO 281 - Dominican Saints and Mystics

Approved Elective Courses

Apparel Design and Merchandising:

- APRL 360 - History of Dress

History Courses:

- HIST 261 - Greek Civilization Golden Age
- HIST 262 - The Roman World
- HIST 270 - The Silk Road
- HIST 291 - Europe Between Popes and Kings

Liberal Arts and Sciences Seminars:

- LAS 459 - Mask, Individual, and Society
- LAS 478 - Change for the Better, Virtue and Conversion

Philosophy Courses:

- PHIL 341 - Greek Philosophy: Plato and Aristotle

Political Science Courses:

- POSC 310 - Classical Political Philosophy
Theology Courses:
- THEO 232 - New Testament II: Acts, Paul, and Other Writings

Additional Requirements:

- Minors must complete an integrative project either through intensifying an approved course or by enrolling in MRST 395 or 495. The capstone project or intensification will count toward the elective credits.
- Students must take 13 credits, including the foundation, at Dominican University or in an approved study abroad program.
- Students must take classes in at least three departments.
- At least one class must be taken above the 300 level.
- Students must maintain a C- average in all courses that count toward the minor.
- Students may not take courses that count towards the minor on a satisfactory/fail basis.

Additional Information

- Students may petition the medieval and Renaissance studies director to waive the foundation course if they can demonstrate satisfactory completion of substantively equivalent college-level material.
- Students may petition the medieval and Renaissance studies director to consider credit for additional classes; this may include relevant directed and independent studies.
- Study abroad programs may count for credit toward the minor depending on which options students select. Students should consult with the study abroad director and director of medieval and Renaissance studies.

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

MRST 395 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

MRST 495 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Modern Foreign Languages

The Department of Modern Foreign Languages offers majors in French, Italian, and Spanish; offers courses in language and culture; and encourages participation in study abroad programs. For individual language programs, consult the French, German, Italian, and Spanish sections.

Music

The formal study of music provides students an opportunity to understand and participate in one of the most significant aspects of the arts within Western civilization. Courses in music performance, history, theory, and literature prepare students for a variety of professional paths and for lifelong engagement in the cultural arts beyond Dominican.

Elective Study

Music courses—fundamentals, theory, history survey, and applied music—are available to the general college student as electives; some courses fulfill the fine arts core area requirement. For some classes, a proficiency evaluation and consent of instructor are required.

Applied Music

Applied music instruction is offered in both individual and group lesson settings. Individual instruction depends upon evaluation and consent of instructor. Repertoire, technical studies, and final performance criteria (formal recital, public performance, or master class participation) are assigned according to the proficiency level of the student and the number of semester hours of applied music courses completed. Practice room facilities are available without charge to students currently enrolled in applied music courses.

Music History and Literature Courses

These courses are available to the general college student. No formal knowledge of music is necessary. Considerable attention is given to contemporary social and cultural developments as well as to music.

Music - B.A.

Major Requirements:

Dominican students can complete a major in music by taking classes at both Dominican and Concordia Universities. Prospective majors are advised to consult with the director of the music program and the dean of the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences for guidance in planning their academic program.

Music Minor

The music minor is completed with either an emphasis in performance or an emphasis in music theory or composition.

Minor Requirements:

Emphasis in Performance

Students need to pass an audition to become music majors or minors. Please contact the director of the music discipline regarding requirements. While on the first semester of applied study, students are considered on probation of the minor and pending approval of the professor for acceptance to the minor.

Fundamentals:

- MUS 101 - Fundamentals of Music and Class Piano I

History Survey:

- MUS 274 - Western Music History: An Overview

Music Theory

- MUS 107 - Music Theory I
- MUS 108 - Music Theory II

Other:

- MUS 277 - Entrepreneurship for Creative and Performing Artists

Applied Music: Eight semester hours in the appropriate applied music instrument at or beyond the intermediate level.

- Students who start as beginners in guitar, piano or percussion cannot become music minors at that instrument.
- Before vocalists can declare a minor in music with an emphasis in vocal performance, they need the approval of the vocal professor and permission of the discipline director.

Guitar:

- MUS 136 - Private Instruction-Guitar
- MUS 228 - Private Guitar Instruction - Advanced

Students completing the emphasis in guitar performance are required to take MUS 231 - Group Guitar II instead of MUS 101.

Percussion:

- MUS 135 - Private Instruction-Drumset And Percussion
- MUS 245 - Private Drumset and Percussion Instruction - Advanced

Piano:

- MUS 115 - Private Instruction-Piano
- MUS 220 - Private Piano Instruction - Advanced

Private instruction at the 300- and 400-level is reserved for music majors only.

Voice:

- MUS 122 - Private Instruction-Voice
- MUS 232 - Private Voice Instruction - Advanced

Practice and Performance Requirements of Music Minors

Even though they are not majors, music minors are expected to take their preparation for their private instruction classes seriously. The professors will communicate with the students daily practice requirements, which are expected to be followed closely. Lack of proper preparation will result to lower grades.

All music minor performance students have to complete each semester of their applied studies with either a performance in the designated Music Discipline Student Fall or Spring Recital. The possibility of completing the semester with a jury exists and the professor will help the student chose if a jury is needed instead of a performance.

Students who study an instrument at Concordia, learning an instrument that Dominican University does not offer, need to complete four semesters of 1 credit hour and follow the same requirement of performance or jury at the end of each semester (Concordia offers only 0.5 or 1 credit hours of instruction in instrumental study). The performances of those students, unless given special permission by the director of the music discipline at Dominican, have to take place at Dominican University.

Additional Information:

Students should consider completing MUS 178 - Fundamentals of Music and Class Piano II in addition to MUS 101 - Fundamentals of Music and Class Piano I.

Students who do not have formal training in music will need to complete MUS 129 - Fundamentals of Music Theory before enrolling in MUS 107 - Music Theory I.

Emphasis in Music Theory or Composition

- MUS 101 - Fundamentals of Music and Class Piano I
- MUS 129 - Fundamentals of Music Theory
- MUS 107 - Music Theory I
- MUS 108 - Music Theory II
- MUS 274 - Western Music History: An Overview

Depending on their interests and needs, students will be asked to add another one or two courses (up to 3 credit hours total) from the Concordia College offerings or an independent study course from Dominican professors. This will be decided in a meeting with the director of the music discipline.

Emphasis in Music Theory

Two additional courses in music history and/or theory, including ear training. Classes can be independent study or directed study with one of Dominican's professors or can be chosen from Concordia University's catalog, in consultation with the director of the music discipline.

or

Emphasis in Composition

In order for a student to concentrate in composition, they have to have completed MUS 129, MUS 107 and MUS 108, or be able to test out of them.

Subsequently, the student has to take 6 semester hours in composition private instruction, selected in consultation with the director of the music discipline:

- MUS 130 - Private Instruction-Composition
- MUS 200 - Private Instruction: Composition-Advanced
- MUS 230 - Composition and Music Software Private Instruction

All students who concentrate in composition are required to have their work performed in the Dominican University recitals, once a semester.

Applied Music Courses

MUS 115 - Private Instruction-Piano

Individual instruction in piano at the elementary through late-intermediate level. This course is designed for students who have completed two semesters of class piano or the equivalent amount of previous private piano instruction. Absolute beginners should enroll in MUS 101. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Audition and consent of instructor.

MUS 122 - Private Instruction-Voice

Individual instruction in voice at the beginning to intermediate levels. The student and voice teacher will explore solo singing techniques, identify and solve vocal issues that may not be readily apparent in choral rehearsals or theatre productions, and build confidence in self-expression through song. This class is open to all students, with the consent of the instructor, based upon a prior evaluation/assessment. Extensive musical knowledge is not required; however, the assessment will determine if a student is ready for one-on-one, private vocal instruction. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Instructor assessment and consent.

MUS 131 - Private Instruction-Oboe

Students will work on embouchure to develop a good tone. Regular study of etudes will help develop technique. As the oboe was developed during the Baroque era, concentration will be on learning literature from this period. Also studied will be some of the important repertoire needed for playing in an orchestra or wind ensemble. Basic skills of reedmaking will be developed. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor

MUS 133 - Private Instruction-Saxophone

Students will explore the technical aspects of the instrument (embouchure, reeds, fingerings, breathing, etc) while studying standard repertoire for the saxophone. Both classical and jazz styles are offered and students may specialize in either. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit.

(1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor

MUS 135 - Private Instruction-Drumset And Percussion

Students of beginning to advanced experience levels will be able to study essential percussion techniques and drum set styles, including various drum set grooves such as Afro-Cuban, Brazilian, jazz, fusion, African styles and others. If interested, students could also learn hand drumming skills and styles, including congas, and djembe. Drum set and hand drumming topics would include proper hand technique, coordination and independence, learning or improving solos and improvisations, and addressing any other specific goals or weaknesses the student has. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of Instructor.

MUS 136 - Private Instruction-Guitar

Individual guitar instruction at the beginning to intermediate levels. Students will work on technique, note reading, scales, chords, and improvisation all while building a repertoire of music from various styles. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Audition and consent of the instructor.

MUS 144 - Private Instruction: Clarinet

Private instruction. Course fee applies.

(1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the Instructor

MUS 220 - Private Piano Instruction - Advanced

Individual instruction in piano for students at the late-intermediate level and beyond. This course is designed for students who have had at least a few years of private instruction in piano. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. Option to register for 3 credits limited to music majors with junior or senior standing. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Audition and consent of instructor.

MUS 228 - Private Guitar Instruction - Advanced

Individual guitar instruction at the advanced level. Students will work on technique, note reading, scales, chords, and improvisation all while building a repertoire of music from various styles. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. Option to register for 3 credits limited to music majors with junior or senior standing. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Audition and consent of instructor.

MUS 232 - Private Voice Instruction - Advanced

Individual instruction in voice for students at the late-intermediate level and beyond. The student and voice teacher will continue to work on advanced vocal techniques, performance practice in different styles of singing, and competency in aural skills. Our goal, as partners, is to develop the student's talents to his or her full potential. Preparation for public performance will be an integral part of the class. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. Option to register for 3 credits limited to music majors with junior or senior standing. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Completion of 6 hours of MUS 122 and consent of instructor.

MUS 236 - Private Saxophone Instruction-Advanced

Students will further their technical skills and explore more advanced concepts of saxophone playing and repertoire. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. Option to register for 3 credits limited to music majors with junior or senior standing. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor

MUS 245 - Private Drumset and Percussion Instruction - Advanced

Individual instruction in percussion for students at the late-intermediate level and beyond. Course fee applies. This course may be repeated for credit. Option to register for 3 credits limited to music majors with junior or senior standing. (1-3 hours)

Audition and consent of the instructor.

MUS 248 - Private Oboe Instruction-Advanced

Students will explore the technical aspects of playing the oboe (fingering, reeds, breathing, embouchure, tone, etc) while exploring the repertoire of etudes and other compositions for oboe. As the oboe was developed during the Baroque era, concentration will be on learning literature from this period. Also studied will be some of the important repertoire needed for playing in an orchestra or wind ensemble. Skills of reedmaking will be furthered. Course fee applies. This course can be repeated for credit. Option to register for 3 credits limited to music majors with junior or senior standing. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor

MUS 330 - Private Piano Instruction - Advanced Instruction for Music Majors

This course is advanced private instruction for piano majors during their junior year; students are required to devote increased time to practice. The course will eventually lead to a junior recital project to be presented in public. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Two semester of MUS 220.

Applied Music/Group Class

MUS 101 - Fundamentals of Music and Class Piano I

Basic skills in music theory and beginning piano. This course is designed for the absolute beginner who has not played any musical instrument. This course concludes with a performance. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 132 - Group Guitar I

This class is geared towards beginning guitar students. The students will learn the basics of reading music and guitar playing. Students will work on technique, chords, scales, and improvisation while building a repertoire of music from various styles. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 134 - World Beats: Group Percussion

This class is an introduction to playing percussion instruments. We will cover fundamental percussion techniques (hand drumming technique and stick technique) on some of the more common percussion instruments, including conga, djembe, cowbells, shakers, drums, etc. Students will learn to understand, discern, and perform a variety of rhythms and parts from all over the world in a group context. While listening carefully to and interacting musically with their fellow ensemble members, students will discover a rewarding means of musical self expression (and group expression) via percussion. No experience is needed. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 150 - University Chorus

The University Chorus is a vocal ensemble that explores choral literature in a variety of genres, styles, eras, and languages. During the rehearsal process, the student will be guided through areas of vocal technique, musicianship, diction, and conduct expected from the professional singer. The course will culminate in a performance at the end of the semester. Participation in the University Chorus is open to all Dominican students, subject to audition. This course may be repeated for credit. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Audition for the instructor

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 178 - Fundamentals of Music and Class Piano II

A continuation of the study of basic skills and concepts of music, explored at the piano and extending beyond the beginning level. This course is designed for students who have completed MUS 101 or studied piano privately over the years. Knowledge of music notation is required. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 231 - Group Guitar II

Students will advance their music reading and guitar playing. Students will work on technique, chords, scales, and improvisation all while building a repertoire of music from various styles. Ensemble music will be used. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MUS 132 or private guitar lessons and consent of the instructor.

MUS 247 - Concert Band

Music selected for daily rehearsal and performances may, through the course of the year, include the following styles: popular, world, folk, classical, 20th-century, and jazz. Rehearsals will include exercises and work on the proper performance of the above styles; individual/ensemble tone production; individual/group intonation; group balance and blend; rhythmic accuracy in duple and triple meter; technique; problem-solving; and expressive playing within the ensemble. The following is a list of instrumentalists that may audition: bassoon, E-flat clarinet, B-flat clarinet, alto clarinet, bass clarinet, flute, oboe, piccolo, alto sax, tenor sax, baritone sax, trumpet/cornet, french horn, trombone, tuba, and percussion. Students must have had at least 2-3 years of experience playing in an ensemble. You will also be asked to audition for the director prior to the first day of class. You must be able to provide your own instruments (percussion instruments are provided by Dominican University) or be willing to rent. The band is required to perform at the end-of-the-semester music discipline performance event. This course may be repeated for credit.

(3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Two to three years of ensemble playing experience. Audition for the instructor.

This course will satisfy the fine arts core requirement.

MUS 272 - Group Voice

Group instruction in voice. The students and voice teacher will explore the fundamentals of singing technique. The class is open to all students, with the consent of the instructor, based on a brief audition on the first day of class to determine pitch-matching ability. Prior musical knowledge is not required. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 290 - Liturgical Choir

Understanding and experience of liturgical music and worship within the university community. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Music History and Literature

MUS 180 - A Study of Music Through Movies: Middle Ages, Renaissance And Baroque

The class will examine the life of the musicians, the evolution of instruments, the influence of dance and song to music, the role of the court as an employer of middle ages, Renaissance, and baroque through period movies. We will study the influence of dance and song and the life of musicians. We will be watching period movies such as Elizabeth, Molière, and Le Roi dansi. Not to be missed! (3 hours)

MUS 266 - Blues and Jazz Appreciation

The blues is arguably the most important art form to have developed entirely in America. Along with minstrelsy, spirituals, ragtime, and jazz, it forms the backbone of all contemporary American vernacular music; bluegrass, country and western, rock, R&B, gospel, and hip-hop all show the imprint of the blues. This course studies blues and jazz as musical forms, poetic genres, philosophies, and expressions of deep historical cultural meanings as a part of African-American culture in the 20th century and beyond. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 268 - History of Rock and Roll

A survey of the origins, development, and worldwide mass popularity of rock 'n' roll. From its roots in blues and rhythm and blues in the '50s to the explosion of creativity and development in the '60s, renewal and revolution in the '70s and its worldwide mass popularity ever since, rock has become the lingua franca of popular music around the world. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 269 - World Music

This course will take students on an exciting global journey of musical and cultural discovery, exploration, and experience. Through clearly focused case studies of diverse music and cultural traditions, from traditional folk, ritual, and classical genres to contemporary popular and art music, jazz, and world beat, integral connections between particular styles of music and their historical, cultural, and international contexts are consistently emphasized. The course will include a globally inclusive introduction to core elements of music and culture that make a unique and friendly approach accessible to music majors and non-majors alike. (3 hours)

This course satisfies the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 274 - Western Music History: An Overview

An introduction to Western music covering multiple historical periods and genres. Students will experience the music as when it was first performed. The course uses a unique book that allows access to an ebook, streaming music, dynamic author videos, and other online listening tools. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 278 - The Beatles

Few artistic entities had as large an impact on our popular culture as The Beatles. In this course, we explore their background, history, development, evolution, and legacy on multiple fronts. We look at the Beatles' core competencies, expert craftsmanship, and uncompromising will. We look at how they specifically changed the state of contemporary songwriting, recording technology, music business practices, television and radio trends, marketing techniques, and social norms. We look at who adored them and why. We sidestep the hype and attempt to analyze how the Beatles lead a community of new-thinking artists and consumers into an unpredictable musical and social landscape that they were creating and the complex relationship that exists between uniquely innovative creativity, commerce, technology, and consequences. Even students who are not fans of the Beatles will learn how their impact on our current pop culture is still resonating and influencing today's artists. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 450 - Independent Study

Directed study in special topics not covered by regularly scheduled courses. (1-3 hours)

Music Theory/Composition

MUS 107 - Music Theory I

The student will study in detail and become familiar with intervals, triads, and seventh chords in both major and minor scales. It is important that the student become familiar with the color of each degree of the scale through many rigorous exercises in class and through assigned homework. The class will cover material that includes common chord modulation, cadences, and the importance of the dominant seventh chord and all of its inversions and resolutions. Secondary dominants will also be introduced. These concepts will be applied to musical examples and to music that the student is studying when appropriate to the theory being studied in class. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 108 - Music Theory II

Students will develop a comprehension of formal structures, for example binary and ternary forms, sentence structures in the music of the Baroque and Classical eras. Emphasis will be focused in the second half of the course on the chromatic harmony of the 19th century including Neopolitan chords, diatonic seventh chords, mode mixtures, and augmented sixth chords. Toward the end of the course, concepts of early 20th century music will be introduced. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MUS 107 or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 120 - Private Instruction-Tonal Harmony

This course will explore many facets of the study of tonal harmony including the recognition of intervals, chordal and non-chord tones; understanding the fundamentals of rhythm; principles of part writing; basic analysis of musical scores; recognition of cadences, phrases and periods in music of the Baroque and Classical periods; and a preliminary study of the chromaticism of 19th century music. Final project will be to compose a short original piece for solo piano. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

This course satisfies the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 129 - Fundamentals of Music Theory

This course is designed for the students who have no formal training in music. It explores basic note reading in the treble and bass clefs, time signatures, intervals, basic rhythm and key signatures. Students interested in music theory but who have no prior theory classes start with this course. Students with prior experience can test out of this class and proceed with MUS 107 - Music Theory I. Please contact the head of the music discipline with questions.

(3 hours)

MUS 130 - Private Instruction-Composition

Beginners and more advanced-level composers are welcome to study any style composition. Students will be introduced to the many different approaches developed in the 20th century. Important composers to study are Igor Stravinsky, Arnold Schoenberg, Bela Bartok, Olivier Messiaen, George Gershwin, Ruth Crawford Seeger, Elliott Carter, and Steve Reich among others. The study of composition from song writing to the many forms that have developed for creating music over the last 1000 years in Western music will also be explored. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

MUS 200 - Private Instruction: Composition-Advanced

This class is for more advanced-level composers. Class includes studies in any style of composition. Class covers the 20th century. Important composers to study are Igor Stravinsky, Arnold Schoenberg, Bela Bartok, Olivier Messiaen, George Gershwin, Ruth Crawford Seeger, Elliott Carter, and Steve Reich, among others. The study of composition from song writing to the many forms that have developed for creating music over the last 1000 years in Western music will also be explored. This course may be repeated for credit. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): MUS 130 and consent of instructor.

MUS 210 - Songwriting With Software

This class will teach you how to write contemporary songs in various styles, and use lyrics, chords and melodies. Explore how the songwriting business works. All creative, ambitious songwriters are welcome. Student does not need to be able to sing. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

MUS 230 - Composition and Music Software Private Instruction

In studying composition, students will be led through an exploration of musical forms, sounds, styles, and possibilities, and challenges in an effort to help them become more easily able to develop their own original musical ideas into strong compositions. This is not necessarily traditionally "classical" music composition instruction, but is instead a way for students who might have their own preferred musical genres to learn new, specific and time-tested techniques to help them develop their own compositional talents. Students interested in studying composition are expected to have experience on a musical instrument, as well as some understanding of basic chords, melodies, and music notation. (1-2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

MUS 306 - Music Theory IV

Writing and analyzing aspects of late 19th century chromatic harmony. Introductions to musical forms and analytic techniques. (3 hours)

Other Music Courses

MUS 119 - Diction For Singers

Basic rules of singing diction using the International Phonetic Alphabet, a system of notation recognized by singers, actors, and other speech/language-oriented professions. Students will apply IPA to repertoire study and performance in English, Italian, Latin, Hebrew, German, French, and Spanish. (3 hours)

MUS 277 - Entrepreneurship for Creative and Performing Artists

This seminar introduces entrepreneurial concepts to assist artists in supporting their passion. Students will be presented with an overview of business structures, business plan examples, and free or low-cost marketing resources, including e-mail list management, website creation, social media integration, and mobile fundraising and crowdfunding tools. Sessions will include group brainstorming, discussion, and collaboration. The course culminates with business plan submission and pitch presentation. (3 hours)

MUS 291 - Pastoral Music Ministry

This course will help to develop the skills necessary to foster the art of musical liturgy. The student will work closely with the director of the liturgical choir, learning to select, prepare, and rehearse a diverse repertoire of music for the Catholic Mass. An overview of the following will increase the student's understanding of pastoral music ministry: cantor training, choral techniques, sight singing, conducting, basic keyboard accompaniment, and liturgical planning. (3 hours)

Natural Science

The natural science major is appropriate for students interested in entry-level masters nursing programs and other allied health fields, environmental studies, and teaching. These fields require a greater breadth of course work than is typical of most undergraduate science majors. Students are strongly encouraged to complete one of the optional concentrations so as to have the appropriate preparation for these career choices.

Natural Science - B.S.

Major Requirements:

Required Courses:

- BIOL 111 - General Biology I
- BIOL 112 - General Biology II
- CHEM 101 - Introductory General Chemistry
- CHEM 104 - Introductory Organic Chemistry
- Two courses in physics and/or geology of 3 or more credit hours each.
- Five additional courses of 3 or more credit hours each from biology, chemistry, environmental science, geology, natural science, or physics.

Additional Requirements:

Seven of the required courses must have a laboratory component and at least 9 semester hours must be in courses numbered 250 or higher.

A student must receive a minimum grade of C- in all courses used to satisfy the major requirements.

A minimum of five courses in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Optional Areas of Concentration:

Health Sciences Concentration:

The concentration in health sciences within the natural sciences major provides students with the necessary background to be competitive upon acceptance into entry-level masters program in nursing (MSN) and graduate programs in other allied health careers.

Required Courses:

- BIOL 111 - General Biology I
- BIOL 112 - General Biology II
- BIOL 120 - Medical Terminology
- BIOL 152 - Human Anatomy and Physiology I
- BIOL 160 - Elementary Microbiology
- BIOL 252 - Human Anatomy and Physiology II
- BIOL 260 - Introduction to Human Pathophysiology
- CHEM 101 - Introductory General Chemistry

- CHEM 104 - Introductory Organic Chemistry
- MATH 175 - Mathematical Concepts in Clinical Science
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics
- PHIL 242 - Introduction to Biomedical Ethics
- Two courses in physics and/or geology
- Clinical internship (minimum two semester hours).

Environmental Studies

Concentration:

This interdisciplinary field of study has an emphasis on human interactions with the environment and the public policies-locally, nationally, and internationally - that shape those interactions. The student completing this concentration will have a strong background in the laboratory, in political science, and in business that is necessary to understand the complexity of environmental issues. Students are encouraged to choose a minor in a field that complements their specific career goals.

Required Courses:

- BIOL 111 - General Biology I
- BIOL 112 - General Biology II
- CHEM 101 - Introductory General Chemistry
- CHEM 104 - Introductory Organic Chemistry
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics
- POSC 282 - Environmental Administration and Law
- POSC 295 - Politics and Environment
- THEO 362 - Environmental Theology: Ecology in Crisis
- Two courses in physics and/or geology
- Five courses in environmental studies and any science
- Internship, independent study, or research in an environmental field (minimum 2 semester hours).

Natural Science Courses

NSC 105 - Introduction to Neuroscience

(3 hours)

Listed also as PSYC 105 and NEUR 105.

NSC 106 - Integrated Principles of Physics, Chemistry, and Astronomy

This multidisciplinary course explores foundational concepts in the physical sciences (physics and chemistry) and promotes understanding of how the interactions between matter and energy apply to concepts in astronomy and other areas of scientific study. Lab investigations will support topics explored in the lecture class meetings as well as provide opportunities for students to understand and differentiate between scientific and engineering processes for answering research questions. Lecture and lab. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance in the Teacher Education Program.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 107 - Integrated Principles in the Earth, Biological, and Environmental Sciences

This multidisciplinary course continues to explore how physical science concepts provide the basis for understanding earth science (geology and meteorology), biology, and the environmental sciences. Lab investigations will support topics explored in the lecture class meetings as well as provide opportunities for students to continue their exploration of the differences between scientific and engineering processes for answering research questions. Lecture and lab. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NSC 106 and acceptance in the Teacher Education Program.

NSC 137 - Basic Human Biology

A survey of how the major organ systems of the body function. Essential material on cells and tissues will be included. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 138 - Biotechnology and Society

This course examines the role of biotechnology in human society. Basic concepts in genetics, recombinant DNA technology, and molecular biology will be presented and discussed in order to serve as a foundation for understanding the benefit and the ethical questions that arise from the use of derived technologies in agriculture, medicine, ecology, and industry. (3 hours)

NSC 160 - Genetics and Society

The study of heredity and its interrelationship with individual and societal activities. Not open to students who have completed BIOL 240. (3 hours)

Listed also as PSYC 160.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 185 - Marine Environmental Science

An introductory course on the biological and physical sciences of the ocean. The course will emphasize current environmental challenges to the sustainability of marine ecosystems. Lecture. (3 hours)

Listed also as ENVS 185.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 197 - Evolution: Our Inner Fish

The study of biological evolution provides an intellectual framework for understanding life. With divergent examples from dinosaur/bird evolution, human sexual behaviors, and altruistic animal interactions (to name just a few), we will work toward understanding the statement by T. Dobzhansky that "nothing in biology makes sense except in the light of evolution". (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 202 - Our Dynamic Planet

(3-4 hours)

Listed also as GEOL 200.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 221 - Environmental Chemistry

(3 hours)

Listed also as CHEM 221 and ENVS 221

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 222 - Topics in Lab Safety

(1 hour)

Listed also as CHEM 222.

NSC 231 - Environmental Geology

(3 hours)

Listed also as GEOL 231 and ENVS 231

NSC 250 - Nutrition

(3 hours)

Listed also as NUTR 250.

NSC 251 - Water, Wetlands, and Aquasphere

In this course we will discuss the many faces of water by looking at its role in environmental studies, chemistry, biology, international politics, public policy, business, physics, health, literature, and religion. Lecture and laboratory. (3 hours)

Listed also as ENVS 251

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 255 - Biophysics

(4 hours)

Listed also as PHYS 255.

NSC 256 - Physics for the Informed Citizen

(3 hours)

Listed also as PHYS 256.

NSC 260 - Forensic Chemical Analysis

(3 hours)

Listed also as CHEM 291.

NSC 261 - Climate Change

(3 hours)

Listed also as PHYS 261 and ENVS 261

NSC 270 - Astronomy

(3 hours, 1 hour)

Listed also as PHYS 270.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 with a grade of C or higher.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NSC 271 - Energy in a Modern Society

(3 hours , 1 hour)

Listed also as PHYS 271

NSC 292 - Environmental Biology

Find out what happens when our cultures compete with nature. Emphasis is on current environmental challenges to the sustainability of Earth's ecosystems. Lecture. (3 hours)

Listed also as ENVS 292.

This course will satisfy the natural science core area requirement.

NSC 450 - Independent Study

(1-8 hours)

NSC 455 - Internship

(1-8 hours)

Neuroscience

Neuroscience is the study of the most complicated structure in the universe—the human nervous system. Neuroscientists seek to understand the physical principles by which the nervous system operates and how these principles enable the nervous system to process information, learn from experience, and regulate behavior. Neuroscience is distinguished by an interdisciplinary approach that integrates methods from many fields to understand the function of the brain. Undergraduate neuroscience majors frequently go on to careers in medicine, research, and/or counseling, but a wide variety of other career options is also available.

Neuroscience - B.S.

Two tracks are available: neurobiology, focusing on cellular and molecular aspects of neural function, and behavioral neuroscience, focusing on the relationships between brain and behavior. Due to overlap in course content, it is not possible to combine the behavioral neuroscience track with a psychology major or minor. Similarly, it is also not possible to combine the neurobiology track with a biology major or minor. Other than these two restrictions, the neuroscience track can be combined with any other major or minor.

Behavioral Neuroscience

Major Requirements:

- BIOL 111 - General Biology I
- BIOL 112 - General Biology II
- CHEM 101 - Introductory General Chemistry
- CHEM 104 - Introductory Organic Chemistry (the following chemistry sequence is also accepted in place of CHEM 101 and CHEM 104)
 - CHEM 120 - General Chemistry I
 - CHEM 121 - General Chemistry II
 - CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I
 - CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II
- PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior
- PSYC 290 - Behavioral Research and Statistics I
- PSYC 291 - Behavioral Research and Statistics II
- NEUR 105 - Introduction to Neuroscience
- NEUR 272 - Behavioral Neuroscience
- NEUR 273 - Neurobiology
- Four cognates in neuroscience.

Neurobiology

Major Requirements:

- BIOL 111 - General Biology I
- BIOL 112 - General Biology II
- BIOL 352 - Molecular and Cellular Biology
- CHEM 120 - General Chemistry I
- CHEM 121 - General Chemistry II

- CHEM 253 - Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM 254 - Organic Chemistry II
- NEUR 105 - Introduction to Neuroscience
- NEUR 272 - Behavioral Neuroscience
- NEUR 273 - Neurobiology
- Three cognates in neuroscience.

Cognate Courses

Cognate courses include all upper-level neuroscience courses as well as approved courses from other departments that present material relevant to neuroscience. Students may petition for a course to count as a cognate based on its relevance to the field of neuroscience.

Currently approved cognates:

- BIOL 152 - Human Anatomy and Physiology I
- BIOL 240 - Genetics
- BIOL 252 - Human Anatomy and Physiology II
- BIOL 260 - Introduction to Human Pathophysiology
- BIOL 268 - Animal Behavior
- BIOL 272 - Comparative Animal Physiology
- BIOL 298 - Research Methods in Molecular Biology
- BIOL 351 - Advanced Human Anatomy
- BIOL 352 - Molecular and Cellular Biology
- BIOL 361 - Advanced Human Physiology
- BIOL 388 - Endocrinology
- BIOL 394 - Cell Biology
- CHEM 360 - Biochemistry
- ENGL 345 - Advanced Academic Writing
- PHIL 242 - Introduction to Biomedical Ethics
- PSYC 214 - Abnormal Psychology
- PSYC 393 - Learning and Memory
- THEO 368 - Biomedical and Health Care Ethics

Neuroscience Courses

NEUR 105 - Introduction to Neuroscience

This course provides an overview of the history, methods, and principles of neuroscience with a special emphasis on the increasing social and political impact of new neuroscience technologies. This is the initial course for neuroscience majors, but it also is available and accessible to non-majors. No laboratory is required, but hands-on activities are incorporated into the course work. (3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 105 and PSYC 105.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NEUR 268 - Animal Behavior

(4 hours)

Listed also as BIOL 268.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112

NEUR 272 - Behavioral Neuroscience

This course explores principles of behavioral neuroscience, including brain mechanisms of learning and memory, regulation of food intake and body weight, and mechanisms of fear and anxiety. The laboratory portion covers basic techniques in electrophysiology and behavioral analysis. (4 hours)

Listed also as PSYC 372.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111.

NEUR 273 - Neurobiology

(4 hours)

Listed also as BIOL 273.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111, BIOL 112, and either CHEM 104 or CHEM 253.

NEUR 380 - Topics in Neuroscience

This course provides an in-depth exploration of a specific subfield of neuroscience (e.g., developmental neuroscience, neuropharmacology, sensory physiology, etc.). The topic for each semester will be selected by the course instructor. (3 hours)

Listed also as BIOL 273.

Prerequisite(s): NEUR 272 and NEUR 273. NEUR 273 may be concurrent.

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

NEUR 490 - Independent Research

Problems for original investigation are assigned under faculty supervision. (1-6 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor.

Occupational Therapy

Occupational therapists (OT) help people perform daily tasks (i.e., work related, leisure, and other life skills) to help maximize independent living. The American Occupational Therapy Association (AOTA) defines OT as “a science-driven, evidence-based profession that enables people of all ages to live life to its fullest by helping them promote health and prevent—or live better with—illness, injury or disability.” The treatment approach includes treating the whole person. Occupational therapists help individuals with mental, physical, emotional, or developmental impairments. They work with individuals to develop a custom treatment program and give guidance to families, caregivers, and communities. There are six broad areas that occupational therapists work in: mental health; productive aging; children and youth; health and wellness; work and industry; rehabilitation, disability, and participation.

How do I become an Occupational Therapist?

Go to an OT graduate school. Occupational therapy practitioners hold masters or doctoral degrees in OT.

Getting into Graduate School

All students interested in OT should meet with the psychology department's pre-OT advisor as soon as possible. Meeting before the first semester of the freshman year is strongly recommended. Besides completing course requirements (see course catalog) and having an appropriate GPA, it is essential to observe OTs. It is important to try to observe more than one area of OT. Suggestions include hospital settings, schools, clinics, OT practices, and observing a variety of patients (i.e., children, adults, older adults). If you have no connection to an OT, call a clinic, practice, or hospital and arrange to be a volunteer or ask if you could speak to an OT about observing. There is not a set number of hours required to get into most programs, but the recommendation is at least 40 hours of observation. Remember to record the hours and dates you observe as this information will help when completing your application. The point of the observation hours is so that OT graduate school admissions officers can see that you are interested in OT and that you are familiar with the OT field. Additional information can be found on the website of the American Occupational Therapy Association (<http://www.aota.org/>).

Graduate Record Exam

Some programs require that you take the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), while for others it may be optional. For most OT programs, the GRE score is an important criteria of admission. A cumulative GRE score above the 50th percentile will be helpful for admission to most programs.

Recommendation Letters

One of the most important aspects of getting into an OT program is the recommendation letter from an occupational therapist. You will need to establish a relationship with an OT in order to be able to expect a letter of recommendation. Three letters are required for most applications, of which, at least one must be from an OT.

Admission Guidelines for many Occupational Therapy programs:

1. A minimum undergraduate GPA of 3.70 on a 4.00 point scale (average admitted GPA is 3.8 or higher)
2. Completion of the following courses:
BIOL 152 - Human Anatomy and Physiology I and BIOL 252 - Human Anatomy and Physiology II
Either PSYC 290 - Behavioral Research and Statistics I and PSYC 291 - Behavioral Research and Statistics II or SOC 361 - Introduction to Social Statistics and SOC 362 - Research Methods
SOC 110 - Introduction to Sociology
PSYC 215 - Child Psychology or EDUC 320 - Educational Psychology
PSYC 220 - Adolescent Psychology and PSYC 225 - Adult Development
Students may elect to take PSYC 212 - Life Span Developmental Psychology in place of Psychology 215 and Psychology 220.
Two psychology electives (courses other than the developmental sequence); for non-psychology majors, PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior (or PSYC 102 - General Psychology: Honors) and PSYC 214 - Abnormal Psychology are strongly recommended.
3. Completion of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), taken within the past five years, with scores above the 50th percentile.
4. Experience or familiarity with occupational therapy. Students should complete at least 40 hours of OT observation. Other suggested experiences include volunteer work, clinical experience, fieldwork, internships, or independent study.
5. Most programs invite qualified prospective students for an on-site visit and interview with a member of their faculty. During this on-site interview, a writing sample or oral case analysis may be requested.

Note: Courses listed above are suggested courses for all occupational therapy graduate programs. Students must check the specific course pre-requisites for each OT school as some schools also require a course in physics and kinesiology. It is the student's responsibility to become familiar with the admission requirements of the program to which she or he plans to apply.

It is important to note that student applications are evaluated on the strength of both academic performance and non-academic performance (i.e., work life, extracurricular activities, and life experience). In general, though, GPA and GRE scores are critical criteria.

All application materials must be submitted early in the Fall semester of the student's senior year (preferably in early September).

For additional information, contact the pre-OT advisor at Dominican University.

Philosophy

Traditionally, philosophy is considered the reasoned pursuit of wisdom regarding such “really big” questions as What makes something “real” or “good” or “true”? Is there more to a person than a body? Do human beings have free will? Does life have a meaning? etc. Consistent with the mission of the college, the goal of the department is to offer students the opportunity to consider philosophy as part of their own path to a reasoned pursuit of wisdom and to provide interested students (particularly philosophy majors and minors) with guided, reflective access to the vast store of literature devoted to such questions.

All philosophy courses focus on acquaintance with some of the “big questions,” acquaintance with some of the philosophical positions regarding them, and serious opportunities to discuss these questions and associated positions openly and reasonably within the context of one’s life, personally, professionally, or as a member of one’s community. The department offers courses designed for all students, including philosophy majors and minors, interested in deeper explorations of philosophy.

Students with graduate philosophy ambitions are strongly advised to declare a major in philosophy and discuss their graduate study intentions with the chair before the second semester preregistration period of their freshman year; transfer students are advised to do this immediately upon admission to Dominican University.

Philosophy - B.A.

Major Requirements:

A minimum of 32 semester hours in philosophy:

Required Courses:

Complete one of the following three courses:

- PHIL 120 - Being Human: Its Philosophical Dimensions
- PHIL 160 - Introduction to Philosophy
- PHIL 190 - Philosophy and Film

Complete at least one of the following three courses:

- PHIL 241 - Ethics
- PHIL 242 - Introduction to Biomedical Ethics

Complete at least one of the following two courses:

- PHIL 250 - Logic and Critical Thinking
- PHIL 251 - Logic, Truth, and Culture

Complete at least one of the following six courses:

- PHIL 200 - African and African-American Thought
- PHIL 210 - Philosophy and Contemporary Issues
- PHIL 220 - Women in Philosophy

- PHIL 275 - Introduction to Political Philosophy
- PHIL 284 - Law, Freedom, and Justice
- PHIL 290 - Philosophy of Art

Complete the following capstone course:

- PHIL 410 - Senior Capstone Seminar
- The remaining hours, including at least 16 semester hours in 300- to 400-level courses, will be chosen in consultation with the advisor.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of six courses in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Philosophy Minor

Minor Requirements:

A minimum of 18 semester hours in philosophy, chosen in consultation with the advisor. A minimum of three courses in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of three courses in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Philosophy Courses

PHIL 101 - Ethical Issues in Sports

This is an opportunity to increase one's knowledge and understanding of many philosophical issues and controversies in sports. Here, pressing sports issues will be exposed in an environment steeped in practical implications and grounded in ethical and philosophical perspectives. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 120 - Being Human: Its Philosophical Dimensions

An introduction to philosophical theories of human nature. Questions to be considered include: What is the self? Do we have free will? What does it mean to be a good person? How do race and gender affect our self-understanding? (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 160 - Introduction to Philosophy

An introduction to major questions arising from experience with nature, knowledge, and the good life; study of how selected ancient and modern philosophers tried to resolve these questions. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 190 - Philosophy and Film

An introduction to major themes of philosophy as they arise in contemporary films: themes such as free will/determinism, the nature of personhood, moral evil, the meaning of life, fate, and what makes film itself philosophically interesting, particularly regarding our beliefs distinguishing reality and fantasy. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 200 - African and African-American Thought

A philosophical investigation of African and African-American thought studied in the context of intellectual and cultural history of sub-Saharan Africa. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 200.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

PHIL 201 - Hispanic/Latin@ Philosophy

This class will focus on studying key figures in the development of Latina/o thought, beginning with Spanish thinkers such as Sepulveda and Las Casas, and moving through a variety of Latin American thinkers and ideas. (3 hours)

This course meets the core area philosophy requirement.

PHIL 202 - Ethics in World Politics: USA and Africa (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 202.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement and the multicultural requirement.

PHIL 205 - Free Will and Morality in Medieval Philosophy

This course focuses on the topics of free will and moral theory, with special emphasis on themes and figures from the medieval period. We will read and analyze texts by authors such as Augustine, Anselm, Aquinas, and Scotus. Where appropriate, we will also draw on ancient and contemporary sources. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 210 - Philosophy and Contemporary Issues

An exploration of the philosophical implications found in contemporary personal, social, and political issues. Selected readings from traditional and contemporary thinkers. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 220 - Women in Philosophy

An inquiry into how major philosophers have viewed women, as well as a study of the writings of selected women philosophers. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 220

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 221 - Gender Issues

(3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 221.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 231 - Environmental Ethics

This course will examine the relationships and responsibilities of humans to nature and the surrounding environment. We will ask such questions as: Do we have environmental responsibilities to other humans, animals, the biosphere itself? Discussion will include, but will not be limited to, such concepts as sustainability, environmental justice, animal rights, the land ethic, deep ecology, ecofeminism, political environmentalism, and rethinking the good life. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 233 - Ethics Bowl

Preparation for and participation in the regional Ethics Bowl competition. (1 hour)

PHIL 241 - Ethics

An inquiry into the different responses of great thinkers to the question, What is the good life? (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 242 - Introduction to Biomedical Ethics

This course examines the application of moral theories to key problems in biomedical ethics, using real-life cases, and explores issues such as informed consent in research, gene therapy, stem cell research, the effects of race, class, and gender on the quality of health care, in vitro fertilization, distribution of health care resources, and assisted suicide. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 245 - Introduction to the Philosophy of Religion

This course discusses the big arguments for the existence of God and what religious/mystical experience can tell us. It also explores vexing issues such as good and evil; human destiny; life after death; religious diversity and truth; and the relations between faith and reason. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 246 - Ethics in Politics

This is a study of both ethical and political theories, and how they apply to politics today. It is also a study of how ethics is a sine qua non to politics and of how politicians have failed without it, for example, in the case of Watergate. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 250 - Logic and Critical Thinking

Study of useful approaches to the definition of terms, deductive and inductive reasoning, the development of analytical and critical thinking, and the identification and avoidance of fallacies. (3 hours)

PHIL 251 - Logic, Truth, and Culture

This course studies the logic of reasoning, definition making, and persuasive fallacies; major Western theories of truth; and cultural changes which have altered our thinking about what counts as logical, true, and rational. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 275 - Introduction to Political Philosophy

A general survey of key ideas in political philosophy, with a special focus on classical and modern theories of the state. The study includes: Plato, Aristotle, Hobbes, Locke, Hume, Rousseau, Marx, and Rawls. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 284 - Law, Freedom, and Justice

Why obey law? Are freedom and justice possible under law? A philosophical investigation of the mutual relationships between persons and the societies in which they live. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 290 - Philosophy of Art

A study of classical and contemporary theories regarding such issues as what makes something "art," whether art can have meaning, whether "aesthetic" value can only be subjective, whether "art" is integral to a morally fulfilling life, whether philosophical issues have relevance to the production of and the engagement with art. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 302 - Environmental Philosophy

This course explores a variety of topics related to environmental philosophy. This will include such topics as a deep analysis of the meanings attributed to the concepts environment and nature; cultural differences as they relate to understandings of nature and the environment; sustainability; environmental degradation; animal rights; deep ecology; political ecology; ecofeminism; and others. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): One philosophy course or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 320 - Justice, Evil, and Crimes Against Humanity

This course will be a philosophical exploration of the problem of evil in the context of crimes against humanity. We will explore the nature of evil, what constitutes a crime against humanity, and the ways in which communities respond to such crimes. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): One class in philosophy or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 338 - Marx

This course begins with an in-depth study of the works of Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels. We will then explore the impact of Marxian thought on political and social movements of the 20th and 21st centuries. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): One philosophy course or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 341 - Greek Philosophy: Plato and Aristotle

A study of the philosophies of Plato and Aristotle in the context of preceding and following Greek thought. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): One philosophy course or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 345 - History of 19th Century Philosophy

Major philosophers of the period, including Hegel, Kierkegaard, Marx, Nietzsche, and others. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): One philosophy course or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 351 - The Quest for Certainty: Modern Philosophy

Philosophy of Descartes, Hume, and Kant studied in the context of the intellectual and cultural history of the Enlightenment. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): One philosophy course or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 358 - Existence, Absurdity, and Rebellion: Existentialism and Beyond

Using thinkers such as Kierkegaard, de Beauvoir, Sartre, and Heidegger, we will explore questions about the meaning of human existence, the possibility of freedom, authenticity, and the significance of embodiment. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): One philosophy course or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the philosophy core area requirement.

PHIL 380 - Contemporary Feminist Theories (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 380

Prerequisite(s): SWG 220 or SWG 221 or consent of the instructor.

PHIL 410 - Senior Capstone Seminar

Usually taken in the senior year. The student chooses a philosophical problem and researches it throughout different periods of the history of philosophy or from key philosophical perspectives. Culmination of research is the formal presentation of a paper to the philosophy faculty and department members. The student also has an option of passing comprehensive examinations covering key issues in philosophy. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Completion of 24 hours toward the major, 18 toward the minor, or consent of instructor.

PHIL 450 - Independent Study (1-4 hours)

PHIL 455 - Internship (1-8 hours)

Physical Education and Health

All classes are open to both men and women unless otherwise indicated. Skill level assignment will be at the discretion of the instructor.

Physical Education and Health

All classes are open to both men and women unless otherwise indicated. Skill level assignment will be at the discretion of the instructor.

PHED 178 - Weight Training

Individualized exercise programs. Learn to use free weights and multi-station equipment to improve muscle tone, strength, and physical fitness. (1 hour)

PHED 181 - Yoga

Introduction to yoga. Learn postures to cultivate strength and flexibility, with exposure to related practices such as breath control and meditation. Course offered on a satisfactory/fail basis only. (1 hour)

PHED 182 - Aerobics

Exercises, activities, and movements set to music designed to develop fitness through increasing cardiovascular efficiency. (1 hour)

PHED 183 - Physical Fitness

This class is designed to instruct members on the basic principles of exercise and aid them in developing their own personal fitness program. (1 hour)

Physics

The mission of the physics discipline is to introduce students to the basic areas of physics: mechanics, electromagnetism, and quantum theory. Knowledge of these areas helps students to better understand the underlying principles that govern the world and universe around us. This knowledge will help prepare students interested in careers in medicine, chemistry, biology, physics, and engineering.

Physics Minor

Minor Requirements:

Eighteen hours including:

Required Courses:

- PHYS 221 - University Physics I (with lab)
- PHYS 222 - University Physics II (with lab)
- PHYS 223 - University Physics III (with lab)

Complete two additional courses:

- CHEM 371 - Physical Chemistry I
- CHEM 372 - Physical Chemistry II
- Two engineering courses at 300-level or above from IIT as part of the IIT Engineering Program.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 12 hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Physics Courses

PHYS 211 - College Physics I

Topics and problems from areas of mechanics including Newtonian mechanics, heat, and sound, using algebra and trigonometry. Includes lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and the laboratory concurrently; the laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture (3hours, 1 hour). (3 hours , 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 131, MATH 251, or MATH 261 with a grade of C or better.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

PHYS 212 - College Physics II

Topics and problems from the areas of electricity and magnetism, optics, and circuits using algebra and trigonometry. Circuits. Includes lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and the laboratory concurrently; the laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture (3hours, 1 hour). (3 hours , 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 211 with a minimum grade of C.

PHYS 221 - University Physics I

Topics and problems from areas of mechanics including Newtonian mechanics, heat, and sound, using calculus. Includes lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and the laboratory concurrently; the laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture (3hours, 1 hour). (3 hours , 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): MATH 251 or MATH 261 or concurrent enrollment in either.

PHYS 222 - University Physics II

Topics and problems from areas of electricity and magnetism, optics, and circuits using calculus. Includes lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and the laboratory concurrently; the laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture (3hours, 1 hour). (3 hours , 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 221 with a minimum grade of C; MATH 262 or concurrent enrollment.

PHYS 223 - University Physics III

Topics and problems from the areas of modern physics including relativity, quantum theory, nuclear and particle physics. Includes lecture (3 hours) and laboratory (1 hour). Students in degree programs who have not already completed the laboratory must take the lecture and the laboratory concurrently; the laboratory requires concurrent enrollment in the lecture (3hours, 1 hour). (3 hours , 1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 222 with a minimum grade of C and one year of calculus.

PHYS 255 - Biophysics

Biological systems including the human body will be investigated using concepts from physics. Topics of discussion will include: vision, the mechanics of muscles and bones, diagnostic tools such as CTs and MRIs, and nuclear medicine. (4 hours)

Listed also as NSC 255.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 with a grade of C or higher.

PHYS 256 - Physics for the Informed Citizen

Topics of everyday, national, and worldwide importance will be discussed using concepts from physics. Results and applications of our understanding of the physical world will be stressed rather than mathematical derivations. Topics will include the physics of car crashes, energy resources, radioactivity, and nuclear physics with medical applications. (3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 256.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 with a grade of C or higher.

This course will satisfy the natural science core area requirement.

PHYS 261 - Climate Change

This course will discuss the current understanding science has of climate change and the role humans have played in this change. Science topics will include the study of earth's atmosphere and how it has warmed over time, environmental indicators of climate change, and what predictions made by current models forecast for earth's climate. Topics will also include how life around the world is already being impacted along with a discussion of current international efforts to reduce climate change. (3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 261 and ENV5 261

PHYS 270 - Astronomy

Topics include the history of astronomy, basic optics, telescopes, and spectroscopy. The science of our solar system will be discussed with emphasis on geology and atmospheric sciences. Other topics will include the birth and death of stars including discussions of black holes. Contemporary topics such as dark matter, the expansion of the universe, and the search for extra-terrestrial intelligence will also be covered. To satisfy the laboratory component, students must enroll for 4 semester hours and attend the laboratory section. (3-4 hours)

Listed also as NSC 270.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 with a grade of C or higher.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

PHYS 271 - Energy in a Modern Society

This course examines the usage of energy in our society. Understanding existing global demand and growth in need for energy is critical for understanding politics, economics, and environmentalism in our modern world. The many uses for energy in all its forms are addressed using concepts from physics. Current and future sources (fossil fuels, nuclear power, and alternative/renewable energy generation) will be examined. Capacity, limitations, efficiency, and the environmental impact of each source will be addressed. To satisfy the laboratory requirement, students must enroll for 4 semester hours and attend the laboratory section. (3-4 hours)

Listed also as NSC 271

Prerequisite(s): MATH 130 with a grade of C or better.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

Political Science

Referred to by many as the “queen of the liberal arts,” a major in political science opens the door to a variety of career possibilities, in and out of government. Government service, government and business relations, service and charity work in nongovernmental organizations, environmental action, journalism, and law are just a few of the many professions for which political science provides a solid foundation. Political science also serves as a valuable minor area of study that strengthens career prospects in other fields, including business, history, and modern language studies.

The political science discipline offers courses in three areas: American politics, world politics, and political philosophy. Students are encouraged to take classes in all areas or focus their attention by selecting one of the concentration areas explained below. Students interested primarily in world politics are encouraged to consider a degree in international relations and diplomacy.

Students considering graduate studies should consult an advisor about taking quantitative methodology courses and advanced language studies. STA 403 - China: Modernization, Tradition, and Culture is also available for political science credit (it is crosslisted as POSC 403). Students are urged to consider this and all opportunities to study abroad. See the Study Abroad section. Internship experience is also critical to a competitive political science degree. Please consult an advisor about the many internship opportunities and refer to the Washington Internship Institute section of this catalog.

Political Science - B.A.

Major Requirements:

Thirty-three semester hours, including requirements in one of the concentrations outlined below.

A minimum of one-half the courses in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Internships and study abroad are not required for the degree, but strongly encouraged for success in the field.

Political Science Minor

Minor Requirements:

A minimum of 18 semester hours in political science. One course must be taken in each of the three discipline areas: American politics, political philosophy, and world politics. A minimum of one-half the courses in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

American Politics Courses

POSC 170 - American Government

An introduction to the founding principles of the United States government. Centering on the Constitution, the course discusses political socialization, ideology, and the main departments of the United States government. The powers and the political role of the Congress, the executive branch, and the judiciary will each be examined. In addition, the civil liberties present in the Bill of Rights will be discussed. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 170.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 278 - American Indian Treaties, Laws, and Indian Policies

This course is intended to provide a foundation of understanding of the treaties, laws, and public policies that directly relate to the history of Native Americans in North America. The first portion of the course will involve a study of public policies and tribal relations during the colonial period of North America: tribal traditional structure, the concepts of discovery and manifest destiny. The core of this course will begin with the three Supreme Court decisions of the 1830's that constitute the Marshall Trilogy and will include: federal trust responsibility as defined by the American Indians, what it means in relation to international law, and how it has been selectively applied to the native peoples. We will study the foundation of federal Indian law; removal, reservation, and treaty making; allotment and assimilation; Indian reorganization; and termination. Topics will include Indian self-determination, self-governance, Indian health, Indian education, and tribal economic development. We will discuss religious traditions and the transformation of American Indian tribes with the introduction of Christianity, which founded boarding schools to "civilize" Indian children. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

POSC 279 - Urban Politics

Through most of our history, humans have lived in rural areas. In the United States, over 80% of us already live in a metropolitan area. Cities encourage collaboration and provide a venue for the constant flow of new information and ideas. Cities are the centers of our economic, political, social, and cultural life. The goal of this course is to equip students with a skill set to think critically about urban issues in their broader context. We will begin by addressing where, why, and how cities formed; how they have grown; where city dwellers have come from; how they have lived; and how they have governed themselves. Current theories of urban politics will be examined. Using Chicago as a laboratory, we will consider the current state of cities and make predictions about their futures. May not be completed for credit by students who previously earned credit in POSC 377. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social science core area requirement.

POSC 280 - Public Administration

A study of the principles, organization, and operation of the United States federal bureaucracy and how they implement, impede, or create public policy. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 279.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 281 - Introduction to Legal Reasoning

This course is a solid preparation course for all students considering law as a profession, developing critical thinking skills, Law School Admission Test (LSAT) reasoning, and first-year law school skills. The course will examine overall theories of legal reasoning from formalism to realism. Legal arguments from textual to policy will also be discussed, identifying approaches to attack them. Utilizing well-known and maybe a few obscure court cases, students will learn how to pull out the key legal question from pages of specious arguments and verbose Court opinions (issue-spotting) and recognize reasoning and arguments. Students will work on these skills with questions and assignments that mimic LSAT thinking processes. (3 hours)

POSC 282 - Environmental Administration and Law

A study of the development and implementation of environmental law. Emphasis is on the organization of government regulatory agencies, the sources of environmental regulation, and the methods of federal, state, and local environmental protection and enforcement. The relationship between government, business, private groups, and individuals in environmental protection will also be examined. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 284 - Legislative Process

This course will focus on the legislative process—how a bill becomes a law—in detail. We will examine how power, politics, and the often neglected procedural rules all combine in different ways to produce varying legislative outcomes. We will start with the question of where legislative ideas arise and follow those ideas through the maze of the House and Senate party structure, committee system, and parliamentary games until they die or see the president's desk. We will also examine the entirely separate legislative budget process. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social science core area requirement.

POSC 286 - State and Local Government

Why do cities and states matter in the United States? What is their relationship with one another? How do these questions illustrate the system of federalism in America? Politics as well as policy in Illinois are considered as paradigms of state and local politics. Examination of state and local governments within the federal system, intergovernmental relations, metropolitan problems, dynamics of electoral process, including impacts of public policy discussions on individual lives. Several policy areas may be studied. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 286.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 290 - Political Parties and Voting Behavior

Why should I vote when the Democrats and Republicans are terrible? This course takes on both this issue by examining what political parties are and what they do in the system, including why dozens of "other" political parties are obscured by the dominance of the R's and D's. Voting turnout in the United States is one of the lowest in the world. Why is it that low? Is there a simple solution? Who are those people who do vote? These are a few of the questions that will be explored. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 291 - Congress

A study of what the founders saw as the strongest of the three departments of government, the Congress. The course will study both the House and the Senate individually and the Congress as a whole. How does Congress work? Why does Congress not seem to work? Who has the power? Offered during midterm election years (when there is no presidential election), current elections will be used to discuss money in elections and campaigning. The course will examine the political makeup of the post-election Congress and its possible direction. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 292 - Elections and Voting Behavior

This course discusses the electoral element of congressional elections in midterm election years and the Electoral College in Presidential election years. Who runs? Why? What role does money play? How does one campaign? What decides who wins? We will discuss both candidate strategies and voter response and behavior in both elections in their respective years. The course may be repeated for each of the election cycles, but not more than twice and not in the same electoral category (midterm and presidential). (3 hours)

POSC 295 - Politics and Environment

Federal control of environmental issues has been replaced by a new phenomenon: civic environmentalism, or cooperation between the private and the public sectors--businesses and nonprofit groups, local, state, and federal governments. Students will use an interdisciplinary, hands-on approach to a local area or issue in order to explore this developing field. (3 hours)

Listed also as ENV5 295.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 298 - Special Topics in American Politics

This course will cover changing topics, events, and themes within the area of American politics. Specific descriptions will be provided with each offering. The course will study either a specific topic or event that is of interest, such as passing the Affordable Care Act or Obama's use of executive orders. The course may also be thematic, such as selecting Supreme Court justices, immigration reform legislation, or presidents v. congress. Students may take the course number up to three times and concurrently as allowed for with each independent course description. When the specific course is not allowed for repeat credit, such will be indicated in the description. (3 hours)

POSC 373 - American Democracy

Democracy was not a new form of government when the United States was formed, but American democracy was a unique experiment in self-government that revolutionized the practical application of democracy. This reading-intensive course will examine what makes American democracy-American. This will be primarily accomplished by studying two major commentaries on American democracy written by non-Americans: Tocqueville's Democracy in America and Lord Bryce's The American Commonwealth. American democracy seems to work, --why, how, and for how long? (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 374 - Public Opinion and Polling

For a democracy, knowing what "the people" want is considered essential. Public opinion polling has assumed an increased role in politics as every major politician, newspaper, and organization uses polls to prove they are right, their opponent is wrong, or "the people" support them. This course examines whether public opinion really exists, what form it may take, how it is measured, and how it is used politically. The course will examine question wording, question ordering, types of polls, who is polled, and very basic interpretive tools such as sample types and error measuring. No statistics training is necessary. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 375 - The Presidency

This course studies the role of the president in the United States political system. Both the institution of presidency (constitutional powers, relations with Congress, and changes) and the individuals who have been president (personalities and styles) will be examined. Offered during presidential election years, the politics and processes of presidential elections through the electoral college, including candidates, campaigns, predictions, and evaluation of the future president will be included. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 376 - Introduction to Methodology in Political Science

An introduction to the application of quantitative research methods to the discipline of political science. The course will cover formulating research questions, collecting data, and utilizing statistical techniques to test hypotheses. Statistical techniques will include measures of central tendency (mean, median, mode) through to the basics of multiple regression. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 380 - Constitutional Law I: Institutional Powers

This course emphasizes how the Supreme Court of the United States approaches landmark cases in constitutional law and governmental principles of the Constitution. Topics include the powers and processes of the Supreme Court, the powers of the Congress under the commerce clause, the president's power to wage war and organize the executive department, and the role of individual states' power in relation to the United States government. These topics will also be addressed utilizing historical and current court cases. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): POSC 170, junior standing, or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 381 - Constitutional Law II: Civil Liberties

This course will focus on the most controversial issues confronted by the Supreme Court in the area of civil liberties, primarily stated in the "Bill of Rights." Topics may include the court's approach to the First Amendment freedoms of religion, speech, and the press. In addition, the rights of the criminally accused, including search and seizure, Miranda Rights, rights to an attorney, and the death penalty, will be addressed utilizing historical and current court cases. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): POSC 170, junior standing, or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 382 - Constitutional Law III: Gender and Race

The issues of gender and race in America have challenged the society and the courts throughout our history. This course will focus on the complex issues of race and gender and the court's approach to these issues. Topics may include the historical legal difference between men and women, whether laws or legal judgments that favor women in fact benefit them and/or disadvantage men, the legal arm of the civil rights movement, economic, educational, and voting discrimination. These and other topics will be examined through the study of court cases and their effects. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 382.

Prerequisite(s): POSC 170, junior standing, or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 398 - Special Topics in American Politics

This course will cover changing topics, events, and themes within the area of American politics. Specific descriptions will be provided with each offering. The course will study either a specific topic or event that is of interest, such as passing the Affordable Care Act or Obama's use of executive orders. The course may also be thematic, such as selecting Supreme Court justices, immigration reform legislation, or presidents v. congress. Students may take the course number up to three times and concurrently as allowed for with each independent course description. When the specific course is not allowed for repeat credit, such will be indicated in the description. (3 hours)

World Politics Courses

POSC 140 - International Relations

Ways of managing power among nations will be related to contemporary issues of war, peace, and diplomacy. May not be repeated for credit by students who previously earned credit in POSC 240. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 150 - Comparative Politics

Four modern political systems will be compared. Different countries will be studied in different years. May not be completed for credit by students who previously earned credit in POSC 250. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 160 - Geography and International Politics

The purpose of this course is to provide students with a general introduction to world geography and the significant role it plays within international politics. In short, this course is designed to teach students where things are in the world and why it matters. In linking these two questions, this course will rely heavily on the use of maps while discussing a range of current international political issues including: border disputes, civil and interstate wars, religion and politics, natural resource competition, economic development, democratization, and many others. This course will give students a proper knowledge of world geography during times of increasing globalization and growing international interconnectedness. (3 hours)

This course meets the core area social science requirement.

POSC 242 - Latin American Politics

This course will discuss various political issues and political structures that resonate in South and Central America. Topics may include presidential and parliamentary structures, the military leader, constitutions, and economic development theories. Different semester offerings may also focus on particular countries and/or regional relationships and different political questions to be decided at the time of the offering. Therefore the course may be overarching or specific as the regional interest dictates. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 244 - Politics of Developing Areas

This course offers students an introduction to understanding and comparing the key economic and political issues of the developing world (Asia, Africa, Latin America, and the Middle East). To achieve this goal, this course will cover specific countries and regions as well as thematic elements such as colonialism, revolution and violence, economic development, democratization, the role of international institutions, human rights, global health, and much more. In-depth analyses of modern-day case studies will provide students with a better understanding of the developing world. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social science core area requirement.

POSC 246 - Democracy and Authoritarianism

This course surveys varieties of modern political systems, particularly focusing on the antithesis of democracy and authoritarianism. The course starts with classical scholarship on democracy, which contains not only the seeds of current assumptions but also long-forgotten insights and cautions that can help us approach more recent writings with a more critical eye. After considering some of these older writers, we will proceed to some of the newer scholarship, drawing not only on empirical research but also (and perhaps especially) on more theoretical and abstract works related to democracy. We will then examine the political science scholarship on authoritarian regimes, including their institutional features, strategies for survival, and prospects for change. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 254 - Religion and World Politics

What are the political implications of the frequent and intense interactions between individuals and groups who orient around religion differently? To answer this question, this course will study interfaith political dynamics at the international, national, and individual levels of analysis. This course will make use of classic works, such as Huntington's Clash of Civilizations and Putnam's Bowling Alone, to discuss the potential political outcomes surrounding religious diversity. Lastly, this course is designed to rely heavily on in-class discussion and debate by students as they try to achieve a better understanding of religious plurality. (3 hours)

POSC 258 - Special Topics in World Politics

This course will cover changing topics, events, and themes within the area of world politics. Specific descriptions will be provided with each offering. The course will study either a specific topic or event that is of current interests, such as China on the Rise, the Arab Spring, or Obama in Syria and the Ukraine. The course may also be thematic, such as nuclear disarmament, global terrorism, or climate change treaties. Students may take the course number up to three times and concurrently as allowed for with each independent course description. When the specific course is not allowed for repeat credit, such will be indicated in the description. (3 hours)

POSC 260 - Russia and Its Neighbors

This course will study the former states of the Soviet Union, their problems, and their political evolution in the 21st century. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 262 - Politics and Film

This course will consider the relationship between politics and film, whether in government propaganda or in the director's depiction of a contemporary issue. Hollywood's view of the world will be compared to the views portrayed by directors in other countries and cultures. Political issues such as war and peace, race relations, culture vs. economics, will be studied. Films and focus will vary. (3 hours)

Listed also as CAS 385

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 264 - Politics in Africa

This course will deal with a number of topics in the politics of Africa: the religious conflict along the coast of North Africa, the internal political problems of Nigeria, the building of a new nation in South Africa, the role of the Organization of African States, and general topics concerning the economic and political future of African states. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 264.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

POSC 265 - Middle-Eastern Politics

This course will cover the political culture of the area as well as the Arab-Israeli conflict and the rise of Islamic fundamentalism. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

POSC 267 - Politics of India and Pakistan

While the focus of this course will be India, the course will also discuss other countries of South Asia, particularly Pakistan and Afghanistan. The focus will be on the founding of two new nations, India and Pakistan, and their respective political development since the partition of the country. Pakistan's relations with Afghanistan will also be a topic. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

POSC 268 - Politics of Asia

This class is designed as a survey course of the domestic politics of the Asian region, including East Asia, Southeast Asia, and South Asia. The course reviews the historical development of government and politics in Asia by looking at precolonial systems of government, encounters with the West, colonialism, and national liberation movements. Then the course begins a survey of politics in selected Asian countries. Thematic topics, including agrarian revolution, communism and post-communism, developmental state, military rule, and democratization, are also covered through studies of various Asian countries. From the class, students will get acquainted with politics of the most economically vibrant region in the world for the 21st century. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 341 - American Foreign Policy

A course covering American foreign policy since World War II. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 343 - International Law

This course will explore law as an alternative to force in international relations. Topics include sovereign rights of nations, human rights, international organization, law in war, and treaty obligations. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 344 - International Relations of Middle Earth/Lord of the Rings

The purpose of this course is to take students beyond a typical introduction to the study of International Relations (IR) and world politics. Instead, this course is designed as in depth exploration of theories and key concepts through the use of the popular fantasy trilogy The Lord of the Rings (LOTR). In particular, the major themes of LOTR-such as good versus evil-will provide students with a more sophisticated way to look at IR theory. On our quest through Middle Earth we will examine questions about war, order, and justice through a multitude of critical eyes. The characters of LOTR will also help to illustrate the "great debates" of IR theory and the "waves" of feminist theory. This course will help prepare students for advanced courses in international relations. (3 hours)

POSC 346 - International Political Economy

This course will examine how domestic and international politics influence the economic relations between states. In order to do so we will examine topics such as trade policy, international financial and monetary relations, foreign direct investment, international debt and foreign aid, problems of development, and much more. This course will also cover current, regionally-focused economic events including the Great Recession and the Eurozone crisis, the use of economic sanctions by the United States, the rise of East Asian economies, and the curse of natural resources in the Middle East. (3 hours)

POSC 348 - The Politics of Europe

The evolution and present structure of the European Union will be covered in its political and economic ramifications. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 358 - Special Topics in World Politics

This course will cover changing topics, events, and themes within the area of world politics. Specific descriptions will be provided with each offering. The course will study either a specific topic or event that is of current interests, such as China on the Rise, the Arab Spring, or Obama in Syria and the Ukraine. The course may also be thematic, such as nuclear disarmament, global terrorism, or climate change treaties. Students may take the course number up to three times and concurrently as allowed for with each independent course description. When the specific course is not allowed for repeat credit, such will be indicated in the description. (3 hours)

POSC 367 - International Security and Conflict Resolution

Examination of contemporary international security issues, with an emphasis on global conflict areas, including interstate struggles, civil wars, and revolutions. Other topics that will be covered are nuclear proliferation, drug and arms trafficking, piracy, and issues of energy and climate change. Attention will also be given to the policy and strategy aspect of international security. This includes an analysis of national interests and capabilities of states and security institutions, as well as issues of international responsibility. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social science core area requirement.

POSC 440 - Senior Capstone

Capstone course in international relations and diplomacy. (3 hours)

Political Philosophy Courses

POSC 210 - Politics of War

(3 hours)

POSC 215 - American Political Thought

The American regime, politics, and character as seen from a theoretical point of view. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 215 and BWS 216.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 220 - Political Leadership

An exploration of the sources of, opportunities for, and obstacles to political leadership, using varied readings from ancient, medieval, or modern political works. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 229 - Latin American Political Thought

This course will explore selected works of the influential political thinkers coming from Central and South America and thought growing out of the Latin American political context. Specific readings will vary depending on the year offered. However, the course will range from Dominican Las Casas to Peruvian philosopher Mariátegui to revolutionary Che Guevara. Other thinkers of note that may be explored include authors such as Nobel laureate Marion Vargas Llosa and José Rodó (Ariel). This course can be submitted toward completion of the Latino and Latin American studies minor. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 230 - Shakespeare's Politics

The artist as thinker and political philosopher. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 235 - Women in Political Philosophy

Since Plato's Republic first asserted the equality of women in political life, the issue of the role of women, in and out of the family, has been a central theme of political reflection by the men and women whose provocative writings will be the focus of this course. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 235

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 238 - Special Topics in Political Philosophy

This course will cover changing topics and themes within the vast area of political philosophy. Specific descriptions will be provided with each offering. The course will study either a specific philosopher in depth or breadth, such as the philosophy of Nietzsche or the philosophy of Thomas Hobbes. The course may also be thematic, such as religion in political philosophy, Heidegger and the Nazi's, or political philosophy at the movies. Students may take the course number up to three times and concurrently as allowed for with each independent course description. When the specific course is not allowed for repeat credit, such will be indicated in the description. (3 hours)

POSC 289 - Politics and Mass Media

Major technological developments continue to change the news media scene in unforeseen ways. That makes it an exceptionally exciting time to take a close look at a revolution in progress as it relates to politics and political communication. This course presents an overview of what we know about the interplay between political forces (politicians and events), the media (mainstream, online, and alternative), and the public and its impact on various aspects of political life in the United States. We will examine mass media effects on individuals, on groups, and on society and public policies in general. (3 hours)

This course meets the core area social sciences requirement.

POSC 310 - Classical Political Philosophy

Philosophers of classical Greece, such as Plato and Aristotle, will be studied, especially regarding the political question, "What is the best way to live?" (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 317 - Non-Western Political Thought

This course will draw on materials from one of the following areas: traditional African thought, philosophical and religious thought within Islam, Confucian, and Hindu thought or texts exploring non-Western approaches to politics. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 317.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

POSC 320 - Modern Political Theory

A survey from Machiavelli to Nietzsche. Different political philosophers will be emphasized in different years. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 325 - Philosophy of Law

A study of various theoretical foundations behind legal systems. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

POSC 338 - Special Topics in Political Philosophy

This course will cover changing topics and themes within the vast area of political philosophy. Specific descriptions will be provided with each offering. The course will study either a specific philosopher in depth or breadth, such as the philosophy of Nietzsche or the philosophy of Thomas Hobbes. The course may also be thematic, such as religion in political philosophy, Heidegger and the Nazi's, or political philosophy at the movies. Students may take the course number up to three times and concurrently as allowed for with each independent course description. When the specific course is not allowed for repeat credit, such will be indicated in the description. (3 hours)

Political Science: Other Courses

POSC 450 - Independent Study

(1-4 hours)

POSC 455 - Internship

Internships in government and politics are available under faculty supervision. Students will participate in relevant internships while pursuing concurrent research interests. (1-8 hours)

Pre-Law

Law schools seek students who have followed a rigorous program, preferably in the liberal arts, which develop skills of careful reading, precise writing, and incisive and logical reasoning. Law schools do not require any specific major; therefore, majors should be chosen in accordance with their rigor and the student's interest. Electives should be chosen to complete the student's writing, mathematical or logical, and communicative skills and to provide substantive knowledge in wide areas of human endeavor.

Students should seriously consider the pre-law minor and use the course list for that minor in selecting courses. Courses in constitutional law, environmental law, American politics, and political philosophy help prepare students for law school by engaging them with programs and methods they will encounter in and beyond law school. Courses in oral communication and additional English writing courses, and minors if time permits, are strong additions to any transcript. In addition to course work, students should seriously consider experiences that broaden their appeal, such as study abroad and internships.

Students seeking entrance to law school must take the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) as part of the application process. LSAT scores are major factors considered by law schools in the admissions process. The LSAT is a challenging exam that requires preparation. Students typically take the exam for official score the fall semester of their senior year for admission into the following fall law school class. The pre-law advisor in the Department of Political Science maintains LSAT preparation books and helps to prepare students for the LSAT by informing students of mock LSAT exams offered on campus and in the area. The mock LSAT affords students the opportunity to experience the LSAT process prior to taking the actual examination.

The pre-law advisor also keeps students informed of opportunities to visit area law schools for students interested in law school admission as well as summer preparation programs. In addition, students may attend the Law School Forum sponsored by the Law School Admission Council, where students can gather information from law schools throughout the country and meet with representatives from those schools. In addition, the pre-law advisor has admissions information on all law schools in the country.

For additional information, contact the pre-law advisor in the political science department or the Office of Academic Advising.

Pre-Law Minor

The courses required for the pre-law minor are selected to create a rigorous and challenging foundation in legal philosophy, skills, and ideas. All these courses will help to prepare the student not just for entrance into law school, but also for success once there. Internships are encouraged for students wishing to attend law school, but hours may not be applied to the minor.

Minor Requirements:

Six courses are required: one course each from six of the seven areas outlined below (up to two courses from the writing skills area may be used for the minor)

Legal Thinking

The following courses are intended to help the student enter the world of legal thinking through an understanding of legal processes and how one may approach legal questions.

Constitutional Law

These courses are required courses at all law schools and provide the introduction and upper-level challenge necessary for success in law school.

One course may be used in the minor.

- POSC 380 - Constitutional Law I: Institutional Powers
- POSC 381 - Constitutional Law II: Civil Liberties
- POSC 382 - Constitutional Law III: Gender and Race

Philosophical Thinking

The philosophical foundation of law is addressed in all law schools and an approach to problems that demand abstract thinking and logical reasoning is essential to success in law school. These challenging courses help students learn "how to think" and approach problems in a rigorous intellectual way.

Two courses, no more than one from each group below, may be used in the minor:

One of the following courses may be used in the minor:

- PHIL 250 - Logic and Critical Thinking
- PHIL 251 - Logic, Truth, and Culture
- PHIL 284 - Law, Freedom, and Justice

One of the following courses may be used in the minor:

- POSC 310 - Classical Political Philosophy
- POSC 320 - Modern Political Theory
- POSC 325 - Philosophy of Law

Legal Approaches

The field of law has gained immensely from its study from more than just a purely legal perspective. These include advanced psychological studies of individual behavior and the application of law in business. Of particular importance is the field of criminology. These courses are selected to expose students to these important perspectives in preparation for the diversity of opportunities available following law school.

Two courses, no more than one from each area below, may be used in the minor:

One of the following courses may be used in the minor:

- CRIM 242 - Juvenile Delinquency and Juvenile Justice

- CRIM 255 - Introduction to Criminology
- CRIM 265 - Crime and Social Justice
- CRIM 408 - International and Comparative Criminology

One of the following courses may be used in the minor:

- ACCT 320 - Taxes I
- BAD 240 - Business Law
- CAS 293 - Communication Law
- CRIM 372 - Law and Society
- PSYC 250 - Psychology and Law
- THEO 371 - Law and Legal Reasoning in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam

Legal Ideas and Skills

Legal ideas and skills courses are selected to help the student develop skills and knowledge through improved writing, reading, and understanding of areas of knowledge that may aid in their pursuit of a legal career.

Writing Skills

Writing skills are essential for success in law school and as a lawyer. Of the 12 books John Marshall Law School advises incoming students to read, four of them are on grammar and writing. Because of this fact, students, with prior approval, may opt for two courses from this section for 6 credit hours.

One course may be used in the minor (permission to use two writing courses in the minor can be requested of the minor director):

- ENGL 211 - Introduction to Creative Writing
- ENGL 272 - Writing for English Majors
- ENGL 333 - The Art of Editing
- ENGL 335 - Writing as Social Action
- ENGL 336 - Writing at Work
- ENGL 337 - Writing Life Stories
- ENGL 338 - Writing Fiction
- ENGL 339 - Writing Poetry
- ENGL 340 - Writing Drama
- ENGL 345 - Advanced Academic Writing

Legal Ideas and Additional Skills

All of the following courses are intended to challenge students and expose them to different perspectives on thinking and law that they may encounter in the future as they pursue a more specific law degree and practice. Students may also count for this requirement any single course from the above categories not taken to fulfill that category. This may include a third writing course for non-English majors. In addition, up to 3 credit hours of relevant service learning experience may satisfy this category with prior approval from the minor director. Of particular note is the extensive availability of oral communication courses at Dominican. Oral communication is an important component of law school courses and the practice of law. Students who identify room for improvement in this area should take advantage of these courses and consult the Department of Communication Arts and Sciences about the increased value of a minor in the field. Students with advanced writing skills (particularly English minors and majors) should also consult the pre-law advisor about additional oral communication course credits.

One course may be used in the minor:

- ACCT 101 - Principles of Accounting I
- ECON 190 - Principles of Microeconomics
- ECON 191 - Principles of Macroeconomics
- CAS 155 - Introduction to Public Speaking
- CAS 180 - Communication: Personal, Social, and Career Focus
- CAS 200 - Business and Professional Speech
- CAS 204 - Introduction to Communication Theory and Practice
- CAS 250 - Interpersonal Communications
- CAS 251 - Interpersonal Skills: Managing People at Work
- CAS 307 - Advanced Public Speaking, Argument, and Debate
- CAS 320 - Organizational Communication and Behavior
- CRIM 320 - Gender and Violence
- CRIM 325 - Conflict Resolution
- CRIM 370 - Deviance and Social Control
- CRIM 408 - International and Comparative Criminology
- SOC 110 - Introduction to Sociology
- PHIL 275 - Introduction to Political Philosophy
- PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior
- PSYC 214 - Abnormal Psychology
- PSYC 245 - Multicultural Psychology
- PSYC 270 - Social Psychology
- PSYC 370 - Community Psychology
- POSC 170 - American Government
- POSC 278 - American Indian Treaties, Laws, and Indian Policies
- POSC 280 - Public Administration
- POSC 282 - Environmental Administration and Law
- POSC 286 - State and Local Government
- POSC 343 - International Law

Psychology

Students are offered a variety of courses that introduce them to the wealth of information that psychologists have discovered about behavior and mental processes. Psychologists have studied nearly every behavior in which human beings engage. As the science of behavior, psychology includes the study of both human and animal behavior in laboratory and real-world settings. Students collect and analyze research data as a way of understanding the methods that psychologists employ to answer the significant questions that attract us to the study of ourselves and our behavior. Students may major or minor in psychology as well as choose courses to enrich their understanding of behavior or to supplement other areas of study. The Department of Psychology offers two areas of concentration within the psychology major: general psychology and clinical psychology.

Psychology - B.A./B.S.

The Department of Psychology offers two areas of concentration within the psychology major: general psychology and clinical psychology.

A minimum of 14 hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican University.

General Psychology

Students interested in research or teaching in psychology-related fields are encouraged to select this area of concentration.

Major Requirements

Thirty-eight semester hours in psychology including:

Required Courses (Bachelor of Arts)

Complete one of the following two courses:

- PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior
- PSYC 102 - General Psychology: Honors

Complete the following courses:

- PSYC 214 - Abnormal Psychology
- PSYC 290 - Behavioral Research and Statistics I
- PSYC 291 - Behavioral Research and Statistics II
- Twelve hours taken at the 300 or 400 levels; 9 of these hours must be completed in the Psychology Department of Dominican University
- A capstone course or experience (see below)

The remainder of the 38 semester hours may be chosen according to the student's interests and goals, but must include at least one course in each of three broad areas of psychology:

Complete at least one developmental psychology course:

- PSYC 212 - Life Span Developmental Psychology
- PSYC 215 - Child Psychology
- PSYC 220 - Adolescent Psychology

- PSYC 225 - Adult Development
- PSYC 245 - Multicultural Psychology
- PSYC 250 - Psychology and Law
- PSYC 270 - Social Psychology
- PSYC 325 - Psychology of Gender
- PSYC 330 - Personality Theory
- PSYC 370 - Community Psychology

Complete at least one neuroscience/learning course:

- PSYC 105 - Introduction to Neuroscience
- PSYC 372 - Behavioral Neuroscience
- PSYC 392 - Psychology of Thinking and Reasoning
- PSYC 393 - Learning and Memory

The following two courses in the Graduate School of Social Work are available to psychology students. These courses will count toward the psychology major.

- SWK 513 - Human Behavior in the Social Environment This course will count towards the 12 hours required at the 300 or 400 level
- SWK 514 - History of Social Work and Social Welfare

Clinical Psychology

Students interested in pursuing a career in clinical psychology or human services through graduate study are encouraged to select this area of concentration.

Major Requirements

Thirty-eight semester hours in psychology, including:

Required Courses (Bachelor of Arts)

Complete one of the following two courses:

- PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior
- PSYC 102 - General Psychology: Honors

Complete the following courses:

- PSYC 214 - Abnormal Psychology
- PSYC 290 - Behavioral Research and Statistics I
- PSYC 291 - Behavioral Research and Statistics II
- PSYC 317 - Clinical Psychology I
- PSYC 318 - Clinical Psychology II
- PSYC 340 - Survey of Psychological Assessment

Complete one course from the following developmental psychology courses:

- PSYC 212 - Life Span Developmental Psychology
- PSYC 215 - Child Psychology
- PSYC 220 - Adolescent Psychology
- PSYC 225 - Adult Development

Complete one course from the following sociocultural/personality courses:

- PSYC 245 - Multicultural Psychology
- PSYC 250 - Psychology and Law
- PSYC 270 - Social Psychology
- PSYC 325 - Psychology of Gender
- PSYC 330 - Personality Theory
- PSYC 370 - Community Psychology

Complete one of the following neuroscience/learning courses:

- PSYC 105 - Introduction to Neuroscience
- PSYC 372 - Behavioral Neuroscience
- PSYC 392 - Psychology of Thinking and Reasoning
- PSYC 393 - Learning and Memory
- Two 1-hour community-based learning experiences in clinical settings
- Three hours of internship at a clinical site approved by the psychology department.

The following two courses in the Graduate School of Social Work are available to psychology students. These courses will count toward the psychology major.

- SWK 513 - Human Behavior in the Social Environment
- SWK 514 - History of Social Work and Social Welfare

PSYC 290/291 Requirement:

Psychology majors/minors should plan to complete PSYC 290 - Behavioral Research and Statistics I and PSYC 291 - Behavioral Research and Statistics II at Dominican University. These courses are central to the psychology major/minor, and unless there are extraordinary circumstances, the department will not approve transfer credit for these courses. The learning outcomes for PSYC 290/291 foster the development of the skills and knowledge psychology students need in order to be successful in upper level psychology courses at Dominican. Although some other four-year colleges may offer integrated research methods and statistics courses for their psychology majors, these courses typically do not cover all of the essential learning outcomes taught in PSYC 290 and PSYC 291.

Capstone Courses or Experience

Each psychology major is required to complete a capstone course or experience. The courses that satisfy this requirement are:

- PSYC 440 - History and Systems of Psychology
- PSYC 445 - Program Planning and Evaluation

- PSYC 460 - Advanced Topics in Psychology
- PSYC 470 - Advanced Research
- PSYC 475 - Psychology Seminar

Experiences that satisfy the capstone requirement are: an honors project, a degree with distinction project, or an internship approved by the psychology department. Students choosing a major in clinical psychology must register for an internship (3 semester hours credit) as their capstone experience.

Departmental Comprehensive Examination

All students earning a major in psychology are required to complete the comprehensive examination in the discipline. The examination is administered by the department to graduating seniors at the end of their final semester. All psychology majors must earn a passing score on the comprehensive examination as a condition for graduation.

Bachelor of Science option

Psychology majors interested in doctoral study are strongly encouraged to earn a Bachelor of Science degree. In addition to the requirements for the Bachelor of Arts in general psychology or clinical psychology, the Bachelor of Science requires the completion of the following:

- Six hours in mathematics including MATH 250 - Introduction to Calculus
- Six hours in biology (excluding BIOL 120) or chemistry
- PSYC 372 - Behavioral Neuroscience
- PSYC 393 - Learning and Memory
- PSYC 440 - History and Systems of Psychology

Psychology Minor

Minor Requirements:

A minor in psychology requires 23 semester hours in psychology, including:

Required Courses:

Complete one of the following two courses:

- PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior
- PSYC 102 - General Psychology: Honors

Complete the following courses:

- PSYC 214 - Abnormal Psychology
- PSYC 290 - Behavioral Research and Statistics I
- PSYC 291 - Behavioral Research and Statistics II

PSYC 290/291 Requirement:

Psychology majors/minors should plan to complete PSYC 290 - Behavioral Research and Statistics I and PSYC 291 - Behavioral Research and Statistics II at Dominican

University. These courses are central to the psychology major/minor, and unless there are extraordinary circumstances, the department will not approve transfer credit for these courses. The learning outcomes for PSYC 290/291 foster the development of the skills and knowledge psychology students need in order to be successful in upper level psychology courses at Dominican. Although some other four-year colleges may offer integrated research methods and statistics courses for their psychology majors, these courses typically do not cover all of the essential learning outcomes taught in PSYC 290 and PSYC 291.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 14 hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Psychology Partnership Programs

The psychology department of Dominican University has partnerships with other programs that offer opportunities to enter health-related professions.

Social Work

Bridge Program

Psychology majors may take two classes in the Graduate School of Social Work at Dominican University during their senior year (listed below). These courses count as 300-level classes toward the psychology major and may be applied to the master's degree in social work (MSW). Students desiring a career in social work and who wish to attend the Dominican University Graduate School of Social Work should apply for admission during their senior year of study. Successful completion of these courses does not guarantee admission to this graduate program.

- SWK 513 - Human Behavior in The Social Environment
- SWK 514 - History of Social Work & Social Welfare

5-Year BA/MSW

Psychology majors have the option of pursuing a track that leads to completion of a Master of Social Work degree in approximately one year after obtaining their Bachelor of Arts degree. Acceptance into the Graduate School of Social Work is contingent upon completion of all undergraduate requirements in the major, and an overall grade point average of 3.25. Students who are interested in the 5-year BA/MSW should meet with the chair of the psychology department soon after they declare their major and before they achieve junior standing.

Psychology Courses

PSYC 101 or PSYC 102 is a prerequisite for all psychology courses at the 200 level and above. Students must earn a minimum grade of C- in all prerequisite courses.

PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior

Have you ever asked yourself, "Why do people behave like that?" This course will help you answer that question by introducing you to the scientific study of behavior and mental processes. Students in this course will be required to participate in research. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

PSYC 102 - General Psychology: Honors

Have you ever asked yourself, "Why do people behave like that?" This course will help you answer that question by introducing you to the scientific study of behavior and mental processes. Students in this course will be required to participate in research and to read scholarly articles related to the fundamental principles of behavior. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Honors program or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

PSYC 105 - Introduction to Neuroscience

(3 hours)

Listed also as NEUR 105 and NSC 105.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

PSYC 212 - Life Span Developmental Psychology

This course will present an overview of human growth and development from conception to death. Physical, cognitive, psychological, and social variables will be discussed for each of life's stages. Emphasis will be placed on current developmental theories, the roles of heredity and environment, as well as the influence of individual differences. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102. Not open to students who have completed or will complete PSYC 215 or PSYC 220.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

PSYC 214 - Abnormal Psychology

What is abnormal behavior? What causes it? How is it diagnosed? This course covers traditional and current theories concerning the nature and causes of mental problems and examines the major diagnostic categories of psychological disorders. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102.

PSYC 215 - Child Psychology

Are all infants very much the same, or do they exhibit individual differences from birth? How do children respond to different styles of parenting and environmental supports and stresses? This course covers developments from conception to puberty with an emphasis on cognitive, social, and emotional development. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102. Not open to students who have completed or who will complete PSYC 212.

PSYC 220 - Adolescent Psychology

How long does adolescence last? Is adolescence really a time of "storm and stress"? This course covers human development from the onset of puberty to emerging adulthood. Special emphasis is given to cognitive, social, and emotional development. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102. Not open to students who have completed or who will complete PSYC 212.

PSYC 225 - Adult Development

How do we change and develop as we move into and through adulthood? This course explores the spirited debate among psychologists regarding the stability or the changes in development during adulthood and the relationship of aging to physical, cognitive, psychological, and social changes during our adult years. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102.

PSYC 245 - Multicultural Psychology

Are the general facts and principles you learned about in general psychology true for all people, regardless of race, ethnicity, and culture? This course will examine cross-cultural similarities and differences for a variety of topics studied by psychology including emotion, health, and social behavior. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102.

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

PSYC 247 - Introduction to Art Therapy

Art therapy is the therapeutic use of art making, within a professional relationship, by people who experience illness, trauma, or challenges in living, and by people who seek personal development. This course is designed to offer students a didactic and experiential overview of the field of art therapy. Material covered includes history, theory, and practice of art therapy processes, approaches, and applications. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102.

PSYC 250 - Psychology and Law

How and where do the fields of psychology and law converge? Can eyewitness testimony be accepted as fact? How do psychologists serve as experts in court? This course explores these and other questions, and the roles that psychologists play in the legal system. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102.

PSYC 270 - Social Psychology

How do we understand social behaviors such as stereotyping, formation of social groups, conformity, and altruism? What attracts us to one another, and what causes us to engage in aggressive acts? This course introduces students to social psychological principles and research so that they can explain everyday social behavior and attitudes. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102.

PSYC 290 - Behavioral Research and Statistics I

This course will introduce the student to the use of statistical methods for analyzing data from descriptive and correlational research designs. Students will learn how to evaluate and conduct correlational research studies. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102, psychology major or minor or neuroscience major, or consent of instructor, and MATH 130 or MATH 170 with a minimum grade of C-.

PSYC 291 - Behavioral Research and Statistics II

This course builds on what students learned in PSYC 290. It will introduce the student to the use of inferential statistical methods for analyzing data from experimental and quasi-experimental research design. Students will learn how to evaluate and conduct experimental and quasi-experimental research studies. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Completion of PSYC 290 with a minimum grade of C-.

PSYC 292 - Career Development for Psychology and Neuroscience Students

This course is designed to help psychology students begin planning their long-term careers in psychology and related fields. We will explore career options available immediately upon graduation and those that require further graduate training. There will be a special focus on the variety of careers available within clinical psychology and related fields, including the requirements for post-graduate admission and training, licensing, etc. In addition, students will reflect on the process of searching and applying for jobs and will learn about the tools available at Dominican University. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101; Psychology or Neuroscience majors or Psychology minors.

PSYC 299 - Community-Based Learning

Taken in conjunction with a regularly scheduled psychology course, this one-credit-hour option involves relevant experience within an established human services program. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

PSYC 312 - Health Psychology

How do our emotions and behaviors affect our health? Can I think myself into an illness? This course examines how psychological, social, and cultural factors are related to the promotion and maintenance of health and the causation, prevention, and treatment of illness. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 214 and PSYC 290.

PSYC 317 - Clinical Psychology I

This course is an introduction to the field of clinical psychology, relevant theorists, and schools of psychotherapy. Practical interviewing skills will be demonstrated, and students will develop skills through role-playing exercises. Report writing based upon observation, inference, and interviews will be included. It is recommended that students take PSYC 340 before this class or concurrently. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 214.

PSYC 318 - Clinical Psychology II

This course will continue the development of interviewing skills. Through the use of clinical case studies, students will develop their ability to write clinical reports that reflect knowledge of the theory and practice of counseling and psychotherapy and the integration of diagnostic and assessment information. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 317 and PSYC 340.

PSYC 325 - Psychology of Gender

Are there genuine differences between the sexes? If so, what are these differences and how do they develop? Controversial questions regarding gender differences and similarities in development, cognitive abilities, emotions, and behavior are explained from genetic, biological, psychological, and socio-environmental perspectives. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290 or consent of the instructor

PSYC 330 - Personality Theory

What is personality? How are our personality characteristics formed and organized to make us the unique individuals that we become? This course will cover the historical and contemporary theories of personality and their influences on psychological research. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290 or consent of instructor.

PSYC 332 - Clinical Behavioral Medicine

This course will address the psychological and social bases of patient behavior across the lifespan and the interrelationship between these factors and health, illness, and the practice of medicine. Basic behavioral science, with an emphasis on clinical assessment and psychopathology, will be covered. In addition to theory, students will learn specific, practical skills that they can apply to clinical situations for more effective delivery of health care. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Post-baccalaureate pre-med students only.

PSYC 340 - Survey of Psychological Assessment

What is a psychological test and how is it constructed? What can psychologists learn about people by using psychological tests? This course introduces students to standardized tests, their construction and uses, and criticisms of them. Students have the opportunity to examine a variety of psychological tests. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290.

PSYC 360 - Industrial and Organizational Psychology

What contributions does psychology make to the business world? How can psychological principles be used to make better business decisions? This course explores the various ways that psychologists contribute to business and industry. It covers personnel selection, training, and organizational behavior. (3 hours)

Listed also as CAS 361.

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 101 or PSYC 102.

PSYC 370 - Community Psychology

How does a person's environment affect her or his psychological well-being? How can psychology help create healthier communities? This course will introduce students to the field of community psychology, which tries to understand people in their social, cultural, and historical contexts. Topics that will be discussed include: oppression and social problems, as well as individual and community empowerment. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290 or consent of instructor.

PSYC 372 - Behavioral Neuroscience

This course explores principles of behavioral neuroscience, including brain mechanisms of learning and memory, regulation of food intake and body weight, and mechanisms of fear and anxiety. The laboratory covers basic techniques in electrophysiology and behavioral analysis. (4 hours)

Listed also as NEUR 272.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 111.

PSYC 380 - Evolutionary Psychology

The field of evolutionary psychology attempts to provide clues into the underlying causes of human predispositions based upon the selection pressures existing during our species' evolutionary history. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290

PSYC 392 - Psychology of Thinking and Reasoning

What does it mean to be a critical thinker? This course explores basic and applied psychological research investigating how cognitive and developmental processes influence the quality of our judgment and decision-making skills. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290.

PSYC 393 - Learning and Memory

What are the scientific laws that govern how we learn? How do our cognitive (mental) processes affect our behavior? In addition to studying fundamental learning theories, students will explore a variety of cognitive processes including attention and memory. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290 and PSYC 291.

PSYC 440 - History and Systems of Psychology

Where did psychology come from? What are its roots and evolution? Where is it going? This course will cover the historical development of the major psychological theories and systems. Such areas as psychoanalysis, behaviorism, and the cognitive revolution will be covered. This course satisfies the capstone requirement for the psychology major. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Twenty-one hours of psychology credit, including PSYC 290 and PSYC 291, and junior or senior standing.

PSYC 445 - Program Planning and Evaluation

Do social service programs work? Can they be improved? This course introduces students to the fundamentals of planning and evaluating programs within social service organizations. Topics include the link between program planning and program evaluation, different types of program evaluation, evaluation designs and data collection, evaluation reporting, and using evaluation results to strengthen program operations. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290 and PSYC 291.

PSYC 455 - Internship

An internship can offer you the chance to apply psychological principles in a real-world setting. Supervised experiences can be arranged at such locations as mental health centers, hospitals, agencies, businesses, and non profit organizations. This course satisfies the capstone requirement for the clinical psychology concentration. (1-8 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Twenty-one semester hours of psychology credit, 6 of which are to be completed at Dominican; a minimum grade point average of 3.00 in psychology; junior or senior standing; and departmental approval.

PSYC 460 - Advanced Topics in Psychology

This is a course devoted to the in-depth study of a single topic area. The content will be based upon the research interests of the faculty member teaching the class. This course satisfies the capstone requirement for the psychology major. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Twenty-one hours of psychology credit, including PSYC 290 and PSYC 291, and junior or senior standing.

PSYC 470 - Advanced Research

This course will require students to conduct research as a collaborative class project. Lectures will include advanced research design, ethics, and data analysis. Students interested in graduate-level work in psychology are encouraged to take this course. This course satisfies the capstone requirement for the psychology major. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 290, PSYC 291, and senior standing, or consent of instructor.

PSYC 480 - Capstone Experience

Students completing supervised internship or research experiences in a program outside the psychology department (e.g., in a graduate program in social work) may petition the psychology department to have these hours count toward their psychology capstone experience. This course is offered on a satisfactory/fail basis and additional academic work completed under the supervision of a faculty member in the psychology department is required in order to receive a satisfactory grade. (0 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Twenty-one semester hours of psychology credit, six of which are to be completed at Dominican; a grade point average of 3.00 in psychology; junior or senior standing, and departmental permission.

Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Introductory, Intermediate, Advanced, Senior Thesis Independent Research or Creative Investigation is a course in which students collaborate with faculty mentors on an ongoing faculty research project or conduct an independent project under the guidance of a faculty member. This directed undergraduate research or creative investigation culminates in a conference presentation, journal article, or other creative/scholarly project.

PSYC 295 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

PSYC 395 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

PSYC 495 - Independent Undergraduate Research or Creative Investigation

Three credit hours of PSYC 495 may be counted as the capstone with departmental approval. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

Social Justice and Civic Engagement

Social Justice and Civic Engagement Minor

The social justice and civic engagement minor (SJCE) allows students to deepen their civic engagement and service to the community while studying emerging research in the field of social justice. Students will study the roots of social inequality and injustice and how to pursue justice in the world. Topics such as: service, social justice, global injustice, public ethics, civic engagement, human rights, social change, and global pursuit of the common good will be introduced. SJCE provides a capstone experience for students to do community-based research. In addition, students are encouraged to develop an ethically responsible personal and cultural stance through community-based learning and civic engagement. This minor benefits students who have a passion for social justice; who want to make a difference or deepen their engagement in the community; who are interested in pursuing social work, law, education, or ministry; who are concerned about global affairs, international relations, human rights; or who wish to become leaders, entrepreneurs, social workers, or community organizers.

Minor Requirements:

Twenty-one semester hours including SJCE 210 and SJCE 410.

The remaining 15 semester hours are completed through a combination of community-based learning courses and related social justice/civic engagement courses as follows:

- Six to 9 hours in community-based learning courses (designated by section #70) or a 299 community-based learning intensive. It is recommended that one of these courses be in the student's major field of study.
- Six to 9 hours in related social justice/civic engagement courses in the general curriculum selected in consultation with the program director.
- Completion of at least 100-clock hours of service with approved community-agency partners.

A minimum of 15 hours in the minor must be completed at Dominican.

Social Justice and Civic Engagement Courses

SJCE 210 - Introduction to Social Justice and Civic Engagement

Through the praxis of civic engagement and service, locally, nationally, or globally, students will investigate the concept of "the common good." Students will study the roots of social injustice and explore these topics: social justice, human rights, civic engagement, developing cultural competence, social change, and responsible leadership. Includes off-campus service hours. (3 hours)

SJCE 286 - Masculinity and Communication (3 hours)

Listed also as CAS 286 and SWG 286.

SJCE 299 - Social Justice Community-based Learning

An independent study that will engage Social Justice minors with an opportunity to pursue the study of a social justice issue by engaging in local or international community based learning/service or research. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of instructor

SJCE 410 - Social Justice and Civic Engagement Capstone

Students will study and explore the dynamics of justice in communities through developing and implementing a community-based research project that addresses a social justice issue such as hunger, poverty, human rights, immigrant rights, unequal access to education, etc. Student research will include community participation and an ongoing reciprocal relationship between the researcher and the community organization. Students will present their community-based research at the annual URSCI Expo. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SJCE 210 or consent of instructor.

SJCE 450 - Independent Study

An opportunity to do independent research or study under faculty supervision. (1-3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the supervisory faculty member.

Social Media

Social Media Minor

This interdisciplinary minor helps prepare students to utilize social media in their professional lives across a variety of professional fields. The minor offers students the opportunity to learn about the nature of social media, how to create content for social media, and how to design a communication campaign that utilizes social media.

The minor is divided into three areas of emphasis: Foundation, Design and Application. Foundation courses deal with the technological characteristics, the industries that create and propagate such technologies, and the theories, concepts and ethical considerations that govern how we understand and use these technologies. Design courses deal with learning how to produce audio, video, and visual content for social media platforms. Application courses deal with learning how to apply social media skills in a real world context and in classroom and real-world learning settings.

Students must complete six courses spread across the three areas of emphasis, and must also complete a community-based learning project or internship. No more than three courses from any one department may be used to fulfill requirements for the minor.

Foundation

Complete the following courses:

- CAS 234 - Digital Communication: Technology and Criticism
- CAS 352 - Convergent Media

Special Opportunities

The following opportunities are available to sociology majors interested in pursuing graduate study in social work.

5-Year BA/MSW

Majors have the option of pursuing a track that leads to completion of a Master of Social Work degree in approximately one year after obtaining their Bachelor of Arts degree. Students may apply two of their undergraduate major courses and up to 18 hours of general electives toward the 124 needed for the undergraduate degree toward the MSW with departmental approval. Acceptance into the Graduate School of Social Work is contingent upon completion of all undergraduate requirements in the major and an overall grade point average of 3.25. Students who are interested in the 5-year BA/MSW should meet with the department chair of sociology and criminology soon after they declare their major, before they achieve junior standing.

Bridge Program

Majors who decide in their junior or senior year to pursue a Master of Social Work degree may take two classes in the Graduate School of Social Work during their senior year with departmental approval. Acceptance into the Graduate School of Social Work is contingent upon completion of all undergraduate requirements in the major and an overall grade point average of 3.25. Students who are interested in the bridge program should speak to the department chair of sociology and criminology before registering for their senior year classes.

Sociology Courses

SOC 110 - Introduction to Sociology

Introduction to the discipline of sociology as a tool for the study of human life. Through a survey of basic sociological perspectives and theories, this course examines the social institutions of everyday life in order to become aware of the way human action and human actors shape and are shaped by their societies. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 110 and BWS 110

This course will satisfy the social sciences core area requirement.

SOC 200 - Writing in the Discipline

An intensive writing course required of all sociology and criminology majors that incorporates both academic and argumentative/persuasive writing in the social sciences. Students will learn the basics of writing research papers and appropriate reference/citation style in preparation for the expectations of higher-level courses in the major. This course emphasizes critical writing, reading, and thinking, employing groundwork in theory, empirical data, and both primary and secondary research relating to the subject matter of sociology and criminology. Students are strongly encouraged to take this course as soon after SOC 110 as possible and before they take upper-division courses requiring research papers. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SOC 110.

SOC 201 - Solitary Confinement and Human Rights

(1 hour)

Listed also as CRIM 201, THEA 201, THEO 201.

SOC 203 - Race and Race Relations in the U.S.

An examination of the experiences of various racial and ethnic groups in the United States. This course will focus on macro- and micro-level theories that explain the patterned experiences of these groups. Emphasis will be placed on 1) a critical race perspective; 2) knowledge of the history of racial and ethnic groups in the United States; 3) how individual perceptions and interactions across racial, ethnic differences are related to structural patterns. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

SOC 295 - Undergraduate Research Or Creative Investigation

(1-3 hours)

Spanish

The goals of the Spanish division are to help students achieve: (1) an understanding and command of the linguistic structures of the Spanish language that enable them to use it correctly and fluently in speech and in writing; 2) an awareness and appreciation of the diverse cultures of the Spanish-speaking world; 3) a familiarity with the literary and cultural production of Spain and Spanish America and the ability to critically analyze it. Spanish majors are prepared for graduate study in Spanish and, with an appropriate second major, different career possibilities including business, education, government, international relations, and diplomacy. The Spanish division strongly encourages students to participate in study abroad programs. We currently send students to Salamanca, Spain, through an affiliate program with AIFS. There are also short-term study abroad programs offered to Cuba, Guatemala and Cordoba, Spain.

It includes an off-campus Community Based Learning experience. This course continues the work begun in SPAN 191 - Accelerated Spanish for Heritage Speakers I, and it is expected that students take both semesters. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 191, placement exam, or consent of department.

Spanish: Intermediate Language Courses

SPAN 201 - Intermediate Spanish

This course completes the grammar cycle with an emphasis on the subjunctive. It reinforces and builds upon basic skills in Spanish through the development of the four language skills. Compositions and dialogues in conjunction with daily written and oral exercises reinforce the grammatical concepts. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 102 with a minimum grade of C- or placement through examination.

SPAN 202 - Intermediate Spanish II

This course continues the development of reading and writing skills, with an emphasis on written and spoken communication. Visual, oral, and written materials form the point of departure for work that enhances students' communication skills. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 201 or equivalent. Not open to students who have completed SPAN 231.

SPAN 208 - Intermediate Spanish Conversation through Film and Music

This 2-credit course, with a 1-credit intensification option, will focus on acquiring and practicing Spanish in a dynamic and interactive form through film and music. By viewing various films and listening to music from Spain and Latin America, students will not only practice speaking Spanish, expanding their vocabulary and reviewing grammar in the process, but also familiarize themselves with authentic pronunciations of Spanish and gain insight into cultural and historical contexts. Offered every two years in the summer term. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 201 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 231 - Spanish Language and Culture for Heritage Speakers

This is an intermediate level language course designed specifically for heritage speakers of Spanish to address their specific linguistic needs. The course objectives are to advance fluency in the formal use of language in all areas (writing, speaking, reading, and listening comprehension), and to investigate the cultural aspects of Spanish heritage language experiences in the United States. This course includes an off-campus community-based learning experience. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Placement exam or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

Spanish: Advanced Language Courses

SPAN 301 - Advanced Grammar and Composition

Development of writing skills with emphasis on the complexities of structure and idioms; composition techniques; review of grammar. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 245 or SPAN 246 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 302 - Advanced Oral Communication

Development of increased fluency in spoken language in a variety of forms--conversations, team projects, reports, panels, etc. The class will focus on relevant contemporary materials contained in short stories, films, magazine and newspaper articles, videos, and television programs. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 301 or consent of instructor.

Spanish: Civilization and Culture Courses

SPAN 245 - Introduction to Spain

This course provides a survey of the significant aspects of the history and culture of Spain and its contributions to Western civilization. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 202, SPAN 231, or consent of instructor.

SPAN 246 - Introduction to Spanish America

This course provides historical and cultural background of individual countries in Spanish America, as well as a study of contemporary cultural issues and institutions. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 202, SPAN 231, or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

SPAN 350 - Special Topics in Culture and Civilization

This course will vary per course depending on title. Topics will center on cultural or social themes in Spain, Latin America, or both. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 353 (when topics are relevant to the study of women and gender)

Prerequisite(s): If topic is exclusively Spain, SPAN 245 is required. If topic is Latin America, SPAN 246 is required.

Spanish: Professional Courses

SPAN 209 - Spanish for Health Professions

This intermediate-level course will focus on a general review of relevant grammar and on the specialized vocabulary needed for effective communication with Spanish-speaking clients or patients. Of interest to a wide range of healthcare professions. Topics include: emergency, hospital, dental, maternity, nutrition, and drug and alcohol treatment. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 111 or SPAN 201 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 304 - Professional Spanish

Advanced study of written and oral Spanish as it applies to business and other related professional careers. Course also introduces differences in business culture and practices between US and Hispanic countries as it reviews general info about major industries, products, and relevant data for each. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 301.

Spanish: Literature Courses

SPAN 320 - Introduction to Hispanic Literature

The primary objective of this course is to teach students to read critically. Written texts will include selections from prose, fiction (both novel and short story), poetry, theatre, and essays from Spanish and Spanish American literature. Students will be introduced to literary terminology in Spanish and to the analysis of a variety of textual strategies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 301 or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

SPAN 382 - Survey of Peninsular Literature

This course will study literature written in Spain from the medieval period to the present day. Through a survey of texts produced during this period, this course will focus on both the artistic value of the works as well as their reflection of the cultural and socio-political reality of their respective periods and countries. This course may not be taken for credit by students who previously earned credit in SPAN 380 or SPAN 381. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 320

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

SPAN 392 - Survey of Latin American Literature

This course will study literature written in Latin America from the colonial period to the present day. Through a survey of texts produced during this period, this course will focus on both the artistic value of the works as well as their reflection of the cultural and socio-political reality of their respective periods and countries. This course may not be taken for credit by students who previously earned credit in SPAN 390 or SPAN 391. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 320

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

Spanish: Other Courses

Study of Women and Gender

The study of women and gender is an interdisciplinary program that addresses the dynamics of gender, race, ethnicity, class, sexuality, and power. The programs aim to expand capacities for critical reflection and analysis and to engage students with varied approaches to women's and gender research, uniting areas of knowledge such as philosophy, the humanities, the social sciences, and history. Both the major and minor emphasize a critical, feminist, cross-cultural, multiracial, and transnational understanding of the diversity of women's experiences and life chances; they also seek to reach an understanding of how questions of gender are embedded in the liberal arts and sciences tradition. The major and minor in the study of women and gender introduces diverse perspectives and understandings concerning the reproduction of femininity and masculinity, inequality and poverty, violence and crime, race and social class, culture and media, politics and the law, and sexuality and reproductive rights in historical and contemporary contexts.

Study of Women and Gender - B.A.

The study of women and gender major emphasizes critical, feminist, cross-cultural, multiracial, and transnational understandings of the diversity of women's experiences. It also seeks to reach an understanding of how questions of gender are embedded in the liberal arts and sciences tradition. The major introduces diverse perspectives and understandings concerning the construction of femininity and masculinity, inequality and poverty, violence and crime, race and social class, culture and media, politics and the law, and sexuality and reproductive rights in historical and contemporary contexts.

Listed also as PHIL 380

Prerequisite(s): SWG 220 or SWG 221 or consent of the instructor.

SWG 381 - Transnational Feminist Theories

We live in a globalized world. Our lives are integrated by economies, mass media, and policies. With all we have in common there is much that divides us. We are all citizens of the world but we are situated in different positions—we have different values, priorities, and analyses. Transnational feminism engages the similarities, differences, and contradictions to create a theoretical framework for social change across genders, sexualities, race and ethnicities, social classes, regions, and nations. Framed by critiques of "universal sisterhood" launched by women of color and feminists from the Global South, this course challenges the conventional Western story of feminism. As we analyze the workings of power and gender in different cultural contexts and within international feminist discourse, we will also focus on the creative cultural practices women use to negotiate their lives and consider various challenges and strategies of transnational feminist projects. (3 hours)

Listed also as SOC 381

Prerequisite(s): SOC 230 or SWG 200 or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

Theatre Arts: Foundation Courses

THEA 140 - Theatre Practicum

Designed for theatre arts majors and minors only, this is the laboratory course associated with the Theatre Arts Lab Series, which involves the practical application of classwork to full productions of plays and musicals. Additionally, students will assist a Performing Arts Center event through duties such as front-of-house, box office, marketing, stagehand/technical, and artist liaison. (1 hour)

THEA 150 - Introduction to Theatre

This course develops the students' understanding and experience of theatre. The elements of drama, the collaborative process of theatre production, contemporary performance forms and contexts, and methods of criticism are introduced. Course work includes weekly reading and oral and written analyses of dramatic texts and live and filmed performances. Attendance at theatre performances in the Chicago area is required. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 161 - Voice and Movement I

Students will enhance the use of their voices and bodies for performance and presentation through individual body connection work. Using the techniques of Linklater, Alexander, Penrod, Spolin, and others, students will explore how their instrument functions and how to maximize their physical and vocal aptitude. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 170 - History of Theatre

This course focuses primarily on the history of Western theatre. Through weekly reading, writing, and discussion of primary texts, secondary sources, and dramatic literature, students will examine the purposes, forms, and processes of theatre as manifested in specific cultural contexts from the beginning of theatre to the present. (3 hours)

THEA 180 - Acting Fundamentals

We are actors in everyday life. Through the study of the Stanislavski System, along with other acting methodologies and exercises, students will explore how characters relate to others, thereby enhancing individual aesthetic awareness. The course will focus on the art of acting as a craft and discipline, and how these skills can connect to and enrich other aspects of our daily world. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 230 - Theatre Production I

This course and its hands-on approach will equip the student in the fundamental techniques, materials, and shop skills relevant to the various elements of technical theatre. Students will assist in preparing and mounting university productions in the areas of lighting, set construction, scene work, sound, etc. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 305 - Costuming for Theatre

This course will cover the basic elements necessary to produce costumes for the theatre. These aspects will include sewing skills, tracking and paperwork, measurements, elements of design, and rendering skills. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Listed also as APRL 305.

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 375 - Dramaturgy

Through research, students will uncover layers of meaning within a variety of classical and modern plays. Students will find answers to what theatre artists and audiences need to know about the plays studied in class. A production casebook will be a culminating project. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing.

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

THEA 415 - Directing

The course covers the fundamentals of directing for the stage in a workshop environment. Play analysis, research, and directing techniques are explored through discussion, exercises and projects. This class culminates in a public performance of the Black Box Experiment. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): THEA 180 and THEA 230, or consent of instructor.

THEA 420 - Showcase/Professional Prep Intensive

This course will provide the tools needed as students approach their professional careers, including: self-marketing, auditioning, portfolios, website development, independent contracts, union affiliations, and more. It is designed for students of all disciplines and will be both a cross-concentration course as well serve each specialty. This serves as the capstone course for the department and culminates in a professional showcase where students present in front of guest directors, casting directors, musical directors, agents, production managers, designers, etc. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): THEA 180, THEA 230, or approval of instructor.

Theatre Arts: Performance Courses

THEA 142 - Dance

This course is appropriate for students new to dance as well as to those who already have basic dance skills. A different form of dance will be offered each semester, such as ballet, jazz, modern, tap, hip-hop, etc. Each course is designed to impart basic techniques as well as aid physical fitness and awareness. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 143 - A Survey of American Concert Dance

This course is specifically created with the beginning dancer in mind. However, movement material can be adjusted to fit the needs of the students. Each meeting time will consist of a studio dance class (1 hour and 45 minutes), which will explore different movement styles from which contemporary choreographers draw. Dancers will be guided through a genre-specific warm-up and long-form movement phrases that introduce the technical requirement of each form, varied accompaniments, and performance qualities. Students will then move to a lecture hall where they will view a variety of dance films that will serve to give a historical context to the work in the studio and introduce students to artists whose work has broken new ground or stands as an example of the purity of a specific form. This segment of the class will also meet for 1 hour and 45 minutes. (3 hours)

THEA 160 - Voice and Diction

Students will improve the quality and effectiveness of their speaking voice through a program of drills and performance exercises. Rodenburg's text, The Right to Speak, will be fully covered. TV and radio announcing skills will also be included. Course offered on satisfactory/fail basis only. (3 hours)

Listed also as CAS 160.

THEA 243 - Advanced Dance

The course focuses on advance dance techniques. Specific subject will rotate and include areas such as choreography, advanced ballet, and advanced contemporary styles. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): THEA 142 or THEA 143 or consent of instructor.

This course satisfies the fine arts area requirement.

THEA 253 - Improvisation

Viola Spolin says, "Spontaneity is the moment of personal freedom when we are faced with a reality and see it, explore it, and act accordingly." This course will help students embrace creative freedom, discover and design new realities, and enhance their intuitive skills through the fundamental study of improvisational acting. The course will cover a wide variety of improv forms, techniques, and exercises. (2 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 254 - Theatre for Young Audiences

The course will focus on the elements involved in producing quality theatre for young audiences. Through the practical application of acting exercises, improvisation, and textual analysis, students will extensively explore acting in children's theatre and gain knowledge in the various aspects of directing, scripting, and producing youth-oriented theatrical experiences. This course requires some outside work: additional rehearsals and live performances. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 284 - Solo Performance

Students will write, interpret, perform, and stage a variety of works in a variety of performance spaces. They will develop analytical skills in the evaluation of peer performances and performance material. Prominent contemporary solo performers will also be studied: John Leguizamo, Lily Tomlin, Laurie Anderson, Eric Bogosian, Whoopi Goldberg, Spalding Gray, Anna Deavere Smith, and others. Students will design and execute a final, public solo performance. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the fine arts core area requirement.

THEA 285 - Advanced Acting

Students will study the process associated with in-depth character work. Thorough characterization is developed through analysis, research, vocal/physical aptitude and external adjustment, and the application of materials for both monologues and scene work. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): THEA 180 or consent of the instructor.

THEA 308 - On-Camera Acting

In this course students will examine how on-camera acting differs from acting for the stage, and will increase their skills in television, film, and commercial acting through monologues, scene work, and cold readings. Emphasis will be on on-camera acting techniques and script analysis. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): THEA 180 or consent of instructor.

THEA 362 - Voice and Movement II

Continued exploration and development of physical and vocal skills initiated in THEA 161. Topics include: IPA, dialects, mask work, and more. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): THEA 161 or consent of instructor.

THEA 382 - Musical Theatre

This course explores performance in musical theatre. Topics include acting values, musicality, research, and performance styles. Students will be required to sing, dance, and work independently with an accompanist. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): THEA 180 or consent of instructor.

THEA 387 - Acting Styles

This course will focus on applying acting techniques to different theatre genres and textual styles. Students will explore a variety of period styles, such as Shakespeare, Restoration, Moliere, commedia dell'arte, and others. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): THEA 180 or consent of instructor.

Theology - B.A.

The major in theology, undertaken within the context of the liberal arts and sciences, provides students with a solid grounding for study at the graduate level, as well as preparation for various career paths. Theology courses are offered in distinct yet interrelated areas. The major also includes the option of a concentration in Pastoral Ministry.

Major Requirements:

A minimum of 39 semester hours is required including:

Required Courses:

Area I: Theological Foundations

- THEO 101 - Introduction to Theology
- THEO 104 - Introduction to the Study of Religion
- THEO 110 - Introduction to the Bible

Area II: Biblical Literature and Language

- Two scripture courses selected in consultation with advisor, with at least one in Hebrew Scriptures and one in Christian Scriptures

Area III: History and Doctrine

- THEO 310 - Jesus the Christ
- One additional course from Area III

Area IV: Christian Ethics and Spirituality

- THEO 320 - Theological Ethics
- One additional course from Area IV

Area V: Theology, Religion, and Culture

- Two courses, at least one of which must engage a tradition, or traditions, other than Christianity.

Area VI: Advanced Study

- THEO 485 - Senior Project or Portfolio

Elective

- One elective chosen from area III, IV, or V

Concentration in Pastoral Ministry (optional)

As they pursue the major in theology, students opting for the concentration in pastoral ministry complete the following courses:

- THEO 106 - Introduction to Pastoral Theology
- THEO 240 - Current Issues Facing the Church
- THEO 248 - The Multicultural Church

- THEO 455 - Internship (replaces THEO 485 as a requirement for the major)
- THEO 252 - Sacraments in the Catholic Tradition

Recommendations:

In consultation with an advisor, majors are also encouraged to complete courses in disciplines that complement the study of theology and-for students opting for the concentration-that complement the study of pastoral ministry.

Theology Minor

Minor Requirements:

A minimum of six courses, including:

Required Courses:

Area I: Theological Foundations

- THEO 101 - Introduction to Theology

Area II: Biblical Literature and Language

- One course

Area IV: Christian Ethics and Spirituality

- One course

Area V: Theology, Religion, and Culture

- One Course

Additional Requirements:

At least two courses must be taken as intensified or at the 300 level.

Theology Area I: Theological Foundations

THEO 101 - Introduction to Theology

Sooner or later, we are presented with questions of a most fundamental kind: Does my life truly have meaning? How do we account for evil and suffering? Is the universe friendly and with a final purpose? Is death the end? Such questions-including questions about God's existence and nature-arise in various times, places, and ways: in the art forms of popular culture, in personal or social crises, in unexpected joy or sorrow, in the midst of nature's beauty and awesome power, in the struggle to love one's enemies, in the kindness of strangers and the fidelity of friends, in the restlessness of the human heart. This course offers an introduction to theology as a way of raising and attempting to answer such questions. So, students will learn to think theologically through self-discovery but also by engaging other individuals and communities, especially Catholic Christianity in conversation with other traditions. By exploring sacred texts and other theological sources, we can learn to read the world in profound and often surprising ways. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 104 - Introduction to the Study of Religion

Like they do about the weather, everybody talks about religion, but few bother to find out what it is. This course explores the meaning, evolution, and practice of religion as a human experience and social institution from a variety of perspectives. In addition to contributions from the history of religions, and both the philosophy and theology of religion, students will also consider the scientific study of religion from the viewpoint of the disciplines of cultural anthropology, archeology, psychology and sociology. Emphasis will be placed on the religious imagination, the use of symbol, myth and ritual in different cultural settings, and the importance of religion in civic discourse and political life. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement; this course does not satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 110 - Introduction to the Bible

This introductory course surveys the main theological themes of the Bible. The various books of the Hebrew Scriptures (Old Testament) and the Christian Scriptures (New Testament) are examined in light of their historical and theological significance. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

Theology Area II: Biblical Literature

THEO 120 - The Bible: Genesis to Judges

This introductory course engages students in a critical reading of the Hebrew Scriptures (Old Testament), with special emphasis on Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Deuteronomy, and the historical books of the Bible. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 122 - New Testament I: The Gospels

Each of the four Gospels paints a distinctive portrait of the person of Jesus, his origins, life and teaching, death and resurrection. This introduction to New Testament writings offers the student an opportunity to understand each gospel writer's perspective while critically assessing the information about the historical Jesus of Nazareth and the formation of the early Church. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 230 - The Bible: Prophets and Wisdom

This course focuses on the role and message of the Hebrew prophets, along with the wisdom literature found in the Hebrew Scriptures. The challenge of these traditions to people today will also receive attention. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 231 - Freedom in Paul's Letters

This course will provide an overview of the concepts of freedom and social responsibility as conveyed in Paul's letters (especially his four major letters) in both historical contexts of antiquity and their usage in Western politics, from the medieval to modern periods. Great attention is given to the concepts of freedom and divine favor in Roman religion as the background for Paul's audiences. Interpretive reading, critical thinking, and discussion will be major components, in addition to written interpretation assignments. (3 hours)

THEO 232 - New Testament II: Acts, Paul, and Other Writings

This course examines the development of the Christian community and its beliefs following the Resurrection and Ascension of Jesus as recorded in the New Testament. Major attention will be given to the Acts of the Apostles, the letters of Paul, the pastoral epistles, and the "Catholic" epistles. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 233 - Bad Girls of the Bible

Devious, disobedient, manipulative, and mean. Temptresses, harlots, and queens hiring hit men. This course will offer an exploration of the "bad" girls of the Bible, examining the moral, theological, and societal perceptions of these girls as "bad" in the Bible and tradition, and the ways in which the stories of these women, and their struggles with good and evil, are stories of hope and redemption. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 233

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 235 - Flawed Families of the Bible

Violence, infidelity, incest, infertility, sibling rivalry—in the Bible? This course offers an exploration of the messiness of family life in the Bible, in particular the ways in which biblical stories of God's relationship with broken, messed-up families are stories of love and forgiveness, of redemption and hope. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 383 - The Book of Revelation and Apocalyptic Literature

This course will examine the Book of Revelation in its context and ours, with attention to the origin of apocalyptic literature in the late Jewish prophetic tradition, the advent of the third millennium, theological eschatology, and the implications of the resurgence of the apocalyptic in our time. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

Theology Area III: History and Doctrine

THEO 103 - Introduction to Roman Catholicism

This course will provide an overview of the central beliefs and practices of the Roman Catholic tradition. The development of Catholic understandings of fundamental Christian doctrines (e.g., revelation, Christ, sin, grace) and distinctive features of Catholic communal life (e.g., church, the sacraments) will be approached through a variety of texts. Contemporary concerns will be addressed throughout. (3 hours)

Listed also as CATH 103

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 240 - Current Issues Facing the Church

Drawing on biblical and other sources (Vatican II documents, individual theologians, etc.), this course examines theologically the nature, structure, and mission of the Church and helps students develop a sound and compelling vision of the Church in the 21st century. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 246 - Giver of Life: The Holy Spirit

This course will explore the scriptural, theological, and ministerial dimensions of the doctrine of the Holy Spirit as the animating principle of the Church, both globally and locally, and the matrix of the spiritual life of individual persons and communities. According to Christian belief and experience, the Holy Spirit is the most accessible and immediately operative of the three persons of the divine trinity, yet remains the least recognized and studied, despite important ramifications in scripture scholarship, systematics, and pastoral theology, not least in regard to women's studies, liberation theology, and spirituality. Topics will include the Hebrew and Jewish experience of God as spirit, the teachings of Jesus on the Holy Spirit, the belief and experience of the early Christian community, the Holy Spirit as the feminine face of God, the Holy Spirit as ground of prayer and religious experience, the "new age" as the era of the Holy Spirit, charismatic manifestations, the eschatological role of the Spirit, and the pastoral implications of the Holy Spirit for ministry. (3 hours)

THEO 252 - Sacraments in the Catholic Tradition

An in-depth consideration of the history and theology of the Catholic sacramental system. Special emphasis on how and why the sacraments developed, how they assumed their contemporary form, and their relation to Catholic life and thought. Attention is also given to the general concepts of sacramentality, ritual, and symbol. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 255 - The Mystery of Death

Why do we die? What is death? How should we respond to death? This course considers such questions from various theological perspectives. Special attention is given to ethical issues surrounding death, as well as such topics as grief and concepts of an afterlife. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 310 - Jesus the Christ

This course explores what Christians mean when they call Jesus "the Christ." Through scriptural, historical, and theological perspectives, students will gain an understanding of the current research on the historical Jesus, Christian reflection on Jesus' person and work, and contemporary Christological models of Jesus (e.g., liberation, feminist). (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 330 - The Mystery of God

Study of the doctrine of God in the Hebrew Scriptures, the New Testament, and the history of Christian theology, with special attention to the issues of trinitarian doctrine, creation, providence, evil, and revelation, and theological perspectives on the understanding of God in the modern world. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 354 - Great Christian Thinkers

This course provides an opportunity to reach up to and engage the minds of outstanding figures in the Christian tradition. The focus may be the writings of a single figure (e.g., Origen, Augustine, Thomas Aquinas, Catherine of Siena, Karl Barth, Karl Rahner, or Gustavo Gutierrez) or the engagement of two or more theologians in dialogue, often on a single problem or theme (e.g., sin and grace, eschatology, revelation, ethics, biblical interpretation, or religious pluralism). (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 361 - Debates About God

Using works by Plato, Kierkegaard, and others, this course will focus on questions of the religious basis of morality, the trial of Abraham, the difference between a genius and an apostle, faith and knowledge, the meaning of human suffering, indirect communication, and the possibility of human freedom. (3 hours)

This course does not satisfy the theology core area requirement.

Theology Area IV: Christian Ethics and Spirituality

THEO 106 - Introduction to Pastoral Theology

As an introductory seminar, this course will engage students in discussion of the theological and practical dimensions of ministry and the minister in the Christian/Catholic tradition. Personal reflection and engagement in the issues are key components of the course. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Theology majors or minors, or consent of the department or instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 160 - Understanding the Christian Life

What does it mean to live as a Christian in a complex and pluralistic society? This course explores this question in a critical manner, focusing on the moral and spiritual dimensions of Christian living. Topics to be considered include sources of Christian wisdom, such as the Bible and the writings of theologians and spiritual masters; themes such as discipleship, happiness, and Christian virtue; and particular challenges in areas such as sexuality, civic involvement, and economic life. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 201 - Solitary Confinement and Human Rights

(1 hour)

Listed also as CRIM 201, SOC 201, THEA 201.

THEO 256 - Marriage and Family Life

Everyone, in some way, has been formed by marriage and family life. Using texts, articles, movies and projects, we will integrate the tradition of the Catholic Church, the culture, and the students' lived experience to think critically about marriage and family life. The theology of marriage, rooted in scripture, will provide a starting point for exploration. We will look at communication and conflict resolution, faith development, and ritual within this most critical sphere of life. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 256.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 261 - Catholic Social Teaching and Movements

This course seeks to reveal Catholicism's "best kept secret" the long and still developing tradition of social teaching, as it is found in various Church documents, the works of prominent writers, and social movements. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 267 - Owning and Owing: Theological Perspectives on Property and Debt

Beginning with Shakespeare's The Merchant of Venice, this course explores the theological and moral dimensions of economic relations. For millennia, questions of "owning and owing" have been prominent in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, especially in relation to the "divine economy" of sin, grace, and reconciliation. Thomas Aquinas and Martin Luther both condemned usury (the maligned Shylock's trade), but for different theological reasons, and Muslims' observation of proscriptions against lending with interest while participating in modern economies illustrates the challenge of applying the wisdom of the past to an age of subprime loans and global banking. Questions regarding property (e.g., land, air, water, ideas, stocks and bonds, debt-even human beings) are equally vexing. But here, too, Christianity and other traditions have theologically profound, challenging, and often diverse or contradictory things to say. This course begins to tap religious wisdom about owning and owing in economically challenging and even perilous times. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 273 - Great Women Mystics

This course explores the lives, activity, and writings of outstanding Christian women whose reforming impact on the Church continues to inspire and guide Christians and non-Christians today. Although primary concern will focus on Hildegard of Bingen, Mechthild of Magdeburg, Catherine of Siena, Julian of Norwich, Joan of Arc, and Teresa of Avila, other important figures of past ages and recent times will be considered as well, including artists, writers, and political leaders. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 273.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 281 - Dominican Saints and Mystics

From the beginning, Dominican spirituality has ranged characteristically and widely between the poles of contemplative prayer and prophetic action. Inspired by a visionary love of Truth, the friar and sister preachers employed the liberal and fine arts, the sciences, law, politics, and nursing as well as direct evangelization to proclaim and manifest the Word. This course will explore the major paths and personalities that continue to fund Dominican prayer and work today in the light of the social, natural, and spiritual challenges facing the order and the Church of tomorrow. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 320 - Theological Ethics

How ought one live? The Catholic tradition has a particularly rich and often controversial legacy of reflection on moral matters. This course will introduce the student to the theological sources and methods of that tradition in dialogue with other traditions and currents of thought. Topics include biblical roots of moral reflection and action, discipleship, moral norms, conscience, the virtues, natural law, and the role of church authority in the changing life of the individual and community. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 321 - Sexual Ethics

Perspective on the questions of meaning and morality concerning human sexuality and marriage, including love, nonmarital sex, divorce, parenthood, and gender roles. These will be considered in light of human experience, Christian tradition, Catholic Church teaching, and contemporary theological discussion. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 368 - Biomedical and Health Care Ethics

This course takes up a number of key ethical issues that emerge from contemporary developments in both biomedicine and health care. The theological dimensions, particularly the Catholic ethical approach to these issues, will receive special attention. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 373 - Christian Spirituality

This course considers Christian spirituality holistically, with attention to its biblical foundations, major traditions, and schools. Students will explore elements of religious experience, stages of spiritual development, and the role of prayer and meditation in human life. Contemporary issues and applications will be emphasized, including the priority of the body, social action, lay spirituality, and spiritual guidance. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

Theology Area V: Theology, Religion, and Culture

THEO 105 - Introduction to Interfaith Studies

This course investigates a range of theological and philosophical warrants and resources within particular religious traditions, including Catholic Christianity, for engaging constructively with other religious and nonreligious worldviews. It explores efforts to establish common ground while understanding the dynamics of conflict. It studies significant moments in the history of interfaith interchange, with particular attention to developments following the 1893 World Parliament of Religions held in Chicago. Students will analyze and have some direct experience with contemporary interfaith organizations and initiatives, including those that foster theological dialogue, the sharing of religious and spiritual experience, and cooperative action in an effort to promote "a more just and humane world." (3 hours)

Listed also as IFS 105

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

THEO 228 - Ritual and Symbol

A person's understanding of ritual and symbol in many ways frames that person's worldview. This course will explore the fascinating world of ritual and symbol and examine the deeper source of human imagination, which serves as a context for Christian liturgy and sacrament. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 234 - God and Gangs: Redeeming the Streets and the Sacred

For many Latin@s, gang-life is a forced reality that often functions as alternative communities of not only family life but also divine life. For Latino and Latina gangs, brotherhood and sisterhood function as a unified body-much like the body of Christ. The understanding of community and relationality is not unlike that of the church body. The language, rules, rituals, symbols, and structures of gang life parallel that of church doctrines and liturgy. When Latinos and Latinas join gangs, they are "blessed in," learning the necessity of communal life, faithfulness, and service to one another. In their "new communal life" Latin@s invoke the protection of God, the Virgin Mary, and the saints-the sacred is alive in gang life. This course will explore the complexities of Latin@ gang life to determine what, if anything, is disclosed about the mystery of God and how this understanding may lead towards the redemption of the streets, and the sacred. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 236 - Our Lady of Guadalupe: Mother of a New Creation

In 1999 John Paul II proclaimed Our Lady of Guadalupe as the Patroness of the Americas. Since her apparition on Mount Tepeyac in December 1531, Our Lady of Guadalupe has been at the heart of the Mexican and Mexican-American people. This course critically examines the Guadalupe tradition historically and theologically from its origins down to the present day. Speaking Spanish is not a requirement to take this course. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

THEO 237 - Latin@ Theology

Christianity around the world is about 50% Spanish speaking. The U.S. Catholic Church is nearly 40% Latin@. Catholic Christianity in Chicago is over 50% Latin@. This course critically engages the theological imagination that stems from the heart of a people. The course examines the diverse origins, methods, contexts, major theological themes, and texts of U.S. Latin@ theologies. With an understanding that these experiences vary greatly between and within communities of faith, special emphasis is placed on the Catholic tradition. Particular attention is given to the unique contributions of Latin@ theology such as Mestizaje, Teología en Conjunto, Fiesta, Accompaniment, and lo cotidiano. Speaking Spanish is not a requirement to take this course. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

THEO 238 - Latin@ Spirituality: The Origins, Roots, and Contemporary Experience of a People

This course provides an in-depth exploration into the spirituality of Latinos and Latinas living in the United States. With the understanding that Latin@ spirituality varies between and within faith communities, this course will particularly focus on the origins, development, and contemporary experience of Roman Catholic Mexican-American spirituality with special attention to the theological character and implications of that spirituality. We will examine the roots and origins of this perspective through history, literature, cultural anthropology, biblical studies. Additionally, this course will aid the discovery and exploration of one's own spirituality, whatever one's cultural and theological starting point might be. (3 hours)

Listed also as LLAS 238

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

THEO 239 - Latin@ American Religious Experience and Theology

The Latino perspective in religion and theology has only recently been heralded and explored. This course will begin by situating Latino/a perspectives in theology within the larger category of contextual theology. A review of the method and source material of Latino/a theologies will demonstrate how they differ from "classic" theologies. We will then discuss a number of theological topics that pertain to the Latino/a religious experience. Finally, we will look at the Latino/a perspective within the Catholic tradition and the Church. (3 hours)

Listed also as LLAS 239

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

THEO 242 - The Mystery of Evil in Religion and Literature

The enigma (mystery, problem) of suffering and evil has been expressed historically through various mythologies: tragedy, original sin, alienation, etc. This course will take an in-depth look at these several themes from the perspective both of religion and of literature. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 244 - Circling around God: The Mystery of the Divine

Deep within the human spirit, there is a profound need to make meaning and find significance. This course will expose students to some of the most significant thinking found in great theological works. We shall look at the Tao Te Ching, the Baghavad Gita, some poetry from Basho, Rumi, and Gerard Manley Hopkins, along with a selection of Catholic writers, and end our exploration with Martel's Life of Pi. For us, the driving question throughout the class will be how do we cultivate our spiritual imagination and what stories are we willing to believe. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 247 - Christianity and Slavery: Redemption through Resistance

The practice of slavery, both with its ancient origins and its stubborn persistence today, raises deep and often disturbing questions for theology and theologians. How, for instance, could Christianity so long condone and even justify the enslavement of fellow human beings, and yet also fuel the fires of abolitionist movements, change the hearts of slave traders, and bring meaning and hope to those enslaved? How are slavery and release from slavery related to such theologically challenging topics as understandings of the human; sin, grace, and redemption; the problem of evil; and the hope for an eternally joyful life? Through examination of scripture and other readings, film, and song ("spirituals"), this course pursues questions of this kind. While the major focus is the Christian tradition, brief comparisons with Islamic attitudes towards slavery will highlight the interreligious and truly global extent of this profound theological problem. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 247

Prerequisite(s): Theology majors or minors, or consent of the department or instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural studies core requirement.

THEO 248 - The Multicultural Church

It is often said that when God spoke, the language was dialect. Thus to be effective in preaching the word of God, the church must be an expert in culture. Indeed, from the "multilingual" event of Pentecost, as depicted in the Acts of the Apostles, to more recent missionary concerns about "inculturation," questions about a "multicultural church" have been central to Christian theology. Taking a topical approach, this course considers various models of the multicultural church, all in the service of faith seeking to understand how the church may be at once culturally diverse and yet universally one. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area and the multicultural studies requirement.

THEO 257 - Women and Religion

In this course, we will focus our attention on Christian, Jewish, and Muslim women in the United States. More specifically, we will look at how the religious experiences and imaginations of these women have been shaped by the cultures, theologies, and practices of their various religious traditions within the socio-historical context of American life. Conversely, we will look at how particular individuals and groups of women in the United States have contributed to the development and transformation of religious, social, and cultural life, beliefs, and practices both within and beyond their particular religious institutions. (3 hours)

Listed also as SWG 257.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 263 - Health and Healing: Medicine, Religion, and Spirituality

This course explores the historical and contemporary interface between medicine and religion with an emphasis on the origin and development of the nursing tradition, especially its impact on the revival of spirituality in the late 20th century. Tracing the path of wellness from its origins in Greek, Chinese, and Indian cultures, as well as the distinctive approach of Judaism and early Christianity, students will investigate the development of healing practices in the medical traditions of medieval monasticism, Islamic medical schools in Spain and North Africa, and the rediscovery of holistic medicine in recent times. Topics will include studies of longevity, alternative health care, fitness and exercise, diet and nutritional studies, pain management, and the role of emotion in regard to personal and social health. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 264 - The Ways of War and Peace in Christianity and Islam

It is sometimes said that the way we think about war tests all our thinking. With attention to the past, and mindful of momentous challenges today, this course examines the various and often-conflicting ways in which Christians and Muslims have regarded theologically not only war but also peace. Topics to be explored include sources for theologies of war and peace (the Bible, the Quran, and other key texts), "holy war" jihad, "just war," and approaches to nonviolence within the two traditions. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

THEO 268 - Theology and Horror Fiction

This course will explore how modern horror fiction engages and reflects themes and that are found in the biblical and Christian theological traditions, such as the human condition, the problem of mortality, good and evil, social justice, war, gender, and the role of nature. Using literary and theological methods, the course will look at specific traditional examples, such as the Books of Genesis and Revelation, before focusing on modern horror fiction, such as I Am Legend, Frankenstein, The Monstromologist, The Walking Dead, World War Z, and The Shining (among others). (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 270 - Christianity Among the World's Religions

While some attention will be paid to diversity within the Christian tradition, the major focus of this course will be on Christianity's response to and interaction with the other religions. Christianity's evangelical world mission will be explored, in terms of its emergence, historical development, and evolving rationale. Christianity's more recent emphasis on interreligious dialogue and cooperative action will also be explored, again in terms of both theoretical foundations and practical implementations. Are these twin concerns—mission and dialogue—contradictory or complementary? What does the future hold for Christian identity amid religious diversity? (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 272 - Spirituality and Mysticism in World Religions

A study of the tradition of mysticism in the major world religions. Using the Catholic mystical traditions as a paradigm, we will compare parallel mystical paths in Judaism, Islam, Hinduism, and Buddhism. Similarities and differences among these several mystical "paths" will provide the basis for our analysis of these traditions. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 277 - African-American Religious Experience and Theology

Beginning with African roots and attentive to historical and cultural factors, this course examines the varieties of religious experience and theology distinctive of the African-American community. (3 hours)

Listed also as BWS 277.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement and the multicultural core requirement.

THEO 278 - Religions of the Book: Judaism, Christianity, Islam

This course explores the three great monotheistic religions that claim descent from Abraham. Sharing many of the same beliefs and traditions, Jews, Christians, and Muslims also differ theologically and politically. What are the common bonds that tie them together and the forces that create conflict and mistrust both within and among these faiths? (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 280 - Native American Culture and Spirituality

This course explores the history, culture, and spirituality of the Native peoples of the Woodlands and the Plains. Native speakers will share ritual and story to enhance the study. Students taking this course are required to develop a project in collaboration with the reservations they will visit. The project and the service learning trip are required for the course. This camping trip usually begins during early May and lasts approximately two weeks. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

THEO 282 - Science, Religion, and Theology

Controversies concerning the existence of God, the place of religion, cosmic and human evolution, and the pursuit of truth continue to pit many scientists against religious leaders, theologians, and ordinary believers. This course explores the lively tension between scientific and theological approaches to understanding the origin and destiny of the universe, the phenomenon of life, the role of human existence, culture, and society, the challenge of evil, and the task of living meaningfully and purposefully in today's changing world. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 283 - Godflix: Theology and Ethics in Film and TV

Film and television can be a powerful and often subtle vehicles for exploring profound, and often perplexing, theological and ethical questions and themes. Through discussion of selections from film and television, with matching readings, this course will examine such topics as sin, grace, and redemption; the problem of evil; beauty and the transcendent; justice and mercy; and the "end times." (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 343 - Freud, Jung, and Religion

What do psychologists have to say about religion? Is it a crutch, the "obsessional neurosis of humanity"? Is God an illusion of the weak? Or is religion good for us, and location in the presence of the divine essential for human well-being? This course will focus on the psychologies of religion espoused by Sigmund Freud and C.G. Jung, and will consider some of the challenges that their theories present to Christian theology. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

THEO 360 - Religion and Politics

Whether the context has been the fall of the Roman Empire, European expansion into the New World, the rise of Nazism, or recent responses to terrorism, the Christian theological tradition has included diverse and often conflicting views. This course explores theologically such topics as understandings of social order, politics, and eschatology, the uses of coercion, and the quest to identify a people's "common good". (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 362 - Environmental Theology: Ecology in Crisis

Global warming, habitat destruction, species extinction, and attempts to respond to these and other ecological crises raise profound theological and ethical issues. This course explores the religious understanding of nature as "creation," the biblical tradition of "covenant" and "stewardship" as ecological partnership, theological interpretations of human interaction with nature, and the rise of environmental ethics and activism. (3 hours)

Listed also as ENV5 362.

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 371 - Law and Legal Reasoning in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam

Law and religion often converge or conflict in profound and complex ways. This is certainly true of the Abrahamic religions. As the title suggests, this course has a two-fold but interrelated focus. On the one hand, we will explore in a comparative way the theological status and character of law in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. For example, is law understood to be eternal or divine? What is the relationship between God's law and human law? Will following the law lead to salvation? Does law have diverse theologically-defined uses or aims? Is the law affirmed by a religious tradition meant to be universal or is it restricted to that particular community of believers? On the other hand, we will explore, again in a comparative way, the practice of legal reasoning in the three traditions as applied to such issues as religious observance, the taking of human life, gender relations, and economic justice. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of instructor.

This course will fulfill the Theology core area requirement.

THEO 375 - Spanish Mystics

This course will study the principal figures of Spanish mysticism e.g., San Teresa of Avila, San Juan de la Cruz, San Ignacio de Loyola, San Francis de Borja, Fray Luis Ponce de Leon, and Venerable Sor María de Jesús de Agreda. The course will critically engage selected works of these authors from a variety of different perspectives and consider their work in the context of the contemporary retrieval of the mystical tradition. Class activities include guest speakers and visits to a cloistered convent and a monastery to meet present-day members of the Carmelite Order. Speaking Spanish is not a requirement to take this course. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the theology core are requirement.

THEO 376 - Asian Religions

This course examines the central beliefs and distinctive practices of the major religious traditions of India, China, Japan, and Thailand. Hinduism, Jainism, Buddhism, Taoism, and Shinto receive extended attention. Other traditions (e.g., Zoroastrianism, Sikhism, new religious movements) will receive consideration as interest and time permit. Students will explore aspects of interreligious dialogue and conflict among Asian traditions and also with Western faiths. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing or consent of the instructor.

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

Theology Area VI: Advanced Study in Theology

THEO 299 - Community-Based Learning

(1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor

THEO 384 - Special Topics in Theology

(3 hours)

THEO 450 - Independent Study

This course is intended for advanced students working in consultation with an instructor on a topic not covered in available courses. (2-4 hours)

This course may not be used to satisfy the theology core area requirement.

THEO 455 - Internship

(1-8 hours)

THEO 485 - Senior Project or Portfolio

In order to help students synthesize and advance what they have learned in the course of their studies, all graduating seniors who major in theology are required to complete a research project or compile an integrative portfolio.

Completion of this course includes a formal presentation on the project or portfolio to the Department of Theology. (3 hours)

Washington Internship Institute

The Washington Internship Institute provides students with internships, courses, and opportunities to experience and be a part of the wide variety of Washington, DC, domestic and international institutions, public and private organizations, and offices of political leaders and policy makers. Because it is affiliated with Dominican University, students can utilize scholarships and financial aid to participate in its programs. Students may attend the Washington Internship Institute in the fall or spring semesters for 14 credit hours or during the summer for 12 credit hours. Students may choose from four separate tracks of study and internship experience: Inside Washington, International and Foreign Policy Studies, Environmental and Sustainability Policy Studies, and Global Women's Leadership Development.

Washington Internship Institute

WII 350 - Inside Washington: Politics, and Policy

A part of the Inside Washington internship program, this course is designed to maximize the student's knowledge about American politics in general and what actually goes on inside Washington in particular. It is seminar-centered, supplemented with on-site working visits, and covers substantive institutions of American politics such as Congress, the presidency, and the courts. The constitutional framework of America's democracy is also analyzed with particular focus on the roles and interactions of America's democratic institutions and its political players within the Washington political theater. In addition, the seminar discusses the roles of political parties, interest groups, and issues such as civil rights and civil liberties within the context of the war on terrorism and the constitutionality of the powers of federal government agencies. (3 hours)

WII 351 - International and Foreign Policy Studies

This course is designed to help prepare the student in the International and Foreign Policy Studies internship program for professional leadership in American foreign affairs through experience and knowledge of both the American and the international policy-making system/process and its intellectual foundation. The "policy" element of this course will focus on the fact that the United States is in a uniquely strong and in many ways dominant position in world politics, economics, and defense/military prowess today. Thus, while it is important to understand other regions, this course will emphasize U.S. policy, including what it is and discussion of what it should be, i.e., how the United States should utilize this level of national power never before seen in human history. The "practice" element of the course will focus on how U.S. foreign policy is made, implemented, and influenced, and how the neophyte in the field can enter it and move toward ultimate leadership. (3 hours)

WII 352 - Environmental and Sustainability Policy Studies

In this course, students in the Environmental and Sustainability Policy Studies internship program will examine a number of the major complex environmental issues of our times. Students will be given an introduction to the policies, the players, and the institutions that shape federal environmental decision making. This class will examine how U.S. environmental policy is really made, who and what influences policy, and the scope and breadth of some of the policies. International community and global concerns will also be examined. (3 hours)

WII 353 - Global Women's Leadership Development

This course will study key issues facing women around the world and in the United States. Whether considering issues such as women's health, gender and family, human rights, women in war, human trafficking, or economic entrepreneurship and micro-lending, you will have the chance to critically assess case studies in this intensive seminar. Be a part of shaping opportunities for women in the world well into the 21st century. (3 hours)

WII 355 - Internship Seminar: Leadership and Professional Development

This course is designed to help WII students reflect on and examine the role of the individual in complex organizations by applying theories of experiential education, cognitive and social development, and organizational development to the experiences gained in their Washington internships. Students reflect critically on their working environment through an analysis of social relationships and the dynamics of working in a professional setting. Field-based exercises are combined with lectures, discussions, readings, and written assignments in which students analyze the internship experience. (3 hours)

WII 357 - Inside Washington Internship

The Inside Washington internship program welcomes all majors and allows students the greatest variety in choosing the internship that best fits their interests. Internships focus mainly on U.S. organizations and institutions in media, advocacy organizations, government agencies, and the elective branches of the federal government. (6-8 hours)

WII 358 - International and Foreign Policy Internship

The International and Foreign Policy internship program gives students the opportunity to intern and do substantive work at a host of international organizations, including foreign embassies, nongovernmental organizations, or the U.S. Department of State. (6-8 hours)

WII 359 - Environmental and Sustainability Internship

The Environmental and Sustainability internship program is geared toward students from environmental policy and studies backgrounds. Students intern with public and private environmental organizations. (6-8 hours)

WII 360 - Global Women's Leadership Internship

The Global Women's Leadership Internship program gives students the opportunity to intern and do substantive, hands-on work in the nation's capital with an international nongovernmental organization, women's political or legal advocacy group, a corporation, a government agency, or a policy organization. (6-8 hours)

Brennan School of Business

Mission

The Brennan School of Business provides ethics-centered management education for students who are either entering business professions or continuing their professional development. The curriculum provides students with an enduring foundation in business and leadership skills as well as an understanding of the best in current business practices resonant with the university's core values of Caritas et Veritas.

Core Values of the Brennan School of Business:

- Ethical business behavior
- Compassionate leadership
- Global perspective
- Entrepreneurial mindset

The Brennan School of Business was created to fulfill the mission of Dominican University by providing value-centered intellectual development and professional preparation in the business disciplines for motivated students. The purpose of the business program, like that of the university, is to foster the personal, social, and professional development of its students through excellent teaching, careful mentoring, and rigorous programs of study.

Taught by a faculty of well-prepared academicians and distinguished practitioners, the curriculum takes a broad interdisciplinary approach to business education. The undergraduate program enables students to choose from among four business majors and three separate concentrations. The programs offered by the Brennan School of Business all reflect the university's commitment to liberal arts and professional learning. The business school is dedicated to providing students with academic instruction that is not only grounded in liberal arts education but also distinguished by its rigor and challenge. The Brennan School of Business supports the university's goal of graduating intellectually curious and engaged students who will carry with them an enthusiasm for lifelong learning as cultural traditions and the professional environment constantly change and evolve.

Academic Goals and Outcomes

The business curricula provide students with the opportunity to expand their knowledge and to develop the tools for managing companies and organizations in an ethical manner with consideration for all stakeholders.

Goal 1: Students will appreciate the ethical foundation of effective long-run business decisions and promote social responsibility and ethical leadership in managerial decision making.

- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate an understanding of fundamental approaches to moral reasoning, including knowledge of contemporary ethical issues in global settings.

- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate an understanding of the role and appropriateness of social responsibility within the business environment.

Goal 2: Students will communicate effectively in written and verbal formats.

- Objective: Successful students will effectively prepare and deliver class presentations.
- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate an ability to write analytical papers.

Goal 3: Students will utilize technology and electronic learning to address business applications.

- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate competency in the use of and/or ability to develop software packages that focus on business applications.
- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate competency in applying models to systematically collect, store, and disseminate information.

Goal 4: Students will utilize quantitative and analytical methods as well as critical-thinking skills in business applications.

- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate competency in developing a hypothesis (thesis, topic) and in effectively researching information that will lead to appropriate conclusions.
- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate the ability to interpret graphical and empirical data, utilize software to analyze data, and/or develop various system solutions that focus on business applications.

Goal 5: Students will utilize a global perspective in the evaluation of contemporary business issues.

- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate an understanding of the economic, financial, managerial, and/or technological implications of a firm operating internationally and/or domestically.
- Objective: Successful students will demonstrate an understanding of the role of small businesses, entrepreneurs, and technology in the economy and the potential problems they may experience.

Course Prerequisites

Many business courses have prerequisites. These prerequisites are waived only in exceptional circumstances and only with the consent of the department chair or the dean of the Brennan School of Business

Accelerated MBA Program

Qualified students may be able to complete the bachelor's degree and the Master of Business Administration degree in a total of five calendar years. During the undergraduate program, the equivalent of the six MBA foundation courses may be taken. Students are encouraged to apply to the Accelerated MBA program before the end of their junior year. After students complete 90 hours of course work, their application will be evaluated by the Admissions Committee. Accepted students may enroll in two MBA courses during their senior year, one course each semester, and credit will be given toward the undergraduate degree. The remaining ten graduate business courses may be taken upon completion of the undergraduate degree.

For more information, please contact the Office of Graduate Enrollment at (708) 524-6571.

Commitment to Ethics and Integrity

Since its founding, the Brennan School of Business has insured that all its academic programs provide students with an understanding of the concepts and theories of ethical decision making as well as numerous opportunities to practice and apply those concepts during their study. This is done through a variety of curricular and co-curricular programs, ranging from case study analyses and service learning courses to student-sponsored lectures and off-campus volunteer programs. The first endowed chair in the Brennan School of Business was designated by its donors to be the Christopher Chair in Business Ethics. This chair has enabled the business program to place an ever-increasing focus on ethical business practices, through annual lectures, workshops, and other faculty and student initiatives that ensure that ethics are taught and practiced in every part of the curriculum.

Realizing that students who matriculate in the Brennan School of Business must conduct themselves in accordance with the highest standards of academic integrity during their course of study, the Brennan School of Business follows the university academic integrity policies.

Additional Requirements:

The satisfactory/fail option may be used for only one repeated course required for the major.

A minimum of one-half the courses in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Students majoring in international business are advised to complete MATH 130 or MATH 170 to satisfy the mathematics foundation requirement.

School of Education

Mission Statement

The School of Education, rooted in the Catholic Dominican tradition of excellence, prepares educators to make a difference by their commitment to fostering the values of scholarship, leadership, and service within themselves and their future students.

Goals

To pursue our mission, the School of Education and its faculty are committed to these goals:

- Align programs with standards of specialized professional associations and standards of the State of Illinois. (scholarship)
- Model research-based teaching practices. (scholarship, service)
- Promote and model respect and appreciation for diversity of all kinds. (leadership, service)
- Integrate technology as a source of knowledge, a tool for teaching, and an avenue for collaboration. (leadership, service)
- Foster candidate understanding and application of the connection between theory and practice. (scholarship, service)
- Prepare candidates to demonstrate competence in their respective content area. (scholarship)
- Collaborate with the Rosary College of Arts and Sciences in preparation of candidates. (scholarship)
- Challenge candidates to reflect on their teaching and learning experiences. (scholarship, leadership)
- Provide field and clinical practice experiences that engage candidates in diverse school settings through partnerships and collaboration with K-12 schools. (service)
- Develop partnerships with elementary and secondary school teachers and administrators who serve on the unit's advisory groups. (leadership)
- Seek out and provide service opportunities for candidates within and beyond school communities. (service, leadership)

Teacher Candidate

Proficiencies

The faculty of the School of Education, informed by specialized professional association standards and the Illinois State Board of Education standards, has identified candidate proficiencies that are shared across all of the programs it offers. The proficiencies are linked to the three critical conceptual framework elements of scholarship, leadership, and service. Through courses, field experiences, and clinical practice, candidates develop and demonstrate mastery of these proficiencies. The proficiencies are detailed below:

- Demonstrate competence in their respective content area and/or area of licensure in combination with competence in liberal arts and sciences. (scholarship)
- Engage in reflective practice in their course work and experiences in the field. (scholarship)
- Demonstrate the ability to design, deliver, and interpret the various forms of assessment/evaluation appropriate to their roles in the educational setting. (scholarship)
- Demonstrate knowledge of research-based teaching practices appropriate to their content area and proficiency with a variety of effective instructional methodologies. (scholarship, leadership, service)
- In acknowledgement of the impact of diversity on student learning and behavior, address socio-cultural differences, differentiate and create modifications appropriate for the academic, motivational, behavioral, and interest needs of students. (leadership, service)
- Demonstrate the ability to use technology for administrative and instructional tasks. (leadership, service)
- Demonstrate the ability to plan effective instruction, learning experiences, and school and classroom environments that allow all students to achieve. (scholarship, service)
- Demonstrate leadership in collaborating with colleagues, families, and students in responding to real-life problems in a multicultural society. (leadership, service)

Teacher Candidate

Dispositions

It is expected that through participation in professional education courses and field experiences, teacher candidates will demonstrate the following dispositions that have been identified by the School of Education as consistent with the core values of scholarship, leadership, and service: critical thinking, ethical behavior, commitment to social justice, respect for diversity, acceptance of responsibility, value of community, flexibility, collaboration, reflection, generosity, and professional behavior.

Education

The School of Education offers a major in early childhood education, a major in elementary education, and undergraduate licensure programs in secondary education and kindergarten to 12th grade. The school also offers a five-and-a-half- to six-year combined bachelor's and master's program in special education or early childhood education, as well as an education minor for students who are not seeking licensure.

These programs are grounded in the values of scholarship, leadership, and service. University courses and early field experiences at school sites provide opportunities designed to enable the undergraduate candidate to acquire the requisite knowledge, skills, and dispositions necessary for effective teaching in today's diverse classrooms.

All undergraduate programs meet the licensure requirements of the Illinois State Board of Education. Candidates who plan to teach in other states should consult the licensure requirements for those states and should elect courses within their undergraduate program that meet the special requirements of those states.

Requirements, regulations, and procedures outlined in this bulletin govern teacher licensure programs at Dominican University. Candidates wishing to work toward teacher licensure should study this bulletin and consult with advisors from the School of Education early in their college careers.

The early childhood teacher education program has three basic elements: 1) general education competency studies ensuring that candidates have completed general studies courses and experiences in the liberal arts and sciences and have developed theoretical and practical knowledge; 2) professional and pedagogical studies ensuring that candidates acquire and apply the professional and pedagogical knowledge and skills to become competent to work with all students; 3) clinical and field experience ensuring that candidates learn to integrate general knowledge, academic content, and professional knowledge to create excellent learning experiences for all children.

The undergraduate teacher education programs have four basic elements: 1) general education competency studies ensuring that candidates have completed general studies courses and experiences in the liberal arts and sciences and have developed theoretical and practical knowledge; 2) an academic major selected from one of the university's departments ensuring that candidates attain competence in the academic content that they plan to teach; 3) professional and pedagogical studies ensuring that candidates acquire and apply the professional and pedagogical knowledge and skills to become competent to work with all students; 4) clinical and field experiences ensuring that candidates learn to integrate general knowledge, academic content and professional knowledge to create excellent learning experiences for all children and young people.

Admission to the Teacher Education Program

The first step for moving forward in the teacher education program is to submit your completed teacher education program application by following the steps below.

The following criteria must be met for acceptance into the Teacher Education Program:

- Pass EDUC 200/ECED 200 (or equivalent course) with a grade of C or better
- Achieve a cumulative GPA of at least 2.75
- Receive a score of at least 22 on the ACT Plus Writing, a composite score of 1030 on the SAT critical reading and mathematics, or pass the Illinois Test of Academic Achievement (TAP).
- Be free of a felony sex or drug conviction.
- Complete and pass the FBI and State of Illinois Fingerprint and Background Check process. (Information on this process and the forms that need to be used for this process, as well as the steps for applying to the Teacher Education Program, can be found on the School of Education website.)

Transfer Students

Undergraduate students may enter the licensure programs by transferring specific credits from a two-year or four-year approved institution. Each program specifies courses that must be taken at Dominican. See the program descriptions below for more information. Transfer students are urged to pass the Illinois Licensure Testing System's Test of Academic Proficiency prior to coming to Dominican if they did not receive a 22 or higher on the ACT Plus Writing or a 1030 on the SAT. Transfer students are also encouraged to meet with an education advisor prior to their first registration at Dominican to review program and course requirements.

Continuation in the Teacher Education Program

The following criteria are required in order to continue as a candidate in the Teacher Education Program:

- A cumulative GPA of 2.75, as well as a GPA of 2.75 in professional education courses and in courses presented for the major
- A minimum grade of C in all courses presented for licensure (see the Teacher Education Program Manual for a complete list of courses)
- Acceptable dispositions ratings

A candidate who does not meet the above requirements is subject to the School of Education's candidate intervention/remediation process. As part of that process, candidates and their advisors will develop an intervention/remediation plan for the candidate. The plan is designed to support candidates in addressing the criteria above that are not satisfied. If the plan is not successfully met, the candidate may be withdrawn from the program.

Admission to Clinical Practice

Clinical practice is the culminating experience of the licensure program. Candidates must apply to the School of Education and be formally accepted for clinical practice. Acceptance into clinical practice is determined on the basis of the candidate's written application and the criteria listed below. The clinical practice application review committee reviews application materials and makes decisions regarding acceptance into clinical practice.

The criteria for acceptance are:

- Evidence that all education courses up to clinical practice will be completed prior to the beginning of the clinical practice semester
- Minimum grade of C in all courses presented for licensure
- Evidence of a passing score on the appropriate state content test by the time of application
- Documentation that 100 clock hours of field experience will be completed no later than the semester prior to clinical practice
- Cumulative education and major GPA of 2.75
- Approval of the candidate's education advisor, and for secondary candidates, the academic advisor
- Dominican University background check
- Successful completion of the Student Teaching Application

These criteria must be met by the time of application to clinical practice, which is the beginning of the semester prior to clinical practice.

Policy on Background Investigations

The School of Education at Dominican University is committed to the protection of all children and young people. To that end, it seeks to work with school districts and civic communities to make schools a safe environment for the student body. All candidates for licensure are required to submit to a national, state, and local criminal background investigation. Students and candidates may not participate in field experience until a background investigation is on file in the Office of Field Experience.

Licensure Requirements

To be recommended for Illinois State Board of Education licensure, candidates must complete an approved program, pass the required state tests, and demonstrate the professional knowledge, skills, and dispositions identified by the School of Education. In addition, the candidate must meet any other requirements specified by the Illinois State Board of Education. In some cases, the Illinois State Board of Education may enact new rules or legislation that result in changes in licensure requirements. Should changes occur, the School of Education is bound to adhere to the new regulations. As a result, candidates may be required to meet new requirements other than those that are identified in this bulletin, online, or other School of Education publications at the time they began their program of study at Dominican.

Due to changes at the state level, with respect to middle school endorsement and licensure, any candidate seeking middle school endorsement must complete their degree and licensure coursework by September 1, 2017. After this point, the state will no longer issue middle grade endorsements on elementary or secondary licenses.

Illinois Licensure Testing System Requirement

Candidates seeking licensure in the State of Illinois must pass a series of tests administered by the Illinois Licensure Testing System (ILTS). The first test required for acceptance into the Teacher Education program is the ILTS Test of Academic Proficiency (formerly the Basic Skills test). Students who score 22 or above on the ACT Plus Writing or 1030 and above on the SAT may use their ACT/SAT score in place of the Test of Academic Proficiency. Documentation of the ACT Plus Writing score must be sent to Dominican and to the Illinois State Board of Education. For acceptance into clinical practice, candidates must pass the content area test in which they seek licensure by the time they apply to clinical practice. Candidates must also pass the Assessment of Professional Teaching (APT) test appropriate to their program of study before applying for licensure. This is usually taken during or immediately following clinical practice.

Paper-based tests are administered three to four Saturdays each year at locations throughout the state. Special arrangements will be made to accommodate persons whose religious convictions prohibit their taking tests on the regularly scheduled test administration date. Computer-based tests are administered by appointment through Pearson VUE Centers located throughout the Chicagoland area.

Registration information, study materials, and information about the tests, including information for persons with disabilities requesting accommodations, are available on the Illinois Licensure Testing System's website, www.il.nesinc.com.

Early Childhood Education

Early Childhood Education - B.A.

The Bachelor of Arts degree in early childhood education is designed to prepare candidates for teaching careers in birth-through-third-grade classrooms, with state licensure in early childhood education.

General Education Competencies:

Candidates seeking early childhood state licensure are required to complete Dominican University's core curriculum, as well as to demonstrate competency in physical science.

Professional Education Requirements:

Dominican University requires early field experiences equivalent to 100 clock hours. These experiences must be completed in an early childhood setting (birth through third grade) that includes students of diverse ethnic, racial, and cultural backgrounds, as well as students with exceptionalities.

Major Requirements:

Required Courses:

- ECED 200 - Foundations of Education
- ECED 300 - Child Growth and Development
- ECED 301 - History and Philosophy of Early Childhood Education
- ECED 303 - Child, Family, and Community Relations
- ECED 381 - Methods of Teaching Reading for the Young Child
- ECED 382 - Instructional Methods of Curriculum and Organization in the Early Childhood Classroom
- ECED 384 - Techniques and Methodologies in the Early Childhood Education Classroom
- ECED 386 - Early Childhood Speech and Language
- ECED 430 - Early Childhood Education Assessment
- ECED 494 - Clinical Practice in Early Childhood Education
- ECED 495 - Clinical Practice Seminar in Early Childhood Education
- SEDU 322 - Exceptional Students: Characteristics and the Special Education Process
- SEDU 356 - Collaboration and Adaptation in General Education Settings

Additional Requirements:

Courses taken prior to 2003 are accepted only with special permission from the faculty of the School of Education.

In addition, a field of study consisting of 18 semester hours in art, English, fine arts, foreign language, history, humanities, mathematics, psychology, science, social sciences, sociology, or theatre arts is required. All of these requirements must be completed with a minimum grade of C.

Early Childhood Education - B.A./M.S.Ed. or B.S./M.S.Ed.

Program Requirements:

Undergraduate students interested in becoming licensed early childhood teachers have the option of applying for the combined BA/MSEd or BS/MSEd. This program allows candidates to obtain a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree and a Master of Science in Education degree with licensure in early childhood education in approximately five years. Candidates complete a BA or a BS program in a state-approved undergraduate major and begin the graduate program in early childhood education the semester after graduation from the undergraduate program.

As undergraduates, candidates must complete EDUC 200 or be accepted into the undergraduate teacher education program. Candidates must also take ECED 300, ECED 301, and ECED 386 as part of their undergraduate program. Candidates apply for the combined BA/MSEd or BS/MSEd program no later than the second semester of their junior year. Once accepted into the combined program, candidates are eligible to take two graduate-level courses in the MSEd early childhood program during their senior year. The remainder of the program is completed following graduation from the undergraduate college.

For more information on this program, contact the director of the graduate and undergraduate early childhood education programs.

Early Childhood Education Courses

ECED 200 - Foundations of Education

This course introduces candidates to the world of professional education. Candidates come away with an initial understanding of the foundations of education: sociological, economic, legal, governance, and financial, and their influence on teaching today. This general survey course is designed to help them make an informed decision about whether to continue in teacher preparation. Fifteen field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

ECED 300 - Child Growth and Development

The purpose of the course is to serve as a comprehensive introduction to the principles and basic concepts of typical and atypical child growth and development. The course integrates the physical, cognitive, and social dimensions of a child's life from prenatal development through pubescence. Special emphasis is given to the growth and development of young children aged birth through eight years. Candidates apply theory to practice through 25 field experience hours. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200 and admission to the Teacher Education Program.

ECED 301 - History and Philosophy of Early Childhood Education

In this course, candidates focus on the historical and philosophical aspects of early childhood education and special education as related to contemporary society. Candidates study key individuals, movements, and curricula, and apply a multicultural and inclusive approach to the study of both formal and informal education of all young children. Candidates apply theory to practice through 10 clinical hours. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200 and admission to the Teacher Education Program.

ECED 303 - Child, Family, and Community Relations

The purpose of this course is to assist candidates in developing the necessary skills to work cooperatively with families and community members. This starts with the understanding that all young children are fully functioning members of a diverse and multicultural school, family, and community. In this case, candidates gain insight into family perspectives and experiences by examining the social, economic, legislative, and technological impacts on children and families, including families of children with special needs. They evaluate existing support services and service delivery models in the school and community with respect to diversity, exceptionality, and family health and well-being with a particular emphasis on strategies to promote and ensure effective communication, collaboration, and consultation between home, school, and community. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance to the Teacher Education Program or education minor.

ECED 381 - Methods of Teaching Reading for the Young Child

In this course, candidates focus on the developmentally appropriate instructional methods and materials for promoting and teaching reading and literacy in diverse and inclusive early childhood settings. Recent research, philosophical and theoretical views and issues related to emergent literacy, and quality children's literature are explored. Candidates examine procedures for planning, organizing, and interpreting various methodologies and environments for all young children in the pre-primary and primary early childhood classrooms. Additionally, the selection and implementation of curricular modifications for exceptional children are covered. Candidates apply theory to practice through 25 clinical hours. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, ECED 300 or ECED 301, and admission to the Teacher Education Program.

ECED 382 - Instructional Methods of Curriculum and Organization in the Early Childhood Classroom

In this course, candidates focus on the developmentally appropriate instructional methods and materials for teaching the creative and expressive arts in diverse and inclusive early childhood settings. Areas such as music, movement, storytelling, creative writing, poetry, and art are considered. Candidates examine procedures for planning, organizing, and interpreting various methodologies and environments for all young children in the pre-primary and primary early childhood classrooms. Additionally, the selection and implementation of curricular modifications for exceptional children are covered. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, ECED 300 or ECED 301, and admission to the Teacher Education Program.

ECED 383 - Theory of Play

In this course, candidates focus on the theoretical and methodological aspects of play and its effect on a child's physical, cognitive, social and emotional development. Course content emphasizes the importance of children's play, identifies how play environments are organized in diverse and inclusive early childhood settings, and illustrates how play is used to promote learning. Candidates examine procedures for planning, organizing and interpreting various methodologies and environments for all young children in the pre-primary and primary early childhood classrooms. Additionally, candidates explore the selection and implementation of curricular modifications for exceptional children. (3 hours)

ECED 384 - Techniques and Methodologies in the Early Childhood Education Classroom

In this course, candidates focus on the developmentally appropriate instructional methods and materials for teaching mathematics, science, and social studies in diverse and inclusive early childhood settings. Candidates examine procedures for planning, organizing, and interpreting various methodologies and environments for all young children in the pre-primary and primary early childhood classrooms. Additionally, the selection and implementation of curricular modifications for exceptional children are covered. Candidates apply theory to practice through 10 clinical hours. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, ECED 300 or ECED 301, and admission to the Teacher Education Program.

ECED 386 - Early Childhood Speech and Language

In this course, candidates study various theories and stages of typical and atypical speech and language development at the early childhood level. As a result of demonstrations and observations, candidates familiarize themselves with speech and language screening and diagnostic processes for young children. They also explore a variety of direct and indirect language stimulation techniques and learn how to create an environment that supports language acquisition for all young children. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200 and admission to the Teacher Education Program.

ECED 430 - Early Childhood Education Assessment

In this course, candidates address specific assessment techniques for use with all young children from birth through third grade, including young children with disabilities. The course emphasizes formal and informal techniques and strategies needed for making decisions regarding individual and group development, diagnosis and placement, learning, curricula, and instructional approaches and modifications appropriate for all young children and their families. Candidates examine specific formal, diagnostic instruments and interpret data from case studies, as well as explore considerations unique to the assessment of young children. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, ECED 300 or ECED 301, and admission to the Teacher Education Program.

ECED 494 - Clinical Practice in Early Childhood Education

The purpose of this clinical experience is to assist the candidates in applying their theoretical and methodological knowledge and skills to the diverse and multicultural early childhood classroom. During clinical practice candidates engage in a full-time guided teaching experience in an early childhood classroom, with the cooperation and supervision of a mentor teacher and a university field supervisor. Clinical practice consists of the candidate observing the students, the environment, and the cooperating teacher, as well as being responsible for the developmentally appropriate instruction of students individually, in small groups, and as a whole class. Candidates in this course are concurrently enrolled in the early childhood clinical practice seminar. (10 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to clinical practice.

ECED 495 - Clinical Practice Seminar in Early Childhood Education

The purpose of this weekly seminar is to encourage candidates to collegially discuss the demands, challenges, and rewards of clinical experience in early childhood education. Candidates discuss experiences and explore ways to continue meeting student needs. This seminar also serves as a platform for bridging the candidate's university experience to the early childhood profession. Candidates explore job search and employment, continued professional development, promoting positive change in educational contexts, professional organizations, and professional advocacy. To demonstrate this bridging, candidates complete their professional portfolios, which align with Illinois State Standards. Candidates in this course are concurrently enrolled in the early childhood clinical practice. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to clinical practice.

Elementary, Secondary, K-12 Education

Education Minor

The School of Education's 18-credit-hour undergraduate minor in education is designed for students interested in education and education policy issues but not necessarily interested in pursuing teaching licensure. The program incorporates a set of courses in social foundations of education and an engaged learning field experience to provide students with a sophisticated understanding of the historical, cultural and social contexts of education both domestically and internationally.

The purpose of the education minor is to provide undergraduates of any major the opportunity to develop their understanding of current educational practices and the complex interactions among the legal, social, political, and economic forces that influence and shape educational policies in America, to consider options for a career in education, and to become better consumers of educational services as parents, taxpayers, and citizens.

All students completing the minor will meet a set of learning outcomes relevant to the knowledge, skills, values and dispositions that emanate from the Dominican University Vision for Undergraduate Learning Statement. In addition, the course work is aligned with the School of Education's Conceptual Framework, which addresses the ethical behaviors required to demonstrate how teachers as scholars, leaders, and moral agents interact with their constituents in the role of educator.

Goals and Learning Outcomes

Students from any major are invited to pursue a minor in education (18 credit hours), which is created with a sequence of coursework that includes foundational courses as well as elective courses, including opportunities for hands-on learning experiences in educational settings. Students pursuing the minor will learn about current educational systems today (accountability, choice, charters, high-stakes testing, educational disparities, etc.) and their relationships to other social systems. Through this education minor, students will gain a broad and comprehensive understanding of the educational world around them.

Students pursuing the education minor may select from a variety of courses that may focus on a particular interest or may sample across aspects of the curriculum. Specific areas of interest that are reflected in the course offerings include, but are not limited to: special education, literacy and language, curriculum and teaching strategies, educational research, and educational topics.

Learning Outcomes

Upon completing the minor, students will be able to:

- examine the historical and philosophical origins of educational policies and practices and articulate how history and philosophy shape current and future educational policies and practices
- analyze issues and practices in today's educational systems and understand their relationships to other social systems
- demonstrate knowledge of major global issues and intercultural understanding related to education

- understand and analyze how race, class, ethnicity, ability, religion, and culture intersect with educational issues, in order to use this understanding in dialogue with others
- plan learning experiences to accommodate student diversity (e.g., cultural, racial, and social diversity) in and outside of classrooms

Course Offerings

All education minors complete one of two introductory courses and then choose five additional courses. There are courses that focus primarily on the social foundations of education, some of which include a "promising practices" component, which affords students the opportunity to experience hands-on learning opportunities in partnering schools and other educational settings. There are also courses that focus primarily on understanding educational practice. The common theme of learning about educational systems today is embedded in all of the coursework and woven throughout the menu of electives.

Requirements

Eighteen credit hours, including

Philosophy of Education

Choose one of the following two courses:

- EDUC 310 - History and Philosophy of Education
- ECED 301 - History and Philosophy of Early Childhood Education

Additional Courses

Choose five additional courses (15 hours) from the following:

Foundations:

- ECED 300 - Child Growth and Development
- ECED 303 - Child, Family, and Community Relations
- EDUC 220 - Psychology and Foundations of Learning
- EDUC 305 - School and Society
- EDUC 364 - Children's Literature
- EDUC 386 - Diversity, Language, and Culture
- EDUC 416 - Foundations of Language Minority Education

Practice:

- ECED 383 - Theory of Play
- EDUC 353 - Instructional Technology
- EDUC 362 - Content Area Reading
- EDUC 420 - Practicum

- SEDU 356 - Collaboration and Adaptation in General Education Settings

Additional Requirements

A minimum of 12 credit hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

All courses must be completed with a minimum grade of "C".

The minor requires a minimum GPA of 2.75.

Elementary Education - B.A.

The major in elementary education prepares students for teaching children in regular education classrooms, grades 1 through 6. The major requirements for the elementary program include foundational and professional courses. Foundational courses focus on building understanding in areas such as child growth and development, learning theory, diversity from multiple lenses, and educational philosophy. Professional courses are designed to integrate the subject matter of the elementary classroom that includes reading and writing, language arts and literature, mathematics, science, social studies, health, physical education, and the fine arts. The professional courses provide a solid foundation in learning specific methods of teaching unique to each subject matter and the development of materials and resources needed to implement lessons and units of study.

Dominican University teacher candidates who major in elementary education will have the unique opportunity to experience a comprehensive clinically-based program that includes the liberal arts and sciences core curriculum, foundational courses within the School of Education, and extensive supervised clinically-based courses that focus on the development of practices essential to beginning teachers.

Upon entering the undergraduate BA degree program, students take the university general education core curriculum requirements that develop a broad liberal arts and sciences education, with an introduction to elementary education in a foundational education course (EDUC 220) and a philosophy of education course (EDUC 310). After completing the first year of coursework, students in good standing who meet requirements for acceptance into the Teacher Education Program can matriculate into the elementary education program with candidacy and begin intensive licensure program coursework and fieldwork.

Major Requirements

Required Courses:

Education coursework including fieldwork and student teaching (48 credit hours):

- EDUC 220 - Psychology and Foundations of Learning
- EDUC 310 - History and Philosophy of Education
- EDUC 386 - Diversity, Language, and Culture
- SEDU 322 - Exceptional Students: Characteristics and the Special Education Process
- SEDU 356 - Collaboration and Adaptation in General Education Settings

- EDUC 373 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Reading and Writing in the Elementary Classroom
- EDUC 374 - Content Area Literacy
- EDUC 375 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Social Sciences in the Elementary Classroom
- EDUC 376 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Math in the Elementary Classroom
- EDUC 377 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Science in the Elementary Classroom
- EDUC 378 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Health and Physical Education in the Elementary Classroom
- EDUC 379 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Fine Arts and Music in the Elementary Classroom
- EDUC 411 - Methods and Materials for Teaching English as a Second Language
- EDUC 416 - Foundations of Language Minority Education
- EDUC 488 - Student Teaching in the Elementary Classroom
- EDUC 488 - Student Teaching in the Elementary Classroom Seminar

Optional Courses

The following optional courses provide first- and second-year students additional support in meeting academic requirements for the program:

- EDUC 090 - Skill Building for Academic Proficiency Professional Educators I
- EDUC 091 - Skill Building for Academic Proficiency Professional Educators II

Core Content Coursework:

The following core content courses are required to meet state licensure standards (36 credit hours total):

Complete the following courses:

- ENGL 101 - Composition I: Writing as Discovery and Action
- ENGL 102 - Composition II: Writing as a Way of Knowing
- EDUC 364 - Children's Literature
- HIST 201 - A History of Globalization including a 1-hour course intensification that covers the history, geography, economics, and political theory of Illinois.

Early or modern American history selective-choose one of the following six courses:

- HIST 143 - History of the American People to 1877
- HIST 144 - History of the American People From 1877

- HIST 221 - American Encounters: The Colonial Age
- HIST 222 - Building a Nation: The U.S. From Revolution to Reconstruction
- HIST 223 - Changing America: The Gilded Age Through the New Deal
- HIST 224 - The American Century, 1940-1990

Complete the following four courses:

- MATH 130 - College Algebra
- MATH 165 - Foundations of Mathematics for the Elementary Teacher
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics
- POSC 170 - American Government

Complete the following two science courses, one of which must have a lab:

- one 3- or 4-credit biological science course
- one 3- or 4-credit physical science course

Additional Requirements:

All course for the major, including core content courses, must be completed with a grade of C or higher.

Optional Pathways

Students in the elementary education program have the option to complete a minor or an endorsement program in one of the following four high-need areas:

Reading Education

The elementary education program enables each candidate to complete three courses toward the Reading Teacher endorsement as a pathway for the full completion of the Reading Teacher endorsement. Candidates can choose to complete the remaining required classes as undergraduate electives or can complete them upon graduation.

Required course for the Reading Teacher endorsement (24 hours):

- EDUC 364 - Children's Literature*
- EDUC 373 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Reading and Writing in the Elementary Classroom*
- EDUC 374 - Content Area Literacy*
- EDU 541 - Developmental and Remedial Materials and Resources
- EDU 542 - Developmental and Remedial Instruction and Support
- EDU 661 - Literacy Development for English Language Learners
- EDU 537 - Assessment and Diagnosis in Reading
- EDU 555 - Reading Clinic

Courses required for and completed in the Elementary Education Program*

Special Education

The elementary education program enables candidates to complete one course (SEDU 322 - Exceptional Students: Characteristics and the Special Education Process) toward the Learning Behavior Specialist I endorsement. Five additional courses are required for the LBS I endorsement. Candidates can choose to complete the subsequent required classes as undergraduate electives or can choose to complete them upon graduation. The following sequence of courses are required for a candidate to earn an LBS I endorsement:

Required Courses for the LBS1 Endorsement (19 hours):

- SEDU 322 - Exceptional Students: Characteristics and the Special Education Process*
- SPED 526: Psycho-Educational Diagnosis (Ages 3 to 21) (4 hours)
- SPED 649: Psychology and Characteristics of Students with Disabilities (3 hours)
- SPED 654: Academic Methods for Early Childhood-Elementary Level Students with Disabilities (3 hours)
- SPED 659: Managing Challenging Behavior (3 hours)
- SPED 664: Curriculum and Methods for Students with Moderate to Severe Disabilities (3 hours)

completed as part of the elementary education program*

English Language Learners

The elementary education program enables each candidate to complete three courses toward the bilingual/ESL endorsement (indicated below) as a pathway toward completion of the bilingual and/or ESL endorsement. Candidates can choose to complete the subsequent three required classes as undergraduate electives or can choose to complete them upon graduation.

The following sequence of six courses are required for a candidate to earn her/his bilingual and/or ESL endorsement. A bilingual candidate also must successfully pass the Target Language Proficiency (TLP) test.

Required Courses for the Bilingual Endorsement (18 semester hours):

- EDUC 386 - Diversity, Language, and Culture **
- EDUC 411 - Methods and Materials for Teaching English as a Second Language *
- EDUC 416 - Foundations of Language Minority Education *
- EDUC 412 - Methods and Materials for Teaching in Bilingual Classrooms
- EDUC 413 - Assessment of ELL Students
- Either EDUC 415 - Linguistics or EDUC 417 - Literacy Development for ELL Students

Courses required in the elementary education program*

Required Courses for the English as a Second Language Endorsement (18 semester hours):

- EDUC 386 - Diversity, Language, and Culture **

- EDUC 411 - Methods and Materials for Teaching English as a Second Language *
- EDUC 416 - Foundations of Language Minority Education *
- EDUC 413 - Assessment of ELL Students
- EDUC 415 - Linguistics
- Either EDUC 412 - Methods and Materials for Teaching in Bilingual Classrooms or EDUC 417 - Literacy Development for ELL Students as a selective.

*Courses required in the Elementary Education Program

Course is required in the elementary education program. EDUC 386 Diversity, Language, and Culture is also offered as a summer global course in which students travel abroad and work with ESL education in developing countries.

Mathematics Education

The elementary education program enables each candidate to complete one course toward the courses required for a mathematics endorsement. Candidates can choose to complete six additional math courses (beyond what is required for the major) to earn a mathematics endorsement; the courses also satisfy the requirements for a mathematics minor.

Required Courses for the Mathematics Minor and Endorsement (24 semester hours):

- MATH 165 MATH 165 - Foundations of Mathematics for the Elementary Teacher *
- MATH 230 - Linear Algebra
- MATH 245 - Introduction to Proof Techniques
- Either MATH 251 - Calculus of Transcendental Functions or MATH 261 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus I
- MATH 262 - Analytic Geometry and Calculus II
- MATH 311 - Probability and Statistics I
- MATH 330 - Modern Geometry

completed as part of the elementary education program*

Secondary Education Licensure

Dominican has Illinois state-approved teacher preparation programs in the following areas: biology, chemistry, English, history, and mathematics.

Teacher preparation for secondary licensure requires course work in four specific areas.

1. General Education Competencies

The foundation requirements and core curriculum requirements of the university meet this requirement. All of these requirements must be completed with a minimum grade of C.

2. Content Studies

A major in one of the academic disciplines named above.

3. Pedagogical and Professional Studies

A series of professional education courses that focus on the development of pedagogical and professional knowledge to prepare candidates to teach in middle and secondary schools.

4. Field Experiences and Clinical Practice

Dominican requires early field experiences equivalent to 100 clock hours. These experiences must be completed in a variety of school settings providing the candidate with an exposure to different grade levels and teaching styles, as well as to students of diverse ethnic, racial, and cultural backgrounds and students with exceptionalities. At the end of their program of study, candidates participate in a semester-long clinical practice experience.

Professional Education Requirements:

Dominican requires early field experiences equivalent to 100 clock hours. These experiences must be completed in a variety of school settings, providing the candidate with an exposure to different grade levels, teaching styles, and subject areas, as well as to students of diverse ethnic, racial, and cultural backgrounds and students with exceptionalities.

Required Courses:

- EDUC 220 - Psychology and Foundations of Learning
- EDUC 310 - History and Philosophy of Education
- EDUC 315 - Classroom Assessment
- EDUC 320 - Educational Psychology
- EDUC 353 - Instructional Technology
- EDUC 362 - Content Area Reading
- EDUC 386 - Diversity, Language, and Culture

Complete one of the following courses, depending on the area of licensure:

- EDUC 400 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Science in Middle and Secondary Schools
- EDUC 401 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching English in Middle and Secondary Schools
- EDUC 402 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Art in the K-12 Classroom
- EDUC 403 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Mathematics in Middle and Secondary Schools
- EDUC 404 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Modern Foreign Language in the K-12 Classroom
- EDUC 406 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Social Studies in Middle and Secondary Schools

Complete the following courses:

- EDUC 491 - Clinical Practice Seminar: Middle and Secondary

- EDUC 496 - Clinical Practice: Middle and Secondary
- SEDU 322 - Exceptional Students: Characteristics and the Special Education Process
- SEDU 356 - Collaboration and Adaptation in General Education Settings

Additional Requirements:

- Courses taken prior to 2005 are accepted only with special permission from the faculty of the School of Education. All professional education requirements must be fulfilled prior to clinical practice. The grading scale for all courses is A-F. EDUC 496 - Clinical Practice: Middle and Secondary is graded on a satisfactory/fail scale.
- Courses for secondary licensure must be completed in a prespecified sequence that is determined by the candidate's major. Candidates should meet with their education advisor and their major advisor early in their college careers to plan their course of study.

Major Requirements and Endorsements

The State of Illinois requires a major in a given field to teach a content area at the secondary level. In some content areas, specific coursework and/or assessments are required. See the list below for the specific requirements for each content area. Endorsements/approvals are required to teach additional subjects. Information regarding adding endorsements or approvals to a candidate's certificate may be obtained from his or her education advisor or from the licensure officer.

- Biology – Complete the biology major as described in the biology section of this bulletin
- Chemistry – Complete the chemistry major as described in the chemistry section of this bulletin plus one additional course in biology
- English – Complete the English education requirements as described in the English section of this bulletin
- History - Complete the history major as described in the history section of this bulletin plus complete ECON 190, POSC 170, POSC 140 or POSC 150, SOC 110, and GEOG 250 or GEOG 320. Candidates in history must complete exit exams in economics, history, political science, and sociology. These must be completed prior to clinical practice.
- Mathematics – Complete the math major as described in the mathematics section of this bulletin plus MATH 330. Candidates are also encouraged to take MATH 312.

Special Certificate (Grades K-12)

Programs for Special Certificates (grades K-12) are available for visual arts and modern foreign language majors (French, Italian, Spanish). Instructional strategies and clinical practice on both the elementary and secondary levels are required for this certificate. Otherwise, all requirements are the same as those listed under secondary education.

Courses for K-12 licensure must be completed in a prespecified sequence, which is determined by the candidate's major. Candidates should meet with their education advisor and their major advisor early in their college careers to plan their course of study. In terms of the major requirement, specific coursework and/or assessments are required for some majors. See the list below for the specific requirements for each content area.

- Art – Complete one of the art and design majors plus ART 206, ART 260, and ART 270.
- French, Italian, or Spanish – Complete the major as described in the French, Italian, or Spanish section of this bulletin and complete three assessments: 1) Cultures, Literatures, and Cross-Disciplinary Concepts assessment, 2) Linguistic Terms Analysis and Presentation, and 3) the Oral Proficiency Interview (Students must score at the advanced low level)

Elementary, Secondary, K-12 Education Courses

EDUC 090 - Skill Building for Academic Proficiency Professional Educators I

Strategies to help students develop skills and utilize resources that will lead to success in academic proficiency and in the Bachelor of Arts in Elementary Education program. This course is designed for students who score below required Test of Academic Proficiency score or below 22 on the ACT Plus Writing. Should be taken in the first semester of the freshman year. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Open to first-year students in the School of Education.

EDUC 091 - Skill Building for Academic Proficiency Professional Educators II

A continuation of Skill Building for Academic Proficiency for Professional Educators I which helps students develop skills and utilize resources that will lead to success in academic proficiency and in the Bachelor of Arts in Elementary Education program. This course is designed for students who score below required Test of Academic Proficiency score or below 22 on the ACT Plus Writing. Should be taken in the second semester of the freshman year. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Open to first-year students in the School of Education.

EDUC 200 - Foundations of Education

This course introduces candidates to the world of professional education. Students come away with an initial understanding of the foundations of education: sociological, economic, legal, governance, and financial, and their influence on teaching today. This general survey course is designed to help them make an informed decision about whether to continue in teacher preparation. Fifteen field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

EDUC 220 - Psychology and Foundations of Learning

Introductory and cross-disciplinary examination of theories and research in the psychology of human learning, development, and motivation. Major content areas include: human development and diversity; learning theory (behavioral, cognitive, individual and social constructive); motivation (behavioral, cognitive, and socio-emotional); classroom management and classroom community; learning styles and modes, multiple intelligences. Fieldwork required. (3 hours)

EDUC 305 - School and Society

This course examines the sociological impact and history of education in the United States along with the locations and institutions of schooling within our society. Students examine how public and non-public schools are organized and operate and explore factors impacting student success and assumptions about access and equity. Topics include: historical and sociological implications for formal and informal as well as structured and unstructured education; analysis of the school as a specific social institution in society; the effects of social class, stratification, caste, role, status and peer group relationships in education. (3 hours)

EDUC 310 - History and Philosophy of Education

Focuses upon the historical and philosophical roots of our educational system and its place in the social, economic, legal, political, and cultural milieu of America. (3 hours)

Listed also as AMST 311.

EDUC 315 - Classroom Assessment

This course focuses on assessment as a means of supporting the continuous development of all students in 6-12 classrooms. Assessment strategies will be examined as they relate to the instructional process. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, EDUC 310, and EDUC 320 and acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 320 - Educational Psychology

In this course candidates explore the theoretical basis for teaching and learning in kindergarten through 12th grade classrooms. While the course is theoretical in nature, candidates also explore the application of theory to classroom practice. Topics addressed include theories of learning; cognitive, social, emotional, and moral development; motivation; classroom management; and individual differences and diversity in learning. A particular focus is placed on the developmental characteristics and the nature and needs of elementary, middle/early adolescent, and secondary learners. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, EDUC 310, and acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 335 - Reading in the Content Areas for Middle Level and Secondary Teachers

In this course, candidates focus on how to facilitate and improve reading, writing, vocabulary, and study skills in the content areas. Candidates investigate research and classroom practice and their applicability to expository text. They examine assessment practices, instructional methods and materials, and media and technology in the content areas. They learn to assist learners with diverse abilities and backgrounds, and analyze content area texts for readability levels and social and cultural perspectives. Candidates collaborate with a classroom teacher in the development of a content area unit and teach one of their lessons to the class. Fieldwork required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program or education minor.

EDUC 353 - Instructional Technology

This course uses a hands-on approach to integrating technology into educational settings. Candidates create instructional tools for meeting the needs of diverse learners and administrative tools for facilitating communications and managing classroom responsibilities. Candidates also explore techniques for enabling K-12 students to use technology for academic purposes. This course also includes evaluation of instructional software and web-based resources, and the effective integration of technology into instructional units. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program or education minor.

EDUC 360 - Reading and Other Language Arts

This course includes a study of K-8 instructional strategies and techniques in literacy development that includes word recognition and vocabulary, reading comprehension, writing, and fluency for K-8 students. It draws upon a research base with an emphasis on application in the classroom. Standards-based lessons, children's literature, use of media and technology, classroom organization for reading, and consideration of diverse student populations are included. Twenty field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, EDUC 310, and acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 362 - Content Area Reading

This course focuses on how to facilitate and improve reading, writing, vocabulary, and study skills in the content areas. Candidates investigate research and classroom practice and their applicability to expository text. They examine assessment practices, instructional methods and materials, and media and technology in the content areas. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, EDUC 310, and acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 364 - Children's Literature

The content includes the interpretation, evaluation, selection, and use of quality children's and young adult literature to enhance and enrich understanding of the human condition, and provide multicultural insight into global cultures and traditions. Assignments will help students develop a broader perspective of global literacy and intercultural understanding with the ability to recognize and deconstruct stereotypes. Significant emphasis will be placed on the ways that the children/young adult literary genre can provide greater insight into the global society and other countries and cultures, while exploring the complexity of youth, identity, and the American culture. (3 hours)

Listed also as ENGL 264

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101

This course will satisfy the literature core area requirement.

EDUC 369 - Mathematics and Science for the Elementary and Middle School Teacher

This course provides candidates with a vision and understanding of elementary and middle school mathematics and science curricula through requirements including writing lesson plans, designing level-appropriate math/science units, strategies and techniques for meeting the needs of diverse learners in a multicultural society, and differentiated instructional approaches in classrooms to accommodate the needs of students with exceptionalities. The curricula reflect the standards of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the National Science Teachers Association, and the Illinois Learning Standards. Fifteen field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200, EDUC 310, EDUC 320, and acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 373 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Reading and Writing in the Elementary Classroom

Candidates focus on current research-based reading and writing instruction at the P-12 levels. Using a balanced perspective, candidates discuss theoretical models and philosophies of reading and writing instruction and their applicability in the classroom setting. Content also includes learning about phonics, phonemic awareness, fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension theories and practice. Candidates explore implementation of the Common Core State Standards using a variety of assessment and instructional practices, including reading and writing strategies (i.e. before, during, after reading both fiction and non-fiction texts), close reading of complex texts from diverse perspectives, multicultural literacy materials, use of technology as a tool for learning, and extensive reading and writing for authentic purposes across subject areas. Appropriate literacy assessments will also be included. Clinically-based course taught on-site in a partner elementary school. 24 hours of fieldwork required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program; sophomore standing or above.

EDUC 374 - Content Area Literacy

Candidates will develop proficiency in implementing instructional strategies and techniques for reading and writing instruction, and learn to facilitate and improve reading, writing, vocabulary, and study skills in the content areas. They examine assessment practices, instructional methods and materials, and media and technology in the content areas. They learn to assist learners with diverse abilities and backgrounds and to analyze content area texts for readability levels and social and cultural perspectives. Candidates collaborate with a classroom teacher in the development and instruction of a content area unit, paying particular attention to the integration of literacy strategies appropriate for the content or subject area. 24 hours of fieldwork required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program or education minor; junior standing or above.

EDUC 375 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Social Sciences in the Elementary Classroom

This course focuses on the methods for teaching social studies, highlighting the challenges of teaching in a diverse society, exploring relevant issues and resources from different perspectives, and engaging students in inquiry opportunities for further exploration of historical and political issues related to social sciences. Clinically-based course taught on-site in a partner elementary school. 24 hours of fieldwork required. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program; junior standing or above.

EDUC 376 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Math in the Elementary Classroom

Candidates learn to effectively teach elementary school mathematics. Drawing on the Common Core State Standards for Mathematics (2010), this course provides candidates with meaningful and practical learning experiences about elementary level math instruction including: teaching diverse students, enhancing school math content and pedagogical knowledge, differentiating instruction, establishing a safe and positive learning environment, employing various strategies to support student mathematical learning and thinking, developing students' academic language, assessing students' mathematical learning, building a collaborative relationships, and being a reflective novice teacher. Clinically-based course taught on-site in a partner elementary school. 24 hours of fieldwork required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program; junior standing or above; successful completion of Appraisal Gateway 2.

EDUC 377 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Science in the Elementary Classroom

Learning opportunities permit students to develop scientific pedagogical content knowledge in order to teach through inquiry thought processes. General knowledge and skills in teaching that were developed in prior coursework will be synthesized and applied to the teaching and learning of science. Some concepts addressed in this course include lesson planning to incorporate into science lessons, STEM and other academic disciplines, writing science objectives in the cognitive, affective, and psychomotor domains, receptive and expressive communication skills needed for reading and writing in the sciences, using informational texts to enhance the learning environment, differentiating instruction and students with special needs, using questioning to develop higher order thinking skills, designing performance assessment strategies that authentically evaluate the learning of scientific processes, promoting collaborative peer relationships, and teaching controversial scientific topics (e.g., evolution, the age of the universe) while respecting students' belief systems. Laboratory safety and management of hands-on science inquiry lessons will be addressed directly and infused within all aspects of the course. Clinically-based course taught on-site in a partner elementary school. 24 hours of fieldwork required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program; junior standing or above; successful completion of Appraisal Gateway 2.

EDUC 378 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Health and Physical Education in the Elementary Classroom

This course focuses on the methods for teaching physical education and health in the elementary classroom. Specific learning experiences related to fundamental motor skills, health-related physical fitness, and wellness will be emphasized. Strategies to integrate these critical skills into content areas and disciplines are also explored. Hands-on experience in a physical education environment is paramount to understanding the role of the physical educator in the field experience. Clinically-based course taught on-site in a partner elementary school. 8 hours of fieldwork required. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program; junior standing or above.

EDUC 379 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Fine Arts and Music in the Elementary Classroom

Appropriate content, methods, and materials for teaching art, dance, music, and drama as part of an integrated curriculum in elementary classrooms are the foundation for this course. Lesson planning, classroom management of activities/materials, creative expression, aesthetic perception, integrating fine arts with other content areas are addressed. Clinically-based course taught on-site in a partner elementary school. 8 hours of fieldwork required. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program; junior standing or above.

EDUC 386 - Diversity, Language, and Culture

This course provides students with information and experiences that support culturally responsive teaching and learning in diverse settings. Teacher candidates examine personal and societal underlying assumptions about democracy, social order, race/ethnicity, class, abilities/exceptionalities, language and power, and gender relations. Using the foundations of intercultural and critical pedagogy, candidates use information learned to plan classroom structures and lessons that are supportive of identity development, diversity, educational equity, social justice, and inclusion. Diversity presents challenges and opportunities that push candidates to further develop the disposition of a responsive educator supportive of respectful educational environments that capitalize on the potential of each individual student. Fieldwork required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program or education minor.

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

EDUC 400 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Science in Middle and Secondary Schools

This course introduces candidates to teaching methodologies, safety issues, assessment techniques, and curricular issues as they pertain to the teaching of science for candidates preparing for initial licensure. Thirty-five field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing; semester prior to clinical practice.

EDUC 401 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching English in Middle and Secondary Schools

This course introduces curriculum content, teaching methodologies, and assessment techniques as they pertain to the teaching of English and language arts for candidates preparing for initial licensure. Thirty-five field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 315 and EDUC 386.

EDUC 402 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Art in the K-12 Classroom

This course introduces curriculum content, teaching methodologies and assessment techniques as they pertain to the teaching of art for candidates preparing for initial licensure. Thirty-five field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 315 and EDUC 386.

EDUC 403 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Mathematics in Middle and Secondary Schools

This course introduces curriculum content, teaching methodologies, and assessment techniques as they pertain to the teaching of mathematics for students preparing for initial licensure. Thirty-five field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 315 and EDUC 386.

EDUC 404 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Modern Foreign Language in the K-12 Classroom

This course introduces curriculum content, teaching methodologies, and assessment techniques as they pertain to the teaching of modern foreign language for candidates preparing for initial licensure. Thirty-five field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing; semester prior to clinical practice.

EDUC 406 - Instructional Strategies for Teaching Social Studies in Middle and Secondary Schools

This course introduces curriculum content, teaching methodologies, and assessment techniques as they pertain to the teaching of social science for candidates preparing for initial licensure. Thirty-five field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing; semester prior to clinical practice.

EDUC 411 - Methods and Materials for Teaching English as a Second Language

In this course, candidates will implement effective instructional methods for teaching English as a Second Language. Classical methods such as Grammar Translation as well as modern methods for teaching English such as Silent Way and TPR will be contrasted. More current approaches to English language teaching will also be examined in this course, as well as a reflection of new insights from research in second language acquisition. An emphasis on content area methods such as SIOP and CALLA will be stressed. A secondary focus on curriculum design and the development of an interdisciplinary curriculum unit will be taught as well. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program

EDUC 412 - Methods and Materials for Teaching in Bilingual Classrooms

In this course, candidates implement effective instructional methods for the development of native language proficiency in the bilingual classroom. Candidates identify, formulate, apply and adapt approaches and methods in order to develop high quality instruction that will enhance bilingual students' cognitive and academic growth in their primary language, including the use of various technology and software programs. Methods that focus on integrating reading, writing, listening, and speaking the target language during each lesson will be stressed. Spanish Language Standards (SLA) from WIDA will be used. Designing bilingual curriculum units will also be required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 413 - Assessment of ELL Students

In this course, candidates analyze a number of issues pertaining to the assessment of English Language Learners. Candidates examine the political context for assessment, including trends in statewide testing and recent changes in federal legislation and study the guidelines for appropriate assessment procedures in the identification and placement of English Language Learners, especially ELL students with special needs. Candidates will implement a variety of classroom-based assessments through a portfolio system. The development of a pre-assessment and post-assessment for a curriculum unit will also be developed and implemented in order to assess value-added data. The analysis of student achievement data using statistics will also be addressed. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 414 - Language and Culture

The candidate understands the diverse characteristics and abilities of each ELL student and how individuals develop and learn within the context of their social, economic, cultural, linguistic, historical and academic experiences. The candidate uses these experiences to create instructional opportunities that maximize ELL student learning as well as to better understand the communities outside of the school. Issues related to diversity, inclusion, equity and equality, tolerance and cultural competency will be addressed extensively. A deeper analysis of an educator's implicit biases, misconceptions and prejudices will be examined in relation to student expectations and achievement. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 415 - Linguistics

In this course, candidates will undertake the scientific study of language through an analysis of phonetics, phonology, syntax, semantics, and pragmatics. Candidates will also better understand their ELL students' use and display of sound-letter correspondence, letter-word formation, word patterns, sentence structure, morphology and discourse levels in the English language. The course also focuses on the history of the English language, the role of dialects and linguistic family trees across the globe. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 416 - Foundations of Language Minority Education

This course provides an introduction to the historical, philosophical, political, social, and scientific issues that have contributed to public policy regarding educational services for English Language Learners. The candidate will begin by examining the neurolinguistic and psycholinguistic models for language acquisition, how language functions in the brain, and how the bilingual brain activates languages. Then a comprehensive focus will be placed on the different types of language education programs in the United States as well as the best research-based practices for English Language Learners in our schools. Historical trends, political policies and legal issues related to language education in the United States as well as foreign countries will also be discussed. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program or education minor.

EDUC 417 - Literacy Development for ELL Students

In this course, candidates will focus on the multiple areas of English language acquisition: phonics, phonetics and phonemic awareness; morphological awareness; vocabulary development and acquisition; word knowledge and acquisition; reading fluency and comprehension; and the products, processes and stages of writing. Candidates will complete a literacy portfolio in which they apply the various literacy techniques, methods and strategies demonstrated in the course. A focus on building academic literacy for English Language Learners will also be emphasized throughout the course. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 420 - Practicum

This course provides a platform for observation, practice, feedback, discussion, and reflection, which are essential skills of an effective teacher. More broadly, the skills from good teaching (being an articulate and confident speaker, a careful listener, an inspiring mentor, a good communicator, and team player) are useful skills that apply to other aspects of a student's professional and personal life. This guided experience takes place in an assigned partnering school or school program. Under the supervision of an assigned faculty instructor and mentor teacher, the candidate engages in many aspects of teaching. Fieldwork required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Education minors.

EDUC 455 - Internship Reading Intervention

This internship aims to provide undergraduate students with experience in personalized instruction, cooperative groups, and theme-related experiences as they tutor children in the Hephzibah Reading Academy at Dominican University. Course work prepares undergraduate students to conduct individual assessments of the children at the beginning and end of the program. Under the guidance of Dominican faculty, veteran teachers, and academy administrators, they plan for individual tutoring. Finally, they prepare an evaluation on a child whom they work with for the Hephzibah Children's Association. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): Consent of the instructor.

EDUC 461 - Content Area Reading, Social Studies, and Assessment

This course includes a study of instructional strategies and techniques for reading, writing, and research in the content areas. Candidates apply these techniques to social studies materials and develop lessons for teaching both content and literacy strategies. Content area trade books, and assessment tools and techniques for diagnosis, instructional planning, and evaluation of achievement are investigated. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 320, EDUC 360, and acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

EDUC 488 - Student Teaching in the Elementary Classroom

This is a full-time classroom teaching experience under supervision by a licensed classroom teacher and university supervisor. During this semester, candidates complete the Education Teacher Performance Assessment (edTPA), a state licensure requirement. Full-time student teaching in a partner elementary school. This course is graded satisfactory/fail. (10 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program; senior standing; successful completion of Appraisal Gateway 3.

EDUC 488 - Student Teaching in the Elementary Classroom Seminar

This seminar meets in conjunction with full-time student teaching in a partner elementary school during the semester in which student teaching is completed. The purpose of the seminar is to provide candidates with an opportunity to examine and discuss the experiences of their student teaching and to connect those experiences to the framework of their academic preparation. Issues relevant to the professional educator are topics of seminar meetings. This seminar is designed to encourage candidates to collegially discuss the demands of teaching at the elementary school level and to explore ways to meet individual student needs. Candidates complete their Education Teaching Performance Assessment (edTPA) during this semester. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission to the Teacher Education Program; senior standing; successful completion of Appraisal Gateway 3.

EDUC 490 - Clinical Practice Seminar: Elementary and Middle

This seminar meets in conjunction with clinical practice during the semester in which clinical practice is completed. The purpose of the seminar is to provide candidates with an opportunity to examine and discuss the experiences of their clinical practice and to connect those experiences to the framework of their academic preparation. Issues relevant to the professional educator are topics of seminar meetings. Course work includes the completion of the professional portfolio. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into clinical practice.

EDUC 491 - Clinical Practice Seminar: Middle and Secondary

This seminar meets in conjunction with clinical practice during the semester in which clinical practice is completed. The purpose of the seminar is to provide candidates with an opportunity to examine and discuss the experiences of their clinical practice and to connect those experiences to the framework of their academic preparation. Issues relevant to the professional educator are topics of seminar meetings. Course work includes the completion of the professional portfolio. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Admission into clinical practice.

EDUC 492 - Clinical Practice: K-12 Modern Foreign Language

This full-time guided experience takes place in assigned elementary, middle, and/or secondary schools for one full semester. The candidate is placed in two different schools in order to gain experience teaching a modern foreign language to students in grades K-12. Under the supervision of mentor teachers, the candidate engages in all aspects of teaching.

This course is taken on a satisfactory/fail basis. (10 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into clinical practice.

EDUC 495 - Clinical Practice: Elementary and Middle

This full-time guided experience takes place in an assigned elementary or middle school for one full semester. Under the supervision of a mentor teacher, the candidate engages in all aspects of teaching. This course is taken on a satisfactory/fail basis. (10 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into clinical practice.

EDUC 496 - Clinical Practice: Middle and Secondary

This full-time guided experience takes place in an assigned middle or secondary school in the candidate's major field for one full semester. Under the supervision of a mentor teacher, the candidate engages in all aspects of teaching. This course is taken on a satisfactory/fail basis. (10 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into clinical practice.

EDUC 497 - Clinical Practice: K-12 Art

This full-time guided experience takes place in assigned elementary, middle, and/or secondary schools for one full semester. The candidate is placed in two different schools in order to gain experience teaching art to students in grades K-12. Under the supervision of mentor teachers, the candidate engages in all aspects of teaching. This course is taken on a satisfactory/fail basis. (10 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into clinical practice.

Special Education

Special Education - B.A./M.S. or B.S./M.S. with Licensure

Program Requirements:

Learning Behavior Specialist I

Undergraduate students interested in becoming certified special education teachers have the opportunity to apply for the combined BA/MS SPED or BS/MS SPED program. This program allows candidates to obtain a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science degree in a chosen major and a Master of Science in Special Education with Type 10 Learning Behavior Specialist I licensure in special education in approximately five-and-one-half to six years. Qualified candidates complete their Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree program with an undergraduate major and begin the graduate program in the semester following their graduation from the undergraduate program. Students interested in the combined BA/MS SPED or BS/MS SPED program may also choose to seek licensure in elementary or secondary education at the undergraduate level or choose to work only toward licensure in special education (completed at the graduate level).

Candidates electing to work only toward licensure in special education during their undergraduate program take EDUC 200, apply for acceptance into the teacher education program, and, if accepted, take the foundational courses in education. They then apply for the combined BA/MS SPED or BS/MS SPED program in their junior year. If accepted, they may enroll in one graduate special education program course each semester of their senior year. The remaining graduate course work is taken in the semesters following their undergraduate graduation. For more information on this program, contact the division chairperson for specialized programs.

Candidates seeking licensure in general education at the undergraduate level and then special education licensure at the graduate level need to complete the requirements for the first licensure program and apply for the BA/MS SPED program in their junior year. They complete the graduate course work in the semesters following their undergraduate graduation.

Special Education

SEDU 322 - Exceptional Students: Characteristics and the Special Education Process

In this course, candidates study the psychology and characteristics of exceptional students from preschool through high school. They learn how to assess services for such students in a variety of school settings. Candidates consider the impact of disabilities on development, learning, and communication processes. A major portion of this course focuses on the special education process including laws, rules, regulations, and procedural safeguards as well as the development of IEPs and behavior management plans. Candidates become familiar with their role in working with exceptional students, their families, and special education service providers. Twenty-five field experience hours are required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 200 and EDUC 320, or ECED 200 and ECED 300; acceptance into the Teacher Education Program.

SEDU 356 - Collaboration and Adaptation in General Education Settings

Candidates examine the importance and process of collaboration with family, classroom teachers, para-educators, and other school and community personnel in integrating individuals with disabilities into various social and learning environments. Candidates study the process of examining the learning environment and classroom demands with consideration of the learning characteristics of students with disabilities, for the purpose of selecting appropriate strategies and materials. Candidates demonstrate scaffolding techniques for modifying instructional methods, curricular materials and the learning environments, state and local assessments, and support of behavior management plans. Specific attention is given to effective co-teaching practices including effective communication, collaboration, co-planning and conflict resolution skills. Fieldwork required. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Teacher Education Program or education minor.

SEDU 465 - Sign Language I

This course provides an introduction to deaf culture; the development, vocabulary, and conversation of sign language; as well as an understanding of American Sign Language grammar. Students will study the history of deaf culture, its values, and actively participate in classroom activities to enhance their ability to communicate using American Sign Language. (3 hours)

SEDU 466 - Sign Language II

This course is a continuation of SEDU 465 - Sign Language I. Students taking Sign Language II are expected to have mastered the grammar and vocabulary covered in Sign Language I. This course will study Deaf culture more in depth. Students will further enhance vocabulary, conversation skills and learn additional American Sign Language grammar. Students will be expected to actively participate in classroom activities to enhance their ability to communicate using American Sign Language. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): SEDU 465

College of Health Sciences

Nursing

Dominican University is rooted in a tradition of commitment to care for body and spirit, a tradition older than the stories of healing in the Gospels, as culturally and religiously diverse as the first-known hospital in 9th century Sri Lanka, as historically and geographically close to home as the numerous health care centers founded by religiously-inspired women and men in the Chicago area. There is a natural confluence of this long tradition of health care with Dominican's own mission of "preparing students to pursue truth, given compassionate service and participate in the creation of a more just and humane world." As such, our mission provides nursing students with a foundation for professional practice that respects the dignity of each and every person, pursuit of the common good, and concern for those most vulnerable.

Nursing - B.S.N.

The Bachelor of Science in Nursing Program provides an educationally robust plan of study that makes students eligible to sit for and prepares students to pass the NCLEX-RN examination and obtain licensure to practice as a registered professional nurse. The program prepares the nurse generalist to practice in a variety of settings, sensitive to culturally diverse understandings of illness, health, and wellness. The graduate of the BSN program is a liberally educated individual who is committed to using her or his talents to make a positive contribution to the world, and has acquired the knowledge and skills to provide humanistic nursing practice in multiple settings as well as a foundation for advanced study in nursing.

Outcomes of the BSN Program

- Demonstrate professional practice that upholds the inherent worth and dignity of individuals, families, and communities, sensitive to their diverse spiritual and cultural needs
- Synthesize knowledge from the humanities, natural and social sciences and nursing as the foundation for critical thinking and decision making
- Employ effective communication skills throughout the scope of professional practice
- Utilize evolving technology to promote quality patient outcomes
- Uses the nursing process to provide consistent, safe, competent patient-centered care
- Consider the complex economic, legal, political and ethical issues affecting the delivery of care in the global and dynamic health care environment
- Assume responsibility and accountability for professional nursing practice
- Demonstrate beginning leadership abilities as a member of an interdisciplinary health care team
- Evaluate and integrate research that supports evidence based nursing practice
- Demonstrate intellectual inquisitiveness and lifelong commitment to learning

Required Courses

- NURS 312 - Foundational Concepts of Nursing Practice
- NURS 313 - Health Assessment and Promotion
- NURS 314 - Adult Nursing 1: Fundamentals
- NURS 322 - Pharmacology in Nursing Practice
- NURS 323 - Evidence Based Practice & Nursing Research
- NURS 324 - Adult Nursing II: Medical-Surgical
- NURS 432 - Community Health Nursing
- NURS 433 - Mental Health Nursing
- NURS 434 - Nursing of the Childbearing Family
- NURS 435 - Nursing of Children & Families
- NURS 444 - Adult Nursing III: Advanced Medical-Surgical
- NURS 445 - Nursing Leadership Dimensions
- NURS 446 - Professional Role Transition Capstone

Nursing Courses

NURS 312 - Foundational Concepts of Nursing Practice

Examines nursing theories, legal and ethical issues, nursing process, and professional development. Historical, political and social influences affecting nursing practice within the changing health care delivery system are explored. Emphasis on evidence-based practice and informatics to enhance communication, documentation, and safe patient-centered care. Identifies own learning styles. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

NURS 313 - Health Assessment and Promotion

Utilizes concepts from the liberal arts and sciences to provide holistic health assessment across the lifespan. Emphasis is placed on the development of leadership skills in clinical judgment, diagnostic reasoning, and critical inquiry for the safe provision of quality care across populations. Practices documents on electronic medical record. (3 hours)

NURS 314 - Adult Nursing 1: Fundamentals

Focuses on holistic care of adults, older adults, and their families in acute medical-surgical settings as they adapt to changes in the health/illness spectrum. Students integrate theoretical concepts with the best nursing evidence within the framework of critical thinking and caring to foster growth in knowledge and competencies. Professional roles of the nurse, critical thinking, and ethical issues are explored as students provide safe and quality care. Clinical experience takes place in the simulation laboratory and a variety of medical-surgical settings. (6 hours)

NURS 322 - Pharmacology in Nursing Practice

Introduces basic principles of drug action and nursing implications within the framework of the nursing process. Specific drugs and the pharmacologic effects of drugs on the body are discussed. Develops the knowledge, skills, and attitudes necessary for the safe and accountable administration of medications across the lifespan. Emphasis is placed on accurate dosage calculations, proper administration techniques, and documentation for safe and accountable medication administration. (3 hours)

NURS 323 - Evidence Based Practice & Nursing Research

Application of principles of the research process and evidence-based practice to provide safe quality care. Competency in database search strategies and critical appraisal of evidence for quality care practices are emphasized. Legal, ethical, and regulatory issues are identified and analyzed for application to practice. (3 hours)

NURS 324 - Adult Nursing II: Medical-Surgical

Focus is on holistic, family-centered care of adults and older adults experiencing acute and chronic primarily medical conditions involving multiple body systems. Integration of theoretical concepts and best evidence is used to promote sound clinical reasoning and clinical judgement to inform nursing practice. Student clinical experiences takes place in the simulation laboratory and in acute care settings with the goal of providing safe, quality, and multi-dimensional care for diverse adult and older adult populations. (6 hours)

NURS 432 - Community Health Nursing

Focuses on clinical prevention and health promotion of population health through the application of best evidence for community health nursing practice. The impact of global healthcare trends, political decisions, and financial and regulatory systems on health outcomes is examined. Clinical experiences in a variety of community settings. Course fee applies. (4 hours)

NURS 433 - Mental Health Nursing

Application of psychiatric mental health nursing concepts to holistic care for clients age 18 through older adulthood. Theoretical content includes bio-psychosocial theories, interpersonal relationship theory, psychoanalytic and psychodynamic theories, as well as, cognitive, behavioral, and biological theories. Legal, ethical, and critical thinking concepts specific to psychiatric mental health nursing are covered. Clinical experiences are designed to facilitate the students' synthesis of classroom material, individualized application of psychiatric concepts, and establishment of therapeutic relationships in a variety of settings. (4 hours)

NURS 434 - Nursing of the Childbearing Family

Focuses on the application of professional nursing concepts related to holistic care of the childbearing family and their neonate. Theoretical content includes physiological, pathophysiological, sociocultural, and ethical concepts. Student clinical experiences take place in the simulation laboratory and variety of obstetrical settings. (4 hours)

NURS 435 - Nursing of Children & Families

Application of professional nursing concepts related to the holistic care of children and their families within their communities. Theoretical content specific to children from infancy through adolescence includes physiological, pathophysiological, and psychosocial concepts. Clinical experiences incorporate health promotion and acute and chronic illness management in the simulation laboratory, inpatient, outpatient, and community settings. (4 hours)

NURS 444 - Adult Nursing III: Advanced Medical-Surgical

Focus is the holistic care of high acuity patients and families in crisis situations. Students integrate contemporary concepts with the best nursing evidence to foster growth in knowledge, clinical competencies, and role of professional nurse. Students will integrate critical thinking, clinical reasoning, and ethical principles to provide safe, quality care and collaborate with multidisciplinary teams to create health promotion, risk reduction, and disease prevention strategies. Clinical experience will be in a variety of acute care settings. (6 hours)

NURS 445 - Nursing Leadership Dimensions

Applies evidence-based concepts essential to the leadership development of the professional nurse. The focus is on the application of leadership and management skills to contemporary health care issues influencing professional practice. (3 hours)

NURS 446 - Professional Role Transition Capstone

Provides the opportunity for students to demonstrate competency in the role of provider and manager of care. Students provide safe, quality care for patients across the lifespan in acute care settings. Students collaborate with a preceptor and faculty member to achieve course objectives and individualized learning goals. (4 hours)

Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics Certificate

The program offers a certificate to those already holding a baccalaureate degree and needing only to complete the requirements for DPD (Didactic Program in Dietetics) Verification statement. Certificate students must also meet the Dominican University core curriculum foundation competencies: ENGL 102 - Composition II: Writing as a Way of Knowing, MATH 130 - College Algebra, CIS 120 - Introduction to Computer Applications, and Information Literacy Workshop. In addition, a student may complete a second degree. Certificate students must complete a minimum of 34 hours at Dominican to apply for the Dominican coordinated dietetic internship. The program is designed to assist students in developing breadth and depth of knowledge, skills, values, and competencies in clinical dietetics, community dietetics, and food service management that are necessary for application to dietetic internships (DI) to become a Registered Dietitian or graduate work, and eventual professional practice at the entry level.

Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics Requirements:

- NUTR 101 - Introduction to Dietetics
- NUTR 141 - Food Service Sanitation or Sanitation Certificate from an accredited provider
- NUTR 200 - Fundamentals of Foods
- NUTR 250 - Nutrition
- NUTR 280 - Multicultural Food Patterns
- NUTR 290 - Nutritional Biochemistry
- NUTR 299 - Community-Based Learning
- NUTR 345 - Nutrition Communication Skills
- NUTR 346 - Food and Nutrition Services Administration
- NUTR 375 - Principles of Food Service Purchasing
- NUTR 390 - Experimental Foods
- NUTR 404 - Medical Nutrition Therapy I
- NUTR 407 - Quantity Food Production and Service
- NUTR 408 - Medical Nutrition Therapy II
- NUTR 409 - Community Nutrition
- NUTR 420 - Introduction to Writing about Nutrition and Health
- NUTR 425 - Nutrition in Human Development
- NUTR 430 - Seminar in Medical Nutrition Therapy
- BIOL 160 - Elementary Microbiology
- BIOL 152 - Human Anatomy and Physiology I

- BIOL 252 - Human Anatomy and Physiology II
- CIS 120 - Introduction to Computer Applications
- CHEM 101 - Introductory General Chemistry
- CHEM 104 - Introductory Organic Chemistry
- LIB 000 - Information Literacy Workshop
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics
- PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior

Recommended Electives

- NUTR 412 - Special Topics in Nutrition
- PHIL 242 - Introduction to Biomedical Ethics

Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate

Dominican University's Coordinated Program in Nutrition Sciences and Dietetics Certificate program has been granted accreditation from the Commission on Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND). This program fulfills the supervised practice requirements to sit for the examination for Registered Dietitian administered by the Commission on Dietetic Registration. The supervised practice includes an emphasis on cultural diversity in child nutrition, with 1200 hours of field experience divided between community, clinical, food management, and specialty rotations. The Coordinated Program in Nutrition Sciences and Dietetics certificate is designed for the development of dietetic professionals who are competent in all entry-level areas of practice, including cultural competencies particularly addressing child nutrition. Upon completion, students receive a Verification Statement for application to take the RD Exam.

All students in the coordinated program will be required to complete the following prerequisite courses before admission: college level courses in anatomy, physiology, general chemistry, organic chemistry, and microbiology, NUTR 200 - Fundamentals of Foods, NUTR 250 - Nutrition, and 6 hours of 300-400 level nutrition courses with grades of B- or better.

Certificate Requirements:

- NUTR 461 - Nutrition Supervised Practice I
- NUTR 462 - Nutrition Seminar I
- NUTR 463 - Nutrition Supervised Practice II
- NUTR 464 - Nutrition Seminar II

- NUTR 465 - Nutrition Supervised Practice III
- NUTR 466 - Nutrition Seminar III
- NUTR 467 - Nutrition Supervised Practice IV
- NUTR 468 - Nutrition Seminar IV

Culinology® - B.S.

Culinology®, a registered trademark of the Research Chefs Association (RCA), merges culinary arts and food science. The Culinology® major is designed to integrate culinary arts and food science and prepare students for positions in food project development, restaurant menu creation, and other similar industry endeavors.

The Dominican University program is approved by the RCA to meet the academic requirements for the Culinology® major designation. An industry internship is required prior to graduation. Advanced training and work experience are required after graduation to be eligible to take one of the two certifying examinations offered by the RCA: Certified Research Chef and Certified Culinary Scientist.

Students must transfer into Dominican University with a completed a two-year associate's degree from an American Culinary Federation (ACF) or equivalent accredited culinary arts program and add the additional years of food science and general liberal arts requirements to obtain the bachelor's degree. Contact a faculty advisor in the department of nutrition sciences for more information on the Culinology® major.

Major Requirements:

Required Courses:

- NUTR 141 - Food Service Sanitation
- NUTR 200 - Fundamentals of Foods
- NUTR 220 - Sensory Evaluation
- NUTR 240 - Food Chemistry
- NUTR 250 - Nutrition OR NUTR 251 - Advanced Basic Nutrition
- NUTR 280 - Multicultural Food Patterns
- NUTR 350 - Food Analysis and Quality Assurance
- NUTR 370 - Food Processing
- NUTR 390 - Experimental Foods
- NUTR 410 - Food Product Development
- NUTR 440 - Seminar in Food Science
- NUTR 455 - Culinology® Internship
- BAD 250 - Marketing
- BIOL 160 - Elementary Microbiology
- CHEM 104 - Introductory Organic Chemistry
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 15 semester hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate

Dominican University's Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway Certificate program has been granted accreditation from the Commission on Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND). This program fulfills the supervised practice requirements to sit for the examination for Registered Dietitian administered by the Commission on Dietetic Registration. The supervised practice includes an emphasis on cultural diversity in child nutrition, with 1200 hours of field experience divided between community, clinical, food management, and specialty rotations. The Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway certificate is designed for the development of dietetic professionals who are competent in all entry-level areas of practice, including cultural competencies particularly addressing child nutrition. Upon completion, students receive a Verification Statement for application to take the RD Exam.

In order to be admitted into this program, ISPP students must have a DPD verification statements (completed within the past 5 years) and have not matched in the DICAS process or be an individual with practice doctoral degrees. Based on their previous professional experience, students may be assessed on their competence and knowledge learned from those experiences. The following courses can be waived based on their professional experience: NUTR 461, NUTR 462, and/or NUTR 463. The process for assessing and granting credit for prior learning involves completing a competency evaluation form packet with appropriate signatures from former supervisors or professors. Job performance reviews can also be used to demonstrate competency in certain areas of practice.

Certificate Requirements

Students must complete a total of 15 to 24 semester hours selected in consultation with a nutrition sciences advisor.

- NUTR 461 - Nutrition Supervised Practice I
- NUTR 462 - Nutrition Seminar I
- NUTR 463 - Nutrition Supervised Practice II
- NUTR 464 - Nutrition Seminar II
- NUTR 465 - Nutrition Supervised Practice III
- NUTR 466 - Nutrition Seminar III
- NUTR 467 - Nutrition Supervised Practice IV
- NUTR 468 - Nutrition Seminar IV

Nutrition and Dietetics - B.S.

The nutrition and dietetics major prepares students for careers in the diverse field of nutrition. Majors in nutrition and dietetics may eventually hold such positions as food service manager or consumer service representative in business, industry, or health care.

Students seeking to attain the credential of registered dietitian nutritionist (RDN) must also complete the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND) requirements (see below).

Major Requirements:

Required Courses:

- NUTR 141 - Food Service Sanitation or Sanitation Certificate from an accredited provider
- NUTR 200 - Fundamentals of Foods
- NUTR 250 - Nutrition
- NUTR 290 - Nutritional Biochemistry
- NUTR 299 - Community-Based Learning
- NUTR 345 - Nutrition Communication Skills
- NUTR 375 - Principles of Food Service Purchasing
- NUTR 390 - Experimental Foods
- NUTR 404 - Medical Nutrition Therapy I
- NUTR 407 - Quantity Food Production and Service
- NUTR 408 - Medical Nutrition Therapy II
- NUTR 409 - Community Nutrition
- NUTR 425 - Nutrition in Human Development
- BIOL 152 - Human Anatomy and Physiology I
- BIOL 160 - Elementary Microbiology
- BIOL 252 - Human Anatomy and Physiology II
- CHEM 104 - Introductory Organic Chemistry

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 15 hours in the major field must be completed at Dominican.

Recommended Electives

- NUTR 412 - Special Topics in Nutrition
- PHIL 242 - Introduction to Biomedical Ethics

Recommendations:

It is advisable for interested freshmen to consult with an advisor in the department prior to registration and to take CHEM 101, CHEM 104, ENGL 101, ENGL 102, NUTR 200, and NUTR 250 in their freshman year.

Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND)

Requirements:

For those students interested in the registered dietitian nutritionist (RDN) credential, specific course work is required to meet the additional education competencies of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (formerly the American Dietetic Association). The Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics program is currently granted accreditation status by the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND), a specialized accrediting body recognized by the United States Department of Education (USDE).

After completion of all courses and per verification statement policy, students are eligible for an ACEND dietetic internship. This consists of 1200 hours of supervised practice (internship) and is required by the Commission on Dietetic Registration in order to take the registered dietitian examination and attain the RDN credential. Dominican University has an ACEND accredited coordinated dietetic internship program that requires 24 additional semester hours of supervised practice with RDN preceptors. Application to this coordinated program is open only to Dominican University students who complete at least 34 hours of course work at Dominican.

Additional requirements beyond those of the nutrition and dietetics major include:

- NUTR 101 - Introduction to Dietetics
- NUTR 280 - Multicultural Food Patterns
- NUTR 346 - Food and Nutrition Services Administration
- NUTR 420 - Introduction to Writing about Nutrition and Health
- NUTR 430 - Seminar in Medical Nutrition Therapy
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics
- PSYC 101 - General Psychology: The Science of Behavior

Verification Statement Policy for Didactic Program in Dietetics:

Completion of the requirements for the Dominican University Didactic Program in Dietetics (DPD) will be verified by the student advisor and DPD program director prior to issuing Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics verification statements. All of the following requirements must be met:

- Meet nutrition and dietetics major or certificate requirements
- Minimum of B- letter grade in all nutrition department classes. Students who receive a grade lower than B- in these classes will be asked to retake the course in order to earn a B- or higher.
- Minimum of 30 hours of community or professional volunteer service in a nutrition science major area
- Completion of student portfolio

Nutrition and Dietetics Minor

Minor Requirements:

Required Courses:

- NUTR 200 - Fundamentals of Foods
- NUTR 250 - Nutrition
- NUTR 280 - Multicultural Food Patterns
- Electives to complete a total of 18 to 24 semester hours selected in consultation with a nutrition sciences advisor.

Additional Requirements:

A minimum of 9 hours in the minor field must be completed at Dominican.

Nutrition Sciences Courses

NUTR 101 - Introduction to Dietetics

Introduction to the profession of dietetics and responsibilities associated with dietetic professional practice. The emphasis is on development of a pre-professional portfolio, career options in dietetics, and preparation for a dietetic internship. Professional issues related to dietetic practice include code of ethics, standards of professional practice, and future trends in the profession. Graded on a satisfactory/fail basis only. (1 hour)

NUTR 141 - Food Service Sanitation

The sanitation of facilities and equipment in food services; the protection of food from microbiological and other contamination. Qualifies for Illinois and national sanitation certification examination eligibility. (1 hour)

NUTR 200 - Fundamentals of Foods

Scientific principles of food preparation with reference to optimum quality, microbiological safety, and preservation of nutrients. Includes two hours of lecture and three hours of laboratory session each week. Lab fee applies. (3 hours)

NUTR 220 - Sensory Evaluation

Study of qualitative and quantitative techniques used to measure and evaluate the sensory perceptions of food products and ingredients. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 200 and MATH 211.

NUTR 240 - Food Chemistry

Covers the basic composition, structure, and properties of foods and the chemistry of changes occurring during processing and utilization. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 101 and CHEM 104.

NUTR 250 - Nutrition

Study of the scientific principles of nutrition as they apply to individuals and groups with application to meeting the nutrient requirements throughout the life span. (3 hours)

Listed also as NSC 250.

This course will satisfy the natural sciences core area requirement.

NUTR 251 - Advanced Basic Nutrition

This course builds upon basic nutrition concepts. Emphasis is placed on the advanced application of competency skills in areas such as diet analysis using computer databases, nutritional assessment, diet composition. (1 hour)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 250 or transfer equivalent.

NUTR 280 - Multicultural Food Patterns

A study of the cultural influences of food on societies, including nourishment, health beliefs and practices, religion, social communication, and socio-economic status. (3 hours)

This course will satisfy the multicultural core requirement.

NUTR 290 - Nutritional Biochemistry

Elementary course in biochemistry dealing with functions and metabolism of proteins, fats, carbohydrates, and their related substances with emphasis on clinical applications in health professions. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 250 and CHEM 104

NUTR 299 - Community-Based Learning

Involves a minimum of 30 hours of community or professional volunteer service in a nutrition science major area, arranged in consultation with the student's academic advisor. Course also includes attendance at undergraduate nutrition department seminars and portfolio work with advisor. (1 hour)

NUTR 345 - Nutrition Communication Skills

Study of the theoretical framework based in behavioral sciences and education as used in planning and delivering nutrition information and counseling. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 250 and junior or senior standing or enrollment in the AND certificate program.

NUTR 346 - Food and Nutrition Services Administration

The course will apply operational leadership theories to the development of food and nutrition programs and services. Students will learn to evaluate budgets and interpret financial data. They will also learn to apply principles of human resource management, interpret public policy, and understand the legislative and regulatory basis of dietetic practice (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 250

NUTR 350 - Food Analysis and Quality Assurance

Study of the principles, methods, and techniques necessary for the analysis of food products and ingredients. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 200, NUTR 250 and CHEM 104.

NUTR 370 - Food Processing

Covers general characteristics of raw food materials, and principles of food preservation, packaging, and sanitation. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 240 and BIOL 160

NUTR 375 - Principles of Food Service Purchasing

Principles and standards for food service equipment and purchasing in quantity for institutions. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing or enrollment in the AND certificate program.

NUTR 390 - Experimental Foods

Application of scientific principles and experimental methods in the study of foods. Lab fee applies. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 200, NUTR 250, CHEM 104, and NUTR 141 or Food Sanitation Certificate.

NUTR 404 - Medical Nutrition Therapy I

Study of the principles of nutrition in the prevention and treatment of various disease states and metabolic abnormalities. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 290 and BIOL 252

NUTR 407 - Quantity Food Production and Service

Principles of quantity menu planning, food production, and service. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 375 and either NUTR 141 or Food Sanitation Certificate.

NUTR 408 - Medical Nutrition Therapy II

Continued study of the principles of nutrition in more complicated disease states and metabolic abnormalities. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 404.

NUTR 409 - Community Nutrition

Nutrition applied to the health-related concerns of individuals and groups. Role of agencies in providing programs and services. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 250.

NUTR 410 - Food Product Development

Applications of food product design, packaging, and marketing. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 370 and NUTR 390.

NUTR 412 - Special Topics in Nutrition

The study of a major area of nutrition at an advanced level; topics and prerequisites vary by announced topic. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 250 and Junior or Senior Standing

NUTR 420 - Introduction to Writing about Nutrition and Health

This introductory course is designed to teach the basic skills necessary to write nutrition and health-related papers that are clear, accurate, and audience-appropriate. It is a practical review of writing and revision and will enable students to develop a clear, fluent, and readable style. The course will include both individual and collaborative exercises and will require several writing and editing assignments, as well as rewrites. This course has a focus on the key elements for writing for the web. We will consider how the Internet functions as a meeting space for different kinds of communities and the power it has regarding nutrition and health communications. The major assignment for this class will be to build your own specialized blog and to create a social media following for this blog. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior standing or enrollment in the AND certificate program..

NUTR 425 - Nutrition in Human Development

Principles of nutrition and research in human growth and development throughout the life span. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 250 and junior or senior standing or enrollment in the AND certificate program.

NUTR 430 - Seminar in Medical Nutrition Therapy

Survey of recent research and advanced problems in medical nutrition therapy. Advanced case-study scenarios and problems related to medical nutrition therapy (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 408 or concurrent enrollment.

NUTR 431 - Nutrition Assessment Skills

This course includes study and skills development in nutritional assessment and body composition assessment relevant to individual- and population-based nutrition and dietetic practice. Key content areas include dietary assessment, anthropometry, laboratory and clinical methods. (2 hours)

Prerequisite(s): NUTR 290

NUTR 440 - Seminar in Food Science

Seminar incorporating the principles of food chemistry, microbiology, nutrition, sensory analysis, and statistics. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Senior standing.

NUTR 450 - Independent Study

(1-8 hours)

NUTR 455 - Culinology® Internship

A student of junior or senior standing may arrange for an internship in his/her field of concentration, subject to the approval of the department faculty. RCA certification requires documentation of 300 hours of internship for Culinology® majors. (1-8 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Junior or senior nutrition and dietetics or Culinology® majors or enrollment in the AND certificate program.

NUTR 461 - Nutrition Supervised Practice I

This course will include 300 hours of experience in clinical nutrition, community nutrition, or food service/management settings. Students will observe and practice developing programs and services that promote consumer health, wellness, and lifestyle management to individuals and groups. Students will observe, simulate, and practice performing the nutrition care process for individuals and populations of differing ages and health status with a variety of medical conditions. Students will have experiences related to strategic application of principles of management and systems in the procurement, production, distribution and service to individuals and organizations. Students will spend time on an individualized rotation/ capstone project under supervision. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate or Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate program.

NUTR 462 - Nutrition Seminar I

This seminar will address issues regarding nutrition during pregnancy, lactation, infancy, and childhood. Students will be introduced to the theory and practice of assessing nutritional needs of communities. Students will become familiar with multicultural practices in a variety of ethnic populations. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate or Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate program.

NUTR 463 - Nutrition Supervised Practice II

This course will include 300 hours of experience in clinical nutrition, community nutrition, or food service/management settings. Students will observe and practice developing programs and services that promote consumer health, wellness, and lifestyle management to individuals and groups. Students will observe, simulate, and practice performing the nutrition care process for individuals and populations of differing ages and health status with a variety of medical conditions. Students will have experiences related to strategic application of principles of management and systems in the procurement, production, distribution and service to individuals and organizations. Students will spend time on an individualized rotation/ capstone project under supervision. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate or Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate program.

NUTR 464 - Nutrition Seminar II

This seminar will address issues regarding nutrition needs of adolescents, adults and the elderly. Skills will be developed and reinforced on the utilization of standardized language for performing the Nutrition Care Process. The process will include nutritional assessment, diagnosis of nutrition problems, planning and implementing nutrition interventions, and monitoring and evaluating the impact of interventions. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate or Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate program.

NUTR 465 - Nutrition Supervised Practice III

This course will include 300 hours of experience in clinical nutrition, community nutrition, or food service/management settings. Students will observe and practice developing programs and services that promote consumer health, wellness, and lifestyle management to individuals and groups. Students will observe, simulate, and practice performing the nutrition care process for individuals and populations of differing ages and health status with a variety of medical conditions. Students will have experiences related to strategic application of principles of management and systems in the procurement, production, distribution and service to individuals and organizations. Students will spend time on an individualized rotation/ capstone project under supervision. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate or Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate program.

NUTR 466 - Nutrition Seminar III

Students will become aware of public policy activities including both legislative and regulatory initiatives. Students will learn to complete documentation that follows professional guidelines, guidelines required by health care systems, and guidelines required by various practice settings. Students will be introduced to qualitative and quantitative research methodologies. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate or Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate program.

NUTR 467 - Nutrition Supervised Practice IV

This course will include 300 hours of experience in clinical nutrition, community nutrition, or food service/management settings. Students will observe and practice developing programs and services that promote consumer health, wellness, and lifestyle management to individuals and groups. Students will observe, simulate, and practice performing the nutrition care process for individuals and populations of differing ages and health status with a variety of medical conditions. Students will have experiences related to strategic application of principles of management and systems in the procurement, production, distribution and service to individuals and organizations. Students will spend time on an individualized rotation/ capstone project under supervision. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate or Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate program.

NUTR 468 - Nutrition Seminar IV

Students will practice the application of evidence-based guidelines, systemic reviews, and scientific literature in the nutrition care process model and other areas of dietetic practice. Students will demonstrate professional writing skills in preparing professional communications. Students will participate in preparation and review activities for the Registered Dietitian (RD) examination. Course fee applies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): Acceptance into the Coordinated Program in Nutrition Science and Dietetics Certificate or Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP) Certificate program.

Post-Baccalaureate Pre-Medical Studies

Bachelor of Medical Science

Dominican University's Department of Biological Sciences offers a program designed as an academic bridge for students who have completed a bachelor's degree at a regionally accredited college or university and who intend to pursue a degree in the medical sciences. We offer the opportunity to take pre-requisite and advanced course work as well as an opportunity for a specialized second bachelor's degree, the Bachelor of Medical Science degree (BMS).

Dominican's PBPMs program is appropriate both for students who have never before taken introductory biological science courses (career changers) and for students who need to improve their grades in the science prerequisites before applying to a professional program (career enhancers). We offer required courses at the undergraduate level as well as a number of exclusive post-bac pre-medical courses. The curriculum is customized to each student's needs through close, ongoing advising. There are ample opportunities for a clinical preceptorship, research involvement, leadership, and volunteering. MCAT preparation courses and assistance with graduate school applications are part of the program.

A minimum of 34 credit hours in residence is required to complete the BMS degree.

Graduate School of Library Information Science

Informatics

Informatics is a highly current and relevant discipline that prepares students for jobs with a technology focus, grounded in democratic values, in a rapidly changing society. Students gain the skills and knowledge that will enable them to connect people and information by designing, building, using, and evaluating information systems, while also understanding the ethical issues and policy implications associated with technology in society.

The informatics major prepares students to enter into a particular professional context with a focused understanding of associated technologies:

- Cybersecurity informatics
- Nursing informatics
- Organizational informatics

The curriculum is organized in five "layers" that take students from foundational courses to an informatics core, a choice of professional contextual coursework as listed above, skill set clusters, informatics issues, and professional studies.

This major or minor also prepares students for graduate study in information management, informatics, library and information science, business management, nonprofit management, public policy, education, and many other related disciplines.

Informatics - B.S.

Major Requirements:

Required Courses

- INF 110 - Foundations of Informatics
- INF 120 - Foundations Information Technology
- INF 130 - Methods of Inquiry into Informatics
- CPSC 140 - Introduction to Computer Programming for Non-Majors (or CPSC 155 - Computer Programming)
- INF 160 - Introduction to Data Science (or CPSC 165 - Computer Programming II - Data Structures)
- INF 190 - Project Management
- MATH 211 - Principles of Statistics

Complete one of the following three courses:

- INF 200 - Cybersecurity Informatics
- INF 210 - Nursing Informatics
- INF 220 - Organizational Informatics

Complete one of the following sets of three courses:

- Data Analytics
 - INF 251 - Database Management
 - INF 351 - Data Analytics for Information
 - INF 451 - Data Visualization
- Design and Evaluation
 - INF 252 - Design Thinking for Human Computer
 - INF 352 - Value Sensitive Design
 - INF 452 - User Experience Evaluation
- Web Interfaces/Content Management
 - INF 253 - Introduction to Web Design
 - INF 353 - Advanced Web Design and Content
 - INF 453 - Information Architecture and
- Cybersecurity

Informatics Courses

INF 100 - Exploring Informatics

The study of informatics investigates the intersection of people, information, and technology in a variety of contexts. This course provides students an opportunity to learn more about the value of an informatics major, how courses in this practical academic program can coordinate with and add to other paths of study, and the jobs available to graduates with these skills. Learning experiences in this course will be hands-on, interactive, and promote self-reflection about personal, professional, and academic goals and skills sets. (1 hour)

INF 110 - Foundations of Informatics

This course introduces students to major informatics concerns of information in society, exploring such topics as information use and users, information privacy, regulations of information flows, power discrepancies, and digital divides. Learning experiences in this course will be driven by timely scholarly and journalistic literature that forms the basis for involved class discussion. This is a writing-intensive course, as it requires students to research and express informatics concerns via informal (e.g., blogs, journals) and formal (e.g., essays, papers) writing exercises. (4 hours)

INF 120 - Foundations Information Technology

The ability to successfully use and manipulate information technology is foundational to being a successful digital citizen and information worker. This course provides students an introductory conceptual understanding of code and hardware: websites, applications, operating systems, personal computers, servers, tablets, and other mobile devices. Learning experiences in this course will be a combination of hands-on experiences with hardware, explorations of how code works and how to write it, and explorations of relevant literature. (4 hours)

INF 130 - Methods of Inquiry into Informatics

This course provides students an introduction into useful research methods used in informatics to understand social behaviors and technological designs in relationship with information seeking and use. Students will learn the basics of common qualitative and quantitative research methods, as well as ethical concerns in research and how to disseminate research findings. Learning experiences in this course will focus on applying research methods in structured exercises and pilot studies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 160 - Introduction to Data Science

This course introduces students to common data structures. Additionally, students will learn basic data access and analytical techniques in order to capture and transform data into usable information. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and hands-on exercises using data tools. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 190 - Project Management

This course concentrates on methods and issues related to organizing, planning, and managing information technology projects. Additionally, students will be introduced to a selection of project management tools to support project management needs. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion, research-based evaluation of specific case studies, and hands-on experiences with related technologies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 200 - Cybersecurity Informatics

This course introduces students to cybersecurity issues by focusing on technical, organizational, and legal aspects of information security. Students will explore high-profile and emerging cybersecurity issues as useful case studies. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and research-based evaluation of cybersecurity issues; lab activities involve the use of and practice with specific tools and applications. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 210 - Nursing Informatics

This course reviews informatics issues related specifically to nursing practices with special emphasis on integrating data, information, and knowledge to support decision-making by patients and their healthcare providers, with an overall goal of improving the quality of patient care. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and research-based evaluation of nursing informatics issues; lab activities involve the use of and practice with specific tools and applications. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 220 - Organizational Informatics

Organizational informatics considers the various needs, uses, and consequences of information practices and technologies in organizational contexts. This course prepares students to identify organizational information technology needs, address unique socio-technical issues in the workplace, and scan for emerging technologies and trends to enhance information work practices such as records management and retention, data collection and organization for decision making, and securing proprietary commercial and organizational information. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and research-based evaluation of organizational informatics issues; lab activities involve the use of and practice with specific tools and applications. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 230 - Educational Informatics

This course introduces students to role of educational technology in learning organizations and institutions. Students will investigate, among other things, relevant policies, ethical concerns, and emerging opportunities and limitations related to educational technology within and outside of traditional learning environments. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and research-based evaluation of educational informatics issues; lab activities involve the use of and practice with specific tools and applications. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 240 - Community Informatics

Community informatics is broadly defined as the use and application of information and communication technologies (ICTs) in local communities. Practical studies in this area consider how social, cultural, political, and economic factors influence the adoption and use of ICTs among members of specific communities. This course introduces students to key concerns in community informatics, including, among other things, "digital divide" issues (e.g. access, skills, and cultural divides), the role of ICTs in cultural heritage and maintenance, and community development using ICTs. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and experiential learning at case sites using relevant ICTs; lab activities involve the use of and practice with specific tools and applications. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 251 - Database Management

This course builds off of the fundamental skills introduced in INF 160 - Introduction to Data Science by providing students experience with more advanced topics related to database design, implementation strategies, and storage and handling issues. Topics also address the role of databases in specific contexts, like libraries. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and lab exercises for hands-on practice with database systems. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 252 - Design Thinking for Human Computer

Design thinking is the process by which programmers, information architects, designers, and many others work up a product from start to finish. This course considers design thinking from a user's perspective, emphasizing methods for identifying user needs, ideating products and services, prototyping new concepts, and using research methods for evaluating a prototype's usability. Students will encounter a mix of design methods, user behavior theory, and an introduction to usability testing procedures in this course. Learning experiences in this course will be hands-on, team-based and iterative, meaning that students can expect to be build a product with their peers in collaborative teams. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 253 - Introduction to Web Design

This course provides an introduction to web design by providing a brief history of the Internet and World Wide Web before moving to skills required to design and deploy working websites. Topics in the course include web design standards, including accessibility standards, and use of XHTML, HTML5, and CSS for basic information architecture. Learning experiences in this course will employ exercise-based lab assignments in addition to literature-based discussion. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 254 - Analytical Foundations of Security

This course will introduce students to the foundational concepts of cybersecurity, especially with regard to systems analysis. Students will learn computer system basics, their relationship to security issues, and how basic hardware and software configurations can be hardened to decrease security concerns on devices and across networks. User access controls and permission levels will also be highlighted. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and hands-on technical exercises. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 255 - Instructional Design for Digital

Learning management systems, massive open online courses (MOOCs), and non-traditional online learning communities all benefit from designs that focus users on acquiring and creating knowledge in efficient ways that feel intuitive and are appealing. This course provides students the foundational design concepts, frameworks, and skill sets to design digital learning spaces. Material discussed will consider the perspectives of instructors and students alike, as well introduce relevant learning theory. Students will get hands-on experiences with a variety of instructional technology systems in order to understand the relationship between instructional design choices and technological affordances, among other things. Learning experiences will employ literature-based discussion, hands-on technical exercises, and team-based projects. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 256 - Information Seeking and Use Behavior

This course addresses information seeking behaviors and information use in specific contexts (e.g., health information seeking) by exploring relevant frameworks and theories. It also engages students in meta-analyses of their own information seeking and use practices and that of their peers using reflective strategies and structured inquiry. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion, experiential learning by observing and researching information behaviors, and reflective writing via informal media (e.g., blogs and journals). (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 351 - Data Analytics for Information

This course will introduce students to a variety of methods by which they can explore how data (small and big) can be accessed, stored, cleaned, mixed, and analyzed to mine for valuable insights. Students will gain hands-on experience with a suite of analytics tools. The data analytics methods combined with statistical knowledge gained in prerequisite courses will build a strong analytical reasoning skill set. Learning experiences in this course will involve statistical, technical, and reasoning exercises that practice methods and techniques based in relevant literature. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 352 - Value Sensitive Design

Designers of information technology tools, systems, and services often embed their values (or the values of their superiors) into the products they create. This course provides an introduction to the value-sensitive design of information systems and technologies. Students will examine existing systems from a value-sensitive design perspective while employing conceptual, technical, and empirical methods. Of primary concern in this class are value issues related to personal autonomy, privacy, property, trust, and accountability. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion, research-based writing assignments, and team-based technology critiques. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 353 - Advanced Web Design and Content

This course builds on skills established in previous courses by introducing complex markup languages and extensible language frameworks. Students will also learn about the browser/server/application relationship before getting hands-on experience with open source content management systems. Learning experiences in this course will employ exercise-based lab assignments in addition literature-based discussion. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 354 - Security for Networked Systems

This course provides a survey of network security, with special emphasis on securing networks and their connected devices to increase their integrity and the confidentiality of information flows. Foundational topics include cryptography, primitives and protocols, and authentication and authorization schemes, among other things. Learning experiences will employ literature-based discussion and hands-on technical activities. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 355 - Game Based Learning

This course examines gaming principles—skill points, levels, bosses, etc.—and their relevance in digital and hybrid learning environments, both in traditional learning institutions (e.g., primary, secondary, and post-secondary schools) and non-traditional programs of learning (e.g., massive open online courses). Students will critically analyze a variety of digital games to highlight their successful and less successful aspects related to learning. Working in teams, students will design their own game-based learning system or conceptual prototype. Other topics will address compatible learning theories related to game-based learning, among other things. Learning experiences will employ multimedia and literature-based discussion, team-based projects, and informal reflective writing (e.g., blogs or journals). (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 356 - User Studies

This course explores humans-as-users and their relationships with technology, both analog and digital, by investigating historical and modern-day examples. Students will examine how users employ, modify, design, reconfigure, and resist technology, especially information technology, in an information society. This class considers issues such as human agency, how technologies are actually used, what technologies do to humans, and who defines a user, among other things. Learning experiences in this course will employ scholarly and popular literature to drive discussions. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 400 - Information Ethics and Policy

Information and communication technologies often present significant social issues with competing values and which exist in a complex legal environment. This course addresses moral and ethical issues of information, information technologies, and information industries with special emphasis on intellectual property, free speech, and information privacy concerns. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and research-based evaluation of information ethics and policy issues. This is a writing intensive course. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 410 - Code and Power

Computer code, the language that drives information and communication technologies, is inherently powerful. It often frames how we think, prescribes our actions, and controls how we interact with others. This course provides students the skills to critically assess technology by exploring specific technologies and their code constructions. Topics will also include open and closed source coding, communities, and culture, with special emphasis on competing value sets and the role of intellectual property rights (e.g., the DMCA) in protecting closed code constructions. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion, research-based evaluation of specific case studies, and instructor-led coding exercises. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 420 - The Information Society

This course addresses the historical transformation from an industrial society to an information society by providing a point of reference and a place to critically examine if, in fact, an "information society" has emerged. Other topics include analog and digital print culture, what it means to be digitally literate, norms and values of digital citizenry, information labor, and the rise of technology-based surveillance, among other topics. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion, collaborative knowledge building using digital tools (e.g., blogs and wikis), and research-based writing exercises. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 430 - Information Divides

The rise of the information society has brought with it great advances in knowledge creation and dissemination by employing a wide range of information and communication technologies. This has enhanced knowledge, wealth, power, and comfort—but not for all. Digital divides have emerged, especially among underrepresented groups and those without access to online information. This course addresses different types of digital divides and their defining characteristics, especially with regard to economics, education, health, and democracy. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion and research-based investigations into specific digital divide issues. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 451 - Data Visualization

The rise of big data has also increased the relevance and usefulness of information visualization strategies. This course will examine the tenets of information visualization, including human perception, aesthetics of information design, and information interaction. Students will interact with and critique existing information visualizations as well as create visualizations using open datasets and relevant visualization tools. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion, hands-on exercises, and case studies of information visualizations. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 452 - User Experience Evaluation

This course builds on concepts introduced in other courses to provide an advanced and focused examination of user experience methods, skills, and tools. Core concepts include choosing dimensions to study, identifying important constructs, and employing the right method to get the most useful information. Students will test existing information systems from a variety of contexts (e.g., healthcare, research, etc.) and in different modes (e.g., PCs, tablets, etc.) to build their user experience evaluation proficiencies. Learning experiences in this course will require students to work in evaluative teams. Discussion will be based on module activities and responses to assigned literature. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 453 - Information Architecture and

This course reviews basic information architecture concepts before moving to advanced modules related to organization schemes and structures, labeling systems, navigation systems, and search systems. The course emphasizes that successful information architecture is highly dependent on contextual factors and knowing user needs. Content strategies in the course will highlight the need to identify content goals, the substance of content, and content lifecycle management strategies. Learning experiences in this course will employ exercise-based labs, team assignments, and literature-based discussion. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 454 - Digital Forensics

While the optimal condition of a network or connected device is to remain secure and unaffected by threats, sometimes this is not possible—attacks and information leaks do happen. In these cases, how you identify what went wrong is critical for reestablishing security and reporting network weaknesses. This course provides an overview of digital forensics concepts, techniques, and tools. Special emphasis will be placed on the collection, analysis, presentation, and preservation of digital evidence to stakeholders, legal entities, and law enforcement personnel. Learning experiences will employ literature-based discussion, technical lab assignments, and team-based projects. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 455 - Digital Pedagogy

This course explores emerging digital pedagogy and related learning theory in order to orient students to teaching in an online environment. It also explores specific technological applications and their respective affordances to examine how they influence and constrain instructional choices and learning opportunities. Special emphasis will be placed on emerging technologies, such as advanced learning management systems, learning analytics applications, data-driven personalized education tools, and synchronous lecturing and discussion platforms. Relevant socio-technical concerns, like student autonomy and privacy, will also be discussed. Learning experiences in this course will employ literature-based discussion, research-based formal writing assignments, and hands-on explorations of technologies. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 456 - User Services

This course surveys established and emerging face-to-face and online information seeking services and resources. Students will prototype a variety of information services for an array of users, including corporate employees, library patrons, students, and more using their knowledge of information seeking behaviors. These services will be based on the students' broad understanding of reference materials, databases, and websites, which will be developed in-class. Learning experiences in this course include experiential learning—via information seeking labs and the creation of information services—and literature-based discussion. (3 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

INF 480 - Capstone Experience

The capstone experience showcases the intellectual advances and technical skill sets students have developed while in the program by providing a creative venue for expressing their interests and growth. Additionally, it prepares students for the job market by providing structured time for job prospecting, preparing materials (e.g., résumés, cover letters, design portfolios, etc.), and getting feedback from faculty and the career services coordinator on job applications and during mock interview sessions. Students will create a digital portfolio, a collection of artifacts and succinct reflective essays that capture their informatics experiences and set a path forward for professional success and development. In addition to the portfolio, students will also complete one of three experiences: a competitive internship, a project, or a thesis. (4 hours)

Prerequisite(s): INF 110 and INF 120

School of Professional and Continuing Studies

History

Dominican University's long commitment to continuing and adult education began providing some form of continuing education almost since its inception, including courses in the 1930s that eventually culminated in the creation of the Education for Leisure program, which offered free courses to those affected by the Great Depression. More formally in the 1970s through the 1980s, the University created a Continuing Education Center, later named the Institute for Adult Learning. The institute was renamed in 2007 as the School of Leadership and Continuing Studies and in 2011 as the School of Professional and Continuing Studies. The School offers undergraduate and graduate degrees in flexible and convenient formats for working adults.

Academic Goals and Outcomes

Students in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies will . . .

- be life-long competent social learners.
 - Students will be able to articulate an opinion based on a group discussion.
 - Students will be able to evaluate sources of information.
 - Students will be able to synthesize diverse sources of information
- have a foundational knowledge base.
 - Students will be able to explain core concepts.
 - Students will be able to identify the ideas of key thinkers in the discipline.
 - Students will be able to demonstrate a basic competency in the liberal arts and sciences beyond their chosen field of study.
- be able to apply their knowledge.
 - Students will be able to identify a practical application of a theoretical concept.
 - Students will be able to articulate an example of how a concept applies in their own lives.
 - Students will be able to create a real-world deliverable derived from course content.
- be global citizens.
 - Students will be able to discuss the global implications of domestic policies.
 - Students will be able to compare and contrast different cultural practices.
 - Students will be able to articulate ways in which individual actions can have widespread consequences.
- respect diversity.
 - Students will be able to explain viewpoints that differ from their own.
 - Students will be able to compare and contrast different cultural practices.
- have developed appropriate research and information literacy skills.
 - Students will be able to identify their own inherent biases.
 - Students will be able to construct a plan for finding information.
 - Students will be able to critically evaluate sources of information.
 - Students will be able to synthesize diverse sources of information
 - Students will be able to locate appropriate sources of information, particularly primary sources.
- be able to communicate effectively.
 - Students will be able to write in a clear and professional manner.
 - Students will be able to adapt their communication style to the appropriate audience.
 - Students will be able to advance an argumentative thesis.
 - Students will be able to demonstrate respect when communicating with others.
- have and live according to a sense of ethics.
 - Students will be able to identify ethical issues in real-life scenarios.
 - Students will be able to articulate the ethical bases for a particular course of action.
 - Students will be able to compare and contrast the ideas of major ethical thinkers.
- embrace the Dominican mission.
 - Students will be able to articulate the importance of truth, justice and service.
 - Students will be able to explain how the Dominican mission relates to their own lives.
 - Students will be able to apply what they learn to further peace and justice in their communities.
- have developed a sense of self-actualization.
 - Students will be able to restate the ideas of others.
 - Students will be able to cite examples of self-actualization in their own lives.
 - Students will be able to demonstrate self-confidence.
 - Students will be able to critique the perspective of others.
 - Students will be able to integrate skills learned outside and inside the classroom
 - Students will be able to devise strategies to overcome challenges.

Undergraduate Admissions

Individuals meeting the requirements for admission to SPCS may begin the process of applying by completing an online application. The requirements for admission are as follows: at least 7 years out of high school and 30 semester hours of college credit OR at least 7 years out of high school with significant professional work experience if transferring under 30 semester credits. If no college transcripts are available, the applicant must provide a high school transcript instead. The admission decision is reserved for the SPCS admissions committee after review of the entire application and supporting documents. The application can be accessed at any time at continuingstudies.dom.edu or a paper copy can be obtained from the SPCS Office. It must be completed, signed, and submitted by the student. Transcripts detailing all credits earned at all schools prior to application at Dominican are required as well as a 1-2 page personal essay or statement of purpose in order to complete the application. Application fees may apply. Dominican University Admissions Operations processes applications for SPCS. After an acceptance decision, SPCS provides students with a letter of acceptance for their records. Students can begin classes at the next available semester start date offered 3 times a year. Students may begin as a student-at-large; however, they are not eligible for Financial Aid. Students who are away for three semesters or more must reapply for admission and must also register for a course or readmission will be denied. If an applicant does not meet the age requirement, an age waiver request form may be submitted and a waiver requested of the Assistant Provost.

In addition to meeting the general requirements for admission, applicants whose native language is not English and/or student requiring a visa (F-1) and I-20 form, must demonstrate English language proficiency. This can be done by scoring a minimum of 550 on the paper-based Test of English as Foreign Language (TOEFL) or a minimum of 213 on the computer-based TOEFL. Additionally, students must show evidence of adequate financial support for two years.

Student-at-Large

Applicants who would like to take an individual course(s) may do so as a student-at-large (non-degree seeking student). The maximum number of semester hours a non-degree seeking student may earn is 30 hours. A student-at-large is not eligible for financial aid.

Conditional Admittance

Students who have been otherwise accepted but do not have all official college transcripts on file will be considered conditionally accepted until all official documents are received by Admissions Operations. Students will be permitted a maximum of three courses or two sessions (one semester) to submit this documentation.

Unofficial Evaluations & Transcripts

SPCS will provide interested individuals with an unofficial evaluation of previous coursework. This evaluation can be completed using official or unofficial college transcripts or other records as available and may be used initially in course selection and planning, however, in order to successfully apply to the program, all official transcripts should be sent directly to Admissions Operations, 7200 West Division St., River Forest, IL 60305, and must arrive sealed in order to be acceptable. These official transcripts will be used by the Office of the Registrar to complete official transcript evaluations.

Veterans

Veterans are encouraged to submit all records of service for evaluation of possible credit.

Credit for Prior Learning

Proficiency Exams

Proficiency exams are available for English and mathematics. Students can receive guidelines regarding the materials covered in the course, as well as information about the exam. Students can arrange to take exams through SPCS or with a local proctor by arrangement. There is no charge for proficiency exams. See your academic advisor for details.

CLEP

College Level Examination Program exams (or DANTES exams if you are in the armed forces) offer students an opportunity to earn credit in a variety of subject areas. A student may not CLEP out of any of the required seminars, nor EN 102, although the English Comp with essay exam will waive English Composition I. Further information is available by logging on to www.collegeboard.com and following links to CLEP. Students interested in CLEP may take CLEP exams until the semester before graduation. No CLEP credit will be granted within the last semester before graduation.

ACE

American Council on Education (ACE) recommendations are used as guidelines to evaluate selected baccalaureate level coursework. Any certificates that were earned through company training workshops and seminars must be submitted and evaluated for credit approval prior to enrolling/matriculating in your first course in the SPCS. After matriculation, certificates will not be accepted.

Portfolio Assessment Prior Learning

Credit/Prior Learning Assessment

The prior learning portfolio assessment option is open to individuals currently enrolled as degree-seeking students in SPCS. The amount of credit attempted and earned through prior learning is dependent upon the scope and depth of each student's applicable prior college-level learning. It is also dependent on the student's aptitude for writing, independent reflection and study, etc. The amount of credit attempted also depends upon the student's degree plan and what courses are required for which a prior learning assessment option is available.

Credit given for prior learning will be awarded on a pass/no credit basis. This credit can be considered part of the 30-hour residency requirement. Prior learning credit awarded will not affect the student's grade point average. Students can use only one option (e.g. CLEP, Portfolio Assessment) to earn credit for a particular course through prior learning. This does not apply to courses for which credit has already been granted. Students must apply for and complete portfolios prior to their last semester before graduation. Portfolios will not be accepted the semester prior to graduation.

NOTE: A maximum of 27 hours may be earned in combination of all alternative credit options.

Human Services

Bachelor of Arts in Human Services

The Bachelor of Arts in Human Services (BHS) is an interdisciplinary program focusing on the fundamental skills of communication, research and data analysis, which apply to a broad range of fields. Students may elect to declare up to two concentrations, including Disability Advocacy, International Studies, Labor Relations, Sustainability Studies and Training & Development. Students also may petition for new concentrations to meet their specific career needs. Consistent with Dominican University's longstanding commitment to social justice, students are required to complete a course in professional ethics on top of at least one ethics unit in each class. Courses are conveniently offered in the evenings at Triton College or online in an accelerated 8-week format.

Graduates of the program will be prepared to work in a wide range of fields from the private, public and nonprofit sectors. The concentration model allows students to develop specific skills to match their career goals. In addition, the rigorous foundation coursework will prepare students for graduate or professional school.

- Each academic year consists of six 8-week sessions
- Most classes are offered in an eight-week format
- Transfer credit of up to 68 semester credit hours from community colleges or up to 90 semester credit hours from a combination of community colleges and 4-year colleges or universities may be granted.

Degree Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Human Services totals 120 credit hours comprised of coursework in the areas of general electives, proficiency requirements, general education requirements and human services requirements.

Proficiency Requirements (9 hours)

- EN 102 - Composition II (3) or equivalent
- MT 150 - Contemporary Math (3) or equivalent
- Religion elective (3)

General Education Requirements (21 hours)

- SPCS 200 - Adult Learning Seminar (3)
- Social Science (6)
- Natural Science (6)
- Humanities (6)

Human Services Courses (42 hours)

- HS 300 - Social Science Research
- HS 301 - Writing in the Social Sciences
- HS 302 - Statistics for Social Scientists

- HS 303 - Human Services Administration
- HS 304 - Social Policy
- HS 305 - Behavioral Theory
- HS 400 - Professional Ethics
- Human Services Electives (21 hours). Up to three 200-level social science courses can-with the approval of the program director-be applied to this requirement.

Concentrations

A student may only have two concentrations noted on his or her transcript. Where a student has completed the requirements from more than two concentrations, the student must indicate which two will be noted on the transcript. Concentration courses apply to the human services elective requirement and may include courses that have the LS prefix.

Labor Relations

Complete the following three courses:

- HS 340 - Unions and Collective Bargaining
- HS 341 - Sociology of Labor
- LS 340 - Negotiation Theory

Disability Advocacy

Complete the following three courses:

- HS 320 - Disability Studies
- HS 322 - Disability Support Services
- LS 315 - Disability and the Law

Additional Requirements

1. Each student must complete a minimum of 30 semester credit hours of undergraduate credit in the Dominican University School of Professional and Continuing Studies BHS program.
2. Each student must attain a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on a 4.0 scale.
3. Each student must file an application for graduation with the Office of the Registrar by the deadline posted for the semester in which the student anticipated completing degree requirement.

Human Services Courses

Human Services courses are limited to students enrolled in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies.

HS 300 - Social Science Research

This course provides an overview of the methods used by social scientists. Topics include reviewing existing literature, designing a study, surveys, data analysis and research ethics. Required for BA in Human Services. (3 hours)

HS 301 - Writing in the Social Sciences

Students will demonstrate the fundamentals of written communications in the social sciences through a number of short writing assignments, as well as a longer paper, which will go through at least one revision. They will focus on clarity, organization, proper presentation of supporting evidence and communication ethics. Prerequisite: EN 102 Composition II. Required for BA in Human Services. (3 hours)

HS 302 - Statistics for Social Scientists

Numeracy is a fundamental skill for those practicing the social sciences. This course addresses the fundamentals of quantitative data analysis and the ethical presentation of statistics. Required for BA in Human Services. Satisfies the mathematics proficiency requirement for SPCS undergraduates. (3 hours)

HS 303 - Human Services Administration

The field of human services of full of well-meaning individuals who nevertheless struggle to help those they would serve due to a lack of administrative ability. This course will explore the essential leadership and organizational skills needed to succeed in human services. Required for BA in Human Services. (3 hours)

HS 304 - Social Policy

Students will examine the ways in which institutional policies impact society. Topics include the political process, unintended consequences and policy analysis. Required for BA in Human Services. (3 hours)

HS 305 - Behavioral Theory

Why do people behave irrationally? What really motivates people? What incentives can be used to change behavior? By answering these questions, human services professionals can better address the needs of those they serve. Required for BA in Human Services. (3 hours)

HS 320 - Disability Studies

This is an introduction to the burgeoning field of disability studies. Taking an interdisciplinary approach, the course demonstrates the ways in which society's conception of the body have evolved and continue to evolve over time. Topics include shifting terminology, artistic representations, the concept of human dignity, education and the workplace. (3 hours)

HS 322 - Disability Support Services

The course will examine the range of government and private services available to individuals with disabilities, as well as the gaps in services and barriers that prevent people from taking full advantage of what's available. (3 hours)

HS 340 - Unions and Collective Bargaining

This is an overview of the collective bargaining process from union formation to contract negotiation to working under a collective bargaining agreement. Topics include major legislation, the differences between the public and private sectors and the nature of the unionized workplace. (3 hours)

HS 341 - Sociology of Labor

This course explores the role of unions in our society, including the history of the labor movement and the economic impact of unionization, as well as the effects of labor's decline in recent decades. (3 hours)

HS 350 - Fundamentals of Public Administration

This is a survey of government bureaucracies at the federal, state and local levels, with a particular focus on how they both succeed and fail to provide essential services to the public. (3 hours)

HS 355 - International Relations

Students will examine the ways in which states and non-state actors interact with one another, including militarily and diplomatically. (3 hours)

HS 356 - Globalization and Its Critics

Modern societies around the world are increasingly interconnected with one another due to technological innovation and other factors. This interconnection has significant social, cultural, political and economic consequences, which have been both praised and criticized. A number of viewpoints will be examined. (3 hours)

HS 370 - Understanding the Environment

Sustainability is fundamentally rooted in the scientific understanding of the environment. This course provides a basic overview of environmental science to further sound policy decisions. Applies to the natural science general education requirement. (3 hours)

HS 371 - Building Sustainable Organizations

Environmental problems are often presented as conflicts between the needs of the environment and the economy. In some cases, organizations find that good environmental policy also makes good economic sense. But in other cases, organizations must figure out how to properly calculate and weigh the environmental consequences of their actions. This course will examine both institutional decision-making and government policy. (3 hours)

HS 372 - Environmental Technology

This course will explore the ways in which technical innovation can mitigate or eliminate environmental damage. No particular background in technology is required. (3 hours)

HS 390 - Adult Learning Theory

For centuries, educational philosophers have studied the most effective means of teaching children. It has only been in recent decades that they have realized learning is a lifelong activity. This is an overview of the way adults learn, particularly with respect to professional advancement. (3 hours)

HS 391 - Organizational Development

This course will examine the way in which organizations adapt to change and improve overtime. It explores types of organizational change and the change process including resistance to change and stakeholder dynamics. The course delves into the roles of change agents, employee involvement, leadership and communication, the process of planned change and the discovery of evolving organizational opportunities. Also, internal and external forces of change are analyzed through the evaluation of change models, theories and case studies. (3 hours)

HS 392 - Distance Learning

Distance learning has evolved from instruction by mail in the 19th century to cutting-edge interactive course delivery through the Internet. This course will explore the ways in which distance learning differs from traditional delivery and the best practices of online course design. (3 hours)

HS 400 - Professional Ethics

Helping professionals owe a duty of competent and ethical service to their clients. This course will address the ethical imperatives and challenges posed to modern professionals. Required for BA in Human Services. (3 hours)

Legal Studies

Bachelor of Arts in Legal Studies

The Bachelor of Arts in Legal Studies (BLS) is an interdisciplinary program exploring the American legal system from a wide range of perspectives, including economics, philosophy, theology and history. Consistent with Dominican University's 110-year commitment to social justice, students are required to complete a course in legal ethics along with at least one ethics unit in each class.

Students may elect to declare up to two concentrations, which include: Criminal Justice, Disability Advocacy, Labor Relations, Law & Social Justice, Paralegal Studies, Public Administration, and Sustainability Studies. Courses are conveniently offered in the evenings at Triton College or online in an accelerated 8-week format.

Graduates of the program will be qualified to work as paralegals, law enforcement officers, public officials and nonprofit leaders. Those looking to work as paralegals will have the opportunity to take courses in specific areas like civil litigation or real estate law and gain preparation for paralegal certification examinations. As a rigorous social science program, the BLS will also prepare students for law or graduate school.

- Each academic year consists of six 8-week sessions
- Most classes are offered in an eight-week format
- Transfer credit of up to 68 semester credit hours from community colleges or up to 90 semester credit hours from a combination of community colleges and 4-year colleges or universities may be granted.

Degree Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Legal Studies totals 120 credit hours comprised of coursework in the areas of general electives, proficiency requirements, general education requirements and human services requirements.

Proficiency Requirements (9 hours)

- EN 102 - Composition II (3) or equivalent
- MT 150 - Contemporary Math (3) or equivalent
- Religion elective (3)

General Education Requirements (21 hours)

- SPCS 200 - Adult Learning Seminar (3)
- Social Science (6)
- Natural Science (6)
- Humanities (6)

Legal Studies Courses (42 hours)

- LS 300 - The American Legal System
- LS 301 - Legal Research and Writing
- LS 320 - Religion and the Law
- LS 321 - Law & Economics
- LS 322 - Philosophical Basis of the Law
- LS 325 - Contracts
- LS 400 - Legal Ethics
- Legal Studies electives (21 hours). Up to three additional 200-level or higher social sciences courses can-with approval of program director-be applied to this requirement.

Concentrations

A student may only have two concentrations noted on his or her transcript. Where a student has completed the requirements from more than two concentrations, the student must indicate which two will be noted on the transcript. Concentration courses apply to the legal studies elective requirement and may include courses that have the HS prefix.

Criminal Justice

This concentration is geared toward those who wish to work in law enforcement or as paralegals in criminal law departments or who are pursuing further academic study in law or criminology. The required courses for the criminal justice concentration are:

- LS 310 - Crime and Society
- LS 311 - Juvenile Justice
- LS 351 - Criminal Law and Procedure

Disability Advocacy

This concentration trains students to work on behalf of individuals with disabilities in legal, educational, or social services settings. The required courses for the disability advocacy concentration are:

- HS 320 - Disability Studies
- HS 322 - Disability Support Services
- LS 315 - Disability and the Law

Labor Relations

This concentration prepares students for work in labor organizations, human resources, mediation, or employment law. To complete the labor relations concentration, students complete three of the following:

- HS 340 - Unions and Collective Bargaining

- HS 341 - Sociology of Labor
- LS 340 - Negotiation Theory
- LS 350 - Employment Law

Law and Social Justice

This concentration focuses on the law as both a means and a barrier to achieving social justice. It is designed for students who seek careers in public interest law or nonprofit organizations, or who are interested in the problems of injustice. The required courses for the law & social justice concentration are:

- LS 310 - Crime and Society
- LS 324 - Civil Rights
- LS 335 - Social Justice

Paralegal Studies

This concentration is ideal for students who wish to work as paralegals. Students must complete three of the following courses for the paralegal studies concentration:

- LS 302 - The Paralegal Profession
- LS 303 - Law Office Technology
- LS 304 - Law Office Management
- LS 352 - Civil Litigation

Public Administration

This concentration is designed for students who seek employment in government agencies, nonprofit organizations, or municipal law firms. The required courses for the public administration concentration are:

- HS 304 - Social Policy
- HS 350 - Fundamentals of Public Administration
- LS 356 - Administrative Law

Sustainability Studies

This concentration is aimed at students with an interest in environmental law and advocacy or those who seek to incorporate sustainable management practices into their organizations. Students must complete three of the following courses for the sustainability studies concentration:

- HS 370 - Understanding the Environment
- HS 371 - Building Sustainable Organizations
- HS 372 - Environmental Technology
- LS 345 - Environmental Law

General Electives (48 hours)

Additional course work necessary to bring the total credit for the degree to 120 hours.

Additional Requirements

1. Each student must complete a minimum of 30 semester credit hours of undergraduate credit in the Dominican University School of Professional and Continuing Studies BLS program.
2. Each student must attain a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on a 4.0 scale.
3. Each student must file an application for graduation with the Office of the Registrar by the deadline posted for the semester in which the student anticipated completing degree requirement.

Legal Studies Courses

Legal Studies courses are limited to students enrolled in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies.

LS 300 - The American Legal System

This course provides an overview of the history and structure of the legal system in the United States. Students will explore contemporary controversies in the law through online class discussions and short writing assignments. The class will also introduce legal research skills and the fundamentals of legal writing. Required for BA in Legal Studies. (3 hours)

LS 301 - Legal Research and Writing

The law, like all other professional disciplines, has its own writing conventions. This course will focus on how to find legal resources and integrate them into legal memoranda, as well as how to write clearly and persuasively. Particular attention will be paid to the "plain English" movement in legal writing. Prerequisite: EN 102 Composition II. Required for BA in Legal (3 hours)

LS 302 - The Paralegal Profession

Paralegals have become an integral part of the American legal system. This course will examine that role, with a particular focus on the ethical codes that govern paralegal practice. We will also look at practical elements of establishing or advancing a career as a paralegal, including certifications, job-seeking and developing expertise. (3 hours)

LS 303 - Law Office Technology

This course provides an overview of the tools used by paralegals in a modern law office, with a specific focus on the ways in which technology can improve efficiency and client service. (3 hours)

LS 304 - Law Office Management

A law firm is at heart a business, yet few legal professionals have significant management training. This course introduces the fundamental skills necessary to succeed in the law office environment. (3 hours)

LS 310 - Crime and Society

This course explores the relationship between crime and society, with a dual focus on how sociological forces impact the crime rate and how crime impacts society as a whole. (3 hours)

LS 311 - Juvenile Justice

This course wrestles with a number of important questions. How does the juvenile justice system differ from the adult system? What do these differences reveal about society's views toward young people and crime? Does the juvenile justice system actually rehabilitate young offenders? Should juveniles ever be tried as adults? (3 hours)

LS 315 - Disability and the Law

The most recent expansion of federal civil rights brought protection to people with disabilities. This was the result of a major shift in society's view, which went from treating people with disabilities as tragic figures in need of charity to now encouraging people with disabilities to fully participate in civic and economic life. This course will focus on the Americans with Disabilities Act and related state statutes regulating inclusive practices in educational, public and business settings. (3 hours)

LS 320 - Religion and the Law

In ancient societies, religion and law were nearly synonymous. The United States and other modern democracies, however, have erected (or tried to erect) what Thomas Jefferson called "a wall of separation between church and state." This course will examine how religion and the law influence one another, how conflicts between law and religion arise, and how courts attempt to resolve those conflicts. Considerable attention will be paid to the First Amendment's Free Exercise Clause and Establishment Clause. Required for BA in Legal Studies. (3 hours)

LS 321 - Law & Economics

The social sciences of law and economics both concern themselves with human behavior and how it responds to incentives. The law and economics movement argues that basic microeconomic principles can and should guide the formulation of legal rules. This course will explore the possibilities and limitations of this school of thought. No prior coursework in economics is required. Required for BA in Legal Studies. (3 hours)

LS 322 - Philosophical Basis of the Law

What basic assumptions underlie our system of justice? What does "justice" really mean, anyway? This course will examine the intellectual forces that have shaped and continue to shape our legal system. No prior coursework in philosophy is required. Required for BA in Legal Studies. (3 hours)

LS 323 - Freedom of Speech

This course will focus on contemporary First Amendment controversies as well as the philosophical bases for our professed desire to protect free expression. Topics include political speech, commercial speech, obscenity, advocacy of violence, new technologies, "hate speech" and free speech in a global perspective. (3 hours)

LS 324 - Civil Rights

The Declaration of Independence boldly proclaimed "all men are created equal," yet the Constitution obliquely condoned the enslavement of "other persons." Even after the Civil War, states in the north and south imposed a system of legal segregation whose effects linger today. Similarly, women continue to struggle for equality almost a century after the passage of the 19th Amendment. This course will examine both the progress and the remaining challenges to true equality we face, with a particular focus on contemporary issues like affirmative action, gay rights and religious conflict. (3 hours)

LS 325 - Contracts

Contracts are a fundamental aspect of our commercial system. In this course students will learn the elements necessary to form a valid contract and the remedies available when one party breaches the contract. Required for BA in Legal Studies. (3 hours)

LS 330 - Education Law

in the union guarantees its children a free public education, which has been held to be a "fundamental right" by the US Supreme Court. All states also sponsor public colleges and universities in addition to regulating private ones; the federal government is heavily involved in education at all levels through various funding programs. This course will delve into this complicated regulatory environment and address key contemporary controversies like school busing, voucher programs, affirmative action policies and campus speech codes. (3 hours)

LS 335 - Social Justice

As a Sinsanawa Dominican-sponsored institution, Dominican University proclaims an "enduring commitment to social justice," which can be thought of as a commitment to economic equality, human rights and human dignity. This course will examine the theological roots of social justice in Catholic social teaching, as well as the secular grounding from philosophers like John Rawls. This course seeks to answer two key questions: what does a just society look like, and how do we get there? (3 hours)

LS 340 - Negotiation Theory

The vast majority of legal disputes are resolved at some point before a trial court verdict as a result of negotiations between parties, which makes negotiation skills vital for legal professionals. Drawing on research from a wide range of fields, this course will use role-playing activities to develop the skills necessary to effectively and ethically negotiate a settlement to a dispute. (3 hours)

LS 345 - Environmental Law

In this course, students will critically analyze the overlapping network of environmental regulations that have sprung up over the last fifty years and assess their effectiveness at combatting environmental harms. (3 hours)

LS 350 - Employment Law

A patchwork of local, state, federal and even international laws govern the modern employment relationship. This course will examine how these laws interact with one another. Topics include the "at-will" doctrine, discrimination law, labor law and workplace privacy. (3 hours)

LS 351 - Criminal Law and Procedure

An overview of the American criminal justice system with a particular focus on constitutional protections afforded to the accused. We will explore the extent to which these protections actually prevent injustice, as well as critically examine how well our system meets its goals of prevention, deterrence and rehabilitation. The course will progress through the entire process of criminal prosecution, from investigation through sentencing and appeals. (3 hours)

LS 352 - Civil Litigation

This course will take students through the entire process of pursuing a civil trial. Assignments will include drafting briefs, motions and memoranda. (3 hours)

LS 353 - Family Law

The law regulates a number of elements of familial relationships, including marriage, divorce, child custody, adoption and the emancipation of minors. We will explore the evolving nature of the family, with particular focus on the law's treatment of same-sex couples. (3 hours)

LS 354 - Estate Planning

Benjamin Franklin famously declared, "In this world nothing can be said to be certain, except death and taxes." This course will examine how these two certainties relate to one another, as well as the various means for transferring wealth from one generation to the next. (3 hours)

LS 355 - Real Estate Law

The course will apply ancient principles of property law to modern issues like zoning, home financing and environmental regulations. (3 hours)

LS 356 - Administrative Law

The United States in the Twentieth Century witnessed the rise of the bureaucracies at the state and federal level. Legal rights in the modern world are increasingly asserted through administrative procedures outside of the traditional court system. This course will provide a roadmap for navigating through the administrative environment. (3 hours)

LS 357 - The Uniform Commercial Code

The Uniform Commercial Code is a model legal code designed to harmonize business law throughout the fifty states. The UCC provides a set of default rules that govern how businesses interact with one another and their customers. This course will focus on sales of goods, negotiable instruments and secured transactions. Prerequisite: LS 325 Contracts. (3 hours)

LS 358 - International Law

International law has ancient roots, but has taken on increased importance with the formation of the United Nations after World War II. This course will look into the origins, nature, successes and limitations of international law as a solution to global problems. (3 hours)

LS 400 - Legal Ethics

Legal professionals, including both attorneys and paralegals, are bound by codes of ethics, which will be explored in detail in this course. In particular, we will wrestle with the difference between ethics and morality, the extent to which legal ethics advance or impede true justice, and potential alternative ethical canons. Required for BA in Legal Studies. (3 hours)

SPCS Accelerated Degree Options

Students interested in pursuing a masters degree following completion of the Bachelor of Arts in Legal Studies degree or the Bachelor of Arts in Human Services degree should consider the following options:

BLS/MCR or BHS/MCR Accelerated Degree Option

High-achieving undergraduates can apply for the Bachelor of Arts in Legal Studies (BLS)/Master of Arts in Conflict Resolution (MCR) or the Bachelor of Arts in Human Services (BHS)/Master of Arts in Conflict Resolution accelerated degree option. Students admitted to this option can enroll in MCR courses before completing the baccalaureate degree and have up to 9 MCR credit hours apply to both their undergraduate and graduate degrees. Additional information is available through the SPCS advising office.

BHS/MSW Accelerated Degree Option

High-achieving undergraduates can apply for the Bachelor of Arts in Human Services(BHS)/Master of Social Work (MSW) accelerated degree. Students admitted to this option can enroll in MSW courses before completing the BHS and have up to 30 MSW credit hours apply to both their undergraduate and graduate degrees. Additional information is available through the SPCS advising office.

Graduate Course Option

Up to six hours of graduate course work may be applied to the BLS or BHS degree in the elective category (if electives are needed). These courses will also apply to the respective graduate degree, thereby reducing by six semester hours the total number of credit hours required to complete both degrees. Students must have senior standing in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies and obtain the consent of the program director and the appropriate graduate school dean to take classes in another school. Additional information is available through the SPCS advising office.

Professional and Continuing Studies General Courses

Courses are limited to students enrolled in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies.

Proficiency and General Education Courses

EN 101 - Composition I

Instruction and practice in the writing process, emphasizing basic mechanics and organization. Students will read published works and complete short writing exercise to improve proficiency with academic writing conventions. (3 hours)

EN 101 - Composition I

Instruction and practice in the writing process, emphasizing basic mechanics and organization. Students will read published works and complete short writing exercise to improve proficiency with academic writing conventions. (3 hours)

EN 102 - Composition II

Continued instruction and practice in the writing process, emphasizing integration of multiple sources with the student's ideas and recognition of the importance of rhetorical situation on the form and content of pieces of writing. Essays of varying lengths, including at least one extended essay incorporating multiple sources, are required. Prerequisite: EN 101 Composition I. Satisfies writing proficiency requirement. (3 hours)

MT 120 - Intermediate Algebra

This course develops concepts from elementary algebra: the real number system, linear and quadratic equations and inequalities, functions, exponents, logarithms and rational expressions and equations. (3 hours)

MT 150 - Contemporary Math

The study of contemporary mathematical thinking for students not majoring in math or science. Students will develop the capacity to engage in logical thinking and to read technical information critically. Prerequisite: Placement through examination or MT 120 Intermediate Algebra. Satisfies the mathematics proficiency requirement. (3 hours)

MT 170 - Finite Math

An elementary treatment of sets, combinatorics, probability, matrices, systems of linear equations, linear programming and related topics. Prerequisite: Placement through examination or MT 120 Intermediate Algebra. Satisfies the mathematics proficiency requirement. (3 hours)

SPCS 200 - Adult Learning Seminar

Adult Learning Seminar is an introduction to Dominican University and the online learning environment. The course teaches effective learning strategies for adults, which will culminate in each student designing a personalized learning plan. Students will demonstrate mastery of course concepts through online discussion board participation and short writing assignments. Required for undergraduates in online programs offered through the School of Professional and Continuing Studies. (3 hours)

SPCS 301 - Topics in the Social Sciences

This course provides an in-depth study of a major thinker or idea in the field of the social sciences. Students will learn how to find and evaluate social science resources in order write a research essay relating to the topic of the course. Course may be repeated for credit if a different topic is covered. (3 hours)

SPCS 302 - Topics in the Natural Sciences

This course provides an in-depth study of a major thinker or idea in the field of the natural sciences. Students will learn how to find and evaluate natural science resources in order write a research essay relating to the topic of the course. Course may be repeated for credit if a different topic is covered. (3 hours)

SPCS 303 - Topics in the Humanities

This course provides an in-depth study of a major thinker or idea in the field of the humanities. Students will learn how to find and evaluate humanities resources in order write a research essay relating to the topic of the course. Course may be repeated for credit if a different topic is covered. (3 hours)

SPCS 306 - Adult Spiritual Life and Growth

This course addresses the journey – the process of adults who choose to explore the spiritual life. Spirituality depends upon the focus and energy we give, intentionally and consistently, to what has been identified as most in life, understanding that this is a dynamic, not a static force. Drawing upon sacred and secular literature, the insights of spiritual writers, human rights activists and others, students will learn to objectify their own relationships with The Holy. The goal of this course is not to have "arrived," but more to know and trust the ground on which one stands. Formerly OL 306. Satisfies theology proficiency requirement. (3 hours)

Dominican University Bulletin

STATEMENT OF OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT AND CIRCULATION (ACT OF OCTOBER 23, 1962; SECTION 439, TITLE 39, UNITED STATES CODE) DOMINICAN UNIVERSITY, AN ILLINOIS CORPORATION, DOMINICAN UNIVERSITY, 7900 WEST DIVISION STREET, RIVER FOREST, IL 60305. BONDHOLDERS-U.S. GOVERNMENT. EDITOR, MICHAEL MILLER.

Student Responsibilities

The university bulletin and annual student handbook are available to all students. It is expected that students who enroll in the university will familiarize themselves with the Student Rights and Responsibilities and Due Process procedures that are found in the student handbook (additional copies are available online and from the office of the Dean of Students), and it is understood that they accept the terms and conditions stated in this bulletin. It is further understood that students will assume all responsibility for meeting necessary graduation requirements including but not limited to cumulative semester hours earned, major/minor, core, and GPA. Successful degree completion is the sole responsibility of the student. The university reserves the right to suspend or dismiss any student at any time when, in the judgment of university authorities, the general welfare demands such action.

Family Education Rights and Privacy Act of 1974

Notification of Rights under FERPA

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) affords students certain rights with respect to their education records. These rights include:

The right to inspect and review the student's education records within 45 days of the day the university receives a request for access.

Students should submit to the Office of the Registrar written requests that identify the record(s) they wish to inspect. The university official will make arrangements for access and notify the student of the time and place where records may be inspected. If the records are not maintained by the university official to whom the request was submitted, that official shall advise the student of the correct official to whom the request should be addressed.

The right to request the amendment of the student's education records that the student believes is inaccurate.

Students may ask the university to amend a record that they believe is inaccurate. They should write the university official responsible for the record, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed, and specify why it is inaccurate.

If the university decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the university will notify the student of the decision and advise the student of his or her right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.

The right to consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in the student's education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.

One exception, which permits disclosure without consent, is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interests. A school official is a person employed by the university in an administrative, supervisory, academic or research, or support staff position (including law enforcement unit personnel and health staff); a person or company with whom the university has contracted (such as an attorney, auditor, or collection agent); a person serving on the Board of Trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee, or assisting another school official in performing his or her tasks.

A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility.

The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by Dominican University to comply with the requirement of FERPA.

The name and address of the Office that administers FERPA are:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202-5920

Dominican University Notice for Directory Information

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), a federal law, requires that Dominican, with certain exceptions, obtain a student's written consent prior to the disclosure of personally identifiable information from the student's education records. FERPA permits institutions to identify certain items of information as "directory information." This information may be released unless the student has indicated, in writing to the registrar that he or she does not wish this information released. Directory information, which is information that is generally not considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if released, can also be disclosed to outside organizations without prior written consent. Outside organizations include, but are not limited to, companies that manufacture class rings or publish yearbooks. Dominican has designated the following information as directory information:

- Student's name
- Participation in officially recognized activities and sports
- Address (home, local, email)
- Telephone listings
- Weight and height of members of athletic teams
- Photograph/Video for university and other publications
- Degrees, honors, and awards received
- Date of birth
- Major field of study
- Dates of attendance
- Current enrollment status
- The most recent educational agency or institution attended
- Class level
- Anticipated graduation date

Statement of Institutional Policy

Dominican University, as an institution of higher education, maintains information, data, evaluations, and other records, generally referred to as "education records," concerning its students. It is Dominican University's policy to preserve the confidentiality of such records by limiting access to education records and by permitting students to review their own records and to correct or delete any inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise inappropriate data. Directory information may be made public without the consent of the student unless the student has requested in writing that the university not release such information without the student's prior written consent. Information on what Dominican University has designated as directory information is available in the Dominican University Notice for Directory Information, available in this bulletin and on the university website.

Dominican University selects its students and administers all of its programs without discrimination as to race, creed, sex, age, marital status, sexual orientation, or national origin. In addition, Dominican University does not discriminate on the basis of disability, in accordance with section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (www.hhs.gov/ocr/504.html). Student organizations must be open to all students without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, ability, sexual orientation, or national origin.

Rights Reserved-While no revision of the schedule of courses in this bulletin is contemplated and the courses will be held if the enrollment justifies, the president and the officers of Dominican University reserve the right to change the scheduling, credit, or content of the courses, the books used, the fees charged, and the requirements for admission as announced in this bulletin. The university also reserves the right to refuse to admit or readmit any student and to dismiss any student at any time should it be deemed necessary in the interest of the student or of the university.

Neither the university nor any of its officers shall be under any liability whatsoever in the exercise of its rights.

Student Complaints and Grievances

Dominican University provides several means by which student complaints and grievances may be addressed. In all cases, students are advised to put their complaints in writing and carefully document the events that led to the complaint or grievance.

1. Complaints regarding discrimination or harassment:

Dominican University is committed to ensuring a just and humane campus wherein all community members have the capacity to thrive (Affirmation of Community Values). It is understood that the behavior of some community members may, at times, challenge the well-being of others. As such, the University has established a set of policies that identify the types of behaviors that are unacceptable and will not be tolerated. These policies address issues related to Title IX and gender, ADA and disability, race and bias, and other conduct.

To improve the university's ability to foster a just and humane campus for all, the university community is asked to report incidents that violate university anti-discrimination and misconduct policies so that efforts can be made to end discriminatory and harassing conduct based on a protected characteristic, prevent its reoccurrence, and address its effects (Reporting Options).

- Report an incident through the One Process online system.

You can also make a report the following ways:

- By email: make-a-report@dom.edu
- By phone: (708) 488-5300
- Or in person to: any DU employee, or to the Title IX Coordinator & Chief Diversity Officer

2. Academic Appeals Process:

As stated in the Student Bulletin under Academic Regulations, any disagreement with regard to academic procedure, including individual cases of alleged violation of academic integrity and final grades, should be first taken up with the instructor. If this does not settle the matter satisfactorily, the matter should be taken up with the department chair, if appropriate. If the issue cannot be resolved at the department level, it should then be presented to the dean of the school in which the course was offered. If the issue is still not resolved, the student has the right to present the issue in writing to the committee of that dean's college or school responsible for overseeing educational policies. The committee will request a written response from the instructor and may, at its discretion, seek further clarifications from the student, instructor, and/or dean. The committee will evaluate the student's appeal and vote to approve or deny it. A written response will be sent directly to the student presenting the appeal, including grade adjustments if appropriate, with a copy to the faculty member. In the event of a successful appeal of an alleged violation of academic integrity, the original letter of notification from the instructor will be expunged from the dean's file. Students wishing to file an appeal based on fall courses must do so no later than the end of the subsequent spring semester. Students wishing to file an appeal based on spring or summer courses must do so no later than the end of the subsequent fall semester.

3. Allegations of misconduct by other students:

Filing an Incident Report

An alleged violation of the Student Code of Conduct can be filed by contacting the Dean of Students office, Residence Life, Security or completing the online Incident Report Form on the Dean of Students myDU page. You must be a member of the University community to complete the online form as a login is required. An Incident Report is reviewed by the Dean of Students, and his/her designee. If there is an alleged violation of the Student Code of Conduct a Conduct Hearing is scheduled as outlined in the Student Code of Conduct (page 7 of the Student Handbook.)

Office of the Dean of Students

Phone: (708) 524-6822

Email: tgoggin@dom.edu

Residence Life

Phone: (708) 524-6217

Email: reslife@dom.edu

Campus Safety and Security

Phone: (708) 366-2490

Email: dusecurity@dom.edu

Appeals of student conduct recommendations and actions:

The procedure for appealing actions or recommendations stemming from a conduct board hearing can be found in the Student Code of Conduct.

4. Other Complaints or Grievances

Grievances related to the provision of disability-related services:

Submit grievances related to the determination of eligibility for reasonable accommodations and/or the provision of disability-related services and/or accommodations through Student Disability Support Services: see the procedures outlined on the Student Disability Support Services Web site.

Issues related to computing services:

Concerns or issues about campus computing services can be submitted to the Office of Information Technology at <http://helpdesk.dom.edu/>.

Library services:

Complaints concerning the Rebecca Crown Library reference services can be submitted via email to reference@dom.edu.

For complaints that do not fall into the categories above, the following procedure should be followed:

- Attempt to resolve the matter directly with the person against whom the complaint is directed.
- If a resolution is not reached, submit the complaint in writing to the person's immediate supervisor. For a faculty member, this will usually be the department chair or program director. For a staff member, it will be the administrator to whom the staff member reports. If you are unsure whom to contact, call the Dean of Students Office for advice at (708) 524-6822. A staff member in that office will investigate the matter and work with you toward a resolution of your complaint.
- If you are not satisfied with the resolution, submit your complaint in writing to the next level supervisor (in the case of a faculty member, this will normally be a dean or associate/assistant dean in the college that the course and/or faculty member resides).

Your confidentiality will be protected within reason, but officials of the university may require access to your "educational record," which includes most of the information that the university has about you. However, most people outside the university do not have access to your educational record without your written permission.

Except in certain emergency situations, we obtain your written permission before discussing your educational record with your parents. For more information on the confidentiality of student records, see the above section on FERPA.

It is very important for you to be completely honest throughout the process of filing a complaint; knowingly furnishing false information to a conduct board or to a conduct review officer, or to any other University official is a violation of the Student Code of Conduct.

Online students from out-of-state should attempt to resolve any issues or complaints with their schools.

Filing Complaints with Your State or Accrediting Agency

If an issue cannot be resolved by the university, you may file a complaint about Dominican University with the Illinois Board of Higher Education in compliance with U.S. Department of Education regulations. You may also contact our accrediting agency, the Higher Learning Commission (complaints@hlcommission.org).
